WILSON SHOWS HOW FARMERS SUFFER BY TARIFF'S OPERATION

Describes Republican Idea of Government as Trusteeship.

Williams Grove, Pa., Aug. 28.—Governor Woodrow Wilson, in a speech at a farmers rally here today, talked of the farmer's share of prosperity with existing tariff laws. He said in part:

"It is strange that we should have put off so long looking into our government to see whether it is in fact run according to the rules we originally laid down for it, but it is certain that we are now looking into it very sharply indeed, and without the least danger that we shall be deceived again as to its character. Our idea of it has been from the first that it was a genuine partnership and that all were upon one footing and were to share alike.

"But a very interesting thing has come to light. That is not in fact the way the government has been administered in our time. It has been in the hands of self-constituted trustees, and the partners have seldom been allowed a real governing voice in its administration.

Followed Wrong Leader.

"We had supposed that we were conducting the national business along the lines laid down by Jefferson, but we find that as a matter of fact we have been conducting it along the lines laid down by Hamilton. Hamilton believed that the common run of men had little qualification for such business, that it could be really comprehended and wisely directed only by

ROOSEVELT JOINS VERMONT FIGHT

Bennington, Vt., Aug. 29.—The state campaign, now nearing its closing hours, for the election comes next Tuesday, received additional impetus today with the arrival here of Col. Theodore Roosevelt for three days on the stump on both sides of the Green mountains.

A number of Progressive speakers, notably Former Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana and Gifford Pinchot of Washington, have been tilling the political ground of Vermont for several weeks.

Col. Roosevelt's activities in the state will take him through the two congressional districts, into four of the six cities and eight of the largest towns. If nothing interrupts his schedule, he will follow his visit to this town with speeches later in the day in Rutland, Middlebury and Burlington, with addresses tomorrow at St. Albans, Morrisville, Barton and St. Johnsbury, and with closing remarks on Saturday at Barre, Randolph, Bellows Falls and Brattleboro.

Bandanas and Buttons.

While Col. Roosevelt is expected to discuss national issues to a great extent, it is also regarded as probable that he will pay some attention to the state candidates.

The Progressive managers in Bennington were well prepared for the visit of Col. Roosevelt. The red bandana was much in evidence, decorations of national colors were conspicuous and Roosevelt buttons were quite numerous.

HURLS ACID AT FORMER LOVER

Girl Says She Helped Him Through College and Was Jilted.

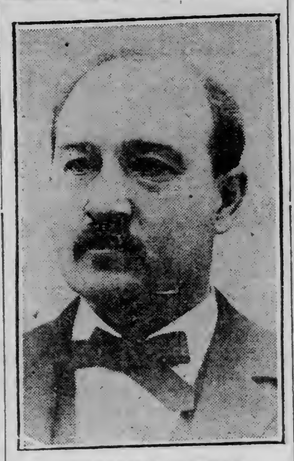
Chicago, Aug. 29.—Miss Annie Raffelson, 22 years old, has been arrested, charged with assault with intent to kill. She is said to have thrown acid in the face of Abraham Milzenmacher, a medical student at the University of Chicago. She told the police that Milzenmacher had jilted her for a wealthy Sheboygan, Wis., girl, after she had contributed to his education and promised to be his wife.

"I'll kill you if you won't be true to your promise," Miss Raffelson shouted at Milzenmacher as she threw the acid in his face. His eyes and face were burned.

After teaching him the rudiments of reading, writing and arithmetic while on a farm formerly owned by her parents, near Sheboygan, Miss Raffelson told the police, she gave Milzenmacher her savings to permit him to come to Chicago and continue his education. He was employed by her father four years, she said, and during that time they grew to love each other. Milzenmacher came to Chicago two years ago.

"He worked in a suit manufacturing plant for a while until he had earned enough, combined with what I had given him, to pay his expenses at the Chicago Hebrew institute, where he afterwards became a teacher. He then entered the University of Chicago to study medicine," said the woman.

HEADS REPUBLICAN TICKET IN MAINE



WILLIAM T. HAINES.

Bangor, Me., Aug. 29.—William T. Haines is the Republican nominee for governor of Maine. He is not a new figure in state politics, as for more than a quarter of a century he has been one of the recognized leaders of the Republican party in Maine.

TOO EAGER TO KILL YANKEES

Reports By American Minister Lead to Emphatic Demand.

Washington, Aug. 29.—Emphatic demands upon the Panama government to control the Panama police and put an end to the gross brutality with which Americans—soldiers, sailors and civilians—have been treated, have been issued by the American state department.

In the first case, the resignation of the chief was sufficient, but the refusal of the Panama government to remove the police captain will be followed by a more peremptory demand by Minister Dodge.

This action is taken upon reports of the minister and army officers in the Canal zone, who have made careful examination into complaints of severe mistreatment of Americans by the Panama police.

Fear the Bluejackets.

The most recent cases were the affray in Colon on July 4, where an American civilian was killed and several soldiers severely wounded by the police, and the other was the savage beating administered by the police to four officers of the Pacific Mail steamer Newport, in Panama.

Official reports assert that in each case the police were entirely unjustified in their attacks upon the Americans. It is charged that the native police are very much in dread of the American bluejackets particularly, and are in the habit of shooting or stabbing them at the slightest sign of resistance to arrest, even when the person is totally unarmed.

GEOGRAPHERS VISIT ST. PAUL

Sixty-Eight Eminent Scientists Will Make Duluth Next Stop.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sixty-eight members of the American Geographical Society of New York arrived here today and are being entertained by the local association of commerce. The scientists are making a transcontinental excursion of the country to celebrate the sixtieth anniversary of the organization of the society. Tonight they will leave for Duluth.

CALUMET THINKS IT HAD AN EARTHQUAKE.

Calumet, Mich., Aug. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—What is believed to have been an earthquake shock was felt here at 8:41 this morning, being general in Calumet district. The shock lasted several seconds and shook buildings.

Fatal Wreck in England.

London, Aug. 29.—Two lives were lost and forty persons seriously injured in a collision between two passenger trains early today at Vauxhall station on the Southwestern railway. Several of the cars were telescoped.

Royalty Represented at Bier of Salvation Army Founder.

London, Aug. 29.—The body of the late Gen. William Booth was laid today beside that of Catherine Booth, his wife, in Abney Park cemetery.

Representatives of reigning houses and of presidents of republics, including the United States, joined about the grave with many thousands from the masses.

Delegates of legislative bodies, civic corporations, the army, the navy, business men of all branches, workmen who had sacrificed their day's wages, and weeping women and children, marched shoulder to shoulder in the great procession which followed the body to its last resting place.

A great gathering of members of the Salvation army assembled from all parts of the United Kingdom and from many foreign countries in the vicinity of the Salvation army headquarters, in the center of the city of London, today.

Palm Leaves on Hearse.

The hearse was decorated only with palm leaves placed over the "blood and fire" banner draping the casket. The celebrated battle flag which the general had planted on Calvary was placed at the head of the coffin, and as this was done the flags of the foreign deputations and of the English provincial corps dipped in salute. At the same time the vast crowd reverently uncovered. Then the general's campaign cap and favorite Bible were lifted onto the platform of the funeral car.

The delegates from the provinces and abroad, walking slowly to the strains of the "Dead March" from Saul, played by forty bands, marched past the funeral car. A guard of honor composed of the chief local and

ASKS SLEUTH TO HELP HIM ROB

Chicago, Aug. 29.—Detective Philip Carroll of the Warren avenue police station does not look like a policeman, and thereby made an arrest. He was standing on the front platform of a street car yesterday when a man said to him:

"There's a lot of easy money on this car and we can get a load of it. You just jostle the people getting off and I'll do the rest."

Carroll nodded and watched the man reach into the pockets of several passengers. He got no money, and when the car stopped a few blocks further on Carroll said:

"That will do for this time. Come on to the station."

At the police station the man gave his name as James Smiley and said he was only "fooling."

WANT JUDGES BETTER PAID

Speakers at Bar Association Meeting Say Salaries Are Too Low.

Senator Sutherland Assails Critics of the Constitution.

KELLOGG PRESIDENT.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 29.—Frank B. Kellogg of St. Paul was elected president of the American Bar association this afternoon. Other officers were re-elected.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 29.—Judges were declared to be "scandalously underpaid" and the delays in settling law suits in this country were attributed to cumbersome methods of procedure rather than to judges, by various speakers before the American Bar association today.

"Most of the criticism which has started the movement for the recall of judges results from dissatisfaction at the slow ways in which cases get through the courts," said Charles Blood Smith of Kansas. "This tardiness is due to modes of procedure and not to the judges. It is our belief that recall of judges is not necessary to remedy the causes which have started the restlessness of the public over judicial procedure. The improvement will be and is being accomplished."

"Judges Are Human."

"We should keep our judges from temptation," asserted Henry D. Estabrook of New York. "An occasional

LEBANON HIT BY BAD STORM

Cloudburst and Lightning Work Havoc in Warren County.

Dayton, Ohio, Aug. 29.—Cloudburst and lightning practically wiped out the village of Lebanon, county seat of Warren county, at 10 o'clock last night.

Communication by telephone and telegraph was destroyed, but riders relayed the story of the disaster to nearby villages. So far no loss of life has been reported. Whole blocks are under water. Nearly every house and business block in the city is submerged to the upper stories. Boatmen rescued a number of sick and aged persons who were cut off when the torrents descended.

The body of Mrs. Zep Enfield, lying in its casket in the front room of the Enfield residence in the west side of the village, was washed out of the house when the walls were washed away. Once in the street, the casket sank. Divers and searchers with grappling hooks have been unable to recover the body.

Two fires in residences were started by lightning during the worst of the deluge. They were left to burn out in the torrent of rain, as the village fire department was unable to reach the scenes of the fires.

Communication Cut Off.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 29.—The town of Lebanon, Ohio, which was visited by a cloudburst last night, is cut off from communication with the outer world, all the telegraph and telephone wires being down. In consequence, the extent of the damage wrought by the storm could not be learned.

It is believed here the greatest injury was to the crops, many acres of standing corn being beaten down. The lowlands south of Xenia are flooded, there being several feet of water reported over the interurban tracks five miles south of the city. It is reported that the crops also were greatly damaged at Troy.

No fatalities have been reported.

RETAIL BUTCHERS WANT TARIFF CUT

Say They Are Being Crushed Between Opposing Forces.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 29.—The retail butchers of San Francisco say they are on the verge of bankruptcy. The Retail Butchers' association has made a statement through A. Shapiro, its president, which says in part:

"We are being ground to nothing between two pressures—on the one hand, we can get no quarter from the wholesalers; they are thoroughly organized, and the price of one is the price of all. On the other hand, we can't charge the consumers much more, because if we do they will have to stop buying meat. Almost half of our members are practically put out of business now—gone broke."

Shapiro said the association planned to organize a campaign for the reduction of the tariff on meat as the only course open.

WOMAN WITH KNIFE AWAITS TAFT; CALLS HERSELF HIS WIFE

Mrs. Caroline Beers Arrested at Hotel in Columbus, Ohio.

Explains She "Has the Sacred Knife" to "Punish" the President.

Nation's Executive Is Guest at Ohio City's Centennial.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 29.—Caroline Beers, aged 40, who said she was from Greenville, Ohio, was arrested by Pittsburg detectives at the Southern hotel, while waiting for President Taft with two long knives concealed in her clothing.

The woman said she was the wife of the president. Mrs. Beers said she was going to punish the president.

She had been noticed yesterday afternoon waiting around the hotel, and told employes that she was waiting for the president.

"I have the sacred knife for President Taft," she told a detective when arrested.

The woman did not get near the president, but was found and rushed out of the hotel just as the presidential party arrived. She was found in one of the upper floors waiting near the elevator on which it was expected the president would go to his apartment.

One of the knives found in her clothing was a long, keen bladed affair, on the handle of which a picture of President Taft had been photographed.

Mrs. Beers was well clad. A roll of $200 was found in her clothing.

Accompanied by Brother.

President Taft faced a program which was expected to keep him busy until late tonight. Although it had been announced that the president's visit was purely social and in celebration of the Columbus centennial, politicians from all over the state had flocked into the city in apparent hopes of meeting the chief executive.

The president's principal address was scheduled to be given tonight at a banquet of the Ohio Bar association. He announced, however, that his speech would not be on politics.

He was greeted at the station by a delegation from the centennial committee, and went at once to breakfast. At 9:30 o'clock the activities of the day began when he visited the state house. Here the president was serenaded by 600 vocalists from the Ohio saengerbund. Later he was taken to the state fair, where an informal address was given. The president's plans were to take lunch on the grounds. At 2 o'clock he was to make another short address.

In spite of the early hour of arrival, the union station was crowded with centennial visitors who wanted to see the president.

MANAGUA IS THREATENED

Nicaraguan Capital to Be Attacked By the Rebels.

Washington, Aug. 29.—Anxiety is expressed for Managua, Nicaragua, in view of a dispatch dated Monday, which was received at the state department early today from American Minister Weitzel. The dispatch merely stated that the government had been informed another attack on the capital would be made by the rebels. Nothing of later date had been received at noon today.

Copies of all cablegrams bearing on the Nicaraguan situation are being sent to President Taft. The Tenth infantry still is in the Panama zone, being kept in readiness for duty in Nicaragua.

Upon his arrival at Corinto, Commander Washington, who now is the senior naval officer in Nicaraguan waters, called into conference a committee representing the rebels. The revolutionary forces acquiesced in the demand for the immediate repair of the railway between Corinto and Managua and the opening of telegraphic communication.

Suffering For Food.

Much suffering, by reason of the great scarcity of food, was reported by Commander Washington.

ANOTHER RED HAT FOR AN AMERICAN

New Cardinal Will Live at Rome, According to Report.

Paris, Aug. 29.—The pope is about to create a new American cardinal who is to reside in Rome, according to a special dispatch received here. The American cardinal will occupy a similar position to that of the prelates representing France and Spain in Rome. It is also stated that the pope will later create a cardinal in Central America, probably Mexico.

COMMISSION WINS IN NEW ORLEANS

Civic Plan Is Adopted By Vote of 23,900 to 2,119.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 29.—A commission form of government, including the rights of initiative and referendum, was adopted at the special election here, 23,900 for and 2,119 against. Both regulars and reformers voted for the new system of government.

At the general election in November a constitutional amendment will be voted upon, the carrying of which will mean that the right of recall will also be made a feature of the commission form of government just adopted.

ROYAL PARTY AT CANADIAN SOO

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Aug. 29.—(Special to The Herald.) — More than 10,000 people lined the streets here today to pay honor to the duke of Connaught, governor general of Canada and his party, when he arrived on his first visit to the mining district. Loud cheers reached through the city as the party passed in parade along the profusedly decorated highways this afternoon. The duke will deliver an address in the courthouse here late today.

The party comprises the following: The Duke and Duchess of Connaught; Princess Patricia; Miss Epelly, lady in waiting to the duchess; Miss C. Adam, lady in waiting to Princess Patricia; Lieut. Col. H. C. Lowther, military secretary; Capt. T. H. Rivers-Bulkely, comptroller and equerry; Maj. E. S. Worthing, medical officer; Capt. W. Long, aide de camp; Capt. H. C. Buller, aide de camp; W. R. Bauer, C. V. O., representing the Canadian Pacific Railway company, and several representatives of the British American and Canadian press associations, and Hamilton Fife of the London Times and Mail.

TWO INDICTED IN DYNAMITE PLOT

Secret True Bills Returned By Boston Grand Jury.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 29.—Two secret indictments were returned today by the Suffolk county grand jury in connection with the alleged conspiracy to distribute dynamite in Lawrence during the textile strike there last winter. No names were made public.

Dennis J. Collins, a Cambridge dog fancier, was arrested after testifying before the grand jury for about ten minutes this morning.

A single indictment was returned against Collins, who was charged with unlawfully transporting dynamite on Jan. 20. He was arrested on a bench warrant and was held in $1,500 for trial. Collins is a friend of John J. Breen, a Lawrence undertaker, who was fined $500 last spring for disposing of dynamite to certain persons.

ADRFIT.

PERSONAL INJURY TRAFFIC REACHES HUGE DIMENSIONS

Eighty-Two Actions Filed By Workingmen at One Court Term.

Aggregate Amount Asked in Damages Will Total Over $400,000.

ONE ARGUMENT FOR COMPENSATION ACT.

Eighty-two personal injury actions are listed for trial at the September term of the district court.

These cases average claims for $5,000 each, making a fair estimate of damages asked about $410,000.

Some will be settled out of court; others will be continued to later terms.

One Duluth firm of attorneys alone is handling about 50 per cent of the cases on this calendar, which necessarily means delay.

Besides the personal injury actions there are 209 other cases to be disposed of.

Those cases which are actually tried are usually appealed and in the long and drawn-out litigation, attorney's fees and costs pile up, in the end leaving but little for the man who brought the suit.

Supporters of the proposed workman's compensation act, pending before the legislature, may be able to find some interesting arguments in favor of the new law in the September calendar of the district court.

When the new term of court opens Wednesday, eighty-two personal injury cases will be called for trial. The majority of the cases have been brought by injured miners or their widows against the mining companies which operate on the iron ranges.

If the new law were enacted, its supporters say, this litigation would not be on the calendar and the court would be relieved of considerable work. If the bill was made a law, long delays occasioned by court procedure would not exist and the expense of keeping an attorney in court during that time would also be done away with.

St. Louis county courts handle more personal injury actions, it is said, than the courts of any other county, due, of course, to the fact that the most of the large iron mines are in this county.

The proposed law has attracted considerable interest in this part of the state and has some strong supporters in Duluth even among the legal profession. It calls for the establishment of a commission which will insure a fair and equitable settlement of any claims for personal injuries which an employe might have against his employer, both sides agreeing to keep the case out of the court.

Heavy Calendar.

The September calendar while not the largest in the history of the court is considerably larger this fall than it has been for several months. Yesterday was the last day for the filing of cases and the week has been a busy one in the clerk of court's office. Ninety-one cases were put on the calendar since last Monday.

In all, there are 291 cases for trial, of which fifty-four are continued from last term and 237 are new.

Of the total number of acses, 176 are for the jury, 76 for the court and 39 are divorce actions.

Of the continued cases, 30 are jury cases, 20 for the court and 4 divorce cases.

Of the new cases, 146 are for the jury, 56 for the court and 35 divorce actions.

There are several important actions to be decided at this term of court. One of the notable cases that is noticed for trial is the lawsuit brought by the fee owners of the Norman mine to recover $1,000,000 alleged damages from the operators, the Oliver Iron Mining company, and possession of the property through a cancellation of the lease. In the suit, the fee owners set up that the mine has been damaged by reckless mining operations and general mismanagement.

The Samaritan family tangle will also be brought to trial at this term. There are a number of lawsuits in which the insurance order has become involved and some lengthy litigation may result.

The divorce cases are much in evidence on this calendar, there being 39 in all. A number of the cases are contested and there promises to be several interesting family squabbles to be aired.

The criminal calendar, which is kept separate from the list of civil actions, does not promise to be very large at the September term. The grist will not be any larger than usual, according to County Attorney Norton.

The court will open with the call of the calendar next Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. On Wednesday, the grand jury will also be called together and will consider such matters as the county attorney may bring before it.

The divorce cases will first be disposed of, after which the gust of jury criminal cases and civil actions will be taken up.

Cole's Radiant Hard Coal Heater will give more heat with less fuel than any other stove, saving from ¼ to ½ your annual fuel bill.

This steel surface (body and bottom) is protected from the effects of the fuel body by using heavy cast iron parts where castings should be used for durability.

The steel body and bottom allows all joints to be double seamed and locked, which makes an air-tight, water-tight joint. By making air-tight steel joints, fire and heat can be kept longer than with any cast iron stove.

TWELVE AUTOS TO THE RANGE

Duluth Car Owners Will Attend the County Fair.

If the present fine weather continues, there will be at least twelve automobiles in line early Saturday morning to make the trip to Hibbing, where the St. Louis county fair will be held.

It looked discouraging the first of the week, but the bright weather of today made it look better and the committee was out enthusing auto owners to make the trip.

The trip will be given up entirely if the weather does not remain good. If the roads are given a chance to dry and if Saturday dawns bright and clear, about sixty enthusiastic people will make the journey.

It is planned to reach Hibbing about noon. The start will be made at 7 o'clock. E. J. Fillatrault has the affair in charge. He has promised to furnish the decorations for the party and drive the scout car.

GLEANED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

"An officer does not need to be a lawyer in order to make a good policeman," said Attorney Oscar J. Larson in arguing a case in police court this morning.

"What he needs most of all is good, hard common sense, and to know how to use it," he continued. "He needs to be level-headed and to be able to control his temper. If trouble occurs the policeman above all others should remain cool and exercise judgment dictated by ordinary common sense and fairness.

"The policeman who can do that makes an excellent officer without having his head filled with knowledge of laws and ordinances. He will do the right thing all the time and by so doing will not work an injustice or do anything which he should not do."

The attorney was discussing the cases of August Kultala and Vaino Tuokenmaa, who were arrested the night of Aug. 17 for interfering with an officer. The allegation was that they tried to prevent Patrolman Henry Brouillette from sending Jacob Longsio to headquarters on a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

Attorney Larson declared that the bluecoat would never have arrested the two defendants had not his ire been aroused by previous trouble with Longsio. He contended that Kultala and Tuokanmaa had not laid a hand on Brouillette, but had protested to him against his rough handling of Longsio. The court took the same view of the case and discharged both the defendants.

The action of the citizen to whom Brouillette handed his club in calling for assistance, in striking Kultala over the head was severely condemned. The court characterized it as brutal and without apparent cause.

Being in jail did not seem to dampen the spirits of Vera Hunt and Olive Roswell, two Virginia girls who were taken in charge last night at the request of the parents of the former, who assert that she ran away from home.

Vera is 17 years of age and Olive confesses to 20 summers. They appear to be inseparable chums, alike afflicted with an irrepressible desire to go on the stage. They are neat, well-dressed and attractive and have several accomplishments which they believe should aid them to achieve success behind the footlights. They can sing and dance and have the looks which seem to be a necessary requisite for the stage career to which they aspire.

Chief Troyer expects that they will be sent back to Virginia on the afternoon train. He has communicated with their folks and it is likely that transportation for them will be forthcoming.

The girls declare that they will get to the stage sooner or later. This is their second attempt, at least. About a year ago they were taken in charge by the local officials under the same circumstances and sent back to their homes.

This morning he walked up to Patrolman Neil Mooney as he was walking along his beat on Michigan street and opened hostilities without any preliminaries whatsoever. He reached out and tried to dent the policeman's features with a fist like a ham.

Barry evidently did not take into consideration that the officer might have some thoughts of his own relative to having his anatomy decorated by Barry. Patrolman Mooney is about the biggest man on the force. Barry scarcely jarred him and before he could gather himselff together again the copper had him in a bear-like grasp from which there was no breaking away. Barry isn't so very small, either, but he wasn't in it with the husky guardian of the peace. He was hopped over to the patrol box and sent into headquarters on a charge of assault. He will be arraigned in police court this afternoon.

Frank Brown, arrested as one of the three men who burglarized the store of Frank Tarnowski at 2 West Eighth street last June, was discharged by Judge Cutting after his examination in police court yesterday afternoon. The only evidence connecting Brown with the entry was the finding of his hat outside the store. It was shown that he ha dbeen drinking earlier in the night with two men who were caught on the ground. He had traded hats with one of them and as a result suspicion attached itself to him. Brown says that henceforth he will insist upon wearing his own headgear.

Two newsies uncovered what they assert was a $20 bill while poking about under the Sixth avenue viaduct yesterday afternoon. They couldn't keep their good fortune to themselves, but gathered a crowd by exhibiting their find. Some one snatched the alleged double eagle and they didn't see it again. Nor will they. They told their story to a policeman and pointed out Andrew Hill as the man who had robbed them. Hill was easily able to establish his innocence when brought into police court and was discharged. The boys weren't sure whether they had found real money or only a yellow poster such as are pasted on express packages.

He promised to adjust matters with the three men who complained against him and was given his liberty.

FIVE JUDGES DEFENDANTS

District Court Jurists All Mentioned in Suit to Quiet Title.

Outside Judge Will Probably Be Asked to Try Case.

Wanted—a judge to try a case which was filed yesterday in district court.

The case is that of the Midland company versus Hon. J. D. Ensign, Hon. W. A. Cant, Hon. Homer B. Dibell, Hon. H. A. Dancer, Hon. Martin Hughes, Luther Mendenhall and Kate B. Mendenhall.

The suit is an action brought to quiet title to a small triangular piece of land at Oneota, described as the unplatted portion of the southwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section 7, 49-14.

The judges of the district court are parties to the action only in a technical way. They are named as defendants by virtue of the fact that they are trustees or successors in interest to the old town council of Oneota, now extinct.

The Midland company claims that it holds a tax title certificate covering the property and that its period of redemption has expired. The old town council of Oneota, Luther Mendenhall and his wife, Kate Mendenhall, are supposed to have had some interest in the land adverse to the Midland company.

In view of the fact that every judge of the district court is a party to the action, it is hardly probable that it will be tried before any one of them. An outside jurist will probably be asked to sit on the case.

EVERY BOAT NOW IN USE

Old Wooden Vessels May Be Taken From Resting Places.

Owners Casting About for Anything That Will Carry Freight.

Every boat on the lakes is now in commission.

That was the statement made this morning by a man well versed in shipping on the Great Lakes.

Only a few days ago the Gilchrist line brought out the steamers Joseph Gilchrist, Ireland and D. M. Whitney. These boats have not been used in some time.

A number of the lines have wooden boats that have been laid up for some years. It is stated that in a number of instances managers are thinking of fitting these old fellows out and using them the remainder of the season.

Several of these boats are laid up in out-of-the-way places in the Duluth-Superior harbor. Some of them can be used for lumber and others are said to be in fair shape for the carrying of other commodities.

It was stated today that negotiations are under way for the purchase of two of these boats. The rush in the lumber trade has become so great and the number of vessels in the trade is so limited that it is expected that the sale will be announced within a few days.

There are more boats in commission this year than for many years. In fact, every available craft from every part of the lakes has been pressed into service.

A few of the smaller boats are taking grain today. The package freighters are taking a partial load of grain on every trip. There was no change in the rate today. No charters were reported, the market seeming to lag after its briskness of a few days past.

Wild rates in both grain and ore are predicted by marine men before the end of the present season.

DIPLOMACY DEFINED.

"Old-fashioned diplomacy," he said, "was secret. Its ways were devious. Not without reason, perhaps, was the diplomacy of the past defined as 'lying in state.'"

NO DESIGNER FOR ROSTRON MEDAL

Artists Criticize Taft for Opening It to Competition.

Washington, Aug. 29.—President Taft, it developed today, has stirred up dissension in art circles by inviting competition for the honor of designing the medal authorized by congress to be presented to Capt. Arthur H. Rostron of the liner Carpathia, who rescued more than 700 survivors of the Titanic. No responses have been received, and it is said artists resent the competition feature on the ground that it tends to commercialize art. The commission is not considered highly alluring, as the cost of the medal is not to exceed $1,000.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 29.—A new steamship line between Los Angeles and the Atlantic seaboard via the Panama canal will be established within the next sixty days, if the plans of the Panama Navigation & Commercial company mature.

Alexander Graydon of Chicago, who is connected with the International Fiber company, appeared before the Los Angeles harbor commission today and asked for information concerning docking and wharfage facilities.

He stated that associated with him were T. C. Scott of Toronto, Can., and a number of other Toronto and Pittsburg capitalists.

TICKETS ARE GOING FAST

Duluth Will Send Big Delegation to the State Fair.

Fair Will Surpass Any Yet Held, Says C. P. Craig.

Tickets are going for the Duluth day special train to the Minnesota state fair Sept. 4. The tickets are on sale at the Northern Pacific ticket office, Superior street drug stores and at the Commercial club.

Holders of tickets may obtain caps, badges, banners and canes at the Commercial club by presentation of the tickets. The wearing of the advertising articles will not be compulsory, but the publicity committee of the Commercial club is anxious that the presence of Duluth visitors at the fair that day be as conspicuously evident as possible.

The special train will leave over the Northern Pacific next Wednesday morning at 7 o'clock, arriving at St. Paul at about 11 o'clock. The tickets will be good for the return trip any time during the fair, but for the accommodation of those who wish to make a one-day trip of it, a special will be run, leaving the Twin Cities about 10:30 at night and arriving here about 2:30 in the morning.

This is the first year Duluth has been honored by having a day at the fair set aside as Duluth day, and the Commercial club is anxious that a large crowd attend.

Craig Is Enthusiastic.

C. P. Craig of Duluth, manager of the agricultural, horticultural and floricultural departments of the fair, is enthusiastic over the prospects for this year. He says the fair will surpass anything of the kind ever attempted in the United States. He said today:

"This is the starting point of a movement which, in my judgment, will make Minnesota, in 1925, a state of 4,000,000 people with $2,000,000,000 annual production of our farms, and I want to give you one or two reason for my faith.

"The whole matter is one of education. We have the soil, both in extent of territory and in quality; the climate; the mineral wealth; the forest products; the water power and the seaport to make it.

"Minnesotans should adopt as their slogan '4,000,000 people and $2,000,000,000 annual product of our farms in 1925,' and work to it, and they should start at the Minnesota state fair this year.

"The agricultural department of our state university is rising to the occasion, and the Minnesota state fair, I think will be admitted by those who visit it this year, to be doing its share in that great work, because I believe that a new and advanced mark will be admitted to have been gained in state fair work when the gates close on the coming fair. If a mistake not, it will be educational to a point never before attempted and it will be this without detracting from, but by improving, the holiday phase of the great exposition, which appeals to a side of life that none of us would want to shut off if we could, and could not if we would.

"That the attendance will be large, I cannot feel there is room for doubt. I have set the mark at 400,000 paid admissions for the six days, and I do not expect to be disappointed.

"Crop conditions in Northern Minnesota are good. Two years ago there was a partial failure and people chose to stay at home. Every other year since I have been on the board there have been some few adverse conditions or sentiments which contended against the fullest co-operation on the part of everybody in the state and therefore the fullest attendance. I know of not one single adverse condition existing today; on the contrary, I hear on every hand people commending the fair of last year and expressing their desire and intention of attending it this year. I think we ought to prepare for handling a record-breaking attendance."

Bicyclists Arrested.

Nine bicyclists were arrested in Superior yesterday for riding on sidewalks. This practice has become so prevalent of late in spite of warning issued by Chief McKinnon that patrolmen were ordered to arrest such riders indiscriminately. One officer "copped" the whole nine yesterday evening.

Lost Way in Woods.

Three people who had wandered all night in a driving rain were found well nigh exhausted yesterday morning near Greenwood cemetery by a party sent out in search of them. O. P. Hanson of 5930 Oakes avenue, one of the strayed ones, is over 70 years of age. The others were Mrs. Fred Durk, 1901 Central avenue, South Superior, and Mrs. Sylvester Woods, 1911 Central avenue. They had been picking berries and became confused, losing their way.

CENSUS IS COMPLETED

Duluth Has 12,127 Children Between Ages of 6 and 15.

The total number of names enumerated this year is 12,127. Last year the total was 12,366.

F. B. Carey, who supervised the work last year and this year, accounts for the apparent decrease by the fact that a different system of enumeration was used. This year the enumeration was by the opinion of the state superintendent of schools that only children from 6 to 15 years inclusive, should be counted. No child's name was entered on the list unless he would be 6 years old before Sept. 3 or 16 after Sept. 1.

Mr. Carey and H. A. O'Brien, who assisted in the work, went through last year's census and found the names of 522 children improperly enumerated, under the rules followed this year.

Last year the city was divided into districts and one enumerator assigned to each district. This year the work was all done by three teachers, who devoted nearly all summer to the work. They went over the city thoroughly and believe they have counted every child within the ages prescribed.

"The number of children of school age in proportion to population is much greater in the West end than in the East end," said Mr. Carey today. "There is an apparent growth in the eastern part of the city. Many new homes have been erected in Woodland and Lakeside, but it seems that they are occupied largely by newly married people. In the West end, the school population is much greater in proportion to the total population."

The school census results are as follows, the results being given by districts surrounding the school buildings named:

CANADIAN WHEAT CROP

Yield of Three Provinces About Equal to Last Year's.

Duluth Miller Says Yield of Flax Will Be Large.

"The aggregate wheat crop of the three Canadian provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, will be, as far as I have been able to make out, about the same as last year or possibly a trifle less," said A. D. Goodman, manager of the Duluth Universal Milling company, today. Mr. and Mrs. Goodman returned to the city last evening after a three weeks' western trip, during which they spent most of their time at Tacoma, Wash., visiting at the home of Mr. Goodman's sister, Mrs. R. L. McCormick.

"We returned," said Mr. Goodman, "through Canada over the Canadian Pacific. The wheat crop along the line of the Canadian Pacific in Alberta seemed light. Apparently there was more flax than wheat, but the wheat crop in Saskatchewan and Manitoba was first class. I think the quality of Western Canada wheat will be better than it was last year.

"In Alberta the wheat crop was still green. In Saskatchewan and Manitoba there had been some harvesting done but only a small part of the crop had been cut. They claim to need about 10,000 harvest hands to garner the crops in good shape.

"The wheat crop of the state of Washington is good this year. Millers in that part of the country are doing a big flour business, not only for domestic consumption but for export as well.

"Business in general in the Pacific coast towns has not been very good during the past year, but it is picking up now. When the canal is completed business will boom on the coast. There is no doubt about that."

WESTERN IMPORTERS ACCUSED OF FRAUD.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 29.—Customs frauds involving many prominent importers have been discovered by Daniel Ryan, attorney for the state board of harbor commissioners. Acting Chairman McAdoo said he still hoped to see Mr. McCombs back in harness before the campaign is over.

LAST WHOOP IS SILENCED

State School Will Once More Receive Dependent Children.

Epidemic Has Run Its Course —Fourteen Going From Duluth.

Whooping cough has run its course at the state public school for dependent children at Owatonna.

The state home for children has been in the throes of the disease for the past eight weeks, during which time no new children were admitted.

Local juvenile court authorities have been notified now that the disease has been stamped out and the institution is ready to take care of committments.

On Monday, fourteen Duluth unfortunates will be taken to Owatonna by Col. F. E. Resche, probation officer. All have been committed from the juvenile court during the past two months.

The youngsters who will make up the party range in age from 2 to 9 years and in most cases are homeless waifs. Since their committment they have been cared for either in the Children's Home, this city, or in some private home at the state's expense.

The superintendent of the Owatonna school has informed the local court officers that the institution as yet cannot accommodate any more children of a younger age than 1 year. The school nursery is full now and some of the youngsters will have to be adopted out before new ones can be admitted.

At the present time there are no infants under 1 year old who are waiting to be taken to the Owatonna school.

ISLANDS WILL BE OFFERED FOR SALE.

W. C. Foard of Marquette, Mich., state appraiser, in company with M. V. Mullaly, have just returned from Isle Royale, where they were appraising two islands, known as Siskowit islands, located on sections 26 and 27, township 64, north range 36 west, containing 4.60 acres and 3.50 acres.

These islands will be offered at public sale at the county seat (Eagle River) to the highest bidder in the very near future. They will be advertised in a newspaper published in Keweenaw county, six weeks prior to day of sale. Either island would make a very pretty location for summer cottages as well as an ideal fishing ground. They are both located close to boat passage. Any further information can be had by addressing the state land commissioner, Lansing, Mich.

ONE IN 10,000 ABLE TO SUPPORT SELF AT 70.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—"Only one man in 10,000 is self-supporting at the age of 70 years, according to statistics," said Supt. W. C. Graves of the James C. King home for old men, in a lecture before the class in sociology at the University of Chicago.

"Old age seems to be an individual thing to each person reaching it," continued the speaker. "It is difficult to state that a person is old at 60 or 65 or 70, or beyond that. In these days of efficiency tests, industrial old age comes to many who are mentally and physically able to work."

AUTOLOADING SHOTGUN

For singles—trap or field—

just toss in a shell, press the button and—"PULL." The side bolt makes it easy. You don't have to tug at the barrell or watch an on-and-off device. The action stays open after each single shot is fired.—It always stays open when the magazine is empty. Five shots—three to get the cripples—each under absolute control of the trigger finger. The recoil reloads for you—kicks another shell in; takes the strain off the gun—the discomfort out of the kick—all without diminishing the drive behind the shot.

Simple take-down—a few turns of the readily handled magazine screw-cap makes cleaning, carrying and interchange of barrels quick and easy.

Send for a motion picture booklet telling how the kick is used—how a friction device found only on the Remington-UMC Autoloading Shotgun takes the punishment out of heavy loads.

Few Surprises in Eleventh-Hour Filings for State Office—Committees of State Federation of Democratic Precinct Clubs to Meet in St. Paul Sept. 5.—Interesting Contests Promised in County Campaign.

All Filings Are In.

All is set for the primaries. The filings are all in and for over two weeks now, the candidates and their friends will be as busy as any crowd of men can be. The voter will be assailed from all sides with arguments, literature and solicitations.

Eleventh hour filings with the secretary of state brought few surprises. Henry W. Strickler of St. Paul and John N. Gaynor of Litchfield filed for the six-year term on the railroad and warehouse commission, and Andrew French of Plainview and Julius J. Reiter of Rochester for the four-year term, all on the Democratic ticket.

F. Alex Stewart of Minneapolis and Judge C. W. Stanton of Bemidji filed against C. M. Start for chief justice of the supreme court.

In the First congressional district, J. J. Keating of Wabasha filed against Clinton Robinson of St. Charles for the Democratic nomination. Charles A. Lethert of St. Paul filed for the Democratic nomination for congress in the Fourth district, being the fourth in the field. James A. Kellogg filed against Judge George R. Smith for the Republican nomination in the Fifth district, and Dr. A. J. Gilkinson of Osakis, Democrat, filed as an opponent to C. A. Lindbergh in the Sixth. There were no additional filings in the Seventh, Eighth or Ninth districts. Andrew J. Volstead of the Seventh district is the only congressional candidate without opposition in any party.

Democrats to Meet.

Walter F. Dacey, chairman of the Democratic county committee, has been named president for St. Louis county of the Minnesota Federation of Democratic Precinct Clubs.

F. A. Pike of St. Paul, state president, has called a meeting of the executive committee and advisory board of the federation to be held in St. Paul Sept. 5 at 2 p. m. The plans of the campaign will be talked over and Democratic enthusiasm aroused. Some Democrat of national reputation may be secured to address the meeting.

Richard Tattersfield of Minneapolis has been appointed president for Hennepin county, Louis Nash of St. Paul, president for Ramsey, and other county presidents as follows:

Morrison county, P. J. Vasaly, Little Falls; St. Louis county, Walter F. Dacey, Duluth; Winona, P. J. Barth, Winona; Stearns, John D. Sullivan, St. Cloud; Washington, P. F. Murphy, Stillwater; Swift, Charles L. Kane, Benson; Anoka, W. A. Blanchard, Anoka; Martin, John G. Mitchell, Fairmont; Wright, Charles A. French, Monticello; Stevens, T. H. Maguire, Morris.

The Second Choice.

R. C. Dunn of Princeton has made a suggestion that each Anti-Eberhart candidate for the governorship take the voters into his confidence and urge his friends to vote for some specific candidate for second-choice. Mr. Dunn warns the Progressive candidates that they cannot hope for success against Eberhart unless they make some sort of a combination. The suggestion has not been acted upon by any of the candidates.

It would not seem that the candidates would not need to point out a second choice for their friends. Any man who would vote for Gordon, Young or Lee for first choice, cannot consistently vote for Eberhart for second choice. If the voters follow the course of wisdom in that respect, the probabilities are that Gordon, Young and Lee will have a majority of the first and second choice votes among them, and one of them will be nominated. If the voters use the second choice provision of the primary law carelessly, Eberhart may slip in.

Argument for Short Ballot.

The coming primary will be a strong argument for the short ballot. With state officers and county officers to vote on in each county, much confusion is certain to result. In addition to everything else, the Hennepin county voters will vote on Minneapolis city officers.

• • •

County Contests.

Bert N. Wheeler, Prohibition candidate for county commissioner in the Third district, was the last one to file his papers with the county auditor yesterday. He was also the only candidate whose name did not appear in the list published in The Herald last evening.

Odin Halden for county auditor, Warren E. Greene for county attorney and John R. Randall and Anton Borgen for representatives from the Fiftieth district, are the only candidates on the Republican ticket who have no opposition.

Judge H. A. Dancer of the district court, S. W. Gilpin for judge of probate and N. A. Young for county superintendent of schools have no opposition on the non-partisan ticket.

There are some interesting contests for the nominations on the Republican ticket. Every contest has an element of doubt about it, and no candidate can feel absolutely safe.

Although J. P. Johnson is the favorite and is expected to get the nomination, D. M. Houser of Gilbert is putting up a hard contest against him and the veteran clerk's friends are already out in force fixing their fences.

For treasurer, George H. Vivian and Otto Gafvert are opponents. Mr. Vivian is deputy county treasurer and his familiarity with the work of the office is an argument in his behalf. Mr. Gafvert, who has been deputy internal revenue collector at Duluth, is making a hard campaign and his friends predict that his personal popularity will carry him to victory.

The entrance of J. E. Cooley into the race for register of deeds adds new interest to that contest. M. C. Palmer, who is a candidate for re-election, and Charles Calligan are range men, while Mr. Cooley has lived in Duluth forty years and expects the bulk of his support to come from the city.

Sheriff John R. Meining, S. L. Pierce and Sandy McDonald are making an aggressive campaign for sheriff. Meining has the advantage of being in and of having served only one term. With his opposition divided between McDonald and Pierce, his friends believe he will win. There is strength in his opposition, however, and if the determination of the winner should rest on the second choice, there is no telling what might happen.

For surveyor, A. E. Dyer, the incumbent, is opposed by Andrew Anderson of Duluth. The contest is expected to attract little attention.

For a minor office, the coronership seems to be greatly in demand. Coroner C. F. McComb is opposed for the Republican nomination by J. C. Anderson, F. F. Clark and H. Hovde, all practicing physicians in Duluth. The contestants are all so well known that the race will be a warm one, despite the fact that the office itself isn't much to scrap about.

Alex Fraser should have an easy time defeating P. Mainella in the First commissioner's district, but warm contests are shaping in all other districts. Walter A. Swanstrom is putting up a hard campaign against Joseph W. Cumming in the Third district. Albert Overton has four opponents. Ole Anderson, Karl Eklund, William Langslow and Charles Kauppi, in the Fifth district, and P. J. Ryan has four against him in the Seventh. They are James Butchart of Hibbing, Peter Wall and R. S. O'Neill of Chisholm and Charles Walter of Mountain Iron.

The most interesting contest among those for the nominations for legislative seats is that in the second division of the Forty-ninth district, where Sigvert S. Dahl and Axel E. Carlson of Virginia and John A. Healy and D. T. Collins of Hibbing are the contestants. Healy is the incumbent, but his opponents are well known and popular, and nobody is making any predictions as to the outcome.

Cleon T. Knapp is expected to have no trouble disposing of Fred W. Bessette in the First division of the Forty-ninth. In the Fifty-first district, where A. L. Warner and E. J. Kenny are the opponents, neither is inclined to make a hard campaign, and the race will cause little excitement.

The only Democratic contests are for the nomination for county commissioner in the Fifth district and for the nomination for the house in the Second division of the Forty-ninth district. E. R. Ribenack, the Democratic member of the house for the Fiftieth district, will very likely be re-elected, and friends of W. J. North are predicting his election. The other Democratic candidates will put up hard contests at the general election and are hopeful of success.

The greatest hope of the Public Ownership party lies in the candidacy of J. E. Foubister of West Duluth for the legislature in the Forty-ninth district. Foubister is a good campaigner and the Socialists are hopeful of his election. John Vlita, Public Ownership candidate for commissioner in the Fifth district, is also expected to make a good run. Vlita is a professor at the Finnish college at Smithville and has a wide acquaintance, especially among the Finnish people, of whom there are many in the district.

The Prohibitionists have candidates for commissioner in three districts and for members of the house in the Forty-ninth.

• • •

All Sign the Pledge.

All St. Louis county candidates for the legislature except the Public Ownership candidates filed the pledge to support the popular candidate for the United States senate, under the Keefe law.

The Public Ownership candidates notified the county auditor to attach the pledges in blank to their filing papers. They stated that Public Ownership candidates may not file pledges of that character, as they would want to hold themselves free to vote for candidates of their own party in the event of their election.

Lumber Trust Methods Shown in Hearing at Seattle.

One Firm That Sold Direct to Consumer Forced to Wall.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 29.—Evidence purporting to show how lumber manufacturers and wholesalers were kept informed as to what retailers in the Middle West were considered "unethical" and what firms were supplying them with lumber, was introduced at the hearing of the government's anti-trust suit against the Northwestern Lumbermen's association.

F. D. Becker of Seattle, secretary of the Pacific Coast Shippers' association, identified on the witness stand much correspondence that passed between him and Willifred G. Hollis of Minneapolis, secretary of the Northwestern Lumbermen's association, and A. L. Porter of Spokane, secretary of the Western Lumbermen's association.

Through this correspondence, which told of the shipment by various manufacturers and wholesalers on the coast of lumber to "unethical" dealers and mail order houses in the Middle West, the government sought to show that a complete line of communication was maintained between Mr. Hollis and Mr. Porter. The manufacturers on the coast, it was brought out, were regularly advised by Mr. Becker through circular letters of the standing of the retailers in the Middle West. Copies of these circulars were identified by Mr. Becker.

Before Mr. Becker was sworn, Clark McKercher, counsel for the government, announced that the witness was not involved in the case.

Sold to Consumer.

Selling direct to a consumer brought about the ruin of the Western Washington Lumber company, which once did a thriving business in the Middle West, according to the testimony of M. Elias. Elias and Frank S. Loeb organized the Western Washington company in 1908 and did a large wholesale business with line companies, Mr. Elias said, until the middle of 1909, when it became known that the company had sold a car of lumber to I. W. Truet, a consumer, at Osceola, Iowa. Immediately following this, he said, its business with retailers dwindled rapidly, until early in 1910 it had entirely disappeared. As soon as it lost its yard customers, it openly bid for contractors' trade, but was unable to retrieve its lost fortunes, and in March, 1912, went into the hands of a receiver, he said.

Much correspondence was introduced between Mr. Elias, Mr. Loeb and retail dealers of the Middle West regarding the shipment to the Osceola consumer. A letter was read, written by Mr. Loeb to F. D. Becker, secretary of the Pacific Coast Shippers' association, in which it was alleged that the Western Washington Lumber company did not know the car in question was to be delivered to the consumer.

Tried to Lie Out of It.

"The statements in that letter were false," said Mr. Elias. "We knew all the time that Truet was a consumer, but we tried to lie out of it. Fear prompted us to write that letter."

Mr. Elias said that he first learned that the trade generally was aware of the transaction with Truet when he received a clipping from the "Scout," a Detroit lumber journal, telling of the deal. The clipping was sent by George Lang, the Minneapolis agent of the Western Washington Lumber company, and across the back was written, "Cut these people out. They are no good," and signed "Flynn," said the witness. Flynn, he explained, was connected with the St. Anthony Lumber company of Minneapolis, one of their best customers.

BEATING WAS WORTH $5,000

Street Car Company Sued for Two Year Old Assault Case.

James P. Stevenson considers the experience of being dragged from his seat in a street car and taking a trouncing from a conductor, worth $5,000.

This happened to him two years ago last June, he says. Yesterday he filed a damage suit against the Duluth Street Railway company.

Stevenson claims that he boarded a Duluth-Superior car at Superior, bound for Duluth. In paying his first fare, he handed the conductor a $20 bill.

The conductor, he claims, was a short change artist and loaded him up with small change, which Stevenson claims totaled but $18.45.

When Stevenson remonstrated for the shortage of $1.50 the conductor demanded another fare for the interstate bridge toll. Stevenson says that he didn't pay and asked the conductor for an accounting.

At this juncture, says Stevenson, he was rudely jerked from his seat and was subjected to a beating at the hands of the conductor. He claims that during the fracas his head was pushed through a window.

The case will be tried at the September term.

BERLIN CARES NOTHING FOR COUNTERVAILING DUTY.

Berlin, Aug. 29.—Practically no importance is attached here to the question of the countervailing duties which the United States government recently decided to impose on importations from Germany of wheat and rye flour and split peas.

It is semi-officially stated that the value of the annual export of wheat flour from Germany to the United States amounts to $250 and that of peas to $17,000, only a portion of this being accounted for by split peas. There are no exports of rye flour from Germany.

The German government is still unable to obtain the text of the order, and has not definitely explained its standpoint in the matter.

WILL NOT CAMPAIGN.

Neither Will Judge Stanton Resign From District Bench.

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge C. W. Stanton of this city who has filed as a candidate for the office of chief justice of the Minnesota supreme court, a position now held by Charles M. Start, will not resign from the district bench, to which he was elected by an overwhelming majority in this district two years ago.

"Nor will there be any campaigning in my behalf before the primaries," said Judge Stanton, who was undecided whether to file until the last day permitted by law for filings.

Burglars Steal Prize Cheese.

Neenah, Wis., Aug. 29.—Burglars entered the warehouse of the Hanson Cheese company and stole a considerable quantity of cheese, some of which was to have been sent to the Wisconsin state fair. At the A. D. Eldredge cheese warehouse a watchful bulldog, owned by F. W. Greene, chased two men who attempted to enter the place at midnight.

COMPROMISE NOT REACHED

Samaritans Adjourn Stormy Meeting Without Settling Their Troubles.

Conditions Same as They Were Before Session Began.

The special meeting of the Imperial Council of Modern Samaritans adjourned yesterday afternoon without being able to arrive at a settlement of the factional differences which have caused considerable litigation.

But members of the council have not yet given up the idea of effecting a compromise which will stop all the litigation and bring the management of the order to a peaceful basis again and dispense with the war footing. The executive board of the imperial council will hold another regular meeting on Sept. 11, and its members profess to believe that by that time a compromise will be effected.

Several resolutions were introduced yesterday afternoon looking toward a settlement but all proved unsatisfactory and nothing came of them. The result was the passage of a resolution recognizing only the signatures of C. E. Bombach as treasurer and John Christie as imperial good Samaritan on checks and vouchers. O. F. Collier still regards himself as imperial treasurer and claims that the action of electing a successor is illegal. Therefore, so far as the quarrel over the office of imperial treasurer is concerned, which was the main point at issue, the situation remains unchanged. At this meeting the status of A. E. McManus as a member of the imperial council, from which he was ousted at the July meeting declared illegal by Judge Dancer, and the status of W. A. Hicken as imperial scribe, were not brought up.

The chief work of the meeting was the raising of rates to the 1905 schedule and the adoption of certain endowment forms of insurance.

foreign officers of the Salvation army stood at attention around the hearse.

Procession Over Mile Long.

Immediately after the hearse, a selected bodyguard of staff officers of the Salvation Army swung into line, preceding the mourners of the family, who were led by Gen. and Mrs. Bramwell Booth. The procession was more than a mile long.

As the procession marched through the muddy streets, dense crowds of spectators gathered along the sidewalks and bowed their heads in respectful salute.

The procession passed through a portion of that section of the city where the work of the Salvation Army is best known, and there, in front of the house, stood many poor women and children who had at some time or other received benefit from the army.

Saluted by Lord Mayor.

As Gen. Booth had been an honorary freeman of the city of London, the lord mayor appeared on the balcony of the Mansion house and saluted the coffin.

Beside the grave was erected a platform on which the members of Gen. Booth's family and the leaders of the army took their places as the coffin was carried in.

The service was a simple one, consisting for the most part of the singing of Salvation army hymns. Gen. Bramwell Booth and his daughter, Mrs. Eva Booth, commander-in-chief of the Salvation army in the United States, delivered speeches, and the general's youngest daughter sang a solo.

WESTERN SENATOR TO LAY ASIDE TOGA

GEORGE C. PERKINS.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 29.—George C. Perkins, United States senator from California, announced on his return from Washington his intention to retire from political life. Failing health and the infirmities due to age were given as the reason for his decision.

Senator Perkins' term will expire March 4, 1915. He was appointed once, and has been elected four times to the senate.

"These men financed party campaigns and were always on the inside when the party policy was to be determined. 'Tariff schedules, the foreign policy of the country, the chief expenditures of the government—everything went as they suggested, while the rank and file of us fared as we might and were happy if we had any small share in the prosperity which they organized for themselves. They were the trustees, we were their wards, and took part in the common life as they planned and directed.

In the Trustees' Meetings.

"What went on in the trustees' meetings we were very seldom allowed to learn—learned, indeed, only by impertinent inquiry, only by congressional investigations or trials in court, which the trustees complained sadly interfered with the regular course of business.

"Mr. Roosevelt has proclaimed himself a convert to the protective policy—I say a convert, because he at one time very frankly avowed a different opinion—and has said that while he admitted that, no doubt, some duties were too high and ought to be lowered, on the whole the policy pursued by Republican administrations had been the right one; and he thought the 'prize money' which had been received under that system by the manufacturers of the country was legitimate booty.

"The analogy is a very interesting one. Prize money is generally acquired by capture and not by any process of earning. But Mr. Roosevelt is always frank, and says that his only objection to the system is that too much of the prize money remains in the hands of the officers and too little of it is distributed to the crew. His own object he avows to be to see to it that more of the prize money gets into the pay envelopes of those whom the free-booters employ.

Who Supplies the Plunder?

"The interesting point I wish to raise now is, who supplies the plunder? From whom is the prize money taken?

"The present Democratic congress had the old fashioned idea of government. They supposed that its benefits and protections were to be distributed and equally shared. It introduced and passed a bill which became known as the farmers' free list bill. The bill put many indispensable things on the free list.

"Most prominent among them were agricultural implements, because the American farmer pays more for his agricultural implements than any other farmer in the world. The American manufacturers who make agricultural implements sell them much cheaper on the other side of the water. On the other side they undersell the local manufacturers of agricultural implements, and prove by their eagerness for the foreign business and their rapid expansion of it that they can afford to do so, even with the additional cost of the ocean freights.

"It was a very natural act on the part of the Democratic congress, therefore, to put agricultural implements on the free list; to put fence wire also on the free list, and the bagging and ties which the Southern farmer needs and uses for his cotton. It added lumber and laths and shingles and leather and shoes and salt and meats, thinking not of the farmer alone, but of all of us who are struggling to live and pay our bills.

"But such changes did not comport with the ideas and plans of the trustees, and the president vetoed the free list. I dare say he was right from his point of view, for he represented the trustees and not the people.

Farmers and the Banks.

"The trustees represent also the big bankers in whose hands our banking system lies to be manipulated, and no Republican administration, no Republican congress has attempted to serve the farmer as he ought to be served in the matter of credits. It is practically impossible for the farmer to borrow money on the kind of securities ordinarily demanded at the banks. It does not serve his purpose to borrow it for the short periods insisted upon by most bankers. He needs, rather, long credits, and he needs the money on his own kind of security. He cannot be mortgaging his farm every time he needs a little money. Other countries have discovered how to assist him. An admirable system of agricultural societies has been developed in Ireland, and an excellent one in Germany, and the present Democratic congress has done nothing better than to provide for a careful investigation of this subject with a view to early action, so that the law may be fitted to the creation of these new instruments of business which the farmer so much needs and ought to have."

to the state and navy departments. The rebel demand for the surrender of the port of Corinto was presented Aug. 12. The consul at Corinto says a commission of rebels appeared at Corinto on that date under a flag of truce, Francisco Baco, who headed the party, presented an ultimatum to the federal commander for the capitulation of the town within six hours.

The demand was refused, the commander telling the rebels that the protection of the town had been given over to the American forces. The following day the same party again appeared. Then the American consul assured them that the commander of the gunboat Annapolis was prepared to land an armed force for the protection of the place. The rebels appeared no more.

Military Move Halted.

Adverse criticism of the state department's Central American policy during the closing hours of the last session of the senate, with intimations that an American army would be sent to Nicaragua soon after congress adjourned, are believed by some officials here to be the reasons which actuated President Taft in revoking the order sending the Tenth infantry from the canal zone to Nicaragua.

All authorities on international law in the state, war and navy departments are practically agreed that there is no technical difference between the khaki-clad soldiers and the marine or blue-jacket when employed as a landing force in a foreign country. But there is a public sentiment which invariably associates the landing of soldiers with actual warfare and a permanency of purpose. On the other hand, marines and blue-jackets are so frequently called upon for the most temporary and exigent service as to excite little comment.

Simply Delays Result.

From a military point of view, it is said at the state department, the only effect of the president's action of last night will be to retard slightly the assembly of a sufficient American force in Nicaragua to insure the maintenance of communication between the American legation in Managua and the warships at Corinto, seventy-two miles away.

It is not believed that American lives will be in great danger, for the next two or three days, especially as knowledge of the purpose of the United States to use any necessary amount of force to accomplish the purposes, announced by Minister Weitzel, is fully known to the rebel leaders.

The navy's reinforcements are beginning to report their arrival in Nicaragua. The Denver arrived at Corinto on Tuesday, but the dispatch announcing that fact to the navy department did not reach here until early today. Besides reporting the arrival of the gunboat, the dispatch said the cruiser California yesterday was to land about 400 marines and blue jackets at Corinto and steam for Panama to embark the 750 marines which the Prairie is now speeding to Colon for transportation across the isthmus.

Germans Visit Minneapolis Mills.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 29.—Headed by Dr. Neumann of Berlin, Germany, president of the governmental experimental board for cereal products, a party of German chemists, millers and manufacturers yesterday visited local flour mills and cereal products manufactories. According to Dr. Neumann the principal object for the party's visit to America is to discover why less grain is exported to Germany than in former years. The party left for Chicago today.

judge is found wanting because all judges are human. I am inclined to think that a judge should be permitted no patronage whatever, whereas we are forever thrusting upon them powers of appointment because we want the assurance of their greater abilities and undoubted probity.

"There should be no perquisites to the judicial office, but in lieu thereof we should pay our judges salaries worthy their position. With few exceptions, our judges are scandalously underpaid. If the people employed the best lawyers we could find, at salaries worthy their time and talents—like England, for example—it would be money well invested. Many a man has become 'crooked' through trying to make both ends meet. As it is, we get infinitely better judges than we deserve."

Defends Constitution.

Severe criticism of those who question the adequacy of the federal Constitution and of "those who seek to replace it with devices dictated by passing whims and fleeting emotions," was made by United States Senator George Sutherland of Utah in an address before the association.

Maintaining that the chief value of the Constitution is "in its operation to prevent ill-considered and impulsive action," Senator Sutherland denounced the plan for recall of judicial decisions, which, he said, in effect would be "to render a judicial decision by a show of hands at the polls."

"It is becoming unfashionable to speak well of the Constitution," declared Senator Sutherland. "It is no longer respectable to profess the ancient faith in the learning and integrity of the courts. The good faith of the people themselves in seeking these radical changes is not to be questioned, but we may justly doubt their wisdom in having lent a too ready ear to the professional demagogue whose strident voice has filled the land with his ill-considered and impractical theories."

A motion to urge President Taft and congress to increase the salaries of federal judges provoked heated debate and resulted in tabling the question. "I don't know why lawyers who practice before federal courts should want to go on record for an increase of salaries of judges before whom they appear," said William A. Ketcham, Indianapolis. "The president of the United States and congress are well able to decide on it without instructions from the bar association."

"If we expect to have good judges we must pay them decent salaries," shouted J. B. David, Chicago. "I don't know why we should hesitate when we all know the judges are not paid enough."

A committee was appointed to ask congress "to empower the United States supreme court to prepare and put into effect a complete correlated system of pleading and procedure for the common law side of the federal courts, as is being done for the equity side." The purpose is to provide for a uniform system of pleading in the state and federal courts.

Approve Marriage Law.

In accord with its plan to make uniform various state laws now conflicting, the association approved a model marriage law intended for adoption by all the states.

Walter George Smith of Philadelphia, who presented the model, had been investigating the subject for a year and declared that the law, if universally adopted, would disavow common law marriages.

BANK OF ENGLAND RAISES DISCOUNTS.

London, Aug. 29.—The rate of discount of the Bank of England was raised from 3 to 4 per cent today.

The bank raised its rate as a protective measure against the inrush of bills. Although the institution is in a strong position to meet the gold exports to Egypt, the increasing number of American and other bills being offered made the money market nervously raise its discount rates, thus forcing bills into the Bank of England. This necessitates the raising of the bank rate a month earlier than was the case last year.

The indebtedness of the market to the bank in consequence of the recent heavy discounting is expected to enable the central institution to make its higher rate effective.

MRS. BELMONT COMING.

Noted Woman Suffragist Will Visit La Crosse.

La Crosse, Wis., Aug. 29.—Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont of New York city, one of the great national leaders in the woman suffrage campaign, will visit La Crosse some time within the next month or two and deliver an address here in the interests of the movement.

Prominent La Crosse suffragists received the foregoing announcement from the headquarters of the Wisconsin branch of the organization at Milwaukee yesterday. It was hailed with delight by the La Crosse workers who have already visited La Crosse, with Mrs. May Wright Sewall who spoke at the theater last evening, and with Mrs. Belmont coming there can be no doubt of the success of the campaign in this section of the state.

TRAMPS CAUSE DISCONTENT AMONG HARVEST HANDS.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 29.—Tramps who have drifted in to North Dakota in great numbers, are playing havoc with the harvest plans of farmers. Not willing to work they induce the laborers to strike for higher wages. Twenty men in the crew of Louis Anderson, a Barnes county thrasher, refused to work for less than $5 a day, and left to join a hobo camp.

Woman's Realm

Several Duluthians visiting at Deerwood and Crosby, Minn., took part in a vaudeville entertainment given at the latter town by prominent residents of the two towns Tuesday evening for the purpose of raising funds to build an Episcopal church there.

Mrs. John A. Stephenson, Miss Elizabeth Stephenson, Miss Margaret Ames and Mrs. Charles W. Andrews from here added their share to the entertainment. The following dispatch gives a full account of the entertainment:

"Crosby, Minn., Aug. 29.—Every seat in the Bijou theater was taken Tuesday evening and guests even crowded the aisles at the amateur vaudeville performance given as a benefit for the Episcopal church to be erected here. So varied was the program and so well rendered were the various numbers that it proved one of the most delightful entertainments ever given in Crosby. The first number was a soprano solo by Mrs. P. A. Gough of Deerwood. She was encored and sang again. The 'Reveries of a Bachelor' was a sketch presenting a dream of pretty women trooping from the halls of memory of a lonely bachelor. The curtain rose, disclosing Cuyler Adams of Deerwood as the bachelor, nodding in the chair of his lonely bachelor's hall. There passed before him his first love, his old colored mammy, and this character was charmingly portrayed by Mrs. James T. Hale of Deerwood. His first sweetheart was represented by Miss Barbara Buxton of St. Paul; the country girl was Miss Elizabeth Stevenson of Duluth; the school teacher, Mrs. Tom Watson of Crosby Beach; the huntress, Mrs. Charles W. Andrews, Duluth; the society girl, Mrs. Cuyler Adams, Deerwood; the winter girl, charming and rosy cheeked as though kissed by wintry winds, Mrs. B. Magoffin, Jr., Deerwood; the merry widow, Mrs. R. J. Sewall, Crosby; the chaperon, Mrs. John Stevenson, Duluth.

"Roland Manuel of Owatonna sang a tenor solo, 'Mother Machree,' and was heartily applauded. The 'Italian Street Singers' was an original sketch presented by Miss Caroline Hall, niece of William C. White of Milwaukee; Robert Adams and Paul M. Hale of Deerwood. All were in Italian costume. Miss Hall's vibrant voice was heard in an English and an Italian song. The young Vassar girl could hardly repress her smiles as she looked at her companions—Bob Adams, industriously thrumming his guitar, and Paul Hale, grinding his hand organ and making the monkey collect the silver which rattled on the stage. The quartet composed of Roland Manuel, first tenor; Salisbury Adams, second tenor; Robert Adams, first bass, and Tom Watson, second bass, sang of the vicissitudes of Mary and her little lamb and evoked a round of applause and a shower of bouquets. It took more songs to satisfy the audience. The Hungarian dance, in brilliantly colored costume, was portrayed by Miss Margaret Ames of Duluth.

"Salisbury Adams of Deerwood gave two impersonations, the first, that of the minister using Mother Goose's story of the bare cupboard as his text; and the second, that of the French hunter detailing the account of the chase and capture of a gorilla in the African wilds. Mrs. H. J. Ernster of Deerwood sang two soprano solos, 'Ishtar,' by Sprose and the 'Song of the Soul' from 'The Climax.'

"'Saskatchewan' was a sketch of the artist in Paris whose dream of Parisian beauty is interrupted by the vision of his first love, Saskatchewan, from the wind-swept, snowy fields of his Canadian home. Robert Adams was the hero of the sketch. Saskatchewan was Mrs. R. J. Sewall of Crosby, a lovely vision in white, resembling 'Our Lady of the Snows.' The pretty ladies who circled about the artist until Miss Saskatchewan appeared were Mrs. Culver Adams of Deerwood, gowned in rose colored satin; Miss Caroline Hall of Milwaukee, in pale blue chiffon; Mrs. Charles W. Andrews of Duluth, dressed in white; Mrs. Chester D. Tripp of Chicago, gowned in white with a green polonaise.

"The last number was the baracole from 'The Tales of Hoffman,' sung by a double quartet composed of Mrs. P. A. Gough, Mrs. Thomas Watson, Mrs. F. A. Edson, Mrs. Gormeley, Salisbury Adams, Robert Adams, Thomas Watson and Roland Manuel.

"Every number on the program was well rendered and it was a decided pleasure to witness such a finished production. Much credit is due to Mrs. Cuyler Adams of Deerwood, whose guiding hand had much to do in shaping the entertainment. Dancing took place after the performance and refreshments were served. Although the evening commenced with a heavy rain storm, many autos braved the storm and the launches of the Ingalls Motor boat company were crowded, carrying back to Deerwood the many from Deerwood, Bay lake and Brainerd, who had attended the entertainment."

SPENT $25,000 ON ENTERTAINMENT

MRS. CORNELIUS VANDERBILT

One of the most notable entertainments ever given in America took place at Newport recently. The affair was given by Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr. "The Merry Countess" from the Casino theater in New York was imported for the occasion. The performance was given in a theater especially erected for the affair. It is said that the entertainment cost in the neighborhood of $25,000.

FOR YOUNGER GIRLS.

Local Y W. C. A. Has No Age Limit, But Only a Preference.

"Our idea in running our dormitory department," said Miss Nettie E. Trimble, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A. this morning in speaking of the local association, "is to take in the young girls who are working on small salaries who are strangers in the city and to give them a good home where they will be comfortable and happy here in the city.

"We have no age limit for our roomers, as they have now in Chicago, but we aim to take in the smaller salaried girls and not the woman who is getting a good amount of money and who is well established in the city. Our dormitories are not for professional women and we will not allow the younger girl who is strange in the city to be kept out of our building because our rooms are filled by women who have friends and who are older and able to pay for rooms outside of the building.

"Our rooms are all filled now and we are having a good many petitions for rooms from young girls from out of the city and we of course shall try to make room for them when they come. We have not as yet asked any of the professional women to leave the building but we may have to do so.

"In some associations there is a limit on the time a girl or woman can remain at the Y. W. C. A. building. In some cases it is two years the directors feeling that in that length of time a girl should have made enough good friends who would afford her the protection she needs and that she should then make room for the younger girl who is strange in the city and who needs the protection more than the older resident does.

"As yet the demand for rooms here is not great enough to demand such a course but the general aim is to take care of the younger girls who are strange and who are on smaller salaries."

The dormitory department of the local Young Woman's Christian association has been filled ever since the building was built and has always paid.

WASHBURN RECEPTION.

Big Social Function for Newly Married Couples.

One of the prettiest social functions of the year was the large reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Washburn at Hunter's Park last evening, given in honor of their sons and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Claude C. Washburn and Mr. and Mrs. A. McC. Washburn.

Several hundred guests called during the evening to greet the young couples. There were no others in the receiving line with the host and hostess, and the guests of honor, but assisting around the rooms were Mrs. Page Morris, Mrs. George Swift, Mrs. Victor Stearns, Mrs. David H. Stocking and Mrs. C. M. Rice.

In the dining room Miss Washburn, Miss Mildred Washburn, Mrs. Frank O'Donnell, Miss Maude Matteson, Miss Madeline Miller, Miss Marguerite Culkin, Miss Katherine Denfeld, Miss Ramona Hoopes and Miss Delia Smith assisted. The decorations here were bright clusters of golden glow and festoons of woodbine.

In the reception room rose colored phlox lent their color and beauty and in the library, where Miss Hope Washburn and Miss Catherine Smith presided at the punch bowl, nasturtiums were used in profusion. La Brosse's orchestra played a delightful program during the receiving hours.

NURSE RESIGNS.

Miss Lucy Hernan Leaves Associated Charities.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Associated Charities last evening, the resignation of Miss Lucy Hernan as visiting nurse was officially accepted. Miss Hernan has been connected with the organization for more than a year and is leaving to take a rest, after which she expects to take up some special work along public welfare lines.

The board accepted her resignation with much regret, the directors unanimously praising her work. Courtenay Dinwiddie, secretary, reported that she had accomplished splendid results.

As yet, no successor has been named. Miss Hernan will probably remain with the society until someone is selected to take her place.

Mrs. Robert Forbes entertained at bridge yesterday afternoon at her home, 2240 Roslyn avenue, Hunter's Park, in compliment to Mrs. John Hanson of Virginia, who is visiting here and Miss Fay Joy, whose marriage to Hertram W. Forbes will be an affair of next week. Mrs. T. J. Hyde and Mrs. John Nafe won the card favors. Yellow and white were the colors carried out in decorating with flowers.

C., who is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. G. Faber White. About twenty-five guests called between the hours of 3 and 6. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. H. V. Goetchius, Mrs. La Chance, Miss Bork of Cincinnati, and Miss Pittman of Minneapolis. Garden flowers decorated the rooms.

Will Enlarge Rooms.

At a recent preliminary meeting of the Bishop's club plans for the year's work were discussed and it was decided to enlarge the club rooms on West Fourth street before the opening of the club season, Oct. 1. The growing membership of the club makes this change necessary.

BOAT CLUB NOTES

Several large picnic parties and dancing parties enjoyed the last Wednesday night dance of the season at the Oatka branch of the boat club last evening. The cafe at this branch of the club closed last Saturday but the picnic kitchen and roof dining room are still open to the members of the club and their guests. The piano music for dancing which has been furnished by the club every evening all summer will be continued until Monday, Labor day, and after that will be discontinued with the opening of school. The Saturday night dances there as well as at the main house will be continued as long as the weather remains favorable and the attendance warrants.

The Spirit Lake branch of the boat club has proven unusually popular this season and the camping accommodations at that place have been taxed to the utmost nearly all summer. The cafe there will be kept open as long as the members use of it is sufficient to keep it going and for over Labor day a large number of tents have been put up to accommodate the extra crowds who wish to spend the week-end and holiday there.

At the main house the cafe will serve the last meal on Saturday night of this week.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

A Question of Ethics.

Does it pay to be good?

If you have never openly questioned the wisdom of such a course, at some time or other you must have inwardly inquired if a strict adherence to duty and the rules of clean, upright living pay in a world where so many seem to be looking out for their own material ends at the cost of all others, perhaps of your very existence.

If you are a man, you look about and view the men who have achieved what is popularly known as "success", in whatever their walk of life. Success, in the parlance of the day, means money, and too few of us are over-scrupulous as to how it is obtained, so long as it is forthcoming in large quantities. Personally acquainted, as many a man is, with men who have acquired a recognized success or leadership, the bitter reflection does not escape him that always honesty is not the best financial policy, knowing as he does the characters of some of these men and the methods they adopted in attaining the golden goal.

If you are a woman to whom the beautiful things of life appeal—including pretty clothes, jewels, harmonious surroundings, education, travel, books, and all the material desires that money can buy—and each and every one is denied you, it is frequently difficult to see the justice in giving all these things in full measure to a class of women who have sold themselves in the various ways open to them, so that the "strawberries and cream" of life may be theirs. That is, providing your own life is as blameless and noble as honest effort can make it.

It is, indeed, a perplexing problem—why good people, who plod along doing their honest best and giving a thought now and then to the interests and troubles of others, have their burdens added to, until another hair's weight would seem to snap the chain that holds them in the path of right, while the wicked, irresponsible and frivolous seem to flit through life without a care, sorrow or regret.

The chains that held good men and women to the finest principles have often broken, after a bitter struggle and disappointment, and they have followed the broader way—the primrose path—for a time, in preference to the narrow one, only to return later to the confines of the latter, thankful that return is possible.

These can and will tell whether it pays to be good.

These can tell whether a conscience at close of day that can honestly say that one has striven to be true, do good, and live uprightly, is not worth more than all the gold of Midas dishonestly acquired.

These can tell of the wailing and gnashing of teeth that goes on midst those who show a smiling mask to the world and behind closed doors weep bitter tears and vainly wish for the the courage to renounce riches, position and luxuries and to begin over again and keep safe within the narrow path.

"CLOVERLAND."

The Upper Peninsula Development bureau is the Northern Michigan brother of the Northern Minnesota Development association.

The bureau has decided that hereafter in the advertising matter it sends out to attract settlers to the soil of Northern Michigan the Upper Peninsula shall be known as "Cloverland."

That's rather clever. "Cloverland" suggests fertile soil and smiling scented fields, and it will prove a useful catch phrase.

Of course, too, its use is justified by the facts. Clover grows like a weed on the soil of the cut-over lands of the Lake Superior region. A soil that can do that will yield riches.

But of course Northern Michigan has no monopoly of such soil. The soil of Northern Wisconsin and Northern Minnesota is a "Cloverland," too.

Only Northern Michigan thought first of using the catch phrase, and that gives it a sort of copyright on it.

"Cloverland" really stretches from the outskirts of the Red River valley on the west to the Sault on the east—a broad belt of fertility that is today the most sparsely settled arable area in the country.

In it lies opportunity. It is settling rapidly, and settlement will be more rapid from now on. There are millions of rich acres in Northern Minnesota, Northern Wisconsin and Northern Michigan with a soil formed by deposits of leaf mold through countless ages—a soil enormously rich in plant food, and capable of supporting indefinitely a population of millions.

It is the best cheap land remaining, and it will not be cheap much longer.

Which Does He Mean?

It does seem, considering that he expresses hearty thanks to the gentleman, that Col. Roosevelt might let up a little in his bitterness toward Senator Penrose.

UNIFORM STATE LAWS.

The report of the commission on uniform state laws to the American Bar association shows that that organization has been busy in the important and valuable work of unifying state laws and so doing away with the disgraceful confusion that now exists.

Of main interest in the report is the proposed uniform marriage law. Lack of uniformity in the state laws on this subject today is a standing disgrace. A lax state provides innumerable Gretna Greens which later fill the divorce court calendars. Rigidity in marriage laws will go far toward the reduction of the divorce evil.

The proposed law does away with common law marriages, now recognized in this and many other states. It requires a marriage license, which must be taken out five days before the ceremony. Other wholesome regulations are provided.

Another needed proposal is a uniform child labor act. When one state attempts an adequate regulation of child labor, employers complain because in neighboring states laxer provisions set up competition which wholesome child labor laws would prevent them from meeting. The proposed uniform child labor act is "in some respects a composite of the existing laws on the subject of all the states, but is considered to be an improvement on them, and it may well be regarded as the standard act."

A pure food law, uniform among the states, is also needed in the interest of the public and of honest manufacturers, and the committee offers one based on the Federal pure food law. While some states have better pure food laws than the nation has, uniformity is held by the committee to be an advantage outweighing this, and no doubt the committee is right. If the Federal law is still inadequate, and probably it is, improvement should be begun there, and the states should follow.

The laws proposed by the committee should be carefully considered, and if they are found adequate, they should be adopted by all the states.

Another Step.

China has had a fatal aeroplane accident. There's no denying that the Far Eastern republic is crowding nearer the top of the civilization ladder.

STATE PUBLIC UTILITY REGULATION.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I saw in the editorial columns of The Herald Monday evening a reference to the state regulation of public utilities as Wisconsin manages it. Will you explain the Wisconsin method a little more fully?

A READER.

The Wisconsin method is also the Massachusetts method, the New York method, and the method of several other states.

The idea of turning over the regulation of municipal public utilities to a state authority seems to have come from the confusions and corruptions so often involved in the municipal control of public utilities. When the cities themselves control their public utilities, this offers an incentive to the public utility corporations to get into politics, and as their business there is selfish, theirs necessarily is an unwholesome influence.

In the other states the public utility commission usually is a separate body from the railroad commission, but in Wisconsin the railroad commission handles both functions.

An example, perhaps, will best explain the Wisconsin method.

A corporation not long ago bought a gas plant in a Wisconsin community, paying too high a price for it. It raised rates to a point where they would yield desirable dividends on the capital invested. The citizens complained to the railroad commission, and an investigation was made.

The commission analyzed the physical property and the value of the franchise of the gas corporation. By expert investigation it determined the actual total worth of the property. Then it summoned the officials of the company, and told them that while it was unfortunate for them that they had paid too great a price for the plant, it was not fair to shift the burden of their error upon the citizens of the community, and it would not be permitted. The commission fixed rates that would return a fair dividend on the value of the property—not on the capital of the corporation—and ordered these rates instituted.

And these rates are still in effect. The capitalists who made a poor investment have had to pocket their loss. They are getting returns on what they should have paid for the plant, not on what they did pay; and the community is getting fair rates.

This is but one of many instances that might be named. The state regulation of public utilities appears to be giving general satisfaction in Wisconsin. Even the public utility corporations themselves appear to have abandoned their opposition to it, having reconciled themselves to the idea that while the public utility commission gives them a square deal, it also requires them to give their patrons a square deal.

Bills proposing a public utility commission for Minnesota have been introduced in the Minnesota legislature at each of the last several sessions, but, perhaps because the subject was too new and too little understood, nothing has come of it.

Certainly the plan seems worth considering, especially in view of the fact that no state which has adopted a system of state regulation has returned to the old way of local regulation, with its inevitable mixing of public utility problems with municipal elections.

So How Does He Know?

Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel says $25 a week is ample for a family of six. The theory would sound more convincing if it weren't for the fact that Mr. Nagel's income for the last three years has been $12,000 a year.

TEACH THE TILLERS.

James J. Hill has a letter in the New York Times which, though short, is rightly termed by that newspaper "the most practical brief treatise on how to double the crops of this nation ever printed."

The substance of it Mr. Hill told the Minnesota legislature in a speech several years ago, though the legislature has not responded so alacritously to his suggestion as it should have done.

The point of it is that while the agricultural schools and colleges are doing a good work in educating teachers, it is now time to instruct the whole body of farmers.

When he talked to the Minnesota legislature Mr. Hill said that while school work should be kept up, it would be a splendid paying investment if the state would employ a corps of itinerant instructors to go right to the farmers, to tell them the newest and best things that agricultural science has discovered, to demonstrate these things by actual farm work, and so to instil into the agricultural population ideas that will double production without increasing acreage.

"Our experiment stations, schools and colleges are doing good work," says Mr. Hill in his letter, "but it falls short of our immediate needs. They are mainly engaged in educating teachers. Meantime the farm itself languishes. Only a small percentage of the children of farmers become students in these institutions. Only a small percentage of these go back to the farm. The soil is tilled, the crops are raised, for the most part by men who cannot attend college, high school or extension course. In a generation or two the educational process going on may leaven the whole lump. But the country cannot afford to wait for that.

"The condition of the farm and the statistics of production cry out for instruction, and at once."

Mr. Hill advises farmers to send samples of soils that have ceased to yield as they should to the nearest experiment station for analysis. The analyst will tell the farmer exactly what his soil lacks, and how to supply it. In seed selection, he advises farmers to test seeds before planting, and tells them how. "Soil examination, fertilization, seed selection, rotation of crops and thorough and repeated cultivation—these are the essentials. The last-named means deep plowing, frequent harrowing, bringing and keeping the soil in condition to favor growth. There is nothing here requiring technical education. Put the best qualified specialist in the country on a hundred and sixty acres of land, and he could do no more; and every industrious farmer can do this on his own land, and he will get as good results. By nothing more complex than the general adoption of these methods eight or nine billion dollars might be added yearly to the national wealth, and the farmers of the country be elevated to comparative affluence."

Hard, shrewd common sense, this, and exceedingly valuable advice.

It may seem strange that there are farmers who do not know that the supply of plant foods in their soil is not inexhaustible, but the shortening production per acre shows that there are such farmers. Ineffective rotation, or no rotation at all; inadequate fertilization, or no fertilization at all; and insufficient cultivation—these are the robbers that are stealing the soil's fertility and keeping the nation from its rightful heritage of wealth drawn from the soil.

It is emphatically true, then, and a good thing to know, that "agricultural education for today, then, resolves itself into the extremely practical question of how to get, not students, but the man actually on the farm, to do these few simple things that transform farming from a laborious occupation of many hazards into a safe and profitable industry."

Tough Prospect.

Anyway, we'll hope that the Panama canal won't be half the trouble after it's finished that it has been in its earlier stages.

NEW ORLEANS IN LINE.

The voters of New Orleans, a city of 340,000 souls, yesterday adopted the commission form of city government by a vote of 23,900 to 2,119, which is as close to a unanimous decision as such issues usually reach.

The act of this big city in adopting the new and proved plan of handling city business cannot fail to give a strong impetus to the movement everywhere—and that includes, we hope, Duluth.

Adam Bede is to be one of the leading Taft orators, which only confirms the belief that the president's effort at re-election will prove to be a joke.

Perhaps, if England would reimburse Uncle Sam for what he's spent, Uncle Sam might let John Bull take the old ditch and do what he dum pleases with it.

SOME POLITICAL "DECENCY"

By SAVOYARD.

Everything is fish that goes into the Roosevelt net, and that is a strange kettle of fish Kansas has cooked and served—the ranks of the Roosevelt electors on the Taft ticket. Roosevelt says he is no longer a Republican, that the Republican party is hopelessly depraved, that it is in the hands of thieves and knaves, and yet his henchmen in Kansas are ordered to adopt its name, wear its uniform and fight under its flag. There may be law for that sort of thing, but it is not decent. There may be politics for it, but it is not moral. It is theft of a name, a discredited name, it is true, by a set of men who claim their mission is to arouse the people to the binding force of the commandment, Thou shalt not steal.

Mr. Munsey's newspaper, the Washington Times, excuses the larceny on the plea that "Taft is not the real nominee of the Republican party," and therefore his electors are not entitled to the benefit of the name "Republican" in Kansas. Is Roosevelt the "real nominee" of the Republican party? He says he is not. Then where did he get the right to run for president as a Republican in Kansas? If Taft, the titular nominee, is denied the use of the party name, by what sort of reasoning can it be made to appear that Roosevelt is entitled to the party name when, in terms of bitter opprobrium, he denounces the party as everything that is low, vile and base in politics? Yet he stoops to seek the vote of Kansas as a Republican! And you will observe that the second word in this man's platform is "conscience." Tom Corwin of Ohio said it would be an awful and tedious task to keep the conscience of old Joe Underwood, a "Conscience Whig" of the era of the Wilmot Proviso; and it will take a regiment of Pittsburg Bill Flinns to keep Teddy's conscience on straight till after this campaign is over, if Kansas is a sample.

The first time the country ever heard of Roosevelt was when he was a member of the New York legislature at the time Grover Cleveland was governor. The young man was a reformer even at that callow age and very vigilant and active. He succeeded in passing a batch of bills all looking to the purification of the city government of the big metropolis. When the legislature adjourned, these measures were before the governor for his approval.

Dan Lamont used to tell a prosperous anecdote about it that was something like this: Roosevelt heard that Cleveland intended to veto his bills and rushed to Albany to protest. Bursting into the private office of the governor like a tornado in search of room, he exclaimed:

"Mr. Cleveland, I hear that you are going to kill my bills—you cannot do it, you cannot do it, sir!"

Mr. Cleveland, cold, calm, sedate, deliberate, answered:

"Mr. Roosevelt, the idea of your measures is excellent and ought to be incorporated in the law; but the bills are so slovenly drawn, so vague and uncertain as to what they really import, that it would result in long, expensive, vexatious and demoralizing litigation that would work ten-fold more injury than the reform would do good."

Jumping up and down, chagrin and rage flushing his face, Teddy roared:

"You shan't veto them, governor, you shan't veto them!"

Cleveland, now thoroughly aroused and angry, brought his fist down on the table and yelled:

"I'll be damned if I don't veto them!"

Teddy, much crestfallen, retired, and the bills were vetoed.

• • •

And that's what's the matter with Teddy; he never presented anything in the way of statecraft that was not slipshod.

The next we hear of him was when he was disgusted with the nomination of James G. Blaine and contemplating mugwumpery, a tactical error that, tradition saith, he avoided by heeding the practical advice given him by the late William C. Breckinridge of Kentucky. However that may have been, Roosevelt, a natural born mugwump and pupil of George William Curtis, remained "regular" and supported the ticket in 1884.

Since then he has been a perennial office-seeker, and the Republican party bestowed on him the highest honors possible to attain by an American citizen. He was two terms president of the United States, and every day he was in that station he had a subservient and sycophantic congress to do his bidding. Reform was in the air; the higher life, the simple life, were on every tongue, and yet nearly all the abuses he has now set himself to cure grew up while he was the ruler of the country, for that is what he was all the time he was president—our ruler. He coined the epithet, "malefactors of great wealth," and they never flourished, before or since, as when he had it in his power to smite them and did not.

Even as admirably poised man as the late Grover Cleveland is quoted as saying that one who has held the office of president of the United States will ever regret the loss of power when he returns to private station. If that is the way so well-ordered a man as Cleveland felt about it, what must be the longing of such a man as Roosevelt to again grasp the reins! It is become a mania with him. He sought the nomination at the hands of his own party and it was refused him. Then he discovered that it was a rascally party, led by thieves and liars, though he would have jumped out of his skin to accept the nomination at their hands. Less than three weeks later he gathered the Adullamites on the same theater, purged his convention of the Southern negro, made a speech that was full of mischief, wrote a platform that is meaningless in most things and ruinous in others and nominated himself for president.

He is too shrewd a politician to hope to be elected. All he is after is the defeat of Taft, and we are bound to agree that there is some merit in that. His campaign will be financed by Perkins, Munsey, McCormick and the like. They are of the Steel trust and the Harvester trust. They are "practical" men. It was expected to break the "Solid South," and that was why the Southern negro was not allowed a seat in the convention. It will not be forgotten that in the Republican national convention of 1884 it was on the motion of Theodore Roosevelt that a Southern negro was made temporary chairman, though his competitor was a one-armed Union veteran, a white man.

By the way, Teddy will not say during this campaign what he thinks of Taft's veto of the wool tariff that the Democrats and Progressive Republicans made—that is, he will not be very definite.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

QUESTION ANSWERED.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have learned from one source that our today's great pianist and composer, Ignace Jan Paderewski was born in 1860, of Russian parentage, and in an article in one of our leading musical publications it is claimed that he was born in the year 1859 of Polish nationality. Which is correct?

I am, respectfully yours,

"INTERESTED."

Proctor, Minn., Aug. 28.

Paderewski was born in Podolio, Russian Poland, in 1860, and is of Polish descent.—The Editor.

Concerning Rescue Work.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: At Madison, which is the capital of Wisconsin, the other day, Hamilton Holt, addressing a national conference, said: "An endowed newspaper is the only hope of rescue from the journalistic slough. Five million dollars is needed for a start. A college president should be editor-in-chief.

This idea is too interesting to ignore. It represents a somewhat common, though mistaken opinion regarding newspapers. The journalistic slough exists ordinarily only in the muddled minds of persons who know little about the reading, writing or printing of newspapers. Five million dollars isn't needed for a start—$5 and carfare downtown would do that; but five billion wouldn't keep such a paper going.

A few years ago somebody endowed a magazine which didn't last long enough to allow the endower an opportunity to gain the experience he lacked. Still later, someone endowed a theater. That's gone, too. Some day somebody else may endow an earthly paradise—only to learn, too late, that these things don't go by endowment but by experience, aided by the wishes of the general public. Paradise is run by angels, but theaters run by "angels" soon go out of business. Newspapers are run by newspaper men, but necessarily depend in a measure on the counting room. The stage cannot ignore the box office. The people make newspapers and theaters and the earthly paradise, if one be found. One cannot endow such.

The Greatest Collector.

Life: People are wont to ridicule the custom of our millionaires in making collections of objects of art, literature, etc., after they have practically retired from the routine of wealth-gathering.

These ridiculers do not understand the essential psychology of the magnates. The word "magnate" is a synonym of the word "collector." Magnates do not produce. They collect building sites, mills, mines, factories, railroads and banks; most anything, in fact, that some one has hustled to discover or elaborate. After a railroad is fairly promoted, built and put into a running order by expert engineers and other early risers, a magnate comes along and adds it to his collection. It is just as natural, therefore, for Morgan to have the finest collections of paintings, china, books and other shay doovers as it is for him to have the finest collection of corporations, lawyers, legislators and newspaper and magazine editors.

He is the greatest collector of all ages. Ninety odd million people, in this country alone, are hard at work in the hope that what they make will be worthy of being added to Morgan's collections, or, failing that, to the collection of some lesser light "among those present."

According to Precedent.

Chicago Journal: There were eight men in the national convention of the Populist party, which was held the other day.

Well, what are you laughing at? There was a convention in Chicago not so long ago that consisted of but one man.

Twain's Fight With The German Tongue

Albert Bigelow Paine in Harper's Magazine.

In May, 1878, began Mark Twain's Continental wanderings which resulted in the writing of "A Tramp Abroad."

The voyage of the Clemens family to Germany, with its many delightful companionships, ended at Hamburg after two weeks' stormy sailing. They rested a few days there, then went to Hanover and Frankfort, and at last to Heidelberg.

• • •

Meantime the struggle with the "awful German language" went on. It was a general hand-to-hand contest. From the head of the household down to little Bay not one was exempt. To Clemens it became a sort of nightmare. Once in his notebook he says:

"Dreamed all bad foreigners went to German heaven; couldn't talk, and wished they had gone to the other place;" and a little farther along, "I wish I could hear myself talk German."

Rosa, the maid, was required to speak to the children only in German, though Bay at first would have none of it. The nurse and governess tried to blandish her, in vain. She maintained a calm and persistent attitude of scorn. Little Susy tried, and really made progress; but one day she said, pathetically:

"Mamma, I wish Rosa was made in English."

Even Howells, in far-off America, caught the infection, and began a letter in German, though he hastened to ask: "Or do you prefer English by this time?" Howells added: "Really, I could imagine the German going hard with you, for you always seemed to me a man who liked to be understood with the least possible personal inconvenience."

Clemens more than once declared that he scorned the "outrageous and impossible German grammar," and abandoned it altogether.

He was daily impressed with the lingual attainments of foreigners and his own lack of them. In the notes he comments:

Am addressed in German, and when I can't speak it immediately the person tackles me in French, and plainly shows astonishment when I stop him. They naturally despise such an ignoramus. Our doctor here speaks as pure English as I.

On the fourth day after his arrival he addressed the American students in Heidelberg in one of those mixtures of tongues for which he had a peculiar gift. Just a bit of the peroration:

Nun, meinem Freunde—no, meinen Freunde—no, meines Freundes—well, take your choice, they've all the same price. I don't know which is right. Nun, ich habe gehabt worden gewesen sein—as Goethe says in his "Life on the Ocean Wave"—ich glaube das—das—but never mind, it wasn't anything important, and I will desist.

The Clemens party enjoyed Heidelberg, though in different ways. The children romped and picnicked in the castle grounds, which adjoined the hotel; Mrs. Clemens and Miss Spaulding were devoted to bric-a-brac hunting, picture gallaries and music. Clemens took long walks or made excursions by rail and diligence to farther points. Art and opera did not appeal to him. The notebook says:

I have attended operas, whenever I could not help it, for fourteen years now; I am sure I know of no agony comparable to the listening to an unfamiliar opera. I am enchanted with the airs of "Trovatore" and other old operas which the hand organ and the music box have made entirely familiar to my ear. I am carried away with delighted enthusiasm when they are sung at the opera. But oh, how far between they are! And what long, arid, heartbreaking and headaching "betweentimes" of that sort of intense but incoherent noise which always so reminds me of the time the orphan asylum burned down.

DULUTH AND THE HERALD

Not Winter Yet.

Stillwater Gazette: An exchange recently announced that Duluth had held its third annual winter carnival. That is unfair; of course it is cool at Duluth, but that winter carnival was a water carnival.

Many, Many More.

Cokato Enterprise: A headline in the Duluth Herald says: "Cooper Attacks Many Dam Bills." There are a whole lot more dam-bills to attack when he finishes that bunch.

Perhaps.

Thief River Falls News-Press: The Duluth Herald inquires if anyone can tell what the Esperantist is for "Bull Moose." Possibly the same as the Chippewa word "Wah-hoo," with which Bob Dunn was greeted in his Milaca speech some years since.

Good Boosting.

Princeton Union: The Duluth Commercial club proposes to send 500 boosters to the St. Louis county fair at Hibbing this year. This is a splendid idea. The county fair is the proper place to do your boosting, the state agricultural show being but a secondary consideration. Your interest should first be in your county.

Known Abroad.

Perham Enterprise: The Duluth News Tribune keeps carping about the Democratic platform. The News Tribune is not a good judge of Democracy—nor much else.

Help the Settler.

Laporte News: In a leading editorial on "Help for the Settlers," the Duluth Herald urges that some measures be adopted whereby the state may make it easy for the honest, permanent settler to get his land cleared, or at least a sufficient amount of it, to make it possible for him to live, raise a crop and pay for his land. There is too much land owned by speculators and land syndicates now. The state has made it possible for swamp land to be drained and roads built, and the sooner it provides for the clearing of cut-over lands the sooner the poor but public spirited settler can come in, make a home and develop the country.

Always Cool.

Stillwater Gazette: It was some hot all over the Northwest Aug. 25. It was among our hot days of the present summer, 90 above. At Omaha it was 98, Des Moines, Cleveland and San Antonio 96 while Huron, S. D., carried off the hot honors with an even 100. And it was cool at Duluth, 54.

Pretty Fair.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: The Duluth Herald seems to think that Candidate Ringdal is all right, and the Herald is a pretty fair judge of men, too.

Drinking Water From a Spoon

From the American Magazine.

A writer describes the sensations he went through when he was operated on for appendicitis. Following is his account of the thirst he suffered when he came out of the anaesthetic. He is talking to his nurse:

"Can't I have a drink?"

"Yes, I'll give you a drink." And so she does—a teaspoonful of hot water, which I am instructed to swallow slowly.

It has about as much effect on that tarred and feathered tongue as a drop of dew on a hip rubber boot.

This is a new occupation; waiting for that teaspoonful of hot water which arrives every half hour. One's thoughts dwell upon it, and one listens eagerly for the nurse's step, returning; one's mouth opens, in advance, like a nestling birdie's. To such a plane is reduced a once strong mind.

In the midst of this humiliating pastime the lady-who-married-me enters timidly, half tearfully.

"Dearest!" she says. "How are you?"

"Pine," I say. "Listen. Come closer. Let us sing 'Little Drops of Water.'"

The nurse makes her withdrawal; and she goes, blanched because she deems me crazed by my experiences of the past ten hours.

The dose is doubled to two teaspoonfuls at a time. Nevertheless, despite this generosity in water rights, the walking dreams of a human being dying on the Death Valley desert obsess the brain. I see again the Mississippi river of boyhood (and anyway, no other river would have sufficed); as it ripples by raft and sand bar I take repeated headers into its wet, luscious depths. I stand out on the lawn at home and let the lady-who-married-me drench me with the hose.

Some confounded idiot is at the very moment sprinkling the grass outside the hospital window—I can hear the nozzle fizzing.

I recall a spring by a roadside, and a battered tin can upside down on a stick, at its verge, ready for the next thirsty comer. I would trade Rockefeller's millions for a draught out of that old can. But particularly I dwell lovingly upon a series of barrels which used to stand in the shady corners of the runways among the lumber piles of the mill yards back by the same Mississippi. These barrels were dark and cool and dripping with their contents of bran and water and chunks of ice. A tin dipper lay upon the cover of each barrel. The bran was supposed to render the drink inocuous of sunstroke or stomach ache, no matter how hot you were, and when we boys trailed through, burned and perspiring and thirsty, to and from swimming and fishing, we halted at every barrel and gulped recklessly the milky mixture. There was plenty for all—for boys and for mill hands.

Shooting the chutes upon my spine in the boat bed (and never arriving), knees elevated over the trapese, feet securely tucked against the pillows below, head bolstered upon the pillows above, back between curved like a contorted currant worm pierced amidships, mouth tasting now of sawdust and straw, again and again I sent my astral frame to those barrels adown the piny, shaded cornered runways—but remained behind myself and accepted dole of two hot teaspoonfuls administered each half hour; remained behind, upon that confounded bed, and played birdie.

Better Than a Full Purse

Horace Greeley: A good, practical education, including a good trade, is a better outfit for a youth than a grand estate with the drawback of an empty mind. Many parents have slaved and pinched to leave their children rich, when half the sum thus lavished would have profited them far more had it been devoted to the cultivation of their minds, the enlargement of their capacity to think, observe and work. The one structure that no neighborhood can afford to do without is the schoolhouse.

Quay's Friend Roosevelt

New York World: Mr. Roosevelt makes two plain mis-statements in his reply to Senator Penrose on the subject of John D. Archbold's $25,000 certificate of deposit. He says that "in 1904 Senator Penrose was not the Pennsylvania leader, and as far as I know he was supporting me simply as all other Republican senators—senators from New York, Ohio, Illinois, Massachusetts and California—were likewise supporting me," and that in 1904 in Pennsylvania Senator Quay was "in charge."

Senator Quay died May 28, 1904, nearly a month before Mr. Roosevelt was nominated at Chicago. Senator Penrose succeeded him as boss of the machine in Pennsylvania. Evidently something more than Mr. Roosevelt's memory is at fault.

But in taking Senator Quay to his bosom once more Mr. Roosevelt is thoroughly consistent. At the time of the death of the Pennsylvania boss he spoke of him as "my stanch and loyal friend." It is undoubtedly true, as Mr. Roosevelt now says, that "my relations with him were always cordial and pleasant."

Quay was personally dishonest and the corrupt boss of the most corrupt political gang with which Pennsylvania has been afflicted in the last quarter of a century. The fact that he and the third-term candidate, as brother-Republicans, one in the senate, the other in the White House, "worked together" on the closest terms does not depend upon Mr. Roosevelt's word.

Opened It Himself.

Montgomery Journal. Senor Gonzales Garza, under secretary of the interior of Mexico, is a matter-of-fact man who has the habit of holding his mouth open.

The other day Secretary of the Interior Gonzales walked into Garza's office and exclaimed: "Old chap, you have your mouth open!"

"I know it," replied Garza, not looking up from his writing, "I opened it myself this morning."

THE WILSON CAMPAIGN FUND

A PEOPLE'S CAMPAIGN FUND FOR A PEOPLE'S PRESIDENT

SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED AT THE HERALD OFFICE, DULUTH

People interested in the election of Woodrow Wilson to the presidency should not delay in making their contributions to the Wilson campaign fund.

The Democratic national committee needs money immediately. The opponents of Woodrow Wilson have plenty of money for their purposes. They have issued no requests, except to the rank and file, for contributions.

The money to conduct the campaign of Woodrow Wilson must come from the common people. Woodrow Wilson's nomination for the presidency is the opportunity of the common people. Interests unfriendly to the people have been in control of the government for many years. Those interests have no admiration for Woodrow Wilson. They will defeat him if they can, and money will not be spared in the attempt.

All of his friends and many of his enemies believe that Woodrow Wilson will be elected president of the United States Nov. 5.

The result, however, cannot be brought about without a hard campaign. Money will be needed for legitimate uses. The money must come from the people.

Every contributor to the Woodrow Wilson campaign fund will be mailed a handsomely engraved receipt, suitable for framing. That receipt will be tangible evidence in after years that the holder did his part to elect "A People's President."

People intending to contribute to the campaign fund should not delay. Every day the forces of Democracy are working to put "a people's president" in the executive chair.

Woodrow Wilson's campaign will cost very little in comparison with the amounts that have been spent on other campaigns in the past. Money will not be passed out carelessly and lavishly in the hope of influencing votes. Every dollar will be accounted for. Full publicity will be given.

Governor Wilson wants no contributions with the taint of self-seeking corporation influence on them. He will value the assistance given by every dollar contributed by an honest man interested in good government.

The man who cannot contribute a large sum should not hesitate. Every dollar will be welcomed. Those who can send $100 should send that sum. The man who can spare only a dollar will find that his dollar is fully appreciated.

Contributions should be mailed to Wilson Campaign Fund, Care Herald Office, as soon as possible. Money is needed now to carry on the battle for the restoration of good government to the United States. The man who contributes to the cause will have the satisfaction of knowing that he has done his part for the highest aim of citizenship—true representative government.

Many newspapers throughout the nation are engraved in this work of raising money for the Wilson campaign fund. Thousands of dollars have been subscribed by loyal believers in good government everywhere. The people of Minnesota, North Dakota, Northern Wisconsin and Northern Michigan should not be backward. They are progressive; they should do their part to make the remainder of the nation progressive and to seat a progressive president in the executive chair at Washington.

BRANDEIS TO GO ON STUMP

Talks With Wilson About Trusts and Promises Campaign Aid.

Delegation of Italians Approves Governor's Immigration Policy.

Sea Girt, N. J., Aug. 29.—Trust legislation, constructive rather than destructive, and immigration were among subjects to which Governor Wilson gave his attention yesterday. He talked about trusts with Louis D. Brandeis of Boston, and expressed himself on immigration before a delegation of Italians from Essex county, New Jersey.

Mr. Brandeis had luncheon with the governor and was with him nearly two hours. Mr. Brandeis declared as he left the executive's cottage, that he was a progressive in politics, and Governor Wilson was his idea of a progressive. "We discussed social and industrial problems," said Mr. Brandeis, "and naturally the Sherman anti-trust law. We took up the La Follette-Lenroot bill, the Oldfield bill and other measures to amend the Sherman law, but concluded that none went far enough.

"Constructive Statesman."

"Governor Wilson is a constructive statesman, able to solve these problems, and I found him in accord with my views on the trust question. We talked about the defects in the third party platform. It was a talk about the best interests of the 'working man.'"

Mr. Brandeis said he probably would make a number of speeches on behalf of Governor Wilson, discussing the trusts and the tariff.

The delegation of Italians, through their spokesman, Antonio Petroni, told the governor that those who had seen fit to criticize his views on immigration "had made a mountain out of a mole hill."

"Intelligent Italians," said Mr. Petroni, "prefer to have their own opinion in the matter, and are willing to allow the historian the latitude that writing of impartial history requires. Intelligent men do not construe intelligent criticism as reproach."

Spoke to Italians.

The governor in his response said:

"In my history I referred to conditions which did exist when I wrote, and which afterward were corrected by legislation. These abuses were brought about mainly by steamship companies attempting to force immigration, and I believe in legislation that will correct all abuses. I am learning all the time, and the chief benefit of my present occupation is that I am informing myself and enlarging my education. I hope to be at it long enough to learn from people like yourselves things as they really are."

FARMERS WILL SEND IN PRODUCE THROUGH MAIL

That Is Prediction of Assistant Postmaster General Grandfield.

Uncle Sam Makes Profit of 7/8 of Cent on Two-Cent Stamp.

Every time you send a letter through the mails with a 2-cent stamp attached, the government makes a profit of 7/8 of a cent.

Every time you get anxious and attach a 2-cent stamp plus a special delivery 10-cent stamp, the government makes a clear profit of 2 7/8 cents.

It costs Uncle Sam 8 cents of the 10 you pay for the special stamp to deliver the letter and the foxy old boy makes his regular 7/8 of a cent profit in addition.

These are some of the things that First Assistant Postmaster General C. P. Grandfield, who is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Harry Faber White, 1516 East Fourth street, told a Herald reporter today.

Mr. Grandfield came to Duluth directly from Washington, D. C., his home. Mrs. Grandfield and daughter are with him. There recently was the birth of a boy at the White home and the real object of the visit here was to see the young man. The party will be in the city several days, finally returning to Washington by way of the water route as far as Buffalo, N. Y.

Parcels Post.

Mr. Grandfield waxed enthusiastic over the establishment of a parcels post which becomes operative on Jan. 1, 1913.

"It will bring down express rates, furnish cheap and an inexpensive method of transporting packages and it has been figured so carefully that it is now known that it will make money for the government as well," he said.

"It will benefit everybody and injure no one. The country merchants object. They believe that it will give the city merchant a chance to take away a good deal of their trade for he can then deliver cheaply through the mails. I think that the country merchant need have no fears. It is my opinion that he will be benefited as much as is his city brother.

"The minimum charge will be 15 cents on an eleven-pound package. Eleven pounds is the limit under the bill. This means delivery on rural routes as well as in the city. The maximum charge will be $1.32. This is for long service such as from New York to San Francisco.

"The country has been divided up into what we call zones. Each zone comprises an area of about eighty miles square. In many instances this includes a whole county. The charges will be on the basis of 5 cents for the first pound and 3 cents for each addtional pound within this area.

"This means that a package weighing two pounds could be sent to Virginia, Minn., for 8 cents. Places more distant would have to be figured on a different basis, which will be done by the aid of maps which the postal department will furnish to all postoffices.

"The getting out of these maps is a big task. There will be about 3,500 of them. There are as many or perhaps more centers than that in the United States. The whole system has been carefully figured out. We have established zones and centers by which the rates can be figured.

"The service will eventually give the government a monopoly on the business now done in smaller parcels by the express companies, I think. The present weight limit, eleven pounds, is simply a starter. It will undoubtedly be increased later.

Will Mail Eggs.

"The new method will enable the farmer to ship in his smaller products to city customers at small expense. Eventually vegetables, eggs and many other farm products will come to the city customer by way of the government mail system.

"There are one hundred million of pieces of express annually handled by the express companies which will soon be handled by mail. We don't expect to get all the smaller business from the express companies, the change will come gradually. The government will take over the business in a gradual, easy sort of way. We don't expect to set the country on fire the first year.

"Next in importance to the parcels post is the eight-hour bill for clerks and carriers in the service. This becomes operative on March 4. It will prove a big additional expense to the government, but it is no more than fair to the workers. I think it will make an additional expense of about $3,000,000 a year.

"The establishment of the parcels post will make necessary the installation of wagons all over the country. The wagons will be used to deliver the packages."

ELECTION FRAUDS DUE TO TARIFF

Governor Marshall Shows Relationship in Maine Speech.

Bangor, Me., Aug. 29.—The declaration that the protective tariff system was directly responsible for campaign contributions from corporations was made at a Democratic rally here last night by Governor Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana, Democratic candidate for vice president.

"Bad as have been the contributions," he said, "and vicious as have been the expenditures of money in the campaigns, worse than all has been the system of protection which has compelled the trust magnates to keep lobbies at Washington, hire lawyers and finance legislatures. Is it much wonder, when these accessories are necessary for legislation, that the men who have been held up by public servants should in turn hold up the public?"

Montana Boy Dragged to Death.

Billings, Mont., Aug. 29.—As the result of being thrown from a horse he was riding so that his feet caught in the stirrup, Frank Corwin, 12-year-old son of John Corwin, of Park City, was dragged to death. The lad's neck and arms were broken.

WHO GETS THE MONEY FOR COAL?

Secretary Nagel Is Expected to Have Report Ready By Dec. 2.

Washington, Aug. 29.—A full report to disclose who is profiting from the present high price of coal, is promised for the house of representatives by the department of commerce and labor on Dec. 2 next. Secretary Nagel has designated Commissioner Charles P. Neill of the bureau of labor to investigate, in conformity with the resolution passed by the house shortly before adjournment.

By Sept. 10, it is expected he will have sufficiently explored the field so that the investigators of the bureau may begin work to gather the desired details.

In conjunction with the inquiry as to how much the price of coal was increased, Commissioner Neill is expected to ascertain for what reasons and by what means the cost was raised.

Study Strike Agreement.

Another line of inquiry will be to determine how much and in what particulars the coal miners were benefited by the strike agreement. In support of the resolution, it was argued that the miners did not get nearly all the increase being paid by the general consumer.

Probably before the report is submitted to the house, the supreme court of the United States will have handed down its decision, now under consideration, as to the legal situation in the Pennsylvania anthracite coal fields. These legal questions arise out of the suit brought by the government against an alleged illegal combination of coal railroads and railroad coal companies, charged with seeking to monopolize the coal trade in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. Many points in the government's complaint had their origin in a former strike settlement about ten years ago. It has been urged at times that even in that settlement, "the interest of the public was sacrificed to the interests of organized capital and of organized labor."

TEDDY SAYS TAFT MAY GET HALF DOZEN STATES.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 29.—There are only half a dozen states, Col. Roosevelt said last night, which he believes President Taft has a chance of carrying. One of these, he said, is Vermont, in which he is to spend the remaining half of the week in a speaking tour.

Col. Roosevelt said that in Vermont all the power of the monied organization was against him. In such a state, he said, he always estimated that two-thirds of the people must be for him to win an election in the face of this opposition.

FREE WATER FOR USE OF CITIES

Secretary Fisher Issues Order for Use of Natural Product.

Washington, Aug. 29.—Cities hereafter may have free water for municipal purposes and for irrigation. Provision to that effect is made in regulations for governing waterpower development on public lands outside national forests, promulgated by Secretary of the Interior Fisher. The new regulations are in line with the recent recommendation of the secretary that free grants of coal lands should be made to cities by the government. To grant permits for municipalities to mine their own coal, will require congressional action before the secretary could act.

No previous secretary of the interior made use of the wide discretion given to him by law for giving cities water rights free of charge. Secretary Fisher, it was announced, will impose only such conditions in these grants as may be necessary to insure "that the benefit which is conferred will be enjoyed by the citizens of municipalities and by the irrigators for whom it is intended, rather than by the middlemen who may construct and operate the works."

For Fifty-year Permits.

The new regulations provide also that fifty-year permits may be granted to waterpower companies operating for profit, but in these cases there will be rental charges and state regulation.

Secretary Fisher holds that there can be no permanent solution of the problem of water power conservation until a new law is passed giving to water power companies a secure tenure for a fixed term of years. He is of the opinion that in promulgating the new regulations, he has gone as far as the law authorizes, substituting them for a regulation which declared that a water power permit is revoked by the patenting to a claimant of the land on which the water power plant was built. Under the new regulations, the patentee holds his lands subject to the water power permit.

MacALESTER OFFERS REMEDY FOR MISSING ELEMENTS IN COLLEGE EDUCATION

The elective system, the introduction of new courses in response to modern conditions and the varied preparation given in the rapidly differentiating high schools, have brought chaos into the college curriculum. There is justice in the criticism that students are graduating with a smattering of too many subjects, that they have no definite goal, or if a goal, make no intelligent thorough preparation for this life aim.

Macalester college rightly boasts of the efficiency of its small class instruction and the personal touch of its teachers in its college family. But all higher institutions fail to give that vocational direction to the student's thought and the studies that are demanded by modern specialization.

Macalester takes the lead in the Northwest in electing faculty vocational advisers to one of whom each student is assigned and who shall be a friend to the student in the matter of physical and social health, a counsellor in choosing a vocation, a guide in mapping out the studies preparatory to this vocation, and a parent in enforcing industry and right use of college opportunities.

What should result?

Enthusiasm of the student who works with a definite aim in view and who sees the bearing of each study on that aim. Economy of time and energy now so often squandered in aimless browsing. Respect for work because its bearing and importance are realized. A thorough analysis by student under an expert, of capacities and weakness. A recognition and reward of abilities and weeding out of the incompetent, the sluggard, the aimless parasite.

Parents with children who have not yet found themselves and students ambitious to make the most of abilities should welcome this friendly oversight and expert vocational direction. Macalester college offers this solution of college inefficiency with enthusiasm and conviction of its value.

McKINLEY HIGHEST PEAK.

Dora Keen's Claim to Discovery Fails Before Scientists.

Washington, Aug. 29.—Mount McKinley overtops all other peaks on the North American continent, despite a report of discovery of an unknown mountain of about its height in Alaska.

Coast and geodetic survey experts, moved by the statement of Miss Dora Keen, an intrepid mountain-climber, the first to ascend Mount Blackburn, that she saw, 150 miles to the eastward, an unknown mountain apparently as high as McKinley, have identified the peak as Mount Steele. Mount Steele is only 16,439 feet high, while McKinley towers more than 20,000 feet. Mount Steele is a little to the eastward of the international boundary, in a region now being explored by the international boundary survey parties.

All the mountains in the direction indicated by Miss Keen have been fairly well determined by the survey scientists. Mount Blackburn, from which Mount Steele and other peaks were observed, is 16,140 feet high, 300 feet lower than Steele.

This part of Alaska is being rapidly unfolded to civilization by the pushing forward of government expeditions which are charting the whole country on to the Arctic ocean. It is a very inaccessible section of the One Hundred and Forty-first meridian between Mount St. Elias and Mount Matazahat.

"DOG" SLIPPED; WANTS $10,000

A personal injury action for $10,000 was started yesterday against the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway by Carlos Kinzel, who claims that he received serious internal injuries in a fall from the top of a box car at Proctor five years ago, when employed as a brakeman.

Kinzel alleges that he was engaged in releasing a hand brake, that in doing so he used a wooden lever. The dog in the cog wheel of the brake he says was defective and slipped out of its place causing the wheel and lever to revolve rapidly knocking him from the top of the car.

DEAF MUTES ARE UNITED IN NOVEL WEDDING CEREMONY

MRS. CARL T. ARNESON.

CARL T. ARNESON.

A romance begun during the meetings of a deaf mute club culminated last night in the marriage of two of the club members, Miss Jennie Selma Peterson of the West end and Carl T. Arneson of Superior, but who is employed as a printer by J. J. Le Tourneau in Duluth.

The marriage, which was performed by Rev. J. A. McGaughey of the Second Presbyterian church, took place at the home of the bride's parents at 22 Fifteenth avenue west at 8 o'clock last evening. The attendance was large, many friends from both sides of the bay being present, and among them being many of the mute club members.

Mr. McGaughey, despite the fact that he does not understand the sign language, had little difficulty in conducting the service. He furnished the young couple with typewritten copies of the marriage service, and as he read the service, indicated to them the questions he was asking, and they responded with a nod. Thus there was no delay, and the ceremony passed as rapidly—almost as rapidly—as in the ordinary marriage. The witnesses were the bride's sister and brother, Mrs. John J. Vadha of Iron Mountain, Mich., and Leonard Peterson of Duluth. Mr. and Mrs. Arneson went to Iron Mountain to spend a short honeymoon, after which they will reside on Fifteenth avenue west.

The club to which they belong was formed about ten years ago, and consisted first of mutes from Duluth only. But as their plans of entertainment grew more elaborate and the success of the club became known, Superior people also afflicted applied for admission and were invited to attend.

With the advent of Mr. Arneson, Cupid entered, and those who claim to know assert that it was a case of love at first sight.

IS NURSING AN INJURED AUTO

West End Doctor Learns Something About "Skidding" Cars.

Dr. A. J. Braden is curing a broken auto and nursing an injured spirit as a result of a skidding episode which occurred on Tuesday of this week at Fifth avenue west and Superior street.

The doctor was heading west in his machine, but at the intersection mentioned was signalled by the traffic cop to stop and let an auto truck pass. The signal came quickly, the pavement was slippery, and as the doctor put on the brakes suddenly his machine skidded forward and sideways at the same time. The result was that he bumped the truck with the nose of his machine and his hind wheels hit Otto Johnson's machine, which was close to one side. The doctor's auto was jammed somewhat, but not seriously injured. He thinks it will recover.

PARTNER WANTS AN ACCOUNTING

Claims He Received None of Profits From Soft Drinks.

John W. Olson is dissatisfied with the manner in which his partners in business have conducted affairs and has filed suit against I. M. Johnson and C. G. Johnson, with whom he is associated in the West End Malt Ale company asking for a dissolution of partnership, the appointment of a receiver to take charge during the pendancy of the action and an accounting from his partners.

Several months ago Olson, it appears from the complaint, entered into a partnership agreement with Mrs. I. M. Johnson, whereby he was to furnish $3,300 in cash and she was to furnish the building and other property needed in the manufacture and sale of soft drinks. The West End Malt & Ale company was organized and has been doing business ever since at 1909-11 West First street.

Olson in his complaint claims that no accounting has ever been made to him by Mrs. Johnson, or her husband, C. G. Johnson, who under the terms of the agreement was to be employed by the partnership firm. The plaintiff claims that all moneys which have been received from the manufacture and sale of the goods have been wrongfully converted to the use of the Johnsons and that they used the proceeds exclusively.

Olson claims that he has been refused access to the books of the partnership firm an dasers that he has lost considerable money because of the arrangement. He wants the court to order an accounting and make a just division of the company's assets and funds.

BUSINESS GOOD IN WEST END

Merchants Not Complaining and Expect Even Better Things.

"I have heard a good deal of kicking uptown about business," said a West end merchant last evening, "but I can truly say that we do not experience much of a slackness down here. Business has kept up all summer better than usual, and I look for it to steadily improve from now on. Merchants from the central part of the city tell me that business has been slow.

"Every able bodied man in the West end has been earning good wages all year and they have been furnishing themselves liberally with the necessities of life. A good many have been buying homes and establishing themselves as permanent residents of this end of the city. A greater number than usual are doing this. I know of no reason why the West enders should be better spenders than those uptown, but we are certainly faring better in business than the uptown merchants."

Mrs. Schaeffer was quite advanced in years. Mr. Schaeffer died recently. They were old residents of the West end and very well known.

MAY SELL HAY AND WOOD AT MARKET.

While yesterday was not as good a market day as Saturday last proved to be, owing to the heavy rain which fell most of the day and kept would-be purchasers at home, business was fairly brisk, and the farmers who did bring in produce sold all they brought. Eight farmers were on hand loaded down with produce, which, as soon as the weather cleared up, disappeared rapidly and the farmers were able to go home early.

Some of the farmers say that they will soon be adding hay and wood to their other offerings, and will use the market place as sales headquarters on every visit whether on market day or not.

INTERPRETS NEW EIGHT-HOUR LAW

Attorney General Wickersham Gives Opinion on Contract Feature.

Washington, Aug. 29.—In an interpretation of the new contract eight-hour labor law, Attorney General Wickersham has decided the government may enter into contracts, without restricting the hours of labor, for the purchase of supplies and other articles exempted by the law, even though the government itself has occasionally manufactured these articles. He also said that no provision of the law becomes effective until Jan. 1, 1913.

Many government contracts have been held up awaiting this decision, it is declared, because officials, believing the law was ambiguous in some of its provisions, have been doubtful as to its scope. Secretary of War Stimson raised several questions regarding army contracts.

The new statute specifically exempts certain classes of contract work from the operations of the eight-hour stipulation, including the purchase of supplies, but provides that all kinds of work "which have been, are now, and may hereafter be performed by the government, shall, when done by contract," be performed under the eight-hour stipulation.

This provision, the attorney general said, was made to prevent government officials from giving out by contract work now performed by the government itself, simply because such work seemed to come within the exempted classes under the new act. It refers, he held, to work which is ordinarily done by the government, and not merely occasionally or to a limited extent.

DETROIT CASES PUT OVER TO NEXT WEEK.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 29.—The councilmanic cases that were scheduled for hearing in the police court yesterday afternoon were postponed until next week, after the court officials, the prosecutors and the accused aldermen had all expressed themselves worn out as the result of the strain attendant upon the primary election Tuesday. The examination of Alderman Andrew J. Walsh will be taken up first when the cases are resumed next Tuesday. Justice Jeffries also adjourned his grand jury investigation into alleged enrollment frauds in connection with the primaries.

WANTS $1,000 DAMAGES FROM COAL COMPANY.

John Schittino has started suit in district court against his former employers, the Northwestern Fuel company, in which he asks $1,000 damages for personal injuries.

Schittino was one of a crew of men which helped coal up the yacht Alvina at the Northwestern Fuel company dock last November, before she started on her long oceanic cruise.

In the performance of his duties on this occasion, the plaintiff claims that he sustained a bad fall and that as a result of his injuries he has been more or less incapacitated for further employment.

ST. PAUL MAN, STRUCK BY CAR, MAY DIE.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 29.—Clarence Lennon, 190 Aurora avenue, was struck by a street car at Central avenue and Wabasha street. He is suffering from concussion of the brain and may die. Lennon was crossing the street at the time and did not see the car coming.

ROAD DRAG TRIED ON CITY STREETS

Maj. H. V. Eva, secretary of the Commercial club, is trying to interest city and county officials in the value of the road drag for city street work.

Yesterday he had it tried out on two thoroughfares, Woodland avenue and the boulevard extension.

On Woodland avenue, sticky clay caused by recent rains, gummed the drag and the tryout was not entirely satisfactory. The street showed considerable improvement however.

On the boulevard extension, the advantage of the drag was demonstrated. The talking point for the drag, according to Maj. Eva, is that it fills the holes in the dirt road and keeps the road higher in the center by throwing all of the surplus dirt to that part.

Further tests will be made.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, SEPT. 1.

MARK iv, 14-29: THE DEATH OF JOHN THE BAPTIST.

CONNECTION:

It was at the height of Christ's fame, near the spring of A. D. 29. But the pharisees were plotting and people were talking, some in praise and some in blame. The air was growing electric. Even Herod got a new impression on his hardened soul. And he thought of John the Baptist, whom he had beheaded. Which leads the gospel writers to go back and tell the tragic story.

THE LESSON.

I.

Herod Reminded of John. 14-16.

"And King Herod heard thereof; for his name had become known; and he said, John the Baptist is risen from the dead, and therefore do these powers work in him. But others said: It is Elijah. And others said: It is a prophet, even as one of the prophets. But Herod, when he heard thereof, said: 'John, whom I beheaded—he is risen'."

1. HEROD.—This Herod was son of the old Idumean monster whose territory was divided among his four sons, each one called a "tetrarch," or "ruler of a fourth." Herod Antipas heard of the resounding fame of Jesus at this time. His courtiers were a wall around him, deadening the sounds from the outside world, save such as appealed to his vanity, his ambition, or his lust. His tetrarchy embraced Galilee and Perra. His residence was sometimes at Tiberius on the east of the Jordan, sometimes at Machaerus, an impregnable castle on the mountain top east of the Dead sea. Bad by nature and nurture and surroundings he held his place by servility and sycophancy. Even before he robbed his brother of his wife his career was vicious.

2. ALARM.—Suddenly the reports of the wonderful Jesus set the bells of memory ringing in a way to start his conscience. After inquiry he concluded that this was John, whom he had beheaded, risen from the dead. His startled vision saw John coming back from the spirit world clothed with the supernatural powers belonging there, and he had his ready explanation—"John!" Then his guilty conscience, not wholly dead, led him back to the time, just a few weeks gone by, when he had murdered John; then he went on one year further back to the time when he had so unjustly imprisoned John.

II.

Why Herod Had Imprisoned John. 17-20.

"For Herod himself had sent forth and laid hold upon John, and bound him in prison for the sake of Herodias, his brother Philip's wife; for he had married her. For John said unto Herod, it is not lawful for thee to have thy brother's wife. And Herodias set herself against him, and desired to kill him; and she could not; for Herod feared John, knowing that he was a righteous man and a holy, and kept him safe. And when he heard him, he was much perplexed, and he heard him gladly."

1. BASTARD.—Such was Herod. His brother Philip had married Herodias, daughter of their half-brother. When he was set aside the ambitious Herodias was not satisfied, though he lived in luxury in Jerusalem. When Antipas became ruler of a large share of his father's dominion, under the title of tetrarch, he and Herodias began an intrigue which resulted in her going with him. His own wife heard of the plot in advance and fled to her father, Aretas, king of Arabia, who promptly made war on his daughter's recreant husband.

2. REPROOF.—This marriage was condemned by John as unlawful, because she had a living husband. John also knew it was incest as well as adultery. At once Herod knew he had a man to reckon with. Perhaps he sent for the brave preacher, with the idea that if he could get John's consent, the discontent of the people, which was now muttering like a gathering storm, would subside. But he made a mistake. John told him it was wrong and the form of the word means that he repeatedly told him it was wrong. He must have told it in tones that rang throughout the land and raised a storm of indignation that threatened Herod's peace.

3. DILEMMA.—Then the man got into a weak man's dilemma. Herodias was stronger than he. She hated the man who gave her such danger. She would put him out of the way. The pharisees probably encouraged Herod to imprison him. It was the purpose of Herodias, not Herod's purpose, to put him to death. He knew that to kill John might arouse the fury of the people against him and he loved his position better than his wife. His respect for John and his fear of him made him lenient. Herod was in an unlucky plight, forced by her to imprison John yet unwilling to do all she wanted. He refused to kill him but compromised by keeping him in prison for a whole year, often hearing him as the prophet preached in court or to the crowds that came to see him. But the cunning, cruel tigress was sleepless in her hatred and watchful for an hour of revenge.

Why Herod Killed John. 21-29.

"And when a convenient day was come, that Herod on his birthday made a supper to his lords, and the high captains, and the chief men of Galilee; and when the daughter of Herodias herself came in and danced, she pleased Herod and them that sat at meat with him; and the king said unto the damsel, ask of me whatsoever thou will, and I will give it thee. And he sware unto her, Whatsoever thou shalt ask of me I will give it thee, unto the half of my kingdom. And she went out, and said unto her mother, What shall I ask? And she said, The head of John the Baptist. And she came in straightway with haste unto the king, and asked, saying, I will that thou forthwith give me in a charger the head of John the Baptist. And the king was exceeding sorry; but for the sake of his oaths, and of them that sat at meat, he would not reject her. And straightway the King sent forth a soldier of his guard, and commanded to bring him his head in a charger, and give it to the damsel; and the damsel gave it to her mother. And when the disciples heard thereof, they came and took up his corpse, and laid it in a tomb."

1. PLOT.—Her time came. The plot involved the degradation of her daughter, the making a fool and a tool and a murderer of her husband and the unqueening of herself. She appealed to his lust, his false pride in the presence of his followers and his superstition as to breaking an oath. She made a mere dancing girl of her daughter in violation of the laws of chastity and social usage. The girl could hardly have been too young to know the nature of the deed. She must have been an advanced pupil in the school of vice presided over by her mother.

2. MURDER.—We are not surprised at the terror of the king. We are glad he has some conscience left. It it was wrong to make the promise it was wrong to keep it. Pride and superstition held him to it. We can imagine how the officer went down and executed the command of the poor wretch. It had to be done at once, as was promised. Herodias will not wait till Herod drunk becomes Herod sober. The stroke of the ax burst open the gates of bliss to John's tired spirit. It was a grim dish the girl bore to her mother. Herodias had lived in Rome and no doubt knew the story of how they brought the head of Cicero to Fulvia, the wife of Mark Antony, against whose treachery Cicero had hurled his hot words and how she thrust her bodkin through the tongue whose eloquence she could not answer and said: "Now, wag no more." Jerome says Herodias imitated Fulvia by drawing out the tongue of John and running a pin through it.

3. In the fame of Jesus now penetrating the palace to the ears of Herod that brings that awful tragedy back to his superstitious memory and calls out his explanation. Meantime John's disciples? Some of them had been following Jesus, some had been hanging around the castle of Machaerus to get an occasional sight of their leader. Now they bury his body and hasten for solace to John's great friend, Jesus. Herold was a failure; John a success. Herod's work, smitten by the hand of wrath, withers; John's passes into that of Christ and abides.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

The woman proved the curse and ruin of Antipas. First came the murder of the Baptist, which sent a thrill of horror through the people, and to which all the latter misfortunes of Herod were attributed. Then followed a war with Aretas, in which the Tetrarch was worsted, and, last of all, his wife's ambition led him to Rome to solicit the title of king, lately given Agrippa, the brother of Herodias. Antipas not only failed, but was deprived of his dominions and banished to Lyons, in Gaul.—Edersheim.

In all Eastern countries, women being kept in great seclusion it has always been considered extremely improper for a female to dance in public. It is very common to hire dancing women to exhibit at entertainments (ego, the Hindoo nautch girls), but the business is highly disreputable, and it is commonly taken for granted that they are women of bad character. —Broadus.

BOOTH'S FUNERAL TURNED INTO BIG REVIVAL SERVICE WITH 34,000 TAKING PART

Police Have to Help Men and Women Forward to "Mercy Seat."

Forty Bands Furnish Music and Well Known Hymns Are Sung.

London, Aug. 29.—Funeral services for the founder of the Salvation Army ,Gen. William Booth, were heard at the Olympia last night. In accordance with the traditions of the organization, they were without pomp or symbols of mourning, but were carried out with moving fervor and impressiveness.

Thirty-four thousand persons participated in the funeral. Nearly half of them wore blue coats and red jerseys, or bonnets with the red ribbon similar to those seen on the streets of the cities of the world where the army is established.

The body of the late general, in a plain, pine coffin, rested high on a white chatafalque in front of the big platform across the end of the hall, where all the chief officers of the organization were seated and where forty bands of music were massed. The crimson flag of the army, "of fire and blood," which the general unfurled on Mounty Calvary, was draped above the coffin. A bank of flowers, composed of the tributes sent by members of royalty and many societies, was behind it.

Flags of Many Nations.

Flags of various nations in which the commander-in-chief had waged campaigns, and the standards of the older divisions of the army were arrayed in front of the platform.

These and more Salvation Army flags in the galleries, each tipped with white ribbons, and twenty portraits of the evangelist, surmounted with green laurel wreaths and with a broad orange ribbon connecting them, were the only decorative effects.

The front rows of chairs before the coffin were filled with representatives of various organizations, and the equerry of the king, a delegation from the stock exchange, ministers and clergymen of all the Protestant churches and Jewish rabbis and many notable personages were seated throughout the house. But the rank and file at the ceremony was composed of the plain people for whom the army worked and of whom it is composed.

Prayer and Praise Meeting.

The service itself was not only a memorial, but a mammoth meeting of prayer and praise.

The most solemn part of the meeting was when the coffin was borne along the center of the hall to the sonorous music of the Dead March in Saul. A small procession, representing many branches of the army's activity, carrying the flags of their respective countries, preceded it. Immediately before the body, a brigadier bore aloft the crimson flag which the general raised at Jerusalem, and under which he died at Hadley Wood, and following this marched the officers from foreign countries.

Then came the new general of the army, Bramwell Booth, with his wife, both wearing uniforms of commissioners, and members of the Booth families.

Flag, Bible and Cap.

The coffin was covered with a flag and on it rested the general's Bible and cap. As it was borne down the aisle, the immense audience stood and the Salvation soldiers were at salute.

Every seat on the floor and in the galleries was taken when the services began, and several thousands of persons were banked around the outskirts of the hall, half of whom could not see over the shoulders of those in front, but who could hear and take part in the exercises. When the bands began with the well known revival hymn "The Better World," the ocean of voices took up the strain and sang three stanzas of it.

The bands broke into a dead march at the conclusion of the prayer, and the thousands rose and turned toward the far entrance, where appeared a cluster of white-tipped flags. Amid reverent silence, the white catafalque was wheeled along the aisle to a position in front of the platform, where its escort broke to the right and left, and mounted the steps.

Commissioner Higgins led in a responsive reading from Revelations, which was followed by the singing of another hymn. The congregation then read silently from books several extracts of the late general's writings, the reading being interspersed by hymns, one sung by children and another by all the women in the hall.

Many at "Mercy Seat."

Silent reading, alternating with hymns, continued for half an hour, following which a Salvation Army review was conducted, and an invitation to sinners and backsliders to come to "the mercy seat." Dozens of persons forced their way through the crowded aisles to the mercy seats on either side of the platform where they knelt in prayer. In some cases the police were required to force a way for the penitents. As the penitents went forward the singing, shouts of encouragement and amens increased in volume, until the Olympia was turned into a colossal, old-fashioned revival.

Striding back and forth on the platform, Gen. Bramwell Booth swung his arms above his head and led the singing, pausing frequently to remind the sinners that the dead leader had given his life to saving them. The revival service was concluded with the singing of "His Blood Can Make the Vilest Clean; His Blood Avails for Me."

The most impressive feature of the solemnities then followed. All the soldiers of the army arose and recited the covenant of fidelity, pledging themselves to be faithful soldiers of the Lord.

The catafalque was then wheeled slowly down the aisle, while the great gathering sang "When the Roll Is Called Up Yonder I'll Be There."

The coffin was placed in a hearse and conveyed to the Salvation Army headquarters, to rest until taken to Abney Park cemetery today.

WHAT HEALTH BOARD WANTS

Estimate Includes $20,000 for Municipal Garbage Collection System.

Emergency Ambulance, Automobile and Public Bath House Asked for.

The health department in its estimate for 1913 asks $20,000 for the establishment of a municipal garbage collection system.

Judging from the sentiments expressed by some of those present at the last meeting of the conference committee it is not likely that this sum will be allowed for that purpose. Some provision will be made for the extension of the garbage collection, but it is not likely to be as great as asked by the health department. It was stated that the city should wait until it is in better condition financially before establishing municipal collection throughout the city. It was pointed out that not only would the cost of the equipment be large but the maintenance would be heavy.

Some favored enlarging the present system of collection. They thought that two or three or more wagons and teams could be purchased and placed in additional districts. The wagon now in use in the downtown section pays its expenses by the small fees which are charged for the removal of garbage and ashes.

The department asks an emergency ambulance and the police department makes the same request. Duluth should have such an ambulance and it should be kept in the police station or where calls can be made upon it at a moment's notice, the officers claim. Injured men are often taken to the station or to hospitals in the patrol wagon but it goes without argument that in the majority of cases the patrol wagon is not a proper conveyance in such cases. And not infrequently the patrol wagon is busy elsewhere when calls for assistance of that nature come into headquarters.

The health department asks several other things which are needed, but which will scarcely get consideration when the budget is fixed. Among them are an automobile estimated at $2,500 and a municipal bath house, estimated at $9,000. Salaries are placed at $16,000 and will go in at approximately that figure. The total asked by the department is $56,490, which is cut by the comptroller to $20,000, the bulk of which is the aforementioned sum for salaries.

FINE WEATHER, BIG CROWD MARK COUNTY FAIR OPENING

Hibbing Thronged With Visitors and Attendance First Day Is Large.

Duluth Concerns Are Exhibiting as Well as Farmers and Others.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Better weather for the opening day of the St. Louis county fair here today could not have been in evidence if it had been ordered. Coming after about four weeks of wet, cold weather, today is bright and sunny with every prospect of continuing till night to the great delight of the fair officers and the throng here for the annual county show. Hibbing is gay in bunting and the spirit of optimism is in the air due to the fine crops and the general good times in this section. There are many people here from the Eastern and Western Mesaba, from Duluth, the Vermilion range and many other portions of the state. There are many on the grounds at noon, and this afternoon will see thousands more in evidence, so that the attendance on the opening day should be 5,000 or 6,000. Aviator Cantener is here from New York with his monoplane, and if the weather continues favorable this afternoon will furnish the people with the first aeroplane flight ever seen on the Mesaba range. He is booked to fly twice daily. The Hibbing band furnishes music three days, while the Mohami band of Virginia will play on Sunday. The First Regiment band of Duluth will arrive Saturday with the Duluth visitors on Duluth day. The local stables are full of racing stock and there are many horsemen and race track followers here for the opening events this afternoon.

The fair is certainly making good the claims of the officers and directors that it would be the greatest exposition of the agricultural resources ever assembled at a county fair. The display of grains and grasses, vegetables and root crops far exceeds that of last season and all the exhibits were not yet in place this morning.

Meadowlands' Fine Exhibit.

One of the finest of the individual displays is that of the town of Meadowlands. It includes second growth clover and alfalfa from two to five feet in height and of the first quality. There is also a particularly fine display of cabbage, rutabagas, turnips, beets, garlic, summer and winter radishes and other garden stuff.

Another fine exhibit is that being made by Gus Larson of Lakeside farm, town of Fern. It includes some especially choice Early Ohio and Burbank potatoes, two mammoth turnips, one weighing seven and another ten pounds, besides other garden stuff proportionately fine. Mr. Larson has one of the finest displays of winter radishes on the grounds.

Mrs. A. Letourneau of the Pool location is showing some fine beets. A cluster of four weigh twelve pounds. They are perfectly developed and among the best so far seen on the grounds. The Duluth & Iron Range farm at Meadowlands also has a fine display. Its celery is particularly fine.

It is early indicated that the fair will be the greatest potato show ever held in the county. All of the exhibitors are showing from two to four varieties. The contest for first place in this class will be one that will tax the judges as the display is exceptionally large and every one of the exhibits is meritorious.

Another very attractive exhibit is that of the Oliver Iron Mining company. It contains samples of practically every grade of ore to be found on the Mesaba range with samples of the various grades in all the big mines, unusual formations found in mining, drill cores from some of the properties and other things of interest. The whole is set off very nicely by a number of handsome pictures of the mines with steamshovels at work.

Duluth Firms' Exhibit.

F. A. Patrick & Co., of Duluth have a very ingenious exhibit. They are making the most of the fair to advertise the product of their garment factory, particularly in mackinaws and blankets. There are samples of the raw wool, the various stages it passes though in manufacture are indicated and finally the finished garments are shown with the fabrics in the rough. Their exhibit is in charge of W. M. Bergen and is attracting a good deal of attention.

Stone-Ordean-Wells have an exhibit in charge of T. Free of Duluth. They are serving Empress steel cut coffee to all the visitors at their booth and are also demonstrating their line of canned fruits.

The Pillsbury Flour company also have an attractive exhibit in charge of C. C. Cornell of Duluth.

Many Virginians Going.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tomorrow is Virginia and Eveleth day at the St. Louis county fair at Hibbing and large crowds are going from this city. The Mahomi band, one of the best on the range, will accompany the visitors, playing tomorrow and again on Sunday, the big day at the fair.

WANT MOTOR COPS ON ALL HIGHWAYS

Grand Jury Requests County to Take Action to Protect People.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—In order to protect people driving along highways in St. Louis county or those walking from the menace of the speeding automobiles, the grand jury that adjourned here late yesterday adopted a resolution calling upon the county commissioners and sheriff to police all roads frequented by motors. The board is asked to provide deputy sheriffs with motorcycles capable of overtaking and arresting reckless automobile drivers. The grand jury probably decided upon this action when it looked into the charges preferred against John Hanlind of Eveleth who was indicted for exceeding the law governing speeding automobiles. Hanlind appeared before Judge Hughes this morning, pleaded guilty to the indictment and asked that he be sentenced at once. Judge Hughes put the matter over until next Tuesday allowing the accused his liberty on bonds.

Pullman Porter Indicted.

Jack Williams alias Roan, colored, charged with attempted assault upon Mrs. Jerry Williams of Eveleth in a Northern Pacific sleeping car at Staples a few months ago, was also indicted. He is under arrest in Duluth. The woman claims she was the sole occupant of a Pullman that was sidetracked at Staples while awaiting the arrival of a train, and that the porter attempted an assault. The latter denies the charge claiming the woman opened a conversation. Other indictments found were: Carsepto Lageo, Panburni Clerensi, Victor Rudolph and Prosper Rudolph, charged with assaulting John Vinozzol with intent to kill. Three true bills were returned against Eli Naaholi, alias Eli Maki. He was indicted on charges of carnal knowledge of a girl under 18 years of age, bigamy and wife abandonment.

Judge Hughes discharged the grand jury yesterday afternoon upon receiving its report. The court also excused all trial jurors from attending court until next Tuesday morning. The jury in the case of Grotzian vs. Pitzanen to recover $237 on a promissory note which was submitted yesterday returned a verdict for the defense late yesterday.

The court and various court officials as well as jurors left today for their homes or for the Hibbing fair.

BUFFALO MINE NOW HAS FOUR SHOVELS

Output of Hibbing Property Will Be Materially Increased Thereby.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Four shovels are now working in ore at the Buffalo mine increasing the daily output of the property considerably.

The Winston-Dear company has four steam shovels on the ground at the section 27 property of the Arthur Iron Mining company in the Chisholm district. Only two shovels are working at removing overburden at present, but two more will be cut in in a few days. The shovels to be put to work are direct from the factory and are among the best on the range.

New Equipment Ordered.

The Winston-Dear company has placed an order for new cars and locomotives and as soon as these arrive will push work at the section 27 property. It is the intention to work there all winter. The overburden formation is largely clay and this can be worked to good advantage during cold weather.

GEOGRAPHERS COMING.

Scientists Will Look Over the Mesaba Range.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the most distinguished parties of scientists who have ever visited Minnesota will come to the mines in the Hibbing district with the American Geographical society. There will be seventy-two in all. Forty-two come from the various countries of Europe and twenty-five are Americans. They will have lunch at the Oliver club and in the afternoon will go by auto to the mines, visiting most of the big open pit properties in this section. They are on their way to the Pacific coast.

SAYS WIFE BEAT HIM.

Has Spouse Arrested, But Chisholm Judge Dismisses Charge.

Chisholm, Minn., Aug. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Masters dismissed the case Nick Rajaciss sought to press against his wife, Mary, of assault, telling the couple they better make up and forget it. The husband claimed that while he slept his wife belabored him over the head with a flatiron because he had cast lover's eyes toward a comely woman of their neighborhood.

PICNIC IN CHURCH.

Weather Prevents Two Harbors Sunday School Outing.

Two Harbors, Minn., Aug. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because of the inclement weather yesterday the First M. E. church picnic planned at Knife River had to be called off. The children were entertained in the church parlors instead, where they enjoyed the usual picnic delicacies without the outdoor sports.

HIBBING SEWER CHANGE DISCUSSED

By Diverting Route of Penobscot a Purification Plant May Be Built.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The sewer question, one of the most important confronting this community, was discussed at length by the village board last night. A. F. Silliman was directed to prepare estimates for a ditch from a point near Brooklyn to a point near Iron Junction to provide better sewage disposal. The Brooklyn block sewer bids were opened and rejected.

Mr. Silliman's plans for sewage disposal are very comprehensive and while they may not be adopted this year his ideas for a ditch for better drainage may be followed at once.

The trunk sewer empties into the Penobscot creek at Alice. At ordinary stages of water the present plan is acceptable, but with high water the sewage is carried over the adjoining flats and when the water recedes it is left to putrify and gives rise to unpleasant odors. The present sewer diversion plan would accommodate the construction of a purification plant somewhere in the vicinity of Brooklyn. By changing the route of the Penobscot creek slightly through the construction of a ditch this necessity would be overcome and ample facilities would be provided to take care of the sewage. This would be less expensive than a purification works and just as adequate.

New Public Market.

The plans of the new public market between First and Second avenues, near Missabe park, were presented by Dr. Thomas of the park board and discussed and the park board was directed to proceed with that improvement. It is proposed to erect a suitable building of such appearance as not to harm the general scheme of Missabe park.

The city employes were paid in advance as they can have money for the county fair. Other routine business was transacted.

The contract for installing new urinals in the Adams building was also awarded to the Northern Plumbing & Heating company, their bid being $335. Other bids were as follows: Virginia Plumbing company, $392.50; Helps-Shea Hardware company, Eveleth, $360. The transportation committee arranged for a continuance of the arrangement to transport free from home to school and back each day for all pupils who reside in the outlying portions of the district.

Cannot Get Cement.

The contractors having the local improvements in charge, are having considerable difficulty in getting cement fast enough for their work. About a week's time has been lost during the season on that account. In spite of this handicap the improvements are progressing very favorably. It is expected that the White Way will be begun on the streets where the sidewalk has been already completed, about the last of the week.

Tower, Minn., Aug. 29.—(Special to The Herald.) — The Troubadour Entertainment company appeared at the Vermilion opera house Tuesday night under the auspices of the Commercial club. The house and stage were beautifully decorated with autumn leaves and bullrushes. The concert was followed by a dance and the troubadours also furnished the music.

A large party of women chartered the launch Scout on Tuesday and went to Bear creek for the day to gather cherries which grow there in abundance.

Eastern Star Picnic.

The members of the Eastern Star lodge and their friends to the number of fifty had their annual excursion on Lake Vermilion Wednesday. The steamer Mary Bell was chartered for the trip. The day was fine after a good night's rain and at 9 a. m. the party departed from the Lakeside dock for various points up the lake. The dam was reached in time for dinner and a stop was made there until 2:30 p. m., when the party embarked again and the boat proceeded to Joyce's landing, where supper was served at the hotel. Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Despite the refusal of Victor Carlson to appear against his boyhood friend and roommate, Fred Carlson, arrested for robbing him of $145, the accused was bound over to the grand jury by Judge Brady. Victor Carlson says they were boyhood friends in Finland, and he is trying to have the proceedings dropped, as he recovered nearly all of the stolen money. The accused claims he took the money as joke.

Chisholm, Minn., Aug. 29.—Jacob Skala, while painting a residence, fell from the scaffolding a distance of about eight feet, alighting directly on his head, sustaining a very bad strain of the spinal ligaments and barely escaping breaking the spinal vertebrae. The shock caused the temporary paralysis of his left arm in addition to several lesser bruises and sprains.

BURY KILLED BOY.

Eveleth, Minn., Aug. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Leo Forti, the 10-year-old son of Santi Forti, who was accidentally shot and killed by William Millette, aged 14, as the two were shooting at squirrels during a picnic at Horseshoe lake Tuesday, was held this morning and was largely attended. The tragic fate of the boy elicited the sympathy of the community not only for his family, but for the Millette boy and his family, who are equally grieved over the unfortunate affair.

Ely, Minn., Aug. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—R. B. Wise of Virginia was haled before Special Municipal Judge Chinn yesterday charged with trying to put through some frenzied finance deals and drew a sentence of $40 and costs, or sixty days in jail. Being unable to pay the fine he was taken to Duluth. Wise has been for some time the local representative of the White Sewing Machine company but makes his home in Virginia.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

One and one-half hours of laughter interspersed with melody, is one of the many delights promised by the latest musical sensation "The Sunny Side of Broadway."

This combination of comedy and music is from the pen of Boyle Woolfolk, whose recent offering "The Winning Miss" has just closed a successful season, which has brought its author into the spot light of the musical comedy world.

When this comedy is presented here tomorrow and Saturday at the Lyceum by Boyle Woolfolk, it will be offered by a cast of exceptional artists, foremost of whom is Max Bloom, whose success in "The Winning Miss" will be remembered.

In support of Mr. Bloom is Miss Alice Sher, comedienne, Miss Myrtle Bliss, prima donna, Geo. Browning, Jack Leslie, John McGowan and E. Rolston.

The comedy is full of mirth and replete with fine music, among the popular numbers being "That Kentucky Rag," "Beware of the Garden of Love," "College Days," "The Pizaza Plant," "Every Town Has a Broadway," "Meet Me at the Stage Door Johnnie," and many more.

Possessed of a merit which strikes the elusive but mistakable popular note more unerringly than most of the musical comedies now before the public, "The Prince of Tonight," which will be seen at the Lyceum Labor Day matinee and night, ranks as one of the most notable achievements of those prolific writers of musical successes, Adams, Hough and Howard.

"The Prince of Tonight" is a production of tastefully conceived and elaborately executed scenic ideas. Tom Arnold, a popular actor and whose artistic ability and splendid baritone voice have long held him a favorite, is the predominant figure in the piet, which is one of real substance. The play opens at Palm Beach, Florida, on the night that a century plant blooms, when the air is full of magic. Mr. Arnold, as a young collegian, in despair at being jilted by his sweetheart, is aided by virtue of the century plant, to become a mythical prince of Lunitania for the night, at the end of which he is to die unless he is kissed by the girl he loves. Mr. Arnold is surrounded by a large cast of well known principals and a big chorus. Each of the three acts offers really notable stage pictures, the first "The Breakers," Palm Beach, then the beautiful Delft Forest in the mythical country of Lunitania, the houseboat at the picturesque water fete, a scene of kaleidoscopic beauty and a banquet on the lawn in front of "The Breakers."

The musical numbers are said to possess a merit which closely allies "The Prince of Tonight" to comic opera. Among the many song hits are "Tonight Will Never Come Again," "You Won't Know Anybody There," "Can It Be Love," "Her Eyes Are Blue for Yale," "Follow the Rainbow Trail," "I Fell in Love on Monday," "It Is a Dear Old World After All," and "I Can't Be True So Far Away."

"Spiritualistic seances are simply conjuring tricks," said Owen Clark, the English conjurer at the Orpheum this week.

Mr. Clark has for more than three years been connected with the firm of Maskelyne & Devant of London. These two men have been producing new conjuring tricks and illusions for more than thirty years at St. George's hall in London, and are recognized as the chief exponents of conjuring in that home of the art, London.

"Maskelyne and Devant have exposed scores of famous spiritualists during their life in London," said Mr. Clark last evening. "Everything that a spiritualist can do, a conjurer can do, with the difference that the conjurer works in the light and admits his feats are simply tricks, while the spiritualist works in the dark and claims that his tricks are supernatural.

"The ordinary spiritualistic seance is so ridiculously simple that it is a wonder to me it ever fools anybody. Just for an example of how bald the fake is, take the old trick of using a piece of sheet lead. In the darkened room the medium grasps your arms with both hands to prove he has neither hand free. In one he has a piece of sheet lead, which he impresses on your arm, and gradually releases his hand. You think he is still holding you with both, and he then slaps your face with his free hand. That is a spirit. Many of the other tricks are equally simple, and you can put it down as a fact that all seances are fakes."

FLOODS DOING GREAT DAMAGE IN ENGLAND.

Norwich, Eng., Aug. 29.—Considerable abatement of the floods devastating this district occurred today, but an enormous volume of water still threatens the eastern side of the town. The banks and hedges holding the floods back may give way at any moment.

As a consequence of this imminent danger, many thousands of inhabitants of Norwich and the neighboring villages refused to go to bed last night.

Further rainfall is reported from Peterborough, which has already suffered greatly. Another dam has burst near Wood Walton, inundating hundreds of acres.

YOUNG MOTHERS

No young woman, in the joy of coming motherhood, should neglect to prepare her system for the physical ordeal she is to undergo. The health of both herself and the coming child depends largely upon the care she bestows upon herself during the waiting months. Mother's Friend prepares the expectant mother's system for the coming event, and its use makes her comfortable during all the term. It works with and for nature, and by gradually expanding all tissues, muscles and tendons, involved, and keeping the breasts in good condition, brings the woman to the crisis in splendid physical condition. The baby, too, is more apt to be perfect and strong where the mother has thus prepared herself for nature's supreme function. No better advice could be given a young expectant mother than that she use Mother's Friend; it is a medicine that has proven its value in thousands of cases. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature.

SUSPECTED OF HOLDUP

Alexander Kerr Charged With Robbing Interstate Traction Company Employe.

Denies Any Knowledge of Crime Which Was Committed Aug. 19.

Alexander Kerr, a carpenter, residing at 1021 Minnesota avenue, was arrested last night on suspicion of being the masked robber who held up A. J. Adrehan of the Interstate Traction company and forced him to turn over $135.25 of the company's money the morning of Aug. 19.

Kerr strenuously denies that he had any connection whatever with the robbery. After three hours of questioning he still firmly maintained his innocence.

It appears that Kerr has been under suspicion since the robbery. Early on the day of the robbery his home was visited and searched and he was questioned.

Adrehan is employed by the street car company operating on Park Point. He acts as watchman of the offices at 1825 Lake avenue south and takes the receipts of the conductors when they finish their runs. The night of the robbery the last conductor had been gone about 5 or 10 minutes when he stepped out of the door. He was confronted with a revolver in the hands of a man who, he says, did not speak a word. By gestures he states that the robber, with his face completely hidden by a long, black mask, forced him to open the safe, from which he secured $135.25.

Adrehan was marched into an adjoining room where he was blindfolded, gagged and fastened to a steam pipe after his arms had been tied behind him. He asserts that he waited about two minutes and then loosened himself without difficulty, the knots having been loosely drawn. Having freed himself he ran five blocks to the home of the manager to tell him of the robbery.

Kerr was arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of robbery in the first degree, the warrant for his arrest being sworn to by Charles B. Dunn of the Interstate Traction company. Kerr asked for an examination and his hearing was set for Saturday morning. Bail could not be fixed in police court.

POLICE HIDING TWO GUN MEN?

Report to That Effect Comes to Prosecutor Whitman of New York.

New York, Aug. 29.—District Attorney Whitman tried today to trace information which came to him that the whereabouts of "Lefty Louie" Rosenzweig and Harry Horowitz, alias "Gyp the Blood," was known to certain members of the police department, who are aiding in concealing the gunmen.

Report has it that these two men will be kept in hiding until the trial of Police Lieut. Becker is well under way, and that they will then be brought forward as witnesses for the defense to swear that the gambler, Rosenthal, was slain in a gamblers' feud and that Rose, Webber and Vallon themselves took part in the killing.

Counsel for the defense had nothing to say regarding the report, but it was learned that lawyers for Becker will endeavor to show that Rosenthal was killed in a gamblers' row and that the assassins sought to shift the responsibility for the killing on Becker.

The grand jury was prepared to convene again today to hear evidence of police corruption.

CHICAGO CAR MEN VOTING ON WAGES

Will Decide Whether to Accept Half Million Dollar Increase.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—Ten thousand union street car men began voting today to decide whether to accept the $500,000 annual increase in wages contained in the agreement reached between their officers and officials of the employing companies. Balloting will continue until 4 o'clock tomorrow morning.

KAISER APPARENTLY OVER HIS SICKNESS.

Cassel, Hesse-Nassau, Germany, Aug. 29.—Emperor William apparently has completely recovered from his recent indisposition. His majesty this morning went out for a long horseback ride in the park of Wilhemshoehe castle. He was accompanied by the empress, who had been in unsatisfactory health. Both emperor and empress appeared in very lively spirits.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. RHOADES IS PURE QUILL

Peggy Has Dooks Whiffing Vainly and Red Sox Win, 5 to 0.

Sommers' Old Men Fall on Hoffman and Have Joyous Afternoon.

(BY BRUCE.)

Elements of comedy stood on tiptoes and shouted gleefully during the progress of the baseball melee of yesterday. We are reaching the end of the season, one that has been a hard and stern chase, and therefore a man may even crack a grim joke after taking a dose of castor oil—do you get us? It was Superior that furnished the comedy, and the failure to win the coveted gonfalon has been the fly in the ointment to the yokels. They handily defeated us yesterday by the count of 5 to 0.

One of the elements of comedy was the very fact that "Bugs" De Lave was on second base. Another element was his hitting of a home run. Still further comedy, the looney one had two put-outs. Another very funny incident, depending somewhat, however, upon your viewpoint, was the hitting of the ball behind the sign by Mister McCauley. The pellet went into a wee hole and remained stubbornly until the redhead had made the circuit of the bases.

Sporting writers in the days of hoss racing used to refer to the "sea of mud." It was there yesterday. Several of the players did not think there would be a game yesterday. Hargrove and McGraw were ill and out of the play. As we say, the season is drawing to a close and the little element is breaking out, like the measles in the orphan asylum. Heigh ho.

How shall we start this game? Begin with Hoffman. He had a stiff arm, or something of that sort, and worked in spite of it. Peggy Rhoades twirled for the visitors and had everything in the baseball repertory from the "East Lynne" of the old roundhouse curve to the more modern tragedy of "The Lion and the Mouse" of the spit ball. Mister Rhoades was the roaring lion and our brave crew was the timid gray mouse.

Before tripping blithely along to the sordid details of the game, let us stop, look and listen. The playing of Darby O'Brien was one of the distinct features of the game. The old boy took six chances on the gallop, going to each side and back for various brands of wide and high balls, and he done nobly. Some one has remarked that it is easy to get high balls, but there are different kinds.

Mons Persch struck out to open the game. This is the regulation way for a visitor to open the contest. Then came Donovan and bumped the ball to left for two bags. How rude. Old Fred Curtis was safe when Leber's throw pulled Red Bluhm off the bag. The psychological moment had arrived. Dad Ford hit an altitudinous fly to Meniece and the Donovan man came across with the first tally.

O'Brien clipped a single by Redhead McCauley in the home half and was promptly forced at second by Bennett. The next two soldiers lofted out.

With two gone in the foreign stanza no one worried. "Bugs" De Lave came along and wafted her over the left field fence. We always knew that he was crazy. Here we have socre number two.

Lucella Sours tripled in the domestic half of the second, only to be left stranded at the hopeful sack while three knights went out on weak attempts.

We might skip lightly over the third, fourth and fifth rounds. Superior did nothing in their batting portion, while we in the fourth got little Leber to third. He was nipped at the plate and hope charged.

Superior punctuated the sixth with two hits, Donovan and Ford getting on between the going out of Persch, Curtis and McCauley. Sours singled in our war clubbing period, but the other three died without a struggle.

Benrud opened the seventh with a two base clout. Black was safe when Schaeffer threw his bunt away and De Lave lofted to Bennett and then mumbled expletives and colloquial English because Benrud did not come home on the play. It would have given De Lave a sacrifice fly. He has set his heart on a batting average of .085 and he is only hitting at .057 at the present time. Thus do ball players have their little internicene difficulties. Yes indeed. Rhoades beat out a dinky bunt because the infield became tangled like the springs of a dollar watch and nobody was on the bag, Benrud scoring. Persch singled and Black came over with the second run of the inning.

McCauley hit the afore mentioned home run clout in the eighth round. Bennett gave the chase and at one time was about as near to it as the New York sleuths to Gyp the Blood, and then it hopped behind the bull sign, and lo and behold McCauley gets five pounds of smoking for a thing like that. Ain't it a shame?

That's about all there is to tell, William. We couldn't get at all mussy with the benders of Rhades, and he smote us on the hip and several other places.

The two teams will battle at Superior this fertile afternoon. At the time of writing the sun was shining.

In the first game Blackburne drove in six of the Milwaukee runs. Charles' base running and plays by Leibold and Clark featured the second game, which was a pitching duel between Nicholson and Krause. ST. LOUIS GETS THREE OUT OF FOUR WITH SENATORS.

Washington, Aug. 29.—St. Louis made it three out of four on the series by beating Washington 3 to 2. Walter Johnson allowed only four hits, but he was wild and his support poor. COLONELS PROVE BETTER PADDLERS THAN MILLERS.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 29.—Louisville defeated Minneapolis on a muddy field by a 3 to 1 score. Minneapolis hit Northrup freely, but not in the pinches. A brace of errors and two errors by Schalk, which allowed two more in the fourth. Errors gave Chicago its first run, and Weaver's double on top of two singles counted the other two. Boston gathered all three runs in the second game, in the fourth inning on a pass, two singles and Gardner's double. The scores:

WHITE SOX DON'T WANT CUBS TO WIN.

Everybody in and from Chicago is not pulling for the Cubs to put a crimp in the Giants and win the National league pennant. It would not break the hearts of the crew that follows the lead of Jimmy Callahan if the New York aggregation should carry off the flag in the older league.

This is not jealousy or anything like that. It is plain business. If the Cubs play the world's series, the Chicago city series between the Cubs and Sox is off, and every white-legged warrior stands to lose very close to one thousand real dollars.

The teams battling for the championship of the world are forgotten in the Windy City when Chicago meets Chicago. Nowhere is the partisanship so bitter as in the metropolis of the lakes. It is a house divided against itself, and both sides pour money into the box offices to see their favorites. The players' end is well worth while.

In 1911, the fight between the Giants and the Athletics received scant attention in Chicago. The newspapers gave it little space; it was scarcely spoken of. The Sox and the Cubs were at it.

"ZIG" MOVES TO THE WEST

C. N. Ziegler, well known to local sportsmen, has resigned his position with the Kelley Hardware company and left last night for Portland, Or., where he has a position in the sporting goods department of the Columbian Hardware company.

"Zig," as he was familiarly known, was one of the enthusiastic sportsmen of the city. Whether it was moose, deer, fish or birds, he was among the first out when the season rolled around and seldom came back without having about all the law allows.

BUSHERS WHO WILL MOVE UP

Cincinnati, Ohio, Aug. 29.—The National baseball commission today gave out the list of players, whose releases have been purchased by major league clubs since Aug. 20, 1911, under agreement filed with and approved by the commission. The list does not include players recalled by major league clubs on Aug. 20, 1912, under optional agreements, which list was promulgated on Aug. 22. The list includes:

National league: By Cincinnati from St. Louis American, Frill; Philadelphia Nationals, Humphreis.

By Pittsburg from St. Paul, Butler; Columbus, Cooper.

By St. Louis from Columbus, Redding, Rourke; New Bedford, James; Spokane, Noyes.

New York from Traverse City, Kirby and Smith; Indianapolis, Golia.

American league: By Chicago from Racine, Johnson.

Milwaukee, Schalk.

By St. Louis from Toledo, Wilson.

By Cleveland from Flint, Hunter; Toledo, Mitchell, Carisch; Racine, Brenner.

By Detroit from Minneapolis, Burns, Jackson, Deal, Adrian, Troy, Lansing, Onslow; Kansas City, Corridon.

By Philadelphia from Butte, Mathes; Davenport, Crabb.

By Washington from Montreal, Gandil.

Accompanying the list was a warning to club owners that hereafter the commission would strictly enforce the rule which requires that the transfer of a player by or to a major league club for immediate or future delivery must be submitted to the commission within a reasonable time.

Wells After Palzer.

New York, Aug. 29.—Bombardier Wells, the English heavyweight champion, will sail for this country about Oct. 1. He is anxious to meet Albert Palzer in a return match, and also hopes for bouts with most of the other white hopes. Wells has been taking on weight and now tips the scales at 204 pounds.

Negotiations are under way here for a match between Jack Harrison, the British middleweight champion, and Mike Gibbons of St. Paul. It is proposed to hold the bout in Madison Square garden some time next month. Harrison holds the Lord Lonsdale belt, and has a great reputation abroad.

BOOSTER DAY IS TIME FOR FANS TO HELP GAME

Please don't forget Booster day.

It comes on Sunday afternoon, and the indications point to the largest crowd in the history of local baseball.

The baseball officials are strenuously striving for a crowd of 5,000 people—come out and bring the family and help make the day a record-breaker.

You will have the time of your life. There is going to be a balloon ascension, one of the daredevil kind, and there will be some novel field sports.

Buy your ticket today. Get a booster button and help set up the attendance record.

We have the pennant-winning team; the boys have fought hard all the season to bring the honor to Duluth. The officers of the local baseball association have spent good money to place the best team possible in the field. They are far in the financial mire. No one is asking you, Mr. Fan, to dig in your pocket, but you ought to have pride enough in the team, a fair enough sense of sportsmanship, to come out and help with your little two bits.

There are but three more games on the home grounds. Sunday's big Booster day offering will be the next to the last game of this season. Some of you have not been out to the ball park the present season—come out Sunday and be a booster.

Come out, Mr. Fan, and show that there is some baseball life in the town. Here is a city of 80,000 people—it isn't too much to expect that we can turn out a crowd of 5,000 people to see a baseball game; especially when that contest is made a special occasion.

There are a few faithful fans who have been out to most of the games of the present season; there are a great many more who have not been out to the park the present year. Most of you like a game of baseball; if you don't there is something wrong with you. Come out on Booster day and see a real day of sports.

Quit knocking baseball. Some of you have knocked it enough the present season. The schedule is all but over, and there are but three days left to show some measure of appreciation of a pennant-winning team. Make Booster day the time.

A few men have stood by the team all of the present season. They have spent money despite the fact that the weather has been, frankly speaking, rotten; despite the fact that everything has been against the local association breaking even. They have given you, Mr. Fan, the best team that they could possibly get. Booster day is the time for you to show some appreciation of this fact.

There are a good lot of boys on the White Sox. They have played hard to bring the baseball bacon home. Come out Booster day and give them a hand. It will be about the last time some of you will see them. Put the date in your hat—you must be sure to be there.

One thing more—the men behind the team are already planning to give Duluth better baseball next year—come out and show that you are willing to do something to help.

Booster day is next Sunday.

ATHLETICS HAVE ONLY SLIGHT CHANCE FOR FLAG

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 29.—Whether the Athletics have a real chance for the pennant will be known before the club goes west on its final trip. The next eight days will tell the story.

After finishing with Detroit at Shibe park, the Mackmen go to Boston and Washington for a three-game series in each city.

If the Athletics are able to cut the Red Sox's lead to four, five or six games before starting west, then they will have a chance for the championship. Better fortune would improve the chance.

Of course, Washington must be considered. If Washington doesn't win the pennant itself, its work against the other two rivals may make or break their chances. The Nationals have serious ambitions themselves, and they will be sure to play their best to the end of the season.

Griffith is after a high-water mark for his Washington club. If he can't win first place, he will try for second place, which means that the team will try to get every game it can. Washington will play just as hard against Boston as against the Athletics.

Once let the Mackmen get within four or five games of the Red Sox before the dash west, then it will be the team that survives the last lap best that will win.

Advantage of Close.

The Mackmen have one advantage over Boston and Washington: They play the last nine games of the season at Shibe park, playing Washington, New York and Boston in the order named. Boston and Washington are not so fortunate. They play six of their nine final games away from home, the Red Sox having to battle with both the Athletics and Washington away from Fenway park.

It can be seen that the Mackmen have a chance on paper. They are giving the Red Sox a relentless chase. Boston hasn't crumbled a bit, yet it has not been able to improve its lead much.

Of course, it must be remembered that the Red Sox have the big advantage. They don't have to play as good ball in the remaining weeks of the race as the Athletics and yet they can win the pennant. They can lose a lot of games and still win if the Athletics and Washington lose a lot of games.

There must be two things happen to boost the Mackmen into the lead. First of all, they must win a big majority of the remaining games. They can't afford to show anything that looks like a slump. In addition, Boston will have to lose more frequently than it is doing.

It is by no means safe to bank on a rival team losing in figuring your team's chances, but the Mackmen have to figure on the Red Sox slumping to win the championship.

The feeling is made that if the Mackmen ever got within reach of Boston they would speedily go to the top, as the present Red Sox have never been through championship fire. The Athletics have the experience and confidence to carry them through pivotal battles.

PATCHEN II GETS HONORS

Readville, Mass., Aug. 29.—George Patchen II carried away the honors in the Neponset at the second day of the Grand Circuit meeting. Track and weather were perfect for fast time.

From the word in the first heat, to the finish of the last one George Patchen II was never pressed. The contest was for the second money, which Knight Onwardo secured in the final heat. Cox finished very fast the second heat, with Mansfield, coming from fourth position in the stretch. Grand Opera made Joe Patchen II pace the last half in 1:00½ in the first heat. The three first horses in the summary are all Canadian-owned.

There was a big surprise sprung in the Plymouth for two-year-old trotters, where Now-Ha-Day Girl was a strong favorite owing to her world's record of 2:16½ for foals of her age over a half-mile track, made two weeks ago. After taking the opening heat in comparatively easy fashion, Dillon Axworthy overtook her in the second fifty yards from the wire, and won by a neck from Nathan Axworthy, which beat the Massachusetts filly for second position by a narrow margin. It was easy for Dillon Axworthy in the third heat, after Nathan Axworthy had raced on even terms with him to the home stretch.

The Blue Hill was for amateur drivers. J. Dodge of Middletown, N. Y., was behind the Denver, Colo. mare, Serrino, and she won without effort, after having lost the first heat to Eva Corda, driven by Frank Jones of Cleveland.

Sea Girt Tourney.

Rifle Range, Sea Girt, N. J., Aug. 29.—The cavalry team match occupied the morning at the national rifle tournament today. Teams of five competed at 200 and 500 yards. First prize was a cup presented by the quartermaster general of New Jersey.

Firing was scheduled to begin today in the Nevada trophy, open to officers and enlisted in the military service, regular and National Guard. Each competitor fires ten shots each at 600, 900 and 1,200 yards. The trophy is made of Nevada gold and silver. The competition was arranged by the Association of American International Rifle Men.

The revolver team match, also to be shot at this afternoon, was open to teams of five, shooting at fifty yards under special conditions. First prize is a trophy presented by Gen. Spencer, executive officer of the tournament and medals.

The other revolver matches on the program today were open to everybody, special trophies being provided.

"Ad" Ready to Fight.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 29.—Ad Wolgast, in a letter to a friend here said he had decided to return to California in a few weeks and would be ready to fight either Willie Richie, or the winner of the Rivers-Mandel bout.

"Heine" Makes a Long Hit.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—Heine Zimmerman, the third baseman for the Chicago Cubs and leading batsman in the National league, hit what is said to be the longest home run ever made on the local ground, in the game with St. Louis here yesterday. It was Zimmerman's fourteenth home run drive this season, and was made when one man was on base in the first inning.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

WILL OPEN FINE ROAD

Ready Made and Will Furnish Fine Duluth to Winnipeg Highway.

Lumber Company's Former Logging Road Leased By Clearwater County.

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—A ready made road, twenty-eight miles in length and one of the finest in Northern Minnesota, will be thrown open to the public within the next few days, the stretch beginning at a point three miles west of Solway and continuing to the northwest corner of the Itasca state park, tapping the towns of Regina, Alida, Mallard and Long Lake.

This unique highway is the old road bed of the Red River Lumber company, built about twelve years ago at an expense of $160,000. Farmers are busy this week, pulling up the ties and leveling the road which has a clay bed with gravel ballast. This line is to connect with the trunk road from St. Vincent to Duluth.

Lumber Company Leases Road.

Through the efforts of G. F. Jones, the Bagley agent, and W. R. Mackenzie, secretary of the Northern Minnesota Development association, the Red River Lumber company has agreed to lease the road bed to Clearwater county, the only expense being that Clearwater county must maintain the highway. The lease will continue until the lumber company desires to again use it for railroad purposes.

The new road will be open for traffic by the time the hunting season begins and will be popular for automobiles as it is said to be one of the finest stretches of highway between Duluth and Winnipeg.

BEMIDJI IS HOST TO CROOKSTONITES

Automobilists Arrive in Pouring Rain and Are Royally Entertained.

Bemidji, Minn., Aug. 29.—Through streets running rivers and under a sky streaked with lightning, which poured torrents of rain, twenty-five automobiles splashed into Bemidji late Tuesday evening.

The cars came from Crookston under the auspices of the automobile club of that city, and were entertained here by the Bemidji Automobile club, a battalion of Bemidji motorists having gone out to meet the Crookston visitors. The Bemidji arrangements were in charge of C. W. Jewett, president of the automobile club; F. S. Lycan, chairman of the contest and touring committee, and Dr. E. H. Marcum, secretary of the clubs.

The cars of E. A. Barker and W. L. Brooks went to Fosston to first convey Bemidji's greetings. The following cars went out from Bemidji to greet the Crookston contingent and escort them back: Clyde Bacon, V. L. Ellis, Walter Marcum, A. C. Wedge, Jr., F. S. Lycan, Anton Erickson, Ole Anderson and C. W. Jewett. Mr. Lycan took charge of the Crookston pace-maker. All other Bemidji cars fell in behind the visitors. At the Mississippi river, Alex Doran's car was stationed to warn the motorists of the narrow passage.

Entertained at Club.

At the Commercial club rooms in the evening as many persons as could crowd in attended a reception. Although the band could not play in the street, as had been planned, because of the rain, a band concert was given, the musicians taking their places in the club's card rooms. The band played for the first time Oscar Nelson's composition, "The Titanic," which was loudly applauded.

Included in the reception committee were Mesdames A. P. White, F. S. Lycan, C. R. Sanborn, C. M. Torrance and C. W. Jewett and the Misses Marion White, Leah Berman, Donna Lycan and Olive Curtiss. Punch was served by Mrs. Sanborn and the Misses Berman, White and Lycan.

The Crookston cars had planned to return Wednesday noon, but owing to the heavy rains, many feared to attempt the trip, and therefore returned on the afternoon train and will come back for their cars on Sunday.

POLK COUNTY TO MAKE FINE SHOW

Better Exhibit Than Ever Sent to Minnesota State Fair.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Polk county exhibit at the state fair was shipped yesterday. Lee R. Boyd, who has had charge of assembling it, and Ross Chesterman left last evening for Hamline to put it in place and will be joined later by Oscar Wick, the Western Polk fruit raiser and N. S. Davies of Crookston, who will remain during the week as Polk county boosters.

Polk county will send the biggest representation to the state fair this year in her history, close to 1,000 people having signified their intention of going from reports from the various station agents on the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Soo, and probably as many more will attend who have not reported.

Much Interest Shown.

The greatest enthusiasm is shown in the character of Polk county's exhibit this year, which is the most representative the county has ever sent. Not so much attention has been paid to frills and furbelows. The delay in threshing has been a handicap to some extent, but this has been pretty well overcome.

PRIMARIES IN GOGEBIC COUNTY

Republicans and Democrats Named for the Different Offices.

Ironwood, Mich., Aug. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The primary election was held on Tuesday, but the results were not known until last evening.

The following persons were nominated on the Republican ticket in Gogebic county: United States senator, William Alden Smith; governor, Frederick C. Martindale; lieutenant governor, John Q. Ross; congressman, H. Olin Young; state senator, Michael H. Moriarity; representative, James S. Monroe; judge of probate, Curtis Buck; sheriff, John Rowett; county clerk, John Luxmore, Jr.; treasurer, Richard Banfield; register of deeds, Alex Strom; prosecuting attorney, James O'Neill; coroner, Francis X. Houle; mine inspector, Peter Becker.

The following candidates for nomination on the Democratic ticket were successful but as yet it is not known positively if a Democratic ticket can be placed in the field or not, as they must have 15 per cent of the number of votes cast for secretary of state on that ticket at the last election, and the votes will have to be canvassed. This will probably take about ten days.

Democratic Nominees.

Representative in the state legislature, Gogebic district, John Holland, Bessemer; sheriff, William A. Hayes, Ironwood; judge of probate, Louis W. Murithe, Bessemer; prosecuting attorney, Levi S. Rice, Bessemer; register of deeds, Dominick Bonazza, Ironwood; county treasurer, John Drazkowski, Ironwood; county clerk, Walter Hellen, Ironwood; mine inspector, James O'Boyle, Ironwood; surveyor, Stephen McKevitt, Ironwood; coroners, George Young, Ironwood; John P. Mueller, Bessemer.

The Prohibition party received good support, the following candidates being declared nominated: Representative, Charles Healy, Ironwood; congressman, William O. Trezise, Ironwood; sheriff, Chas. Flink, Ironwood; judge of probate, John O. Gustafson, Ironwood; county clerk, Nicholas Mattson, Ironwood; county treasurer, Oscar Aill, Ironwood; register of deeds, Richard Lutey, Ironwood; Axel A. Mattson, Ironwood; coroner, Nels Teppo, Wakefield.

Very few votes were given the Socialist party and thus no ticket will be in the field.

Work Is Begun Upon Foundation of Proposed State Building.

Minot, N. D., Aug. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—D. A. Dinnie, who received the contract for the erection of the Minot normal school buildings, has started work on the excavation.

Mr. Dinnie has until Oct. 1, 1913, to complete the buildings.

BOYS STEAL WATERMELONS.

Released By Minot Judge on Promising to Reform.

Minot, N. D., Aug. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fifteen Minot boys were arrested a few days ago on the charge of breaking into a Soo freight car and stealing $40 worth of watermelons. J. G. E. Belanger of the Soo was the complainant in the cases which came up before Capt. Alex Scarlett, juvenile court officer.

Capt. Scarlett listened to the tales of the boys, who shed bitter tears and promised never to "do it again." The parents of the children, the policemen and even Mr. Belanger himself were excluded from the hearing.

The boys promised State's Attorney Dudley Nash on their word of honor to be good, and never again to taste of the forbidden fruit, and were released.

FINDS MISSING BOY

Then Claims Reward Offered By Silver Lake, Minn., Parent.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 29. — Ray Gerard of this city has claimed the reward of $200 offered by J. E. Lorence of Silver Lake, Minn., to the man who found his missing 19-year-old son, Edward Lorence.

Gerard, with the description of the boy in his pocket, was crossing the Franklin avenue bridge Tuesday, when he saw a young man asleep on the ground, close to the approach. Gerard pulled the description out of his pocket and then roused the boy and conducted him to the South Side police station. The police have notified Mr. Lorence his son has been found, and Gerard is waiting for the reward.

The boy disappeared from St. Mary's hospital Aug. 15.

PAYS FOR BANNER.

Suffragists Easy on Hoodlum Who Tore Down Their Emblem.

Fond du Lac, Wis., Aug. 29.—When the first automobile filled with suffragists engaged in the Wisconsin campaign reached here yesterday afternoon and began a street meeting, John Harting, a bystander, tore a banner bearing the legend "Votes for Women" from the car. Harting was arrested, but the women declined to prosecute him, and he was discharged. He was compelled by the police magistrate to pay for the banner he had destroyed.

WOULD AMEND LAW.

Changing Age When Girls Are Barred From Dance Halls.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 29.—The Minnesota law excluding girls under 21 years from dance halls, is severe. The age limit should be changed to 18 and the law rigidly enforced. This action would eliminate many of the evils and if closer supervision of young girls were maintained, the public dance hall would cease to be a nuisance.

TROOPER LOSES LIFE

While Maneuvering With Other Mounted Soldiers in River.

Racine, Wis., Aug. 29.—A member of Troop K, Fifteenth United States cavalry, in camp two miles northwest of the city, was drowned this afternoon in Root river. His name was not learned.

USE PATENT GRAPPLER SEEKING DROWNED BOY.

Marquette, Mich., Aug. 29.—A patent grappler, the invention of an Iron Mountain man, is being tried in the search for the body of Kenneth Button, who was drowned in Lake Superior off Sugar Loaf Friday afternoon. Capt. Cleary said the grappler is an excellent one, but the nature of the bottom made it difficult to use it. The life savers use glass bottomed boats.

Parkinson, aged 59, chief of the police here in 1896 and bailiff in the United States federal court for the last twelve years, died at the Mayo hospital, Rochester, Minn., this week, following an operation for cancer. A NOTED DOCTOR SAYS,

Everyone should use some little antiseptic powder in the shoes. Confining the feet in shoes, is in itself unnatural and causes a moist or smarting condition. People of refinement now use daily, Allen's Foot-Ease, the antiseptic powder to be shaken into the shoes, and would as soon go without a dentifrice as without the use of Allen's Foot-Ease.

UNCLE SAM PRETTY MAD

Washington Stirred By Liberation of Assailant of Diplomat.

Cuban Government Will Be Notified That Action Must Be Severe.

Washington, Aug. 29.—The United States will insist that adequate punishment be meted out to the Cuban newspaper reporter who assaulted Hugh S. Gibson, the American charge d' affaires at Havana. Both the Cuban legation here and the American legation at Havana have been informed by the state department that it attaches the greatest importance to the adequate punishment of the assailant.

Dispatches to the state department last night said that in spite of the spontaneous assurances of Cuban government officials that the offender would be punished, he was released on his own recognizance, later recaptured, and released on a nominal bail.

Indignation in Havana.

Havana, Aug. 29.—The release again last night of Enrique Maza has aroused great indignation in American and foreign circles here.

Although Maza had been rearrested yesterday on the charge of assaulting Hugh S. Gibson, the American charge d' affaires, the judge let him go on bail on a surety of $500, the lowest amount demanded even in a case of common assault.

This was done in spite of the fact that Mr. Gibson had been informed by the court that no bail would be allowed and that the accused would be kept in jail.

Mr. Gibson intends today, in accordance with his instructions from Washington, to lodge a most vigorous protest and to demand severe punishment for his assailant.

Legations Sympathetic.

Mr. Gibson yesterday received visits from representatives of all the foreign legations, who expressed their sympathy with him and indignation at the outrage.

It is probable a protest will now be made against the withdrawal of the police guards from the legations, which is in contemplation by the secretary of the interior. It is reported that another diplomat was recently the victim of an assault, but refused to prosecute.

During the morning of the day he assaulted Mr. Gibson, Maza went to a fencing school and practiced for an hour with the saber, telling the fencing master he intended to do something that night which would provoke a duel.

DULUTH WILL MAKE GOOD

Will Send at Least 500 People to County Fair.

Third Regiment Band Will Accompany Crowd of Boosters.

The Duluth boosters' train to the St. Louis county fair at Hibbing Saturday will carry at least 500 people.

Tickets are in demand. The Commercial club has been beseiged with people anxious to make the trip. More interest is shown in the county fair than has ever been the case in Duluth before and Hibbing will see an outpouring of Duluth people that will be substantial evidence that the county seat wants to see the fair a big success.

The Commercial club has caps, badges, pennants and canes for everybody. Every visitor to the fair Saturday is asked to wear the articles that will mark the Duluthian. The club wants Duluth to make a good showing, and present indications are that Duluth will make good.

The special will leave for Hibbing about 9 o'clock Saturday morning, arriving about noon. Headed by the Third Regiment band, the visitors will march through Hibbing. The fair will be visited in the afternoon, and the Third Regiment band will give a concert on the fair grounds.

The Hibbing fair is to be the biggest thing of the kind ever attempted in St. Louis county. There will be an agricultural display of such size and excellence that even the more ardent agricultural enthusiast will have his eyes opened. There will be three aeroplane flights daily and other amusement features.

The Duluth boosters on the trade excursion in June promised Hibbing people that Duluth would send a crowd to the fair on Duluth day. Present indications are that the promise will be made good in overflowing measure.

FALL TERM

Deppee asserts that he found a purchaser at Kelly's price and that after the sale went through he never received his commission at 5 per cent of the sale price.

Edith Ethel Blackwood yesterday filed a $3,000 personal injury action against the city, asking damages for a fall which she sustained on a side walk in front of 916 East Second street on Feb. 28 last. The August edition of Maxwell's Talisman, the Homecroft magazine published in New Orleans, contains two pages of matter devoted to Duluth, included in which are several clippings from The Herald. The Talisman is widely circulated, and the advertising given Duluth by the articles will be valuable.

The date has not yet been set. An invitation will also be extended to the National association, which will hold its annual meeting in Memphis, Tenn., next month.

Canadian Northern Will Work in Connection With Chicago Line.

Through Winnipeg-Chicago Service Is Likely to Be Established.

When the Canadian Northern finally runs its first train to Duluth from Winnipeg, it will run into the Omaha depot.

A through service between Winnipeg and Chicago, by way of Duluth, will eventually be established.

Mr. Gardner and a party of railroad officials, out on an inspection tour, reached Duluth about 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon and left again at 7, going to Ashland, Wis.

In the party were: Marvin Hughitt, chairman of the board of directors; J. T. Clark, vice president of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha; A. C. Johnson, passenger traffic manager; A. W. Trenholm, general manager; G. H. MacRae, general passenger agent, and Frank Pechem, general superintendent.

The party came in from St. Paul, where the men spent the greater part of yesterday.

Mr. Gardner did not care to talk much about what will eventually be done in regard to through service between Winnipeg and Chicago, but intimated that negotiations have been under way and that contracts will be made in a short time.

The Chicago-Winnipeg service will be but a beginning. Within two years the Canadian Northern line will be completed to the coast and through sleepers will then be run to Vancouver, B. C., from Duluth and probably Chicago.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

CALL FOR CANDIDATES.

Yale Football Squad Will Report Early Next Month.

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 29.—Captain Jesse Spalding of Chicago, leader of the 1912 Yale football team, has just issued a call for the candidates for the eleven to report in New Haven Sept. 9. This is a very early date for the members of the squad to report, fully three weeks before the first game, but Capt. Spalding is planning to have the eleven thoroughly prepared for the early games this year and then develop the team gradually up to championship form.

The practice will be held in New Haven. Two years ago the experiment of having it in some high, dry place was tried and the result was disastrous. That was Capt. Daly's team and the early work was held at Lakeville, Conn. The ground was uneven and several of the men were injured. The principal injury was to Arthur Howe, later captain, and as the result of it he was kept out of the game until the last three weeks of the season. Capt. Spalding therefore has decided to stand the heat of New Haven in order to have a safe, level field to work on.

When the men went away those who would take them got pigskins left from last year and were urged to do work whenever possible during the summer. Few reports have come in of much effort, except that some of the men have developed themselves into fair drop-kickers, and will be ready for treatment by Dr. William T. Bull, the premier drop-kicker, when he pays his annual visit to Yale field this fall.

MAY DEFEND THE HARMSWORTH TROPHY.

Huntington, N. Y., Aug. 29.—There was a rumor here today that the 32-foot motor boat Ankle Deep, winner of yesterday's elimination race had been selected as one of the defenders of the Harmsworth trophy. Count C. N. Mankowski is the owner of the boat.

Commodore J. C. Blackston's largest boat, Baby Reliance IV, arrived this morning. Her owner said she would be ready to start today. The other boats ready to start are T. F. Chesebrough's Restless II, the Harkness boat, Panther Cub, the Saracen, which broke her shaft yesterday, the Peter Pan V, the Minnow, the Splash II, and the Ace III, which sank Monday.

May Cancel Bout.

San Francisco, Aug. 29.—A sudden weakness in Willie Ritchie's left wrist may necessitate the cancelling of the Ritchie-Hogan bout for Admission day, Sept. 9. It is believed a ligament is twisted.

Balloon Race.

Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 29.—The balloon Kansas City II, John Watts pilot, and Frank P. Blair, reported to have landed near Sedalia, forty miles north of here, is believed to have won the race for the Antlers trophy, started from here last evening.

Is Marquard There?

New York, Aug. 29.—Will Marquard be "there" in the big final? When the pennant races in the two big leagues are settled, then will begin the discussion over the world's championship series. If the Athletics and the Giants are contenders there will be a line to go by, but the Giants are a much better team this year than they were last year. The Athletics, according to form, are not as good as they were last year, and their pitchers surely are not in anything near the same grand form displayed by them in the big series.

If the Red Sox happen to be the ones to beat, the Giants will have new methods to solve. Just now, it would seem, nothing could stop the Giants, yet when it comes down to the real test in the world's games the great Rube Marquard may not be there with the goods. That would be sufficient handicap to lose for the Giants. The Rube wasn't there last year.

RACINE MAN ARBITER OF ECUADOR DISPUTE.

Racine, Wis., Aug. 29.—It was learned here today that Harry Janes, son of David G. Janes of this city, has been appointed arbitrator in the big controversy over the Ecuador railroads running from the coast to the capital of Ecuador. Several million dollars is involved. Mr. Janes was formerly a vice consul in Brazil and at Constantinople.

ROOSEVELT HITS AGAIN

Says Republicans Want to Elect Democrat to White House.

Bennington, Vt., Aug. 29.—An attack on Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania and John D. Archbold of the Standard Oil company was made here today by Col. Theodore Roosevelt in opening his Vermont campaign.

Speaking to a crowd in Morgan park, he assailed Mr. Archbold and Senator Penrose for their testimony before the senate campaign contribution investigation committee.

"We have been saying for some time," said Col. Roosevelt, "that I was opposed by an alliance between big business and politics, and now John D. Archbold of the Standard Oil company and Senator Penrose turn up to say it is true."

The colonel read from the testimony of Mr. Archbold and Senator Penrose before the senate committee. "As soon as these men had testified," he said, "they let Mr. Archbold go off to Europe and they scattered to the four winds and refused to let me testify. I am as well satisfied by the unconsciousness testimony for me of Messrs. Archbold and Penrose. Their testimony, stripped of its verbiage, reads not unlike some of the testimony that appears in cases of police protection to the underworld in our great cities.

Why Archbold Complained.

"Mr. Archbold and Senator Penrose testified that Mr. Bliss had attempted to blackmail the Standard Oil company. Mr. Archbold didn't complain because he was blackmailed. What he complained of was that he didn't get the goods.

"Penrose testified that he tried to blackmail the Standard Oil company by saying that if it didn't contribute it might incur hostility in certain quarters. As the senator has admitted what he has done, he should be thrown out of the senate of the United States. The man writes his own condemnation down himself."

The colonel said James R. Garfield told him today that at the time the Standard Oil contribution was supposed to have been made the government had been investigating the oil company for eighteen months. The suit was brought, he said, and the result of it was to show that whether or not the oil corporation did contribute, it had no influence with his administration.

The former president appealed to Republicans to come to the support of the Progressive party.

"The procession is going along," said he. "I want Vermont to lead it and not to follow along."

Passing of a Party.

He prophesied the passing of the Republican party and referred to President Taft as "the last of the reactionaries."

"I want to say to you," he added, "that there's only one way to support me, and that is to vote for the Progressive state ticket.

"The Republican machine left the Republican party at Chicago last June. The machine Republicans care infinitely more for beating me than for electing their own ticket. They never did care for Mr. Taft except as a means of beating me."

What the Republican leaders hoped, the ex-president asserted, was to elect a Democrat.

Col. Roosevelt was met on his arrival at Bennington, by Mr. Garfield, who has been campaigning in Vermont; Charles H. Thompson of Brattleboro, New England leader of the Progressive party, and E. W. Gibson of Brattleboro, one of the Vermont leaders.

WOULD KEEP HOME INTACT

Associated Charities Opposes Taking Children From Poverty Stricken Parents.

Best Plan Is to Leave Children and Supply Necessities.

The Associated Charities, at a meeting of its directors last evening, put itself on record as being opposed to the breaking up of homes on the grounds of poverty, and in a resolution which was passed, stated the willingness of the organization to assist the juvenile court officials in carrying out this idea.

The attitude of the directors is that in cases where conditions are otherwise proper in a home, that children should not be taken from their mother simply because the family is without the necessities of life and fails to make both ends meet.

Courtenay Dinwiddie, secretary of the organization, this morning, stated that hereafter the society would make it a special point to look into such cases and where families were liable to be broken up because of poverty, to supply their needs and keep the children with their mother.

Col. F. E. Resche, probation officer of the juvenile court, holds to the same opinion. Col. Resche, this morning, said that it had been his experience that the mother was better suited for taking care of her children than anyone else. He favored the passage of a state law which will provide a fund from which the court may draw to meet just such emergencies. Col. Resche believes that the passage of such a law will mean a saving to the state in the long run.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED CONDEMNATION.

Notice is hereby given that there is now pending before the Common Council of the City of Duluth a resolution declaring the necessity of and directing the condemnation of a strip of land 16½ feet on each side of a line drawn

RAINS FALL; WHEAT RISES

Prices Creep Upward on the Principal Markets of This Country.

Small Offers of Flaxseed Force Values of Futures Higher.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 29.—Rains over a considerable part of the American Northwest again had the effect of sending wheat higher on the markets of this country today. Duluth September and December closed ¼c higher. Cash wheat closed 2c to 4c over September. Durum closed ½c up and oats ¾c up. Rye and barley closed unchanged. Duluth September flaxseed closed 3c higher and October, November and December half a cent up.

Wheat showed a tendency to creep upward during the morning. The weather through the American Northwest and the Canadian West, while bright in many spots, was by no means all that was desired, for there was a great deal of rain and much cloudiness. In many places the thrashing has been seriously interfered with. Rain is unwelcome now on both sides of the international boundary. Sunshine is wanted, and plenty of it, for ripening and thrashing.

Duluth September wheat, which closed yesterday at 94¼c bid, opened today at the same figure bid, and at noon was selling at 94½c bid. There were advances also at Chicago, Minneapolis and Winnipeg.

Liverpool wheat today closed unchanged to ¼d higher. That market during most of the session was bullish. This was due mainly to wet weather in the British Isles, the forecast of lighter Argentine shipments, firmer American overnight offers and unfavorable Russian weather reports. Reports from other European wheat markets, however, were rather bearish.

Flax Trade Still Dull.

There was no change today in the waiting attitude in which buyers and sellers on the Duluth market have persisted so long. The market on the whole was firmer on the light offerings. There was a good demand for cash flaxseed but hardly any of it to be had. Minneapolis cash seed was 13c over Duluth September, a good part of the time. Duluth September at noon today was up 3c, and October, November and December were up ½c. Winnipeg October flaxseed at noon today was unchanged at $1.60½, being day was unchanged at $1.60½, being 10c under Duluth October. Buenos Ayres October last night closed unchanged at $1.69¼. London Calcutta August and September today closed ⅞c off at $2.10⅞.

Cash Sales Thursday.

Minneapolis indemnities: December puts, 92½c; calls, 92⅝c.

C. A. Christensen of Minneapolis, member of the grain firm of Stair, Christensen & Timmerman of Duluth and Minneapolis, was on the Duluth exchange today, states that in his opinion the large amount of rain that had fallen during the harvest and thrashing season had not been hurting the wheat nearly so much as was generally supposed.

"All through the growing season," he said, "the weather was generally favorable and as the growth was good, the wheat kernels got good, thick hulls. These hulls are now protecting the wheat kernels from the elements. There are seasons when the hulls are very thin and kernels break through. When the wheat is stacked in that condition it is very liable to shell out. Rain is very apt to make it bleach. But such does not seem to be the case this year. Yesterday our firm received twenty-three cars of wheat at Minneapolis and I was surprised to see in what good condition the wheat arrived, notwithstanding all the rain. The wheat received at Minneapolis has been coming mostly from Southern Minnesota and South Dakota. We have received some flax, too. I heard recently of a car of this year's flaxseed arriving at Minneapolis and exciting a great deal of comment by reason of the smallness of the seeds, but these seeds were uncommonly rich in oil.

"With fairly favorable weather in South Dakota, I think wheat will soon be arriving in large volume at Minneapolis. We have had new flax from time to time. I do not think any new flax will be received at Duluth in such quantities as to affect the market materially for about two or three weeks to come."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Prices Harden on Weather in England and Canada.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—Wheat prices hardened today on account of further damaging rains in Great Britain and because of low temperatures in Canada. The bulls were also helped by predictions of smaller shipments from Argentina. Indications, however, that promises of a large harvest in the Dakotas and Minnesota would be fully realized tended to prevent any radical advance. The opening was a shade to ¼c higher. December started at 94¾c to 94⅞c, a gain of ⅛c to ¼c, reacted to 94⅝c and rallied to 94¾c.

An additional upturn ensued in consequence of liberal buying on the part of export houses. The advance, though, failed to hold. Closing prices were steady ⅜c net higher for September at 94¾@94⅞c.

Inability of shippers to buy enough corn to supply current demands made that cereal firm. September opened ¼c to ⅜c up at 74¼c to 74¾c, touched 73⅞c and recovered to 74¼c.

Reports of fields firing in Kansas upheld prices. The close was steady ⅛@¼c higher for September at 74¼c.

Oats showed strength owing to the fact that selling was only of a scattered sort. September started a sixteenth higher at 32⅞c, and rose to 33¼c.

Good buying orders were on the market for all provisions except September pork. Accordingly, that option lagged while others advanced. First sales ranged from 10c off to 7½c gain, with January delivery at $19.17½ for pork, $10.75 to $10.80 for lard, and $10.15 to $10.17½ for ribs.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Rise in the British Bank Rate Adversely Affects Market.

Some Strength Shown By Great Northern Ore—Close Firm.

New York, Aug. 29.—The advance in the British bank rate, while not unexpected, probably exercised an adverse influence over today's market. Trading was very light and the tendency lower, although no pronounced pressure was shown, except in the tobacco group. Leading railway issues hovered at or slightly under yesterday's low, but Canadian Pacific was inclined to further relieve its recent decline. Reading and Lehigh Valley, especially the latter reflected additional selling. Louisville & Naashville fell a point on probable postponement of dividend action. Steel and coppers were fractionally lower with some strength in Great Northern Ore. Bonds were irregular.

An irregular tendency was shown in the early dealings on the stock exchange today. A majority of the active issues were lower, with weakness most marked in Amalgamated, Louisville & Nashville, Northern Pacific and Pittsburg Coal. Steel opened with the block of 4,000 shares at a slight fractional advance with greater gains for Great Northern Ore and Canadian Pacific. Reading was up ½ point, but failed to hold and the market weakened when pressure against Tobacco stocks became acute.

Important stocks were neglected in the last half of the day but there was moderate liquidation in minor shares.

The market closed firm. Some diversion was furnished in the last hour by Louisville & Nashville, which rose 2 points before news of the proposed stock increase became known. This gain was soon lost, however, the stock falling sharply, although other standard issues showed improvement.

Cotton Market.

New York, Aug. 29.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 1 point in response to steady cables and sold about 6 or 7 points net higher during the early trading on covering of shorts and some further buying attributed to trade interests. Some of the more prominent spot brokers were sellers, however, and the market during the middle of the morning was nervous and irregular, although prices held within 2 or 3 points of the best. Private cables from Liverpool reported that Manchester was doing a large business in yarns and attributed the early advances there to buying of near months by trade interests.

MAY APPEAL TO COURTS

Commercial Club to Discuss Action on Proposed Soo Depot.

State Will Be Asked to Establish Fish Hatchery on River.

The West Duluth Commercial club will hold a regular meeting tomorrow night and will take up a number of matters of public interest, one of the most important being that of starting an action if necessary to compel the Soo road to maintain a passenger station and freight depot somewhere west of Forty-eighth avenue. This matter has been thrashed over before but nothing came of it and still there is no station although under the franchise held by the old Wisconsin Central road and taken over by the Soo, provision was made that the road must maintain such an accommodation. The club this time will take up the matter of using legal force and it is proposed that the city council be not appealed to in view of its former lack of action, but that the club take the necessary steps to deal with the road.

A resolution will be introduced, which, if passed, will invite the state authorities to inspect Fond du Lac sites with a view to establishing a fish hatchery there.

The Northern Pacific road will also be asked to put gates at the Ramsey street crossing, for it is believed, as soon as the pavement is put in the traffic there will be as heavy as or heavier than at the Central avenue or Fifty-seventh avenue crossings.

The public library matter will doubtless be brought up. The two questions to be discussed in this regard are those of having representation on the board in the absence of C. M. Everett, and regarding the removal of Miss Marble as librarian.

A protest is likely to be made also over the fact that the contractor who is paving Central avenue is permitting his men to blockade the street in such a way as to make traffic over it impossible.

FLOODED HIS LOT.

West Duluthian Wants $600 Damages for Digging of Ditch..

Damages to the amount of $600 are asked by Mose Le Fevre in a lawsuit which he filed yesterday in district court against Louis Ramstad. Le Fevre claims that Ramstad dug a ditch across the lower end of his (Le Fevre's) lot on Fifty-sixth avenue west diverting the waters of a creek so that it overflowed and deprived him of the beneficial use of 500 square feet of property.

LOCATION OF CANADIAN NORTHERN STATION IN DOUBT

The question of where the passenger and freight stations of the Canadian Northern road in West Duluth will be located, is causing some comment and inquiry, but so far nobody knows the answer. The Canadian Northern people in Duluth give assurance that there will be such a station and depot at West Duluth, but claim that they have not decided just where it will be, the question being on the facility. It is believed that it will be located near Central avenue, but that is only conjecture.

Unless plans now made are changed, the downtown terminal of the road will be the Omaha station, and it is expected that the road will be in condition soon to do business from and to there.

MANY MEN AT WORK IN WEST DULUTH.

Harry R. Armstrong, manager of the National Iron company, says that indications are for a fine business in his line this fall and winter. He says the company is doing good business "in spots" just now—that is that certain portions of the plant are over-worked while machinery in other parts is not being used a great deal. This uneven condition, he says, will soon be done away with for business can be felt coming, and inquiry is steadily growing. Such work, of course, will mean a larger number of men employed.

It is claimed, however, that there are more men employed in West Duluth and in Duluth as a whole just now than for very many months. W. B. Getchell said this morning that this has caused an increased demand for houses, and that fewer houses are empty now in West Duluth than for several years.

A NEW HOSTELRY.

The Hotel Grand Added to West Duluth.

C. J. Petruschke, for the past twenty years a resident of West Duluth and until recently engaged in the box manufacturing industry, has leased the large brick building at the corner of Fifty-second avenue west and Ramsey street, and has opened a first-class hostelry, which will be known as the Grand hotel.

Mr. Petruschke declares that West Duluth, which is growing fast owing to the steel plant, its new business blocks and increasing population, is in need of a good first-class hotel. He had extensive experience in the hotel line before going into the manufacturing business. This is fully demonstrated by the way he is fixing up his forty nicely furnished steam-heated rooms. The cullinary department is equipped with all the latest cooking improvements and is strictly sanitary. Traveling men will be well taken care of, and the general public will be given special low rates for the winter months. Special attention will be given to catering to weddings, banquets, societies and private parties at moderate prices.

RESTAURANT DID NOT PAY

Michigan Woman Says Business Was Painted a Too Rosy Hue.

Sues Former Owner for $695 for Fraudulent Claims.

Christine Larson, in a lawsuit filed yesterday in district court, claims that the prospects for a restaurant business at West Duluth were not at all so rosy as they were pictured to her by D. A. Fitzpatrick, proprietor of the Cody hotel, who sold her the good will of the restaurant business which was being conducted in connection with the hotel.

In the case which was started yesterday, Mrs. Larson claims Fitzpatrick made fraudulent representations to her and asks the court for a judgment of $695 against him, damages which she says she has sustained.

The woman alleges that she was doing a prosperous boarding house business at Iron Mountain, Mich., and that by inducements held out by Fitzpatrick she closed up affairs in Michigan and moved to Duluth.

Fitzpatrick, she claims, represented to her that she would prosper here, that the good will of his business was worth considerable as he was in the habit of feeding from fifty to sixty regular boarders.

When she took charge of affairs, she says, the actual number of regular boarders was found to be between ten and fifteen. She ran the place a little over two weeks, and lost money in the transaction, she says.

She paid $350 for the good will to Fitzpatrick. She claims that this and the money she could have made if she had remained at Iron Mountain meant a loss of nearly $700 to her.

NAVAL PARADE TO BE BIG EVENT

Many Decorated Boats Will Run Up the River Monday.

The naval parade of the Western Boat club, scheduled for Labor day, which is next Monday, gives fair promise of being one of the prettiest aquatic exhibitions that Duluth has seen in a long time. It is expected that scores of motor boats will be in line, and they will be decorated with bunting and all manner of lively colors. The new club pennants have just arrived and these will add in no unimportant degree to the spectacle. The parties in the boats will go to Fond du Lac, to which place the parade will head from the slip between Sixty-first and Sixty-third avenues west, and there will have a basket picnic.

A week from next Sunday another series of motor boat races will be given by the club on the St. Louis river course. The races will be in three classes, the entries being as follows:

BRIDGE WORKER WANTS DAMAGES.

Peter La Fave, a workman employed by the Northern Pacific railroad in the rebuilding of the Grassy Point bridge over the St. Louis river at West Duluth, started suit against the railroad company yesterday in district court, asking for $10,687 damages for personal injuries. La Fave claims that on March 18, while in the work shed, several sacks of cement toppled over on him crushing and fracturing the bones of his left foot.

Degree Team Banquet.

The degree team of Old Hickory Camp No. 1555, M. W. A., will give a banquet on Sept. 11, and among others invited to attend are Col. Johnson and Lieut. Col. Resche of the Third regiment, Maj. H. V. R. Eva, Capt. G. Franklin, Capt. Holmberg and Capt. Quade. The members of the degree team will turn out in dress uniform for the affair, which will be given in Great Eastern hall.

TAFT TALKS TO FARMERS

Defends His Vetoes as in Interest of All the People.

He Says That "Most" of the Presidents Are Men.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 29.—In his speech to a great crowd of farmers on the state fair grounds here today, Mr. Taft declared that a president who did not use the veto power when he thought it should be used, proved himself a coward.

"Some of my friends say," said the president, "that if a king had used the veto power as I have, his head would drop in the basket. But I am not a king, and that is very different.

"The president has the power, and it is his duty, if he does not approve legislation, to veto it. He must use the veto when his conscience tells him, whether his head drops in the basket or not. If presidents are men—and most of them are—they will exercise the veto when they think they ought."

Represents All the People.

"Look over the vetoes of other presidents and show me the bad ones, and I will show you more made good. Our forefathers thought that it was well to have one man who would represent all the people, and who would be able to tell all the people when he saw legislation he did not believe was good.

"The veto is an excellent thing. My friends who criticize me forget that I was elected just as they were, and by a good many more people than they were."

The president spoke to the farmers of legislation which congress has enacted for their benefit, and promised that other legislation would follow. He referred to the system of agricultural banks in Germany, which extend credit to the farmers at low interest rates, and said that the United States government is now investigating the system, with the purpose of introducing it in this country if found feasible.

Change Not Progress.

He traced the history of Ohio briefly, and in passing paid his respects to the present day reformer.

"One trouble with the present day reformer," said the president, "is that he wants his reforms put into effect tomorrow morning for breakfast. Reforms do not come that quickly. Mere change is not necessarily progress."

NO MONOPLANE FLIGHT.

Birdman Unable to Make Ascension First Day of Fair.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—The expected flight by an aviator in a monoplane at the St. Louis county fair at 2:30 this afternoon was not held as conditions were not favorable.

Kyle Smith was sent here by the Eastern aeroplane concern instead of the man expected, but he is considered a crack airman, and if conditions are favorable is expected to fly tomorrow and during the balance of the fair.

CUBAN WHO ASSAULTED AMERICAN ARRESTED.

Havana, Aug. 29.—Enrique Maza, the Cuban journalist, who assaulted the American charge d'affairs, Hugh S. Gibson, and who later was released despite the protests of the diplomat, has been arrested again and arraigned in the correctional court on a charge of wanton assault on the representative of a foreign power. The prisoner was committed to jail without bail to await indictment.

The Cuban press generally minimizes the incident. Some frankly anti-American newspapers proclaim Maza as an avenger of insults to Cuba, and laud his patriotic conduct.

ENGINEER IS KILLED.

Marquette, Mich., Aug. 29.—The body of Robert McDonald, aged 30, son of Edward McDonald, who was killed on the Canadian Northern at Winnipeg, has arrived here for interment. He was an engineer and fell from the pilot of a moving engine, and was crushed under the wheels. Three years previous to his going to Winnipeg, McDonald was employed by the South Shore railway, working in Marquette two or three years. He is survived by a wife and two children in Winnipeg, beside his parents, who reside in this city.

FOREIGNERS LIVING IN NICARAGUA ARE REPORTED IN PERIL

British Consul at Matagalpa Fears an Outbreak There.

U. S. Marines Are Due at Colon on Saturday.

Managua Practically Cut Off From Rest of World.

Washington, Aug. 30.—The British consul at Matagalpa is fearful for the safety for their subjects there and has communicated this fact to the British consul at Managua. The dispatch reads as follows.

"The present local authorities are doing all in their power to guarantee life and property, but the circumstances are very difficult. Certain elements, well known for their rancor, hostility and idiosyncrasies, frequently have expressed evil intentions against foreigners. Should this element gain control of the revolution in the neighborhood of Matagalpa, I believe the lives and property of his British majesty's subjects would be in danger."

Consul Is at St. Paul.

The consular agent accredited to Matagalpa, who now is at St. Paul, Minn., today informed the state department of the seriousness of the situation at his post. He says he has a dispatch stating that it was impossible for the Americans there to reach Managua. He urged that troops be sent to Matagalpa without delay. The state department is informed that relief soon will reach that place.

Marines Near Colon.

The 750 marines who sailed from the Philadelphia navy yard last week for Nicaragua are due at Colon tomorrow. They will be transported across the Isthmus of Panama on a special train and embarked on the big armored cruiser California due at Panama tonight or tomorrow morning. The California is to leave Panama immediately, perhaps touching at San Juan del Sur to reinforce a small marine contingent left at that place by the cruiser Denver, to make sure that

SCANLON BOY FATALLY SHOT

Cloquet, Minn., Aug. 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Walter Gudbaur, the 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Gudbaur of Scanlon, accidentally shot himself Thursday forenoon while fishing on the St. Louis river. He lived two hours. Young Gudbaur, with another boy, had been catching pickerel and had taken several that were so large that they found it difficult to land them.

Planned Shooting Fish.

The boys conceived the idea of shooting the fish just as they got them above water and before there was much of a struggle. Gudbaur got his .22-caliber rifle and laid it in the bottom of the boat, and as the boys were about to go out on the river he accidentally kicked the rifle and it discharged, the bullet striking him in the forehead.

The boy's father has been working at Virginia and a message was sent to him last night to hurry home.

WOMAN AND FIVE CHILDREN BURN

Rutherford, N. J., Aug. 30.—Mrs. Emello Debaro and six of her seven children, ranging from 5 months to 12 years of age, died early today in a fire which destroyed their home. Debaro, the husband and father, and the seventh child, a boy of 13, escaped by jumping from a second story window.

CAR MEN OPPOSE NEW WAGE SCALE

Chicago Ballot Is Said to Be Against the Agreement.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—Rejection of the new three-year wage contract granting a cent an hour increase in pay was generally regarded as the probable outcome of balloting which 10,000 Chicago street car men finished this morning. The count of the vote was not expected to be announced until tomorrow. In case the contract is rejected the issues in dispute will be arbitrated.

LIKES WORK ON THE ROAD

Governor Wilson Pleased With First Campaign Experiences.

Says the Speaking Is Less Enjoyable Than Meeting the People.

Sea Girt, N. J., Aug. 30.—Tired wrists and aching fingers reminded Governor Wilson today that he had spent the most strenuous day of his life in his trip through Pennsylvania. The governor estimated that he had spoken in his impromptu tour of 210 miles to nearly 40,000 people and that he had shaken hands in one day with about 3,000 individuals.

The most interesting revelation to Governor Wilson was the fact that he found himself making seven speeches instead of the one he had planned; that he was just as busy on the back platform of his train as presidential candidates always have been, and that he was almost converted to the old fashioned idea of campaigning, which at first he had thought to abandon in favor of a few scheduled addresses.

Likes Handshaking.

"I would enjoy all, in fact I like it," said the governor today, speaking of his back-platform talks, "if it were not for the speech-making. It is difficult to talk while engines are being switched around you, and the noises of the railroad yards are distracting. If I didn't have to make speeches, and could just shake hands, I wouldn't mind it at all, for the people seem so

JOHNSON TALKS IN WYOMING

California Governor Urges Voters to Support Roosevelt.

Rock Springs, Wyo., Aug. 30.—In a speech here last night Governor Hiram W. Johnson, candidate for vice president on the Progressive ticket, outlined the party's platform and discussed the intitiative and referendum.

He urged the wage earners of Wyoming to stand by Theodore Roosevelt, saying he was the only candidate who stood for the people. Governor Johnson urged legislation for the shortening of working hours for women and for the abolition of child labor.

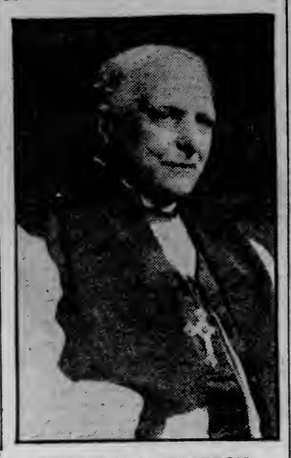
"UNCLE IKE" HAS COLD, THAT'S ALL

Senator Stephenson's Illness Is Trivial, Is Last Report.

Escanaba, Mich., Aug. 30.—Reports received here today from United States Senator Isaac Stephenson's fishing camp in the woods state that the senator is suffering from a slight cold and that his condition is not as grave as was at first reported.

It is stated that when he contracted the cold it was thought best to have physicians with him and the fact that physicians left this city hurriedly caused the report that the senator's condition was serious.

EPISCOPAL PRELATE'S LIFE WORK IS ENDED



BISHOP C. C. GRAFTON.

Charles Chapman Grafton was born in Boston, Mass., April 12, 1830. He received a law degree at Harvard university, and later studied divinity under Bishop Whittingham of Maryland. In 1855 he became a deacon in the Protestant Episcopal church, and entered the ministry in 1858, his first service being as a missionary in Baltimore, Md. From 1872-88 he was rector of the Church of the Advent in Boston, and in 1889 was consecrated bishop of the Fond du Lac diocese. He has assisted in the establishment of several Episcopal orders, and has written extensively on religious subjects.

"ALL WRONG" SAYS SEIDEL

Socialist Vice Presidential Nominee Writes His Acceptance.

Says His Party Is Only One That Will Help Nation.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 30.—Emil Seidel of Milwaukee, the nominee for vice president on the national ticket of the Social Democratic party, today made public his formal letter of acceptance of the nomination.

There will be no ceremony in connection with Mr. Seidel's acceptance of the honor, as the candidate was said to be somewhere in one of the New England states making campaign speeches for his party.

Mr. Seidel's letter says:

The demands of the Progressives, from Bryan and La Follette down to Wilson and Roosevelt, if all granted, will not feed, house and clothe a na-

EUROPEAN SCIENTISTS VISIT CITY

Seventy-Seven Geographers From Many Countries Touring the Ranges.

Distinguished Party Arrives in Duluth on a Special Train.

Local Men Accompanying the Visitors on Their Range Trip.

Seventy-seven geographical "big guns," assembled from the world at large, were in Duluth for a few minutes this morning and will be here again this evening. In the meantime they are visiting Hibbing and the mines thereabouts, the guests of the United States Steel corporation. Their trip in this country is under the auspices of the American Geographical association, and the membership of the party is made up of the leading geographers of the world, almost every civilized country on the footstool being represented.

The trip to Hibbing today included several Duluthians who will see to it that this city's greatness is indelibly impressed upon the minds of the visitors. The Duluthians on the train are W. J. Olcott, W. A. McGonagle, Maj. H. V. Eva and H. W. Richardson, the weather forecaster. When Mr. Richardson was introduced to the tourists this morning he was immediately seized and his incarceration was imminent. The visitors declared that they intended to make him do most of the tramping through slippery iron ore today to punish him for the brand of weather which he is handing out to them. He tried to square himself by saying that perhaps the weather would be found different after they got back

TEDDY RENEWS VERMONT TALKS

Starts the Day's Work Up Near the Canadian Border.

St. Albans, Vt., Aug. 30.—Col. Roosevelt was within a few miles of the Canadian border when he started on his second day's stumping tour of Vermont today. He turned south, however, from the meeting here, with the big fair at Morrisville, a small gathering at Barton and an evening meeting at St. Johnsbury as the other speaking points on the journey.

Col. Roosevelt complimented the state leaders on the brand of weather which had been obtained for his tour. This was an exhilarating day for stump speaking or any other outdoor vocation.

HAYES GETS WEEK'S DELAY

New York Police Inspector's Trial May Help Graft Inquiry.

Becker's Wife Can Be Called as Witness in Blackmail Cases.

New York, Aug. 30.—With the calling of the trial today of Police Inspector Cornelius Hayes on a charge of making a false statement as to Police Commmisssioner Waldo, District Attorney Whitman expected that information would be unearthed to throw important side lights on police blackmail arising out of the Rosenthal murder case.

The alleged false statement of Hayes was that he received orders from Mr. Waldo not to interfere with disorderly houses in his district. Mr. Waldo reduced Hayes to the rank of captain and suspended him when Hayes repeated this statement in the presence of other inspectors.

When the police trial of Hayes was called, counsel for the officer moved that the trial be heard by some other deputy commissioner than First Deputy Commissioner McKay, who was presiding. Counsel said that it was proposed to subpoena Deputy Commissioner McKay as a witness in the case. Commissioner McKay declined to rule and adjourned the case over until next Friday, when a decision will be made on the motion for a new trial judge.

ARREST PRESIDENT OF WOOLEN COMPANY IN DYNAMITE CASE

FOUR KILLED IN COLLISION

Pennsylvania Train Hits Wood Cars at Scene of Wreck.

Railway Officials Say Flagman's Warning Was Disregarded.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 30.—Four men were killed, one fatally injured and a number slightly hurt when the Pennsylvania railroad train which left Pittsburg this morning for Cleveland, Ohio, over the Cleveland & Pittsburg division ran into a work train engaged in clearing up a freight wreck which had occurred a short time before near Conway, west of this city. The dead:

A. L. COUGHENOUR, Cleveland, engineer of passenger train.

A. REEDER, laborer on work train, Conway.

TWO UNIDENTIFIED LABORERS, Conway.

The injured:

L. C. Vaughn, Cleveland, fireman of passenger train, fatally crushed.

J. Robinson, Cleveland, baggage man of passenger train, slightly injured.

J. McAndrews, general yard master of Conway yards, cut by flying wreckage.

Three of work crew, slightly injured.

The work train from the Conway yards was clearing away the freight wreck and the engine section of a big steam derriok was out over the track on which the passenger train was approaching. Railway officials say a flagman gave the proper warning, but for some unknown reason it was disregarded.

CAPTURES MAIN PRIZE AT BRITISH AIR MEET

CAPT. F. S. CODY.

CODY WINS TWO AERIAL PRIZES

Former American Carries Off $25,000 Honors in British Contest.

London, Aug. 30.—The two leading prizes in the Brush Army aviation were awarded today by the British war office to Capt. F. S. Cody, onco an American citizen, but now a naturalized British subject. The announcement was made of results of the recent army aviation meeting at Salisbury Plain military camp. It showed that Mr. Cody had won the principal award with the prize of £4,000 ($20,000) in the competition open to the airmen of the entire world flying in aeroplanes of any system made in any country. Mr. Cody used a biplane of his own construction.

Armand Depordussin, a Frenchman, carried off second prize of £2,000 ($10,000) in the same competition in a monoplane of his own make.

Mr. Cody was again the winner in the contest open to British subjects only, who were compelled to fly machines built, with the exception of the motors, in the United Kingdom. Again, with a biplane of his own invention, Mr. Cody won £1,000 ($5,000).

Musselman's Majority, 6,308.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 30.—Amos S. Musselman, Republican candidate for governor, has received primary election figures from all county clerks, except in four small counties, and the total gives him a majority of 6,308 over Secretary of State F. C. Martindale. There were many changes from the earlier figures sent in.

W. M. Wood Accused of Conspiracy During the Lawrence Strike.

Manufacturer Gives Bail and Denies Any Part in Affair.

Accused Man Is the Head of $75,000,000 Corporation.

Boston, Aug. 30.—President William M. Wood of the American Woolen company was arrested today on an indictment warrant charging him with conspiring to distribute dynamite in Lawrence during the general strike there last winter.

The American Woolen company, which bore the brunt of the great Lawrence strike from Jan. 12 till March 14, controls thirty-three manufacturing plants in New England and New York state. It has a capitalization of $75,000,000 and employs 35,000 operatives when all the machinery is in motion. About 16,000 persons are on the payrolls of the company's mills in Lawrence.

Furnished Cash Bail.

Mr. Wood furnished cash bail of $5,000. It is understood that he will be formally arraigned in the superior court next Tuesday.

After his conference with Assistant District Attorney McIsaac, Mr. Wood said:

"I cannot conceive what information could have been presented to the jurors which in any way connected me with the so-called dynamite plot. I certainly had no connection with it, and this fact will be fully established at the proper time to the satisfaction of the public, and even the district attorney. Beyond this I have nothing to say."

WOULD KILL WIFE WHO GOT HIM FREE

Oklahoma Indian Attacks Her When Home From Jail.

Sapulpa, Okla., Aug. 30.—After his wife had worked for several days to obtain his release on bond from the county jail here, Ryder Chenewee, a Creek Indian, attempted to kill the woman at their home near Broken Arrow today because, he said, she did not get bond sooner. As the wife, an infant in her arms, met Chenewee at the door upon his return from jail he knocked her down. A neighbor took a rifle from the Indian.

Chenewee was arrested again charged with assault with intent to kill. The woman is in a critical condition.

AWAKES HANGING TO WINDOW SILL

Sleepwalker Drops Before Help Comes—May Die of Injuries.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—When Walter Richter, 35 years old, awoke this morning he found himself clinging with both hands from the outer ledge of a third story window of the Schneider hotel in Washington street, near the city hall. Richter shouted for aid, but before passers-by could enter the hotel and seize him, he became exhausted and fell, receiving injuries which are said to be mortal.

Somnambulism was the explanation given of the victim's plight.

Richter was said by the hotel proprietor to be a sculptor and a son of wealthy Berlin parents. He came to Chicago a few days ago from Burlington, Iowa. In searching Richter's room to learn his identity the police found stretched out on the window ledge from which the man fell a dachshund, which was Richter's sole companion. The dog was taken care of by police men.

MARINE NEWS

WOODEN BOAT PULLED OUT OF MUD TO CARRY GRAIN

Marine Men Astonished to See Steamer Rhodes Enter the Canal.

Lakeland Safe—New Ore Record Set By the Schoonmaker.

Only yesterday it was predicted by marine men that old and abandoned wooden boats, lying in out of the way places on the Great Lakes would be pressed into service this fall, the rush in lake shipping being so heavy.

Their words came true this morning when the old wooden steamer Robert R. Rhodes, formerly the property of the Gilchrist Steamship company of Cleveland, Ohio, came into the local port for a load of grain. She went to the Great Northern elevator under orders from G. A. Tomlinson's local office.

"Well, I declare!" exclaimed a tug man this morning, "there's the old Rhodes poking her nose through the fog; I'd know her in Klondike. I thought she was in the mud at Milwaukee and her metal stripped."

The old boat looks queer alongside of modern freighters. She is built high and her stern drops suddenly away after the fashion of many years ago. It is understood that they had a hard time getting her out of the mud, so comfortably had she settled in what was to have been her last resting place, but the feat was finally accomplished and she is again in trade.

Just who owns her is not known here. Formerly she was the property of the Gilchrist people, but she was reported sold some months ago. She is of 1,576 gross tons and was built in 1887.

She sailed proudly in this morning and went straight to the great Northern for her load.

Lakeland Is Safe.

The steamer Lakeland of the Port Huron and Duluth line was reported sunk this morning from Sault Ste. Marie. It was found later that she left Houghton late yesterday afternoon. The boat was eight hours late in getting out of Duluth and as she was overdue at the Soo the report is supposed to have originated there.

New Ore Carrying Record.

With a cargo of 13,212 tons of ore, the steamer James M. Schoonmaker is said to have set a new record. The Schoonmaker is one of the largest boats on the lakes.

But for the deep loading draft of more than 19 feet the boat would not have been able to get through the locks at the Soo. Officials at that place state that the load was the heaviest that ever passed through.

The Schoonmaker is 617 feet long, which is about 217 feet longer than an average street block in Duluth. Her approximate carrying capacity is 14,000 tons. The steamer was built for the Shenango Steamship company at the Ecorse yards last year. Her huge porportions were due to the builders' anticipaton of the new third lock at the Soo, which will have a depth of 25 feet.

On the basis of $3.50 per ton for the iron ore she carries, the cargo was worth in the neighborhood of $45,920.50.

Boats Shying at Coal.

So many have been the delays at the lower lake coal docks the present season that boat owners are refusing coal unless it can be quickly loaded. Boats have been held up for as much as a week at the coal docks and the time is valuable when cargoes in grain and ore are plentiful and the rate is high.

Frequent talk of trying to collect demurrage is heard by owners who have had boats delayed. This is usually a forerunner of higher rates, it is said.

Few docks are able to get boats out under three days and the average is said to be five.

Dredge Duluth Floated.

The dipper dredge Duluth, which sank in Lake Superior July 15, off the harbor at Ontonagon, Mich., in seventy-two feet of water, has been raised and brought into the harbor at Ontonagon, where it was finally pumped out and floated. It is now lying at the lumber wharf on the west side of the harbor for repairs. During the operation of bringing the dredge into shallow water and inside the piers by successive stages of lifting it higher and higher, the dredge was more or less of a menace to navigation, but is now no longer an obstruction.

The wooden cabin and houses on the dredge were blown to pieces by the pressure of confined air at the time of sinking and these will be rebuilt at Ontonagon. The hull and machinery were found to be uninjured. The dredge sank on an even keel and with so little shock that light articles on the deck were found by the diver undisturbed as the dredge lay on the bottom of the lake. There was a common lantern standing just as it had been left and a portable forge was standing right side up.

The dredge was raised by the owners, the Northern Dredge & Dock company, with the aid of divers and the use of three scows with shear legs provided with heavy tackle, one at each of the forward corners of the dredge and one at the rear. These lifted the dredge bodily as high as the falls would permit and the dredge was towed into shallower water and allowed to rest on the bottom while another hitch was made. It was then raised higher and towed still nearer shore, and in this way was gradually brought inside the harbor and up to the dock, where it was pumped out. Much time was lost while waiting for weather calm enough for working. The actual time spent in the work of raising and bringing the wreck into harbor, it is said, amounted to less than three days. Peter Hart, manager of the company, was in charge of operations. The company expects to have repairs made and the dredge fitted out for work again within a few weeks.

Scow Sinks.

Yesterday afternoon Whitney Bros.' derrick scow No. 7, while being towed from the Island Creek coal dock through the Wisconsin channel of St. Louis bay, filled with water and sank in the south opening of the Wisconsin draw of the Northern Pacific bridge, due, probably, to too fast towing by the tug Major Dana so that it shipped water through some of its hatches. It temporarily blocked the channel but Whitney Bros. immediately set to work and brought the scow Interstate to lift upon the wreck, and by evening it was dragged away from the channel and taken up into Whitney Bros.' slip at Hughitt avenue. The quick work avoided what might have been a serious obstruction to the large amount of traffic through that channel.

United States Harbor Inspector Bellinger was on the scene immediately and notified the tug office of the obstruction and remained until it was removed from the channel.

Capt. Joseph Action has reported a shoal on Lake Superior, about ten miles from Caribou light. A search will be made and further information submitted on the shoal by the local United States engineers.

MAY INCORPORATE THE GRAND ARMY

Question Will Be Discussed at Encampment in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 30.—Federal incorporation of the Grand Army of the Republic probably will be the leading question to be considered at the national encampment which will begin here on Sept. 9.

Maj. Lee Rassieur of St. Louis, who was commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. eleven years ago, says such incorporation would establish rules and regulations for years to come, put the business affairs of the organization into better condition and give it greater legal rights in financial matters.

Incorporation was first proposed four years ago. Maj. Rassieur was appointed chairman of a committee to take up the subject.

Brainerd Labor Day Speakers.

There will be a parade in the morning, followed by speaking, a program of sports and a dance at Gardner hall. In the afternoon a ball game will be played between Brainerd and Royalton.

EVERGLADES CASES DROPPED

Indictments Quashed Because No Wrong Intent Is Found.

Washington, Aug. 30.—Indictments against Charles G. Elliott, former chief drainage engineer of the department of agriculture; A. D. Moorehouse, his assistant; F. E. Singleton, chief accountant of the department, and R. P. Teele, formerly an accountant, charging them with having approved and presented false vouchers against the government and for which they were dismissed from the service, were quashed today by request of the government.

The indictments grew out of the Florida Everglades land inquiry and pertained especially to payments for drainage in North Carolina and Oklahoma. The government, in asking that the indictments be quashed, stated that investigation showed there was no intent to defraud the government.

Prussian Miners Killed.

Gelsenkirchen, Prussia, Aug. 30.—Five coal miners were killed and another dangerously injured by falling down one of the shafts here this morning. The accident was caused by the collapse of a wooden platform.

Kaiser Goes to Berlin.

MICHAUD-BEIER.

Manager of West Duluth Theater Becomes a Benedict.

Miss W. F. Michaud and C. F. Beier, proprietor of a theater in West Duluth, were married yesterday morning at the church of St. Jean Baptiste at the West end. The ceremony was witnessed by many friends and a reception held in the evening at their home, 1301 North Fifty-seventh avenue west, was largely attended.

The afternoon was spent driving in an auto about the city with visiting relatives, among them being the bride's father, John Michaud of Florence, Wis., and Mr. and Mrs. A. Greenwood, John P. Michaud and F. Michaud of Florence.

MRS. E. W. GETCHELL DIES AFTER YEAR'S ILLNESS.

Mrs. Edna W. Getchell, mother of W. B. Getchell, died at 8 o'clock this morning of heart failure following an illness from various causes extending over more than a year. The remains will be taken to her former home at St. Cloud, Minn., for interment, but the time is not yet fixed as word from relatives away from here is awaited.

Mrs. Getchell was 76 years old lacking one day. She was born in Chautauqua county, New York, but for many years lived in St. Cloud. She came to Duluth to reside with her son eight years ago. She has a daughter in Southern California, and two sons in Alaska, and also leaves a brother in Parsons, Kan., and a brother and sister in New York state.

Important Meeting.

It is expected that the meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club, which is to be held this evening, will be one of more than ordinary interest, for a great many things of general importance to the public of West Duluth are slated to come up. The matter of the Soo station is in some ways, the most important, and it is quite likely that measures looking toward a quick solution of the question or legal action will be taken tonight. The library matter will doubtless be dealt with and some paving matters will be talked over.

Farewell Party.

A farewell party was given last evening in honor of Misses Minnie and Myrtle Abramson, 606 North Fifty-seventh avenue west. They will leave the first of the week for St. Paul to make their home. The friends who were present were: Misses Mary Simon, Bessie Simon, Edith Fieldman, Ida Fieldman, Esther Fieldman, Miriam Solomon, Martha Hirsch of Minneapolis, Gertrude Stulberg, Goldie Stulberg, Fannie Weinberg and Sarah Weinberg.

Surprise Party.

A surprise party was given by a party of friends in honor of Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Joransen last evening in the parlors of Bethany Norwegian-Danish M. Scheyenius of Evanston, Ill., H. Hadselford, H. Hansen, Dr. Jensen and several others. Musical numbers were given by the choir and refreshments were served. About 100 people were present.

Hanks-Studley.

The marriage of Miss Ada Hanks, daughter of M. H. Hanks, of Adolph, Minn., to William G. Studley of Proctor, took place last evening at Proctor. Rev. C. W. Ramshaw read the service. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Eileen Hanks and the groomsman was Chris H. Anderson. After an absence of two weeks Mr. and Mrs. Studley will be at home in Proctor.

ITASCA TO TOOT HORN

Neighboring County Has Elaborate Plans for Publicity Campaign.

County Will Be Flooded With Well-Worded Boosts.

Itasca county has started the first organized publicity campaign which has been attempted in this part of the state.

The campaign has been planned on a systematic basis and the mapped outlines will be consistently followed. A central publicity board has been organized with J. A. Van Dyke of Coleraine as chairman and E. J. Farrell of Grand Rapids as secretary.

The plans of the publicity committee were laid out by John S. Pardee, who has prepared considerable literature to help advertise the resources of Itasca county. Throughout the county 2,500 copies of a large book giving details relative to the county will be distributed. Considerable attention is paid to the dairying and agricultural possibilities. Ten thousand copies of a booklet in more condensed form will be sent out and 100,000 copies of a pamphlet containing a condensed summary of the county's desirable features will be scattered broadcast.

This is only the beginning. The committee has many other plans under consideration and the best parts of all of them will be employed to let the country know about Itasca county. The figures which are presented are these which have actually been gathered from the settlers and can easily be substantiated. The books and pamplets show beyond doubt that Itasca county offers wonderful opportunities in many different lines.

TWO CAUSES IN CONFLICT

Labor and Suffrage Organizations Choose the Same Sunday.

Some Ministers Will Preach Sermons on Both Subjects.

Next Sunday is Labor Sunday and Suffrage Sunday.

All Duluth ministers have been requested to preach sermons on both subjects.

The only solution that the ministers can see to help the situation is to preach on one subject in the morning and the other in the evening.

How the labor organizations and the suffrage societies happened to conflict in their selection of a Sunday for their use is not known. The dates were selected by the national associations on both sides so that the local organizations had nothing to do with it.

Several of the ministers have been especially invited to deliver sermons on both subjects and one stated this morning that he had decided to talk on both.

Next Monday is Labor day. The stores, office buildings and public buildings will be closed all day. The public will join in a general celebration of the day. The parade in the morning will be followed by a basket picnic and speeches at Fairmont park. There will be dancing in the evening.

KNOW something about the things you buy—"read up" about them in the ads.

N. P. TRAIN LEAVES TRACK

Engineer Says Danger Signal Was Given Too Suddenly.

Northern Pacific Train No. 54, coming into Duluth from Ashland, was derailed at the approach to the railroad draw bridge on the other side of the bay last night. The engineer placed the blame upon the man operating the signals, claiming that he threw the danger semaphore so suddenly that in trying to stop he derailed the locomotive and two coaches. The derailment tied up traffic for about two hours. Among the trains delayed was the passenger from the Twin Cities. A westbound engine of the Great Northern, running light, was also derailed on the bridge.

Barnard Promoted.

W. A. Barnard, who has been trainmaster of the Wisconsin and Peninsular division of the Soo Line, has been appointed superintendent of the Winnipeg division with Thief River Falls as his headquarters. He will assume his new duties on Sept. 1.

OBITUARY

Arthur D. Wheeler, former president of the Chicago Telephone company, died suddenly of agina pectoris at his home in Lake Forest, a suburb of Chicago. He was 51 years old. DISCONTENTED IN GOOD TIMES

"Fairly good times make people discontented," said W. D. Gordon, the Minneapolis auctioneer, who is visiting friends in Duluth.

Mr. Gordon was formerly in business here, but left nine years ago for Minneapolis.

"I have noticed," he said, "that when times are good men want to sell out their business and go some place else, looking for bigger fortunes. When times are hard, they are afraid to move."

Mr. Gordon was formerly a Populist leader in Duluth, but is now a warm supporter of Governor Wilson and John Jenswold, Jr.

"I hope to take a week off and come here to campaign for Mr. Jenswold," he said. "As far as Governor Wilson is concerned I think our only hope lies in his election. We certainly have nothing to hope for from Roosevelt or Taft."

of the hill, and anyway, there is likely to be a change later in the day. But this did not suffice for the scientists, and they established a bodyguard over him.

Prof. N. M. Fenniman of the University of Cincinnati, and Prof. William Morris Davis of Harvard, have personal charge of the tourists. Eugene D. Hussey of Boston, representative of the Raymond & Whitcomb tours, has charge of the train. Prof. Davis arranged the trip and it is the duty of Prof. Fenniman to handle both docile and unruly newspapermen. That is his job and he is complimentary enough to say that he likes it.

New Experience.

"We are starting on a trip today which has been looked forward to by all of us, especially the foreigners of the party," he said this morning. "We have heard—as has all the world—of your wonderful iron mines, but, I think, no one except myself in this party has ever seen them. The experience will be entirely new to almost everybody except the scientists from Sweden, where there are iron mines. However the open-pit mines will be new to them for the reason that all of their mines are underground propositions. The mines in this part of the world are undoubtedly the most wonderful on the globe and we have heard a great deal of anticipatory talk about them among the scientists of the body, especially among the geologists who are very much interested in the formations of your county and in the direction and location of your veins. I am sure that the inspection we will have today will be one of the most profitable of the trip and at no point we have visited and none in prospect that I know of is there so much interest shown.

"We intended to make this a day of rest in Duluth, and we were to listen to Prof. H. C. Cowles of the University of Chicago, who was to speak on 'The Evolution of the Vegetattion of the Northeastern United States,' but your people here have been too kind and insist upon this trip today. Tomorrow we will have further entertainment, but nothing could be more pleasing than today's plans."

Prof. Frank Leaverett, geologist of the United States geological survey at Ann Arbor, Mich., was the center of an audience of interested scientists in one of the cars this morning. He had hung up before him a map of Minnesota and was pointing out the locations of mineral and giving a talk too learned for a mere newspaper man to record without the aid of an animated dictionary. Many questions were being asked him and keen interest was shown.

Some High Titles.

Among the visitors from the old world are several who bear high titles. Some of these have inherited the titles and come from families whose lineage extends backs into the dark ages, while others have been "dubbed" by their sovereigns in recognition of distinguished services and work in science. Among those who have inherited the title and come from old families is Count Paul Teleki of Budapest. He is pointed out by Professor Fenniman a sa living refutation of the general belief that all old world noblemen are idlers and sycophants. The count is the author of several scientific works and is regarded as one of the leading authorities on geology in the world. Independent of his standing in the domain of Franz Josef, Count Teleki has won a name for himself that is of world-wide importance and impressiveness. There are others in the party who bear similar distinction both as to title and services. In the party are several distinguished Polar explorers and a number of botanists of universal renown.

All are interested in the mines they are seeing today and all are interested, also, in Duluth, of which they have heard much. The members of the party, as a whole are interested in the matter of the growth of cities and that of Duluth between the two most recent federal censuses caused comment of a most favorable nature. The general feeling among them is that Duluth is destined to be one of the great cities of the continent. In the party are:

was indicted yesterday and arrested on a charge of unlawfully having placed dynamite in a railroad passenger train for transportation, is in jail in default of $1,500 bail for a hearing next Tuesday. The name of a third man indicted has not been announced.

Three "Plants" Found.

The discovery of dynamite in a Syrian lodging house, a cobbler's shop and a cemetery in Lawrence last January, while the textile strike was at its height, caused a sensation. The strike leaders denied that they had any intention of using an explosive to further their plans, and charged that the dynamite had been "planted" for the purpose of discrediting the labor unions.

Soon afterward John J. Breen, a Lawrence undertaker, was arrested on a charge of having unlawfully placed the dynamite in the places where it was found. Breen was found guilty and fined $500. No further court action was taken in the case until the Suffolk county proceedings were started this week.

straight-forward, so hearty and so sincere."

The governor plainly was pleased by the thousands who greeted him along the journey, the more so because his receptions along the line were not planned, his special car being attached to a regular train.

May Go Again.

The governor liked his Pennsylvania experience so well that he may make more speeches there. He goes to Scranton, Pa., on Sept. 19 but indications are that he will concentrate his campaign in the next month on New York and Pennsylvania, and more speeches in the latter state may be looked for. The state committeemen of Pennsylvania, who accompanied the governor, urged him to do so.

The governor had before him today the prospect of more handshaking. He was to visit the Monmouth county fair at Red Bank, N. J. Senator Benj. F. Shively of Indiana dropped into Sea Girt today, for a few days' rest and planned to call on the governor today.

the important cable station is not closed by the rebels. All messages from the American legation at Managua and the American naval commanders at Corinto must come to San Juan del Sur in order to reach the cable.

The California should reach Corinto Monday night, if she covers the 650 miles at top speed. Rear Admiral Southerland has already announced his purpose of sending to Managua at least 500 of the marines she carries, and the remainder probably will be used to patrol the seventy-two miles of railroad connecting the capital with the sea.

Over 2,000 Ashore.

These reinforcements will bring the total American strength in Nacaragua up to more than 2,000 men ashore and about 1,000 blue-jackets on ships in the coastal waters on both sides of the country.

The naval commanders are satisfied that this force will meet present needs, but should the rebels offer more formidable resistance than is expected to the execution of the policy of protection to American lives and property, then the Tenth infantry, held in light marching order on the isthmus since President Taft revoked the order sending it into Nicaragua, probably will be moved after all.

It is believed that the rebels will attempt to stop the movement of American forces along the wrecked railroad. The greatest obstruction is expected to be at Leon, which seems to be the seat of the rebel operations. The difficulties expected to be encountered there, probably will be relieved by an American force from Managua working its way down the railway tracks toward Leon. This will place the rebels between two American forces.

Anxious About Matagalpa.

One cause of great concern to the state department is the condition of about 125 Americans at Matagalpa, in the interior of the republic. Communication to the section is extremely difficult. The last heard from them told of critical conditions. The only way of communication with the American planters is by courier.

American Minister Weitzel is reported to be doing all he can to keep informed of conditions there. As soon as the American reinforcements can restore railway communication and get up to Managua, it is probable that a force of marines sufficient to assure the safety of these people will be rushed to their aid.

Managua Isolated.

Managua, Nicaragua, Aug. 29.—(Delayed in transmission.)—This city is practically cut off from communication with the rest of the world. Food is becoming scarcer here daily and also in several of the cities in the hands of the revolutionaries. At Granada and Masaya, which are held by the rebels, the populations are almost completely deprived of provisions.

Reports have come in of engagements in the vicinity of Granada between the government troops and the insurgents, but no details of the fighting have been obtainable.

There is an entire lack of news from Corinto and other coast towns, and it has been virtually impossible to get out any information, but a courier was successful today in finding one outlying telegraph wire which had not been destroyed.

To Re-establish Railroad.

San Juan Del Sur, Nicaraugua, Aug. 30.—A force of 500 American bluejackets and marines left Corinto today to re-establish railroad and telegraph communication with Managua.

The marines and bluejackets were detachments which have been landed from the cruisers California and Denver and the gunboat Annapolis, under Commander Warren J. Terhune of the Annapolis.

tion. All of these demands would not even grant a hungry dog the right to a cast-off bone. The president himself leaves it to God.

All the demands in their platforms that are good are not new and have been stolen; and all the demands that are new are no good. They are ridiculous and designed to befuddle the minds of the workers.

Thus the recall of judicial decisions is a case in point. A reactionary judge could keep a whole nation busy 365 days in the year recalling his decisions and then the nation would not be safe in his hands. These election expenses would be another addition to the "higher cost of living." Is it so difficult to see that it would be much cheaper to fire the judge at once?

The Short Ballot.

The short ballot is another one of those progressive American inventions. The shortest ballot would be a king voted for once in a lifetime; and, to make it shorter, once in a dynasty.

The small governmental body can also be manipulated much easier than can a large body. This should prove a boon to big business.

To counteract this small body, millions of voters must first be educated and put in motion. Large bodies move much slower than small bodies. Those would be golden days for the trusts and special privilege.

In contrast to the illogical, chaotic, economically unsound proposals offered by the capitalist parties the Socialist party is the only party that has a scientifically correct solution to offer.

The Prohibition party can only see poverty when there is a beer sign in sight.

The Socialist party recognizes in the present system only an epoch in the development of society.

Slavery, Communism, Feudalism, Capitalism—each was an advance over the preceding stage of society. And so Socialism will be a step forward over all the rest.

The Trusts.

Trusts are bad only in so far as they deprive the people of the means with which to earn their livelihood.

They are good in so far as they increase productivity with decreased waste.

Collective ownership of the trusts would retain the good features and eliminate the bad features. The people would then again be the masters of their own weal and woe.

The nation should through its government take possession at once of the national trusts; the state should own those trusts that are a unit in the state; the counties should own those trusts that are a unit in the counties, and the cities should own those that are a unit in the cities.

The management and regulation should be assumed by the people through and in co-operation with their governments—local, state or national. This should be done at once and should be started any time the people are ready and willing.

Thus we would enter upon a new era of democracy; a real democracy because it is an industrial democracy. Politics would then make way for economics because there is then no need to fight over possession.

PARTRIDGES FAT AND THICK ON RESERVATION.

Couderay, Wis., Aug. 30—(Special to The Herald.)—The Chippewas on the Couderay Indian reservation and guides report that from present indications partridges are more numerous through this section this year than in many years. There was an unusual large number of the birds left last fall when the hunting season closed and they wintered well on accounts of the deep snow, and this spring and summer conditions have been ideal for the eggs and young birds, and they are unusually large for this time of the season.

ENDS LIFE BY SHOOTING

George L. McLeod Sends Bullet Through Brain at Mother's Home.

Worry Over Financial Troubles Was Cause of His Act.

George L. McLeod, 50 years of age, committed suicide last evening by sending a bullet into his brain at the home of his mother, 207 West Second streeet. Worry over financial troubles is believed to have been the cause of his rash act.

McLeod came to the city ten days ago from Park River, N. D., where he had been engaged in conducting a general store for a number of years.

The last time he was seen alive was shortly before 6 o'clock. Dinner had not been served and he went upstairs. About an hour later his sister went to call him and found his body stretched across the bed. He had used a small revolver, the bullet penetrating the base of the brain.

WEST END

RALLY DAY.

Special Services Will Be Held Sunday at Swedish Temple.

Sunday will be rally day at the Swedish temple, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street.

Sunday school services will again be held, after having been discontinued for the months of July and August. The hour is 9:45 a. m., with preaching at 11 by the pastor, Rev. Swaney Nelson.

The young people's society, which has had no meetings during July and August, will hold a grand rally at 5 p. m., with Anton Sjolund as leader.

BURGLAR NOT YET CAPTURED.

The police have not as yet detected the prowler who attempted to break into the Peltz Clothing company store, 2016 West Superior street, Wednesday evening, although they were given a good description of the man by A. B. Width, secretary of the company, who frustrated the plans of the would-be robber. Width was in the store and he confronted the burglar, who escaped before an officer could be summoned. A search was made through the railroad yards at that time, but without results.

WEST END CLUB WILL HOLD MEETING.

The West End Commercial club will hold a meeting tonight to talk over public welfare for the city. The club will be addressed by John S. Pardee of the public welfare board, who will explain the object of the board and what it intends to do.

The committee which has been looking into the matter of paving First and Third streets will report, and a report on the white way movement will also be made. A number of other matters of interest will also come up and be acted upon.

Delegates Chosen.

Rev. Swaney Nelson, pastor; Theodore Gustafson, Mrs. Hanna Holm and Miss Carrie Ericson will be delegates from the First Swedish Baptist church of the West end to the general conference of the Swedish Baptist churches of America, which will be held at Chicago Sept. 8 to 14, inclusive.

Reception for Pastor.

A welcome reception for Rev. Swaney Nelson and family was held last evening at the Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, in connection with an old men's festival which was in progress at the church. Rev. Nelson and family have been spending their vacation in South Dakota. Several short addresses were made and refreshments were served by the old men.

Anniversary of Society.

At its regular monthly meeting Friday evening at Sloan's hall, the Swedish Christian Sick Benefit society will celebrate its fifteenth anniversary of its organization. A feature of the program will be a history of the society, which has been prepared and will be read by Eric Myhrman. The society was organized in September, 1897, by Rev. C. O. Cassell, then pastor of Bethany Swedish Lutheran church. Some of the charter members are still with the society.

West End Briefs.

A meeting of property owners of Twenty-seventh avenue west will be held this evening to discuss the bids opened by the board of public works today for paving that avenue from Michigan street to Fifth street.

Will Anderson, who has been in the real estate business at the West end, has moved up town and is associated with a large real estate firm.

The paving of Twenty-third avenue is practically completed, and the work is expected to be finished by tomorrow night.

Frank La Brie has gone to the Twin Cities and will remain over for the state fair.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—"The Sunny Side of Broadway."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

Max Bloom and his funny dancing horse will give three performances of "The Sunny Side of Broadway" at the Lyceum today and tomorrow. There will be a daily matinee with two performances at night. There are fifteen musical numbers interpolated in the action of the play, among which are the following: "O, Mr. Moon, You're Full Tonight," "When It's Raining," "Love Is Very Foolish," "Beware of the Garden of Love," "My New Motor Boat," "Every Town Has a Broadway" and the talk of the country, "The Bazaza Plant." This song, which bids fair to be one of the season's successes, shows a tree that instead of fruit bears miscellaneous collections of everything from an old shoe to an airship. The song is introduced by Max Bloom, assisted by his bevy of dancing ponies.

MAX BLOOM,

• • •

"The Prince of Tonight," the attraction to be at the Lyceum Labor day matinee and night is by Adams, Houzz and Howard, whose names are linked with such successes as "The Time, the Place and the Girl," "The Goddess of Liberty," "The Stubborn Cinderella," "The Honeymoon Trail" and "The Golden Girl." The book is exceptionally clever, dealing with the mysteries of a blooming century plant and gives opportunities for some transformations, groupings and stage pictures which promise to be a revelation. These have been worked out by George Marion, the well-known stage producer.

George E. Raymond, manager of the Minneapolis Orpheum theater, was in Duluth yesterday and predicted a banner season for the Orpheum circuit in general and Duluth in particular.

"You are going to get the first of the really big attractions Mr. Beck has signed for the Orpheum circuit next week in Miss Amelia Bingham," said Mr. Raymond. "We have had Miss Bingham in Minneapolis and her act is all that has been claimed for it. It is an act that will appeal to all intelligent people and ought to arouse great interest here, not only from a dramatic standpoint, but from a social one as well.

This is but the first of a number of big attractions the Duluth theater will have this season. The circuit has some exceptional bookings this season—the best I have ever seen.

"Business has opened with a rush in Minneapolis and apparently the Duluth Orpheum is going to be far more popular than ever before. I expect to see a banner season for the circuit this year. There are two new theaters just opened, in Edmonton and Calgary and the northern part of the circuit is gradually growing in importance, with the new theaters in Duluth, Winnipeg and these two booming Western towns."

VEGETABLE MARKET DOWN

Prices of Garden Produce Have Continued to Work Lower.

Fruits Are More Numerous But the Prices Hold Their Own.

The vegetable market of Duluth during the week ending today has continued to work downward. The movement has been going on for many weeks with the advance of the summer season. When the green garden produce will reach the end of its decline and begin to work higher is hard to tell, but it seems reasonable to believe that the time is not far off, as the greater part of the summer is over. Whatever may be said now about the high cost of living, no fault can be found with the vegetable market, for the prices are certainly reasonable, and the best vegetables are easily within the reach of people of very moderate means.

White potatoes, which a week ago were bringing 60 cents a bushel at wholesale, are now selling for 45 and 50 cents. Sweet potatoes have gone down from $2.25 to $2 a bushel. Carrots have declined from $1 to 85 cents a bushel, cauliflowers from $1.00 to $1.75 a bushel, peppers from $1.75 to $1.50 a bushel and cucumbers from $1.25 to $1 a bushel.

* * *

Local wholesale produce dealers say that next week will be about the best time of the year for the housewives to put up pickles, for the vegetables that are used in pickling will probably be at their lowest prices then. They point with emphasis to the present cheapness of tomatoes and dill cucumbers, which are a little higher than other cucumbers. It is expected that these vegetables will be lower next week. Home-grown tomatoes, which a week ago were selling at wholesale for $1.75 to $2 a bushel, now sell at $1.50 a bushel. These, the dealers think, will be still cheaper a week hence.

Minnesota egg plants have arrived on the market and are bringing a wholesale price of $1.25 a dozen. Ground cherries are also now to be had, the price being $2.50 a bushel.

* * *

There are more kinds of fruits on the market now than there were a week ago, but the price changes that have taken place are mostly to higher figures. It is more expensive now to put up fruits than it was a week ago. Not only fruit, but also sugar has shown an upward trend. Both cane and beet granulated sugar are 10 cents a hundredweight higher than they were a week ago, and it is expected that they will continue to advance as they usually do at this time of the year, although the world's sugar crops have of late been very good.

California pears are getting scarcer, as it is late in the season for them. The price, which a week ago was from $2.25 to $2.50, now ranges between $2.50 and $2.75. Pears from Washington state, however, are cheaper, these selling at wholesale for $2.25 to $2.50 a box. This is a very good eating pear, but it is not so good for preserving as that of California.

Blueberries are scarcer and higher. This is due mainly to the large amount of rainfall. The rain knocks the berries from the bush and spoils them.

Blackberries are here from the Bayfield region of Wisconsin and from various parts of Minnesota and are selling at $1.75 to $2.25 for a 16-quart case. There is not much demand for these berries on account of their rather poor quality. There is a very much finer blackberry on the local market, however, and that is the Dryllup from Washington state. A 24-quart case of these berries sells for $3.

It is expected that the Malaga and white seedless grapes will soon be gone. Other grapes, however, will be coming before long. The Black Prince, Rose Pearl and Tokay grapes, all of California, will be arriving on the market in the near future. The blue grapes from Michigan will continue to come for a long time.

Among the new fruits on the market are the Washington Italian plums at $1.25 to $1.40 for a four-basket crate and Colorado Elberta peaches at 80 cents for a four-basket crate.

California grape fruit and Washington apricots are off the market. There will be no more grape fruit for the next two months. After that they will begin to arrive from Florida.

* * *

Buttor has been very steady, the prices being the same as they have been for several weeks. The Eastern butter market is somewhat strong and it is likely that the Duluth market will soon follow. Pastures are not so rich nor is the production of milk as abundant as in the late spring and early summer.

* * *

Eggs still keep up their high price for this time of the year. This is the moulting season. Hens are not laying plentifully and farmers are too busy to bring what eggs they have to the market. Eggs are becoming very scarce and dealers' agents are bidding quite high for them in the country.

Poultry on the whole has been very steady. Broilers, however, are bringing a higher price by reason of their scarcity. Live broilers a week ago brought 17 and 18 cents a pound at wholesale, but now they bring 19 and 21 cents. Farmers have been too much occupied with their harvests to spend much of their time bringing poultry to the markets. Duluth dealers have been therefore shipping dressed poultry to Duluth from the markets at Omaha and Sioux City. Poultry is more abundant on those markets, because they are supplied to a considerable extent by men who make the raising of poultry a main business and not a mere side issue, as the farmers of the Northwest do.

The wholesale prices of meats have not changed at Duluth since a week ago. The smallness of receipts at all the principal livestock markets of the country, this being the harvest season, has been keeping the present high prices up.

SEEKS HELP OF CHINESE DOCTOR

Louis Potter, Sculptor, Dies in Agony at Seattle, Wash.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 30.—Louis Potter, 39 years old, of New York, a noted American sculptor, died in great agony in an obscure hotel on Sixth avenue here today after undergoing ten days' treatment at the hands of a Chinese physician for a skin disease which he had been afflicted with almost since birth.

The exact cause of Potter's death has not been determined, although Coroner Snyder is convinced that it was not blood poisoning, as at first believed. An autopsy was held, but nothing was found to indicate the nature of the final ailment.

Mr. Potter, who came to Seattle ten days ago with a woman companion and registered at the hotel as "Dr. Percy and wife," told a few friends to whom he had made himself known, that he was seeking relief from the dormant malady which American and European physicians had told him was not serious, but was incurable.

Mr. Potter had met a woman tourist who had been treated for a similar ailment by a Chinese physician in California with satisfactory results and she advised him to consult a Chinese doctor when he came to Seattle.

Treatment Unsuccessful.

With this in view, Mr. Potter registered under an assumed name. The Chinese physician performed an operation similar to vaccination on Potter's abdomen last Friday, lacerating the skin and applying a strong plaster. Potter complained that the treatment was severe, but was hopeful that it would be successful.

Dr. Snyder said that after making a chemical analysis of the contents of the stomach he would examine the Chinese doctor to learn the exact nature of the treatment.

The woman who was known at the hotel as Potter's wife was taken to another hotel and placed under the care of a physician, who said she was suffering from nervous prostration. All efforts to communicate with her were futile.

At the hotel on Sixth avenue, where Potter died, it was said that the woman claimed to have worked formerly on New York newspapers. At no time did she enter into details of her identity. Mr. Potter was unmarried.

PARCELS POST STARTS JAN. 1.

Hitchcock Is Personally in Charge of Working Out Plans.

Washington, Aug. 30.—Announcement is made by Postmaster General Hitchcock that the postoffice department will be ready Jan. 1, 1913, to put into general operation the recently authorized parcels post system. The postal express business, which must be organized within the next four months, will extend over more than 1,000,000 miles of rural delivery and star routes, and will cover, in its various ramifications, all systems of transportation of parcels now utilized by private express companies.

In order to take up personally and immediately the work of organization of the new service, Mr. Hitchcock has cancelled engagements he had made for his vacation, and will remain in Washington to direct the organization. Details of the system will be worked out by a series of committees composed of officers and experts of the department.

Day of Universal Salesman Is Past, Says Duluth Sales Manager.

That the day of the all-around, "universal salesman" is past, was what Bentley P. Neff, sales manager for F. A. Patrick & Co., told the sales managers of the country at St. Paul yesterday.

In the report of the committee appointed at last year's meeting of the National Sales Managers' association to present at this year's meeting a communication treating with the question, "Training of Salesmen," Mr. Neff has —"Training of Salesmen," Mr. Neff has a letter declaring that this is the day of concentration and the salesman with a special line is the one who is in demand.

The association, which is holding its annual meeting in St. Paul, has communications from sales managers at the head of many large concerns, bearing on the training of men who go on the road. Mr. Neff's letter said, in part:

"This is an age of specialization—the day of the universal salesman is past. Life is short and art is long; the range of human knowledge has increased so enormously that no brains can grapple with it, and the salesman who would know one line must have the courage to be ignorant of a thousand other things, however attractive and inviting. In other words, this is an age of supreme concentration.

"It is our belief that the training of the salesman has just commenced when he assumes charge of a territory. The reason why so many salesmen fail is due more to the lack of consideration, co-operation and energy on the part of the house organization and the sales department than any fault of the salesman.

Must Keep Posted.

"After the salesman goes out on the road, it is the duty of the house to keep in close touch with him. He should be posted in detail as to markets, as to the character of his accounts, as to the varying credit conditions, should receive letters full of enthusiasm and ginger, should be posted promptly, correctly and intelligently regarding sales and other matters affecting his territory in detail. As a matter of fact, the salesman should be kept in such close touch with the house and his territory that his position and the position of the sales manager could be reversed at any moment without any serious loss to either situation. It is the intelligent co-operation of this character, the force that lies back of the salesman's work, the fact he knows his house is back of him through thick and thin, that gives him courage and enthusiasm to go forward and fight the battles which he must necessarily fight day by day. A wireless message of sympathy, encouragement, appreciation and hope should flash from the sales manager's desk to the salesmen every morning.

"There should be the frankest understanding between the salesmen and the house regarding matters of expense, matters of route lists and matters of personal habits. The call today is for strong, clean men of high character and aggressive ability. Competition, if nothing else, is eliminating the weak, the reckless, the untrained and the unworthy. A successful salesman of today must be a man of the highest possible type and it is a pleasure for the sales managers of this country to realize that this is the character of men that are going up and down the country today representing the different manufacturing and wholesale institutions. It is also a pleasure to realize that the sales managers who sit at the throttle are graduates from this class of men and that the wholesale and manufacturing institutions of the country represent the highest possible standard of integrity, constituting institutions that men of the highest possible type are proud to represent.

"This topic, 'The Training of Salesmen' might have been carried a little farther and called 'The Training of Salesmen and The Training of Sales Managers,' because in the final analysis this is just exactly what this topic means. While the salesman may be learning day by day from his sales manager, the sales manager in turn is learning day by day from his salesman. It is a mutually co-operative proposition and the only difference is one of viewpoint. The sales manager should by virtue of his position in the house concentrate and prepare for intelligent distribution all the knowledge which he can gather from department managers, buyers and all other sources at his command. The salesman in his position as house representative on the territory, should post the sales manager on local conditions, characteristics of merchants, effects of competition and all other information which will place the man in the house in a position to get a clear, intelligent perspective of the entire situation. Through the closest possible co-operation of this character, both the sales manager and the salesman is benefited and the result will be increased efficiency for the house in general."

Is This Why English Beauties Are So Fair?

(From London Herald.)

Ever since the discovery that mercolized wax would absorb and remove a soiled complexion, its use by ladies as a substitute for toilet creams has grown rapidly. A perfect complexion can be maintained indefinitely if this remarkable substance is used. Its beneficent cleansing, clearing and preservative action is quickly apparent, and ladies who have been paying as high as a guinea a jar for "special cream" from beauty specialists, soon recognize that mercolized wax outranks them all. It has become so popular that it can be obtained at all chemist shops in the British Isles. American druggists also have great demand for it in original one-ounce packages. The favorite way of using is to apply it like cold cream, before retiring, washing it off in the morning.

The saxolite lotion for wrinkles and the facial contour has also become extremely popular. One ounce powdered saxolite is dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel. Bathing the face in this has a splendid effect.

Monday being a Legal Holiday, all banks and public offices will be closed for the day.

HELPS SAVE FUR SEALS

Congress Passes Bills Advocated By Camp Fire Club of America.

Would Protect the Fur Seal of the Pribilof Islands.

New York, Aug. 30.—The Camp Fire Club of America, once designated by its president, the veteran, Dan Beard, as a "Society of Criminals for the Suppression of Crime," has won another uphill fight, the most bitterly opposed of any of its battles, for the preservation of wild life.

The fur seal treaty between the United States, Japan, Russia and England has been ratified, and in the closing days of the session congress passed the bill providing for a close season of five years for the fur seal on Pribilof islands.

For both these measures the Camp Fire club, composed largely of big game hunters, fought almost singlehanded, having practically no support from any other similar organization. They were opposed by Secretary Charles Nagel of the department of commerce and labor; George M. Bowers, fish commissioner; one Lembky and a board of experts, called in by the department, composed of Dr. Barton, W. Evermann, Dr. C. H. Townsend, Dr. F. A. Lucas, Dr. D. S. Jordan, Dr. Lemhard Stejneger, Dr. C. Hart Merriam and Dr. F. W. True.

Five-Year Close Period.

The bill passed by the house contained no provision for the close season, but the senate inserted a clause forbidding the killing of seals for ten years. The conference committees of the two houses united on a recommendation for the close period of five years. This was accepted by a unanimous vote in the senate and the bill went to the president for his signature.

The action of the legislative branch of the government was in striking contrast to that of the departmental officials, who, by their advocacy of the continued killing of seals, found themselves aligned on the side of the purely commercial and selfish interests.

Dr. Henry W. Elliott, the best posted authority on the Pribilof seal; Dr. W. T. Hornaday of the Camp Fire club, and other members of that organization, had presented the facts which congress accepted as proof of the incalculable value of the close season as opposed to the practice of indiscriminate warfare waged on the fur seal ever since the purchase of Alaska by this government, the continuation of which Secretary Nagel and his experts fought for.

It was shown that the Russians, while in possession of the island, had by the same methods reduced the herds at one time to 31,000 head. The Russian government then established a close season of ten years, after which there was strict surveillance over, and cautious restrictions of, the killing of the fur seals.

The result of this policy was that when the United States came into possession of the islands the number of seals had increased to nearly 4,000,000. These have now, it is conservatively estimated, been reduced to a mere 125,000.

Will Increase to Million.

Dr. Hornaday believes that the end of the close season of five years the herd will have increased to well over 1,000,000, and that with proper restrictions as to killing thereafter the herd will continue to grow in numbers and its value as an income producer to the United States government will be greatly increased.

Having been so largely instrumental in saving the fur seals from entire destruction the Camp Fire club has a very respectable list of achievements.

It was very active in opposing the bill permitting the sale of wild bird plumage in New York, and a bill authorizing the spring shooting of ducks on Long Island; in securing a $20,000 appropriation for the starving elk in Wyoming, and enlarging the Alberta game preserve, and in codifying the game laws of New York state, which are now a model, and in the campaign now in progress for the preservation of the Adirondack forests.

The Camp Fire club stood resolutely beside Dr. Hornaday in the fight for the Bayne-Blauvelt bill absolutely prohibiting the sale of all wild game in the state of New York, the greatest protective legislation ever enacted.

All these accomplishments were included in two years' work by the club and its members.

FAREWELL TO MATHESON

Scotsman Is Guest of Honor at Dinner Given By Friends.

Is Leaving Duluth to Make His Home in Winnipeg.

A party of Scots friends, members of Clan Stewart, last night gave a banquet in honor of John H. Matheson, and bade him farewell and godspeed. Mr. Matheson left today for Winnipeg to enter the employ of the Canadian Pacific construction department, and will spend most of his time on the road between Montreal and Vancouver, but with headquarters in the Manitoba capital.

The banquet was given at the Commercial club and lasted until a late hour. There was a warmth to it that spelled sincerity in the good feeling toward the guest of honor, and the well wishes of all those present were expressed in the heartiest terms. Simon Clark was toastmaster and presided gracefully, as usual. Everybody present gave a short talk, perhaps the most enjoyable being that of W. D. Gordon of Minneapolis, formerly of Duluth, who happened to be in the city. Mr. Gordon has just returned from a trip to Europe and the Holy Land and although chaffed a good deal about it, did not talk about it a great deal, but said that in Cairo he met Capt. Lewis of Duluth, who, since his return died in the East. Mr. Gordon said that he had looked forward to visiting with the captain here and expressed the keenest regret over Duluth's loss.

Mr. Matheson was presented with a memento from his friends and responded feelingly to this and to the verbal expressions of interest in his future. Those present were: W. D. Gordon, Minneapolis; J. H. Matheson, Simen Clark, Alex Macrae, James A. Stuart, Norman Macdonald, John McIver, Alexander Anderson, Malcolm Buchanan, W. E. McLeod, A. M. Morrison, Angus Nicholson, Percy Young, Alexander Guthrie, Henry Taylor, J. G. Ross, A. G. McKnight, D. M. Morrison, Malcolm McCaskill, Thomas Gibson and John Christie.

KEEP CANAL FROM HAGUE

Washington May Refuse to Arbitrate Panama Toll Matter.

Loopholes of Escape From Such Action Are Pointed Out.

Washington, Aug. 30.—Although the state department will authorize no statement to that effect, it is understood here that the administration will decline to permit the question of the right of the United States to relieve its own shipping from tolls in the Panama canal to go to arbitration. This position of the government, it is said, may not be developed fully for some time.

While the British protest clearly intimated a purpose to demand an arbitral decision in the event that a more careful study of the Panama canal toll act bore out the impression conveyed by the first reading, that it is in violation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, if the usual course in diplomatic exchange is followed there must be many arguments and counter arguments submitted on both sides before the resources of diplomacy would be exhausted, thus warranting a demand for arbitration.

Basis of British Demand.

The British foundation for such a demand rests upon the broad basis of two special treaties between America and Great Britain, in addition to the great general convention creating The Hague tribunal and binding all the parties to adjust their disputes by recourse to its methods. The first of these treaties, the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, in its third article declares that there shall be no discrimination against any of the nations obeying the rules of the canal, and in its fourth article, asserts that no change of territorial sovereignty shall affect the obligation of America and Great Britain under that treaty.

The second special treaty, that made between Secretary Root and Ambassador Bryce four years ago, binds each country to submit to The Hague tribunal any difference that may arise relating to the interpretation of treaties, provided "that they may not affect the vital interests, the dependence, or the honor" of the parties. On its face, a British demand for arbitration on such a basis is generally regarded to be sound and beyond discussion.

Many Loopholes.

From the American viewpoint, there are many loopholes for escape from the British contention, and these may be expected to develop in the negotiations.

In the first place, it may be contended that the admission of American coastwise traffic to free passage in the canal constitutes no actual discrimination against British shipping. Existing law permits no foreign bottoms to transport American coastwise commerce, and British vessels could not be employed to carry goods from New York to San Francisco through the Panama canal, even if they were completely relieved from tolls as will be the American coasting trade. Thus, it is argued, it cannot be claimed that British commerce is affected one way or another by this favored treatment of American ships.

Another American argument is that, owing to the acquisition by America of sovereignty over the canal zone, the Hay-Pauncefote treaty no longer applies to it, that convention being itself voidable under the well recognized principle of international law which makes a treaty's life depend upon the continuance of the conditions upon which it is made. Back of this contention, however, lies the danger of the loss of the whole neutralization clause of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

No Unbiased Judges.

A third argument against arbitration in this case is found in the fact, admitted in senate debates, that nowhere would it be possible to secure unbiased arbitrators, because every maritime country finds its interests in opposition to the American contention of a right of discrimination in the use of the canal.

The avenue of escape, if the United States really desires to avoid arbitration, is to be found, it is said, in Article II of the Root-Bryce treaty of 1908, which affords an opportunity to the United States to take a hand in the settlement of such an issue. That article makes it a prerequisite to actual arbitration that both sides "shall conclude a special agreement defining clearly the matter in dispute," and this must be approved by the senate. So that if that body takes the same view next winter of the predominant rights of America in the use of the canal as it did last session, it may prevent arbitration by declining to accept any "special agreement" satisfactory to Great Britain.

CROWDS HEAR WILSON TALK

"Single Speech" Trip Into Pennsylvania Broadens Automatically.

People Throng About His Train at Every Opportunity.

Easton, Pa., Aug. 30. — Governor Woodrow Wilson invaded Pennsylvania yesterday, intending only to make an address at the state grangers' picnic at Williams grove, south of Harrisburg. The governor was surrounded by such big crowds wherever his train stopped that he found when he crossed Pennsylvania into New Jersey at Easton last night that he had made half a dozen speeches, had shaken hands with thousands of people, and had talked collectively to a multitude of people in a single day.

It was the opening of the campaign outside of New Jersey, and the day's events were plainly a surprise to the governor. He had looked for no demonstrations, as his train plans were not decided upon until the last moment. But from early morning until nightfall the crowds gathered at the railroad stations and cheered enthusiastically.

Crowds About Train.

At Lancaster, Harrisburg, Williams Grove, Reading, Allentown and Easton great crowds jammed the railroad yards and the governor competed in his talks with the noise of locomotives and trains.

"The railways always interfere with politics," said the governor as an engine thundered by while he was talking at Reading.

Several thousand people wedged themselves into the big auditorium at Williams Grove to hear the governor's principal speech, but a far greater number was unable to gain entrance and the governor made a second speech outdoors.

The governor digressed materially from his prepared speech, but developed much the same line of thought criticizing Col. Roosevelt's tariff views and taking issue with President Taft's veto of the farmers' free list bill.

Doctrine of Protection.

"I do not know how many Republicans there are probably within the sound of my voice, at least those who have been Republicans but are on the anxious seat," said the governor in his first speech at Williams Grove; "but I want to say that I entirely respect, though I do not at all understand, their reverence for the doctrine of protection. I haven't any reverence for any economic doctrine whatever, except so far as it works.

"Now, the doctrine of protection is worth looking at, as it works. It has been said, and it has been said so often that you have believed it, that the doctrine of protection was maintained in our politics for the benefit of the farmers of the United States.

"The American farmer never has been protected, for the very good reason that he never needed to be protected, and his grains have sold at prices established by the prices which his produce commanded in foreign markets. This is an economic fact.

"The chairman of the meeting, Mr. Creasy, kindly referred to me as the next president of the United States. Now, I don't know whether I am to be or not, but I do know this: That I am going to have just as much fun one way as the other. I would like to have the fighting advantage that that great office would give me, but having been born of a fighting breed, I don't have to have the office to do the fighting. I have enlisted for life and I don't have to be an officer. I can shoot just as straight as a private."

BOOTH'S WILL SHOWS ESTATE OF $28,000.

London, Aug. 30.—A summary of the will left by the late Gen. Booth shows that all the properties held by him as general of the Salvation Army, and all like public trusts, both real and personal, including copyrights, are vested in his successor as general, for the time being, of the Salvation Army, to be held by him "upon trusts affecting same."

By a codicil, his small private property having a net value of approximately $2,440, he gives to the Salvation Army, with the exception of certain private papers and memoranda, which are given to his oldest son, Bramwell, and a few articles chosen by himself which are given as mementos to each of his children and his children-in-law.

Another codicil deals with property estimated to value $26,475, representing moneys settled upon him many years ago by the late Henry Reed for private use. It was this provision which enabled him to draw no stipend for remuneration of any kind from the funds of the army. This property is divided among his children, Bramwell, Catherine, Marian, Herbert, Eva and Lucy. His successor, Bramwell Booth, is appointed executor.

Columbia, S. A heavy vote for governor has called forth much comment and there have been frequent charges of irregularities. The vote for governor stands, with five boxes missing: Blease, 71,525; Jones, 66,466; Duncan, 2,385.

MUSSELMAN NOMINEE FOR MICHIGAN GOVERNOR.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 30.—With four counties yet to be heard from, the result of the state-wide primary shows Amos Musselman of Grand Rapids to be the Republican candidate for governor with a majority of 2,018 over his opponent, Secretary of State Frederick C. Martindale. Musselman's votes total 74,307 against 72,289 for Martindale.

The last doubtful congressional contest to be settled was one between Representative George A. Loud and Frank Buell in the Tenth. Late returns give Loud a majority of 482 and his victory is generally conceded.

UTAH DEMOCRATS ARE OUT IN FORCE.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Aug. 30.—With the largest representation that has been seen in a Democratic state convention for years, the followers of Governor Wilson assembled in Salt Lake City, nominated a state and congressional ticket and adopted a platform. J. F. Tolton of Beaver City was nominated for governor and T. D. Johnson of Ogden and Mathonihapa Thomas of Salt Lake City for representatives in congress.

The platform adopted supports the initiative, referendum, recall and the popular election of United States senators. Other plans in the platform are for a non-partisan judiciary and for direct primaries.

JINGLE OF TINY SAW PREVENTS JAIL-BREAK.

New York, Aug. 30.—A jail delivery from the Tombs prison, where Police Lieut. Charles Becker is awaiting trial on a charge of murdering Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, was frustrated by the accidental falling of a steel saw on the floor of a cell. The ring of the metal on the stone flooring reached the ear of a guard in the corridor, who started an investigation which led to the finding of eight finely tempered saws and a bottle of muriatic acid. The saws were distributed in two cells occupied by four prisoners, neither of which, however, was in the immediate vicinity of the cell occupied by Lieut. Becker.

SAYS POLITICS IS NOT AFFECTING BUSINESS.

Eastern people are paying a deal more attention to business than to election, according to Former Senator E. B. Hawkins, head of the Drake & Stratton company, stripping contractors, who has returned from a business trip in the East.

"There seems to be very little interest shown in politics in the East," said Mr. Hawkins. "Business is discounting the presidential election. Business is very good and is getting better. The feeling is that the year 1913 will be a hummer. The splendid crops, coming as they do in conjunction with a general upturn in business and manufacturing, will give all manner of business and enterprise an impetus that will carry prosperity far."

Socialistic Candidate Tells Billings What His Party Seeks.

Billings, Mont., Aug. 30.—"The Socialist party stands upon a sound platform, embodying the principles of Socialism clearly and eloquently expressed and proclaims its mission of conquest upon the basis of class struggle," declared Eugene V. Debs in an address here last night.

The Socialist candidate for president confined himself to a discussion of the relations of the masses to the classes without particular reference to the candidates of the other parties.

His address was in the nature of an exposition of Socialistic theories, rather than a political speech.

About thirty guests called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Fischer of New York, who are spending the summer here at 1626 East Fourth street, yesterday afternoon at the first of their Thursday "at homes." The afternoon was made charmingly informal by the host and hostess and the guests were delighted with a musical program.

Mr. and Mrs. Fischer, both artists of prominence in New York, sang numbers which were received with delight and Mrs. Homer Collins was delightful as usual in two vocal numbers accompanied by her niece, Miss Hoffmeister, who is spending a year with her. Miss Hoffmeister also played two piano numbers beautifully.

Miss Gladys Reynolds sang a dainty little number with her usual grace and power and responded with an appealing encore, and George Suffel's powerful voice was heard to advantage in two German songs.

The rooms were brightened with bouquets of garden flowers and assisting in serving the tea were Mrs. Martha Wyllie and Miss Margaret Munroe of Calgary, Alta., Can.

Household Economics Will Be Taught at the Normal

Household economics is a study which appeals to many of the girls of today and inquiries concerning the special course in that subject which is offered at the Duluth state normal school have been many.

The course as offered there is one for the training of teachers of home economics and includes three terms of cooking, three terms of household art, one term of chemistry and bacteriology, one term of physiology and hygiene, one term of drawing and design and two terms of electives. Only those who have graduated from the full course of the normal school or who have completed an equivalent amount of work in some other institution will be admitted to the course.

The course last year proved a great success and it will be taken up again this year provided a sufficient number apply for the work to justify the organization of a class.

The demand for special teachers in courses of this kind is growing each year and the work has been steadily gaining in popularity.

The day for registration this year is Tuesday, Sept. 3, and the school directors are anxious to have all who wish to take this course register at the earliest time possible.

LITTLE HELPS IN SERVING

Miss Irma E. Matthews, superintendent of women's institutes, at the Oklahoma Agricultural college, calls attention in the New York Evening Post, to the change that has come about in every line of housework.

"The happy girl or woman," says Miss Matthews, is the one who "adds her own personality to the new order of things and makes it seem her system,' instead of 'a system of law and order by which she is controlled.'

"Beds are made vastly differently from the manner of fifty years ago. Dishes demand different treatment, cooking utensils claim their share of new treatment, the carpet-sweeper and vacuum cleaners have come to stay, and thousands of other changes mark the progress of the house.

"Perhaps nowhere is the change more evident than upon the family table. The amount of food placed upon the family board is perhaps no greater, but the varieties of ways the food is prepared fail to bring the same dull monotony. Even in homes without forcedness of service, the reckless, crowded, easy method of serving the family dinner has gone, and today the cry comes for better things:

"(1.) Palatable, nourishing food.
"(2.) Cleanliness.
"(3.) Simplicity of service.

"The well-ordered table bears no skeletons of departed viands, when the supply is exhausted. A plain side table or dinner wagon stands near to receive them, and the table presents a pleasing appearance, without reminding the hostess that 'the potatoes have run out.' A plea for a simply served, well-ordered meal should appeal to everybody, with maids and without.

"The family can afford to wait while the mother or daughter 'freshens up a bit' before the dinner is served. An untidy hostess makes an untidy family.

Modern Table Ways.

"Avoid 'jumping up' from the table. Any man feels self-conscious when the hostess is forced to run many errands, and yet he is so awkward when he tries to help. A systematic method of setting the table will avoid it all.

"Have as much sunshine—both human and divine—as possible at the table.

"Avoid letting mother do too much serving. This sometimes takes too much time and the family dispenses with all show of order and system.

"And let one of the children pour the water in the glasses just before the family is seated. One of the children could wait at mother's left to carry the coffee or tea cups as she fills them. This will avoid many embarrassing 'spills.' While this is being done, if the meal has been in progress, the child's plate should be served by one sitting to the left.

"Never touch a coffee, tea, or cocoa cup while in the hands of the one serving. Let her place it firmly on the table.

"If possible, use simple bread-and-butter plates and never crumble the bread upon the tablecloth.

"Allow one person to do all the waiting on the table during the entire meal. Nothing looks worse than to see two or more people absent from the table at once.

"As soon as the vegetable and meat course is removed brush the crumbs with scraper, brush, or a napkin, and always into a tray or plate, never into the hand.

"Do not serve dessert until all plates are removed. In any effort to brighten the home there is no better place to begin than at the family dining table."

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

School or the Business World?

The old folks sing of the joyous school days, but rarely do we meet with a genuine school boy or girl who thinks school anything but a bore and bondage. I don't doubt that there are many thousands of girls and boys who are determined not to return to school this fall if they can influence their parents or guardians to give their consent to their entering the business world.

School is a bugaboo to the person of 15 or 16 who thinks he knows it all, or at least enough to enable him to carve his way through life. He thinks he will be free, once he enters the ranks of the wage-earners and can jingle coins of his own earnings in his pockets. He thinks he will be his own master once he turns his back upon the schoolhouse, and enters the long, long lane that has no turning. He does not realize that when he closes his school books he is saying goodbye to the most care-free days that he will probably ever know.

It is unfortunate that the young cannot have the truth of the matter impressed upon them at the proper time to take advantage of the lesson. It is also unfortunate that very often the children most desirous of gaining an education are the very ones forced to relinquish school days and lessons at an early date. Their parents do not insist, perhaps because they cannot afford it, upon their finishing the high school course. Instead they are forced into the factory, shop or store just as soon as the law allows, and the grammar school has to do for them. A grammar school education is not one to be sniffed at, however, as I am well aware.

The boy who early enters the factory, shop or store has a chance to rise to a very desirable position, but not the same chance as the man with more schooling, who also aspires to the highest positions which those lines of endeavor offer. Perhaps a few never miss the advantages of more education because of inherent abilities developed at their choice of occupations, but many a man who might otherwise attain a higher place in the world is forced to keep his nose to the grindstone simply because he left school prematurely.

Therefore, when your parents urge you to keep on with your school work do not make the mistake of refusing and insist upon going out into the world.

Your parents would not make the sacrifices for you that many of them do make in keeping you in school unless the value of a fair education had been impressed upon them by experience. You can trust them to decide this really momentous question for you. Go back to school and get all the education you can. Don't think that by joining the wage-earning ranks you are entering the land of freedom. It is a land of responsibility and, while I do not ask to shirk it, I trust you may not have to enter it too early in life.

Sculpture on Exhibit in Women's Building at Fair

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minnesota State Art society today transported to the state fair grounds the large sculpture collection which it received recently as a loan from the American Federation of Arts, Washington, D. C.

The exhibit will occupy a space about 200 feet square in the large art gallery in the women's building. It comprises representative work of contemporary American sculpture and includes many very beautiful specimens. The seventy-five pictures are large, some being three or four feet square, so they will give opportunity for study of the beautiful detail which so often is lost in a small picture. The collection has particular interest at this time because a notable piece of sculpture is to be erected soon on the state capitol grounds, O'Connor's statue of the late Governor Johnson.

The work of the art society in advancing the cause of fine and industrial art in Minnesota has brought it into prominence in the art world in the past year. It represents the state government's encouragement of a phase of life and labor which until recently has been much neglected. The legislature took the first step in 1903 when it created a state commission of art, having as its object "to advance the interests of the fine arts, to develop the influence of art in education, and to foster the introduction of art in manufacture." The commission is composed of seven members appointed by the governor from lists of names submitted by recognized art societies of Minneapolis and St. Paul, together with the president of the state university and a director. President-emeritus Cyrus Northrop of the university is president of the society and Maurice J. Flagg the director. The commission, together with the association members, comprise the society.

In furtherance of its desire to "take art to the people" and to introduce art in manufacture, the society will send to various cities and towns in the state next fall a large collection of art subjects, including the sculpture pictures shown at the state fair and also many industrial art exhibits and some excellent paintings. These will be exhibited at various places under the auspices of public schools, clubs and societies. It is planned to accompany these exhibitions with lectures, possibly illustrated in part by lantern slides.

Those who see the exhibit at the state fair will receive a descriptive catalogue free. Also an attendant will be in charge to answer questions about the exhibition as well as about the details of the work of the state art society and its prospective circulating exhibit.

TWIN PORTS CLOTHING COMPANY

405 and 407 WEST SUPERIOR STREET, DULUTH

RAILROADS GIVE DULUTH AS LITTLE AS THEY MAY

Grain Rate Order Not Applied to Flax in Tariffs.

Other Roads Take No Notice of Great Northern Competition.

Is flaxseed a grain for transportation purposes?

The railroads of the Northwest have complied with the order of the interstate commerce commission in the grain rate cases to the extent of putting the differentials ordered to Duluth into effect on wheat and coarse grains.

Flax rates are undisturbed, according to the tariffs of the Great Northern and the Omaha, which have been received by the traffic commission of the Commercial club.

Other features of the tariffs, to which objection will be made, indicate that the railroads have set out to give Duluth as little as they may, and be within the letter of the order.

The Omaha, and presumably the Milwaukee and the Northwestern, also have readjusted the rates to Duluth by affixing an arbitrary of 4 cents to the present Minneapolis rates. No notice is taken in the tariffs of Great Northern competition at any point, which amounts to those roads going out of the Duluth business at points at which the Great Northern crosses or will be favored in cross-country competition.

The rates to Milwaukee reveal the fact that the differences between Milwaukee rates and Duluth rates do not reflect the differences in distance, as ordered by the commission.

The railroads and the Duluth traffic commission differ materially in their interpretation of certain provisions of the interstate commerce commission's order. The railroads, judging by their tariffs, have gone ahead on the letter of their own interpretation.

Substantial Reductions.

Substantial reductions in Duluth rates have been made. The order of the commission required that the Great Northern rates should not be more than 3 cents over Minneapolis from Wilmar, Minn., and points beyond, and that the rates on the other roads should not be more than 4 cents over Minneapolis. The new differentials cause substantial reductions, but the railroads have evidently not gone outside of the letter of the order, and have taken no notice of competitive conditions which would further reduce the Duluth rates.

The traffic commission of the Commercial club has not yet had time to make a close examination of the tariffs. A cursory inspection shows discrepancies that members of the commission say will be corrected immediately on application to the interstate commerce commission.

The new rates become effective Sept. 1, and nothing can be done until after the present crop movement. However, as soon as the tariffs are checked up and the objections of Duluth formulated, they will be presented to the interstate commerce commission with a request that the railroads be ordered to amend their tariffs so as to bring them within the order.

Duluth grain receivers will immediately notify shippers in the territory affected by the new tariffs to save their freight bills in order that application may be made for reimbursement if the contentions of the Duluth traffic commission are upheld by the interstate commerce commission.

The saving of freight bills will be especially advisable on flax shipments. Duluth grain men charge that the failure of the railroads to apply the provisions of the order to grain traffic is an obvious evasion of the spirit of the order. The complaint of the Duluth Board of Trade in the case in which the order was issued was directed against the rates on wheat, coarse grain and flax. The memoranda of the order, prepared by Commissioner Clark treated flax in the same terms with wheat and coarse grains in discussing rates. Duluth grain men believe that the commission will order the ruling applied to flax as soon as its attention is called to the failure of the railroads to apply it to that class of traffic.

CARLTON COUNTY ROADS INSPECTED

County Board, State Highway Commission Engineer and Others Make Trip.

Cloquet, Minn., Aug. 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fore part of the week the commissioners of Carlton county made a trip over the various roads throughout the county, in automobiles, to ascertain the condition of the highways and find out where and to what extent repairs and new roads are needed.

In the party were these commissioners: President William Kelly of Cloquet, Fred Habheggar of Wrenshall, Carl Johnson of Mahtowa, Charles Marks of Carlton, and John Manni of Kalavala. Mr. O'Hara of Aitkin county, assistant engineer of the state highway commission, and Thomas McCausland, superintendent of roads for Carlton county, as well as a party of citizens including Albert Cox, president of the Cloquet Commercial club, Judge W. H. Sikerap, John Long, Andrew Worman, Judge Diesen and Frank Elm of Cloquet, and M. Kain and William Kain of Carlton.

The party was served dinner at Moose Lake by the Moose Lake Commercial club.

Find Roads Fair.

Generally speaking, the commissioners found the roads of the county in pretty good shape, but they have extensive plans for improvement and for building new roads. The road west from Carlton to the Aitkin county line has been approved by the state highway commission under the Elwell law and a hearing is set for Oct. 1 at Carlton, when the road will be formally laid out. A noticeable incident of the meeting of the state highway commission was that there were thirty petitions for roads, only four of which were gotten up in proper form. One of the four was from Carlton county.

Farmer's Daughter Crippled By Gasoline Engine.

Brainerd, Minn., Aug. 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eliza Hildebrandt, the 3-year-old daughter of Emil Hildebrandt, a farmer living south of Brainerd, in Long Lake township, caught both her hands in a gasoline engine pumping water and lost all her fingers. The little one's cries alarmed the neighbors, but it was too late to save her. Much indignation is expressed for allowing the child to play about unprotected machinery.

PICKS UP BANK BOOK.

Soo Policeman Finds It on Street and Returns It to Bank.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Aug. 30.—While walking up Ashmun street this week Patrolman Charles Rieger picked up a Sault Savings bank book. The book showed that the owner had about $100 deposited. It was returned to the bank. This was the second bank book that had been picked up on the streets this summer. Several weeks ago Chief Swartz found a book containing checks valued at $200. Although the name had been worn off the book it was identified by the owner at the bank.

BLACK MARK FOR AUGUST

Low Temperature Record of Month for Forty Years Broken.

Cold, Rain, Fog Clouds, Frost and Little Sunshine.

AUGUST, 1912, HAS HAD

The lowest average temperature for the month in the history of Duluth.
More fogs and clouds than any August in memory.
Only three or four clear days.
About three inches of rainfall.
Two light frosts.

August, 1912, will go down in the memory of those who experienced it as the coldest summer month Duluth has ever had.

The average temperature for the month thus far has been about 8 deg. below the normal.

For the thirty days the average has been about 57 deg. The nearest approach to that figure was in 1903 and 1907, when the average temperature for August was 60 deg.

Low temperatures day and night, clouded skies, east wind, fog and rain have been the rule.

The records have not been compiled, but the weather bureau will probably show that the sun has shone for a substantial part of no more than three or four days.

The fog whistle on Park Point has been busier this month than in any month since it was installed. For long periods at a time it was not silent any longer than the required intervals between blasts.

Clouds have obscured the sky for a week and ten days at a time, putting a damper on summer enthusiasm. Rain has prevented and spoiled picnics; outing places have been deserted more days than they have been visited.

On Aug. 2 and Aug. 23 light frosts occurred. They were not heavy enough to do much damage to vegetation, but they scared the gardeners.

Crops have grown in spite of the weather, not because of it. The low temperatures have held the plants down and prevented ripening of crops at normal time.

The rainfall of three inches is a little less than the average for the month in other years, but the deficiency may be made up before tomorrow night. The rain during the month has not been heavy on many occasions, but a light mist is just as uncomfortable if not record-breaking.

On the whole August has not come up to expectations. It has been a cold, dreary, dismal, uncomfortable, detestable month.

September is usually a beautiful month in Duluth. The coming month should be a period of sunshine and balmy breeezes to make up for the disappointments of the month that is drawing to an end.

ST. CLOUD MAY GET CONVENTION

In spite of the fact that at the last meeting of the Minnesota State Federation of Labor it was voted to hold the next convention at International Falls, St. Cloud may land the honor.

The executive council of the state association will hold its quarterly meeting at St. Paul a week from Sunday. The council was given the right at the Brainerd convention to change the next convention place if better railroad and hotel rates could be secured from some other city.

St. Cloud hotel men and St. Cloud trade unionists are hot after the next convention and it is possible that the meeting place may yet be changed to that city.

A delegation of St. Cloud men will present the claims of that city for the next convention at the executive committee meeting at St. Paul.

Secretary W. E. McEwen and other members of the executive board will attend the meeting.

Alex Kennedy and Peter Anderson, delegates to the Washington convention of the Brotherhood of Carpenters will leave next week to attend the sessions. The convention opens at Washington a week from Monday.

ATTORNEY SUED BY PRISONERS.

In district court today, Mike Raskivich and Rado Wayoevich started suit against Benjamin M. Goldberg, a local attorney, claiming he had taken advantage of their ignorance of legal procedure and had secured $25 from them on a promise to get them out of jail after they had been tried, convicted and sentenced to a 90-day term.

Mr. Goldberg, after the papers were served upon him, repaid the money and costs of the case and a dismissal was also filed today.

Mr. Goldberg today said that he had settled the case, not because he was in the wrong, but to avoid a lawsuit over such a small amount. He claims that the men gave him the money in payment of an old debt which their companion, arrested with them, owed him. He says that he merely promised the men he would try to have Judge Cutting cut down their sentence.

The plaintiffs are both serving time for swindling in a card game.

Story of the Down and Outs in the Bread Line

Late Louis Fleischmann of New York Spent a Million Dollars and Fed Nearly Five Million Hungry Persons.

This, says the New York Sun, is a tale of the "down and outs"; of some 5,000,000 men and women who during the past thirty-five years have formed what has come to be known as "Fleischmann's bread line" in Broadway, and the cost of whose feeding during all that period has been estimated at more than $1,000,000 in round figures; of these many men and some women who, having crossed the "dead line," came to a pass where hope and ambition had fled, and where they felt that there was nothing left in life for them but to take advantage of that practical charity which assured them half a loaf of bread in summer, six nights of every week in the year with the addition of as many cups of hot coffee in winter as they could drink.

Since November, 1876, in the piercing, bitter cold of winter when the streets were deep in snow and in hot, humid nights of summer every night but one in each week half starved human beings, part of the submerged tenth have regularly taken their places in the bread line, where poverty's tears ebb and flow.

And here, strangely enough, has ever been a barometer of certain economic conditions in the United States, for when times have been good and work plenty the bread line reflected the fact through the numbers of those who applied for charity in the form to stay their starving stomachs. This barometer today continues its indications, for while when this very practical charity was established by Louis Fleischmann the line contained less than a dozen persons it rose to an average of 1,150 each night during the panic of 1907.

Line Never Greater.

Here, too, at present may be found an example of the result of the high cost of living, for those to whom the continuation of this charity is due assert that at no time since the bread line was started, with the exception of the panic year 1907, has the number of penniless applicants for free food been greater than at present. The increased cost of living has been more strongly in evidence since last winter, at which time of the year the applicants are greater in number than in summer. While some 200 men and a few women were fed nightly during the summer of 1911 it is said that nearly 500 are now given food each night, the number in winter averaging 900. During the coming winter, with the price of the common necessities of life soaring constantly, it is believed the line will be even greater than in 1907.

Louis Fleischmann, during his lifetime one of the best known and most charitable of New York's business men, conceived the idea of feeding as many hungry men and women, without price, as might apply. No questions were ever asked of those who sought food. It was enough for him to know that some of his fellow beings were hungry. To unfriendly criticisms he gave no heed. Critics declared that the bread line was nothing more than a breeding place for paupers. He was not disturbed by this adverse talk, nor by the theories of charity experts who shuddered at the thought of unorganized charity and indiscriminate giving.

Sociologists and scientific charity dispensers more than once protested against the bread line, but their objections had no more effect on Fleischmann than have the waves on the base of the Rock of Gibraltar.

On the other hand sympathizers frequently sent him checks to be applied in aid of his charitable work, but these he always returned with a few words of thanks.

Why He Declines Aid.

"This is my personal enterprise," he once explained, when asked his reasons for declining financial contributions in aid of this charity. "Call it my fad, if you like. It pleases me to spend my money in this way. Others may prefer to spend it on fast yachts, on the establishment of libraries, where food may be had for the mind but none for the stomach, on costly paintings, magnificent country homes, or what they will. I neither question nor find fault with the form in which they expend their cash. I have my way, which is to put food into hungry stomachs. Why should my motives or my actions be questioned? All I ask is to be allowed to work along my own individual lines."

And so this man, who sought no blazoning of his charity to the world, who believed in the Scriptural admonition not to let his right hand know what his left hand did, went ahead fostering his bread line until today it has become one of the institutions of New York, one of the sights which strangers are often shown at midnight, when the line having been formed, often more than an hour in advance, food and drink are given to the hungry.

Mr. Fleischmann was formerly an officer in the Austrian army. Born in Austria, Aug. 18, 1834, of wealthy parents, 78 years ago today, he entered the army when a young man, fought in the war with Prussia, was wounded and had two horses shot under him at the battle of Sadowa, and received two medals for gallantry from the hands of Emperor Francis Joseph.

In 1869 while on leave of absence visiting two brothers in this country he became a strong admirer of the United States. In 1874, he resigned from the army and returned here. He was in business with his brothers in Philadelphia for a time, but at the close of the Centennial exposition came to New York, and in November, 1876, established a restaurant and bakery, conducted along Viennese lines, at Broadway and Tenth street.

The bakery was located in the basement on the Tenth street side. While standing on the sidewalk in one of the doorways a few nights after the opening of the establishment a poorly dressed, hungry looking man shuffled along the snow covered sidewalk, but suddenly stopped when he came opposite to the opening which allowed him a view of the interior of the basement where the bakers were at work and from which came the welcome odor of fresh baked bread.

He Told Others.

His wistful looks attracted Mr. Fleischmann's attention. In a few moments he ascertained that the man had eaten nothing for twenty-four hours. Mr. Fleischmann at once directed that a loaf of bread and as many cups of hot coffee as he could drink be given the human derelict, who disappeared in the direction of Fourth avenue and thence toward the Bowery.

Evidently he passed along the word of his good luck, for the following night seven or eight more unmistakably hungry and dejected looking men, together with the original discoverer, gathered where the bakers could be seen busily at work. Mr. Fleischmann was told of their presence and ordered that each be given half a loaf of bread and whatever coffee he could dispose of.

The bread line had been brought into existence. Within one week some twenty-five or thirty men were being fed each midnight at Mr. Fleischmann's direction. Ever since that time, no matter how many persons were in line, half a loaf of bread in summer and the same in winter with the addition of as much coffee as each could drink has been given each applicant each night except Saturday, when no bread was baked, and later every night except Sunday, when working conditions of the bakery were changed.

At last it came to be one of the sights of the city, not for resident New Yorkers alone, but for hosts of visitors who gathered shortly before midnight to witness the unusual sight of hungry men and women being fed "and no questions asked." It was something not to be seen anywhere else in the United States. During later years a bread line has been established here and there in a few other cities, the only other one in New York being that under the auspices of the Bowery Mission, but open in winter alone, and to aid which subscriptions are made from time to time by wealthy persons.

Beyond Feeling of Pride.

Some of those who visit the bread line through curiosity and others who wish to do so but refrain through consideration and delicacy for the feelings of those in the line assume that these poor, hungry people might resent being watched as if they were part of a public show.

Their hesitancy and doubt are needless. That pathetic line, made up, as it ever has been and still is, of young, middle aged and old men, whose ragged but well brushed clothing and comparatively clean shoes in a few instances show that they still cling to habits of cleanliness inculcated in former days of prosperity, consists of men, with here and there a woman sometimes, whose air is one of utter hopelessness. They are beyond that feeling of pride which resents being stared at as though on exhibition. Here are men who have struggled and failed, or who have failed without having struggled. They simply do not care. It is enough for them to know they are hungry.

Still there have been instances, although few, of men who were in the bread line but have lifted themselves out of it. It was Mr. Fleischmann's custom frequently to question those in the line. They knew him and understood his motives and so spoke freely with him.

Many Have Become Affluent.

It is a known fact that there are men in affluent circumstances living in New York today who once stood in the bread line, but who were helped to better things by this Austrian humanitarian. No inducement could ever bring him to divulge their identities, but there were several witnesses to one incident in particular where Mr. Fleischmann, while talking to some men in the line one bitter winter's night in 1899, suddenly turned when a handsome carriage in which were a man, a woman and several children drove up to the edge of the sidewalk, opposite where Mr. Fleischmann was standing, and stopped. The man looked contemplatively at those in the line.

Mr. Fleischmann looked at him for a few moments and then asked, "Have I not seen you before?"

"Yes," replied the man. "I used to stand in that line. I was hungry and you gave me food. Then you put me in the way to make something of myself. Now I am in business. This is my own carriage and this is my wife and these are my children. You threw out the lifeline and saved me." Then he drove away with tears in his eyes.

Mr. Fleischmann died in 1904, having retired from active business several years before because of age, but shortly before his death he urged members of his family to continue the bread line and to make provision for its continuance after their own deaths.

At his funeral an unknown, poorly dressed man approached the grave and dropped a single flower on the coffin, saying, "I stood in the bread line."

And still the bread line grows, longer today than at any time during its existence with the exception of the year of the panic, due it would seem in part because of the high cost of living.

Union Seminary Men Will Work Among the Foreign Poor.

Experience Will Fit Them for the Ministry to the Immigrants.

New York, Aug. 30. — The pessimist will find poor reading in the story of the choice made by two young honor graduates of this year's class in Union Seminary, New York, who are starting next month for Europe for eighteen months of study among the peasants from whom American immigrants come. A San Francisco theological seminary graduate has already gone to Italy, under the same conditions.

These men have earned the honors of their classes, with European scholarships as prizes. Kenneth D. Miller of Union was the ranking man in the class of 1912, and as such was entitled to a fellowship which would have maintained him for a year in the best universities of Europa. He declined it, in favor of the immigration fellowship, offered by the Presbyterian board of home missions. His roommate, Joel S. Hayden, was second honor man, and so the coveted year of study under Europe's best teachers was offered to him, after Miller had declined it. But he also set it aside and selected to go with his friend to Bohemia, to live with the people in the expectation of being pastor of a Bohemian church in this country upon his return.

A New Idea in Religious Work.

This Immigration fellowship, which the board of home missions has offered to men who qualify for it from Presbyterian seminaries is a new idea. It maintains the man who has finished his theological course, and who meets the other tests, for eighteen months in some European country, where he may learn the language and customs of the land, in order that he may take up the work of a home missionary pastor, among our foreign-speaking population, when he returns to this country.

It is no easy task the Immigration fellowship holders enter upon. They are not to do Europe, and study the foreigner from a car window. The conditions require them to avoid hotels and boarding houses, and the track of the tourists, and to find their homes in the houses of the peasants, where only the native language is spoken. They are not to be mere observers of the life of the country they have chosen; they must identify themselves with the life of the peasantry, so that when they come to minister to immigrants in America they will have the viewpoint of their congregations. The fundamental idea is to get into intelligent, sympathetic and fraternal relations with the foreign-speaking population.

Leaders for the New Americans.

This rather startling plan, with its statesmanlike grasp of the needs of a national problem which reveals increasing perplexities, is not entirely new. The Pennsylvania Young Men's Christian association several years ago sent six young men to Europe to travel among the people from whom the state's miners are recruited, and these men, upon their return, were made secretaries for the foreign-speaking associations in the coal region. They were able to deal understandingly with the homesick strangers in a strange land. The simple fact that they had been in the old country gave them a hold upon the ones whom they sought to serve, and enabled them to take a place of leadership.

Only a man who knows more countries than his own can understand how sorely most immigrants need help in becoming good citizens. Sharks and criminals of their own tongue who have been longer in this land, prey upon them in various ways, taking advantage of their ignorance of American speech and customs. Now the churches seem determined to put out religious leaders, fully equipped as counselors, friends and teachers.

A Problem in Patriotism.

In this departure, which strikes at the very root of the task of creating right relations between the historic native American influences and the incoming aliens, the churches are doing work of a primarily patriotic character. The assimilation of the foreign-born population is doubtless the greatest of the tasks confronting the American people. Clearly, religion, which is one of the great assimilative agencies, must bear a large share in this work.

Hitherto, there has been some tendency merely to ease the conscience of the churches by doing, hit or miss, a little scattered work for occasional foreign communities. Thus the denominations fairly crowded Ellis island with missionaries, most of them superfluous. What little was done was reported fully in the denominational press, and the impression given that great results were being secured.

Now, however, the denominations are getting together and putting aside, so far as possible, their rivalries, are honestly trying to do the job of bringing the immigrant people into touch with American church life. That is a patriotic duty being laid afresh upon the consciences of the church people of the nation.

Experiment has shown that the foreign-speaking people do not want pastors of their own nationality such as the churches have hitherto been training. They prefer Americans. They want to learn the American ways. They count American teachers and ministers a compliment. Certainly the latter do the most effective work as agents in Americanizing and Christianizing the newcomers. Therefore, it will probably come to pass that the other churches will follow the example of the Presbyterians in sending their choicest young men from the theological seminaries to take a course in human nature in the lands which are the springs of American immigration.

There is such a vast difference in my baby since I have used your food that people having known her before and see her now, can hardly believe she is the same child. DRESS BALL SEES RECKLESS CLIMAX

Narragansett Pier, R. I., Aug. 30.—Not all the revels of the Pier's recent fancy dress ball took place before the "Home, Sweet Home" was sounded by the orchestra. According to a story which is current there was a reckless daybreak swimming climax to it all, with a score of young society people plunging in without taking the trouble to remove Marcel waves, rouge or exquisite ball costumes.

A party of shocked old ladies were discussing it at luncheon, and it was surprising how long such proper matrons lingered on the subject.

"Think of it," ejaculated one with sunburnt nose and neck, "diving into the surf, clothes and all. A man who saw them told my husband in the barber shop today of such going on. Some of the men were in dress suits and tall hats, but that did not make any difference, and the young women were in all manner of costumes.

"This man said he saw a pretty girl in Colonial costume clinging to the back of a man in a dress suit, who was trying to capture his drifting hat. The sun was just showing over the horizon. They did it for a dare, a dozen or twenty of them.

"And they wound up by playing leapfrog like children on the beach in their wet and bedraggled ball apparel. Disgraceful is not name for it. My husband asked what the townspeople thought of it and his informant replied: 'Well, what are you going to do? The police don't take any notice. We figure it's got to happen at least once a year.'"

QUEENS ARE TRUMPS.

Coshocton, Ohio, Aug. 30.—When the Salvation Army kept up a racket during the speaking of a woman suffrage advocate at an open-air meeting here, several ladies asked the captain to desist.

"I am here on the King's business," he said solemnly.

"Well, we are here for the queen's," was the rejoinder, "and you'll have to quit."

He did.

Ninety-Four Candidates in Minnesota for State Offices and for Congress—Long Primary Ballot—Gordon Declares He Is in Fight to the End—Kiley Files for the House in Fifty-Second District.

Many Candidates.

Exactly ninety-four candidates are in the field for state offices and for congress in Minnesota.

The Republicans have forty-one candidates for eighteen offices. Thirty Democrats are in the field for sixteen places. Ten Public Ownership candidates filed for nine nominations. Six Prohibitionists will be nominated without opposition, and Charles W. Bandborg of Henning is the lone Socialist-Labor candidate. He filed for governor. Six candidates have filed for the three places on the supreme bench, they going on the non-partisan ballot.

State Treasurer Walter J. Smith is the only candidate for state office who has no opposition on the Republican ticket. In view of the fact that every village and town in the state seemed to have a candidate for some office, the tribute to Mr. Smith is a remarkable one.

In the congressional districts, Davis of the Third, Lindbergh of the Sixth and Miller of the Eighth, are the only candidates having no opposition in the Republican party.

Democrats have no candidates for congress in the Seventh and Ninth districts, but there will be a complete Democratic state ticket in the field. There is a contest in the Democratic party for the nomination for every state office except attorney general. William F. Donohue of Melrose has a clear field for that nomination. In the congressional districts, there are Democratic contests in the First, Fourth and Fifth. Daniel W. Lawler has no opposition for the nomination for United States senator and Congressman Hammond in the Second, Frank L. Glotzbach in the Third, Dr. A. J. Gilkinson in the Sixth, John Jenswold, Jr., in the Eighth, and C. J. Buell, at large, have no opposition for the congressional nominations.

The Public Ownership party has candidates in four congressional districts, for congressman-at-large, and for governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state and state treasurer.

Prohibition candidates appeared for congress in the Third district, for congresman-at-large, and for governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state and attorney general.

In view of the contests in both the Republican and Democratic parties, the returns from the state primaries will be slow. Six Republican candidates for governor and five for congressman-at-large will split the vote badly and the nominees will probably not be known until the state canvassing board completes its work. The second choice provision will figure in three points on the Republican ticket and in one on the Democratic ticket.

Long Ballot at Primary.

The primary election ballot will be fully a yard long. In addition, the voters will be furnished with non-partisan ballots. The second choice feature is a complication that will delay voters unless they study the ballots well before the primaries. County Auditor Odin Halden has issued some blank sample ballots for distribution. The ballots with the names filled in will be out soon. Unless voters familiarize themselves with the ballots and know how they intend to vote before entering the booths, congestion may occur at some of the larger precincts. The sample ballots prepared by Mr. Halden have brief instructions on vital points on the new primary law.

Coe Leaves Duluth.

W. T. Coe, campaign manager for James A. Peterson, returned to Minneapolis last night after spending two days in Duluth interviewing men favorable to Peterson's candidacy.

Peterson, who is a candidate against Senator Knute Nelson for the Republican nomination for the senate, will speak at the Labor day celebration at Fairmont park next Monday afternoon. That evening, he will give another address at a public meeting at Foresters' hall, Fourth avenue west and First street. Simon Clark will preside at the evening meeting.

Peterson will read the record on Nelson at the evening meeting, and his friends claim that the record will not bear the light of Progressive scrutiny.

"I have spent two busy days in Duluth and I have been delighted with the courteous treatment I have received and with the encouragement the candidacy of Mr. Peterson is receiving here," said Mr. Coe yesterday afternoon. "Duluth is overwhelmingly Krogressive. I found a good deal of the Wilson variety and much Roosevelt sentiment. The two have so much in common that I will be greatly interested in watching how it works out. I was shown today, as a rare curiosity, a 'standpatter' or two, but that was all."

Mr. Peterson will go from Duluth to the range, speaking at Ely Tuesday, Virginia Wednesday, Eveleth Thursday and Hibbing Friday. He will campaign the towns between the main speaking points while traveling over the range.

Gordon Awakens.

Sam Y. Gordon has awakened. After a period in which it appeared that he was slipping into inactivity and his campaign was suffering in consequence, new life has been taken on by him and his managers. Gordon literature is making its appearance in the mails again. Sam denies indignantly that he will withdraw and declares he will remain in the fight to the end. A letter sent out with pamphlets from his committee, which include C. A. Congdon's letter to the Pioneer Press, says:

I have just returned from a week's trip in the southern part of the state where I met with much encouragement, having splendid meetings wherever I spoke. The people of this state are progressive and seem determined to defeat the Taft-Eberhart political machine in the primaries and election. Roosevelt will make a pretty clean sweep of the Republican vote of Southern Minnesota. The politicians are against Roosevelt as they are against me, but the rank and file are for him, as they are for me.

Upon my return to St. Paul, I find that there has been a well-laid, concerted move on the part of the brewers and allied special interests to throw dust in the eyes of the voters by trying to discredit my candidacy in every possible way, even to circulating reports that I am about to withdraw and that I am losing ground. This is simply one of the tricks resorted to by the brewery trust which is hand-in-glove with the Taft-Eberhart political machine who would prefer any candidate to me. I would like to inform my friends throughout the state that my prospects for nomination never looked brighter than right now, and I will continue the determined fight I have been making against brewery, bossism and boodle till the polls close. I opened this fight and propose to stay through the finish and the purpose of this statement is to brand as falsehood all reports to the contrary.

Carlton County Democratic.

"Republicans in Carlton county already concede the county for Wilson and Jenswold, and I wouldn't be a bit surprised if we would elect our county ticket and give the Democratic state ticket a majority," said L. S. Patterson of Cloquet today. Mr. Patterson is chairman of the Democratic county committee and president of the Wilson and Marshall club of Carlton county. He says the Democratic sentiment in his county is something wonderful to behold. Jenswold's entrance into the congressional race he looks upon as a new opportunity for Democratic victory in the Eighth district.

Haycraft Declines to Serve.

Senator J. E. Haycraft of Madelia has declined to serve on the Roosevelt committee of fifty on account of the fact that he will have a part in selecting the next Republican state central committee. The new primary law provides that the state officers holding over and the nominees for office shall select the state committees. C. T. Knapp of Chisholm and T. F. Ofsthun of Glenwood will be in a similar position if they are renominated for the house.

Robinson's Opponent.

James Keating of Wabasha county, who filed against Clinton Robinson of St. Charles for the Democratic nomination for congress in the First district, is not unknown in the district. He has been a farmer for the last few years, but in his earlier years he was a school teacher, a county superintendent of schools, and editor and part owner of the Wabasha Herald.

Kiley Files for House.

E. C. Kiley of Grand Rapids, who filed for the legislature in the Fifty-second district, should prove a formidable candidate. He is a Democrat of the progessive type and an ardent Wilson supporter. Few men enjoy such great personal popularity as Mr. Kiley and his friends predict that he will make a great run in a normally Republican district. The primary contest on the Republican side will be a sharp one and is on such lines that sore spots will probably be found after the primaries. Mr. Kiley is sound enough for the Progressives of all parties, and he may be able to capture votes in sufficient number at the general election to elect him.

First Registration Day.

Next Tuesday is the first registration day in Duluth. The following Tuesday, Sept. 10, will be the second and last registration day before the primary. Duluth voters who fail to register before the primary will be able to vote at the primary only on the presentation of an affidavit of residence corroborated by the affidavits of two freeholders of the election district.

Candidates at Fair.

The county fair at Hibbing will attract many candidates to the range town today and tomorrow. Nearly all of the opposed candidates for county offices will make their appearance at the fair, for voters will be out in great number. The only candidate for state office whose appearance at the fair has been advertised is William E. Lee, who will speak there Saturday.

GROCERS VISIT STEEL PLANT

Are Shown Through New Buildings By the Superintendent.

On the invitation of W. A. McGonagle, Duluth and Superior grocers, 125 in number, visited the new Minnesota steel plant at Spirit Lake yesterday, spending the entire afternoon on the premises.

The grocers were quite surprised at the enormous proportions of the plant and of the progress which has already been made in construction work.

The local grocers were headed by George M. Peterson, secretary of the Duluth Retail Grocers' association, and the Superior contingent by W. R. Smith, president of the Superior association.

J. H. Smith, superintendent of construction, acted as guide for the party and conducted the grocers through the various parts of the plant.

Among the places visited were the rail mill, the blooming mill, open hearth furnaces and blast furnaces. The buildings are well under construction, said Supt. Smith, about 800 men being employed at the present time.

The superintendent stated that the plant would be in actual operation in about a year. It would then give employment to 3,000 men to start with, he said.

WANT CLOSER RECORD OF HEALTHY CATTLE.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 30.—A resolution asking the governments of the United States and Canada to pass stringent measures regarding the recording of certificates that thoroughbred cattle are free from tuberculosis, was adopted by the American Veterinary Medical association in convention here. The resolution, presented by J. G. Rutherford of British Columbia, is intended to prevent imposition on amateur cattle raisers and to protect breeders who have had their herds examined, it was explained.

The association decided to hold the fiftieth anniversary in New York next year. The convention closes today.

FARMER'S WOUND FATAL.

Fond du Lac., Wis., Aug. 30.—George Tange, aged 35 years, a well known farmer near here, died last night as the result of wounds received in a saloon fight three weeks ago. Timothy Norton, a saloon keeper, is held, charged with the killing. He claims self-defense.

ROOSEVELT ENJOYS IT

Motors 150 Miles in Vermont and Makes Eight Campaign Speeches.

Denounces Old Parties and Praises His Own and Governor Johnson.

Burlington, Vt., Aug. 30.—For 150 miles Former President Roosevelt raced over Vermont roads in automobiles yesterday, proclaiming the doctrines of the Progressive party. He made eight speeches, and his day's work lasted from 9 a. m. until nearly midnight. When he arrived in Burlington, where he spent the night, he was covered with dust, but said he was in fine trim and said he had had a "bully day."

During the first of his three days campaigning in Vermont, Col. Roosevelt encountered friendly crowds of good size. His day began when he reached North Bennington at 9 o'clock. He went by automobile to Bennington for breakfast and his first speech. Then he struck out for Manchester, halting at Arlington for a speech. In the afternoon run to Burlington he made addresses at Wallingford, Middlebury, Brandon and Rutland.

Why He Is Progressive.

In one of his speeches Col. Roosevelt explained how it was that he came to espouse the political principles which are advocated by the Progressive party. When he went into public life he said he had no idea of the way in which "big business" was conducted.

"I was puzzled, years ago," he said, by the opposition which I encountered from certain big business men who I thought were respectable. Some of them, I am sorry to say, went to church and played being respectable. I was shocked and horrified when I learned what they were doing."

One incident after another, he said, convinced him, while he was governor of New York and later in his public life, that certain large corporations were "crooked." When he became governor, he said, he doubted if he knew what the initiative and referendum and other measures of the kind really were. It was through his experience, he said, that he came to the belief that such measures were necessary to place the people in more direct control of their agencies of government.

Old Principles and New Conditions.

In his speech here he said:

"The national Progressive convention at Chicago applied the principles of 1776 and 1860 to the issues of 1912.

"Both of the old parties, on the contrary, have confined themselves to threshing over again the old straw. The two old parties have utterly lost touch with the facts of modern economic life, and they serve no other purpose than that of screens, each for its own sinister alliance of crooked politicians and crooked financiers, who rule and pillage with impunity. It is no wonder that where this is the case the average man grows to regard politics as a game between two sets of sharpers at the expense of a muddle-headed public.

"Instead of a representative government, ours has become an unrepresentative government, and the popular will continually is frustrated by politicians, misrepresented in the legislative, set at naught by the courts and trampled on by the forces of privilege. Neither of the old parties shows even the least faint promise of breaking up this condition of affairs. The triumphs of either would perpetuate it."

He spoke warmly of his running mate, Governor Hiram W. Johnson of California, saying:

"Mr. Johnson represents the type of man who ought to be nominated for vice president, but to whom it means a real sacrifice to accept the nomination. He accepted our nomination because he regardtd it as a call of the highest duty. He is not only fit at this moment to be president he is fit at this moment to be a great president."

MAKES INDIAN WORK.

Soo Official Compels Drunken Redskin to Push Lawnmower.

Sault Ste Marie, Mich., Aug. 30.—For being drunk, Robert Shyanoka, an Indian, was ordered to mow the lawn at the city hall grounds Wednesday. The Indian was arrested by Patrolman Rieger and when arraigned in court admitted being drunk, but put up a strong protest when he was told he had twenty days to serve in jail. When informed that his only chance to escape imprisonment was to mow the lawn he willingly accepted the job and when the work was satisfactorily done was allowed to go.

PHOTOGRAPHERS MEETING.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 30.—Photographers from the Dakotas, Minnesota and portions of Wisconsin bordering upon Minnesota are here attending the sixteenth annual convention of the Northwestern Photographers' association. Scores of competitors for prizes offered by the association are present, among whom are a number of prominent artists from New York, Philadelphia and Chicago, seeking the diamond medal.

Among those who made addresses Thursday was J. C. Abell of Cleveland, Ohio. The session closes Saturday.

Drink to You Means Failure

It May Come Soon, or It May Come Late, But Come It Will—Successful Men These Days Are Those Who Do Not Drink.

For Years the Neal Treatment Has Been Curing the Drink Habit Without Hypodermic Injections or Any Disagreeable Features.

THE NEAL TREATMENT commends itself to all those whose nervous system demands liquor, because there are no bad aftereffects and no hypodermic injections—the treatment is so mild and so harmless a child could take it.

The nervous symptoms disappear after the first few doses of medicine are taken, the appetite for wholesome food returns, sleep becomes natural and dreamless and the liquor appetite leaves.

And the liquor appetite will never return unless the drinker deliberately repoisons his system by drinking alcoholic liquor deliberately, with no physical or nerve demand for it, just as he took the original first drink of liquor in his life. No man ever craved that first drink.

THOUSANDS of responsible, sober business men the country over, who were one time drunkards, are examples of what the Neal Treatment means to the liquor drinker.

Just three days from the day you enter the Neal Institute you will leave it with no more appetite for liquor than the day you were born.

The Neal Institute contracts, in writing, that all craving and desire for liquor will disappear in the three days of treatment and that you are to be entirely satisfied with the Neal Treatment or the full fee paid shall be returned at the end of the third day.

The Neal Home Treatment is for those who can not come to the institute for three days.

Call, Write or Phone for Copy of Contract, and Free Booklet Concerning the Treatment. Everything Strictly Confidential.

MAKING UNCLE SAM A CROOK.

By the Hay-Pauncefote treaty this nation bound itself to open the Panama canal to the vessels of ALL nations on equal terms.

Congress passed a law, which Taft signed, deliberately violating this treaty by giving American vessels a preference over the vessels of other nations—a move that is practically the ship subsidy in a new form.

Great Britain, the other party to the treaty, has protested, and will ask that the question be submitted to arbitration.

Word comes from Washington that the policy of the administration will be to refuse to arbitrate the issue.

This is a confession that the administration has forced the nation into a position so dishonest and untenable that it dare not submit the issue to a fair and unbiased tribunal.

Is it the ambition of the administration to give this country the reputation of being a crook? Does it desire to let the world know that when its own advantage is concerned its plighted word is worthless?

Unearned Increment.

The original Old Oaken Bucket is reported to have been stolen. Think of its possessing value enough for that, when once it went for a song!

THE PRICE OF COAL.

Congress has asked the department of commerce and labor to let it know, by the time the new session begins early in December, how the price which the consumer pays for coal is distributed.

That will be very interesting and enlightening information, and everybody will be glad to get it.

What induced congress to make this request is the strong suspicion that in increasing the retail price of anthracite twenty-five cents a ton because of the recent increase in wages granted to the coal miners by the coal operators, the latter are collecting more for themselves in increased profits than they are for the workers in increased wages.

It has been charged, and so far as we are aware not yet denied, that the increase in the price of coal will yield more than twice as much as the wage increase comes to.

If that is true, the coal mine owners are giving the public the worst of it, and there was a general belief that the public was getting very much the worst of it even before the latest increase in the price of coal.

It will be very interesting to know what becomes of the money when a consumer in Duluth buys a ton of coal and pays eight dollars for it.

The retailer and the wholesaler both get some, of course; yet in most cases they are identically the same people, and in some cases they are also more or less identified with the people who produce the coal.

Out of that eight dollars come the mining cost, labor cost, taxes, transportation by lake and rail, and several profits. The amount of these profits, and where the bulk of them goes, are things it will be very desirable to know.

It will be particularly desirable to know them if the knowledge points out a way whereby the cost of coal to the consumer, which is always going up and never going down, can be reduced.

Charles P. Neill, commissioner of the bureau of labor, has been put on the job of finding out these things, and as he has proved himself to be a pretty good investigator, important facts may be looked for in the report which he will make to congress in December.

Forethought.

Just the same, the wise man starts his vacation by buying a round trip ticket.

MORRIS'S RESIGNATION.

William Morris of Minneapolis, one of the three negroes whose membership in the American Bar association caused some hard feelings and bitter words in the convention of that organization in Milwaukee, has resigned. He gave no reason for his action except that he took it for the sake of the best interests of the association. The resignation was accepted, and some very nice things were said about Mr. Morris and his action.

Mr. Morris is entitled to all the nice things said about him. His action was that of a gentleman, and it showed him to be keenly appreciative of what was to be expected of a gentleman.

Without considering in the least degree the merits of the complaints against the admission of colored lawyers to the bar association, or the right of the association to limit its membership to any one or more races, the fact remains that Mr. Morris found himself in a position in which it was clear he was not welcome. He relieved both himself and others of the difficulties of the situation by resigning. That is the meat of the whole thing. It was the same course that many a man has taken when, for reasons of personality or belief or occupation, he has withdrawn from an organization in which he became convinced that his presence was unwelcome.

The striking feature in Mr. Morris's action is that it is in line with the principle laid down for his race by that greatest of negro teachers, Booker T. Washington, when he urged that the negroes seek advancement and success on the strength of personal achievement in the paths freely open to them, instead of trying, as some of their race have tried, to force themselves into ways that are not conceded to be open to the colored men. It may be true as is often maintained, that what Kipling calls "the dominant race" is exceeding its rights in refusing equality with itself to other races, but that refusal is not yet overcome, and it never will be overcome by tactics of antagonism such as have marked some instances in this country. It is a condition and not a theory that confronts the colored race.

But by such methods as this adopted by William Morris, much may be accomplished toward establishing the colored man in more nearly equal relations with the fairer-complexioned race. Mr. Morris by his resignation admitted no inferiority either of blood or brain. He reserves, unimpaired, the right to participate in the privileges of citizenship and of the bar. The only thing he admits is that he found himself, unwittingly perhaps, in a position where his presence was unwelcome to a majority of those concerned, and he did the right and gentlemanly thing in withdrawing. Mr. Morris's example will do more to obliterate racial prejudice than anything else he could have done.

At the Foot of The Ladder.

And to think that our eminent guests of today once scratched their young scalps over the definitions of isthmus and peninsula and stumbled over the spelling of Popocatapetl, "even as you and I."

THE PROFIT OF TRUST-BUSTING.

Capital punishment in the case of a human being is very bad for the health.

In the case of a trust capital punishment seems to be very good indeed for the health.

There is very evidently great profit in trust-busting—but as yet none of it is for the people. It is all for the trusts.

The Standard Oil trust was indicted for high crimes and misdemeanors, and never did a corporation offend more grievously or deserve punishment more severe—not for its bigness but for its brutality.

The oil trust was tried, convicted and sentenced to capital punishment. The sentence was carried out.

Look first for the results at your oil bills and your bills for the many by-products which the oil trust makes out of petroleum. You will find no change, unless it be a change for the worse.

The Boston News Bureau reports that the dividends paid "thus far this year" by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and its former subsidiaries amount to $35,284,000. The average dividend per share "thus far this year" is nearly seventeen per cent—this on the increased capitalizations lately made effective.

Before the trust was dissolved the stock of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey—the parent of the oil trust brood—sold around $600 a share.

The other day the bid prices of single shares of this company and the several corporations into which the trust has been divided aggregated $11,956.

Truly there is profit—great profit—in the trust-busting that Roosevelt began and Taft finished.

But the profit is not for the consumer of the trust's products.

Doubtful.

An Indiana trolley car was picked up by a cyclone, and now it's allowable to wonder whether the conductor forgot to murmur "Step lively, please."

THE REAL ARGUMENT.

Those who are fighting the Wisconsin income tax law point out that in some counties a couple of dozen people pay over sixty per cent of the total tax.

That doesn't prove the income tax to be bad; it proves that wealth is concentrated, that the income tax is reaching those who can best afford to pay, and therefore that it offers the fairest method of distributing the burden of governmental expense.

Your Turn.

Now that the candidates have all filed, the next move is for you to register.

THE FARMER AND THE TARIFF.

The protective tariff has been maintained by the votes of farmers. Without their votes it could not have survived.

Yet it is the farmer who has suffered most and gained least by the tariff, which taxes heavily everything he has to buy and profits him not at all. It is true that it pretends to increase the price of his products, but it is mere pretense. Under mountain-high protective schedules the farmer has had seven-cent corn and fifty-cent wheat. Yet he has continued hopefully to vote for protection!

Talking to a farmers' rally in Pennsylvania yesterday Governor Wilson made this clear. He made some other things clear, too. That's his way.

He pointed out that the people's idea of government has been that "it was a genuine partnership and that all were upon one footing and were to share alike." But of late the people have made an important discovery: Government "has been in the hands of self-constituted trustees, and the partners have seldom been allowed a real governing voice in its administration." The trustees have run it for the profit of those who could pay most for it.

Another thing Governor Wilson made clear. Col. Roosevelt's attitude on the tariff is that protection should be continued, presumably at its present altitude, but that there should be a different division of the "prize money"—Roosevelt's own phrase.

Governor Wilson showed that prize money "is generally acquired by capture and not by any process of earning." That makes the Colonel's phrase frankly applicable. But—"The interesting point I wish to raise is, who supplies the plunder? From whom is the prize money taken?" asked Governor Wilson.

It is taken from the consumers of the nation—from the farmer, when he buys agricultural implements and clothing; from the city worker, when he buys what his family needs for warmth, shelter and comfort. Congress passed laws at this session reducing the amount of this "prize money." A Republican president vetoed these laws, and in all his voluminous utterances Roosevelt has said no word of criticism.

The thing to do is to abolish the "prize money" system of taxation, and this is what Wilson will seek to accomplish as president.

Be Generous While You're At It.

There's no use in being stingy. Just remember, whenever you sit down and wish you had $1,000,000, that you might as well make it $1,000,000.62 so you could give away the odd pennies.

HONOR WELL BESTOWED.

On Oct. 1 Rev. Albert W. Ryan, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, will finish his nineteenth year of loyal service in Duluth. It is interesting to note, therefore, that he has just been honored by his theological alma mater, Seabury Divinity school, with the degree of doctor of civil law.

Dr. Ryan has wielded a wide personal influence for good. He is president of the local humane society, he was president of the Men and Religion Forward movement, and he has always been alert and effective in a large variety of wholesome activities.

To retain the allegiance of the few workers who favor protective tariffs and to win the allegiance of those who now vote for lower duties the protectionists must show them how it pays them to buy goods and tools in the dearest market and sell their labor in the cheapest market to which employers can force them.

Here are typical advantages, or "high price blessings," for builders, masons, carpenters, mechanics and miners in Protection's dearest market, as discovered by our "export agent":

A Cheney adze-eye hammer made in Little Falls, N. Y., costs the American carpenter a sixth more than the price at which the Henry Cheney company finds it profitable to sell the same hammer for export to the English carpenter, who votes for no protective duties.

For his hand and rip saws, made by the National Saw company in Newark, N. J., the American carpenter pays 36 per cent more than the price to the Canadian carpenter.

A mortising machine made by the W. F. & John Barnes company in Rockford, Ill., costs the American builder who favors tariff for revenue only, as well as the deluded protectionist, 21 per cent more than the export price of the same article to any builder beyond the country's boundaries. The American apprentice who buys a scroll saw from this company also has to pay 21 per cent more than it sells for abroad.

An eight-horse power Geiser stationary gasoline engine made in Waynesboro, Pa., costs the American builder, even if he can get it at wholesale, $403.75, while for export it sells for $332.50. The same discrimination of 22 per cent in favor of the foreign purchaser applies to this company's gasoline pump at $10.50 for export and $12.75 for home use.

Tax on Workingman's Tools.

Plumbs and levels (30 inches) made by the National Saw company, Newark, N. J., cost 37 per cent more; their plastering trowels (11 inches) 30 per cent more and their brick trowels 35 per cent more to Americans than they charge for export.

"Protection" for the American workingman is placed at 45 per cent on these tools for earning a living. Where the protection for the workingman comes in no one but the manufacturers of the protected articles can see, and they can see it clearly enough to contribute generously to the campaign fund of the Republican party and to leagues working for high protective tariffs.

The domestic price of a machinist's vise No. 72, manufactured by the Prentiss Vise company at Watertown, N. Y., is 21 per cent higher than the export price. This company charges wholesale to the American mechanic $9 for its combination pipe vise No. 712, which it sells for export for $6.

Machinists' hammers (two pounds), manufactured by the Henry Cheney Hammer company of Little Falls, N. Y., cost machinists here $1.51, nearly one-third more than the export price per dozen.

Coe's Wrench company at Worcester, Mass., charges machinists for some wrenches an advance of 25 per cent over their export price. The price of their knife handle wrench (ten inch) and of their steel-handle wrench is a quarter higher to the American machinist than they offer these tools for export.

Machine bolts, large and small, manufactured by the Columbus Bolt works at Columbus, Ohio, cost the American purchaser 40 per cent more than the export price.

Miner and Blacksmith.

The miner doesn't escape protection's levy merely because his work is difficult, dangerous and underpaid. Collins' coal picks, stone picks and mattocks, long cutters, cost the coal miner 11 per cent more than the export price of these same tools. The moulder, too, pays for his Blair moulder's spade, made by the Oliver Ames & Sons corporation at North Easton, Mass., a fifth more than its export price.

Excavators and horseshoers are no exception to protection's rule; "Wherever a workingman, whether employer or employe, can be soaked with high prices, soak him, but talk high wages."

The Oliver Ames & Sons corporation of North Easton, Mass., charges American excavators $12 a dozen for Ames cast steel shovel "D" handles, $12.75 a dozen for long handle cast steel shovels, and $9.50 for A. Lee shovels, "D" handles, in all three cases 15 per cent more than the export price.

The Henry Cheney Hammer company of Little Falls, N. Y., charges horseshoers a fifth more than their export price for farriers' hammers, while the United States Horseshoe company, at Erie, Pa., also makes horseshoers here pay a fifth more than its export price for steel horseshoes, and nearly a third more than its export price for iron horseshoes.

Plumber Taught to Charge.

The National Saw company, located at Newark, N. J., charges the American plumber for his 16-inch saws $6.32 a dozen at wholesale, 37 per cent more than its export price. Shall we blame the plumber for doing as he is done, or teach him better and help ourselves by not letting him be done out of two-fifths more than his tools are worth—through repealing protective duties?

The American carriage maker, pays $4.05 for a thousand Eagle tire bolts ¼ by 2 inches, at wholesale, instead of $2.90, the export price, or 40 per cent more, and a third more for Eagle carriage bolts made by the Columbus Bolt company in Ohio.

The widow who strives to support her children by knitting hose with Branson's knitting machine, made by the Branson Machine company in Philadelphia, must pay, even if she gets the wholesale price, $22.50 for her machine, nearly a fifth more than the export price of $19, and this $3.50 means more than a widow's mite to her. A vote for high protective duties is a vote to rob widows in more ways than one.

Cheaper tools and machinery lessen the cost of production and make cheaper costs possible.

Protectionists claim they want to protect American wage earners against cheap labor and cheap production abroad, yet last year American manufacturers exported over $110,000,000 worth of machinery and tools, most of this at lower prices than those charged Americans, and they so wilfully helped foreign competitors to produce more cheaply than Americans. We exported $8,167,517 worth of tools and $1,137,787 worth of saws in 1911, but the prohibitive duty kept us from importing any tools.

The total value of machines and machinery importetd in 1911 was $7,318,630, on which the average duty was 40.77 per cent.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

NOT ONLY SUFFERER.

To the Editor of The Herald:

During the last few weeks we have heard a lot of kicking about Duluth weather, and there is good basis for it, but I would just like to impress on Duluth people that we are not the only ones suffering. This spell of disagreeable weather seems to extend to all parts of the country and even to Europe. I read in a New York paper the other day that tourists were flocking back to this country from Europe because of the wretched weather there. This rainy, cold spell seems to extend to every part of America also; so let's sit tight and hope for better things.

A DULUTHIAN.

Duluth, Aug. 30.

The Day's Work.

The day's work counts—
It isn't what
You mean to do a week ahead:
It isn't what you know you'll gain
When all annoyances have fled;
It isn't what you've dreamed and planned—
Such hopes are but a phantom band—
The day's work counts.

The day's work counts—
The foot you gained
Since yonder sun dispelled the dark.
Next week, next month, next year are vain—
Unto the present summons hark;
How have you fared ahead since morn
In garnering life's oil and corn?
The day's work counts.

The day's work counts—
It isn't much,
The gain of those few painful hours;
But be content if there is shown
Some product of those sacred powers
Which guide each mind, uphold each hand.
Strive with the best at your command—
The day's work counts.

Before the Upheaval.

Toledo Blade: The correspondent of a London newspaper says that in any Welsh coal-digger's cottage will be found:

"Carlyle's 'Heroes and Hero Worship,' perhaps also his 'Sartor Resartus.' There will be Thoreau's 'Walden,' Ruskin's 'Unto This Last' and Charles Darwin's 'Origin of Species,' something by Adam Smith and by Karl Marx. The names of Huxley, Spencer, Morris and even Renan may proclaim themselves from the backs of well handled volumes. You may even notice the ancient names of Aristotle and Marcus Aurelius, certainly volumes by modern George Bordow and Richard Jeffries. George Eliot will be there. Charlotte Bronte, Tolstoi, possibly Bernard Shaw, although he is not very human reading to the workingman, and assuredly H. G. Wells. In fine, the coal miner's little library represents the active constructive literature of the past and the present, because, living the life he does of incessant struggle with nature, he wants to know—he wants to know!"

The men who by the grace of custom are called educated don't read Carlyle and they think of Ruskin only as an art critic. They leave Darwin to those interested in natural science. It is almost bad form with them to have a copy of Karl Marx's chief work. They know Tolstoi at second hand and Shaw by his plays. H. G. Wells is more popular, yet mostly for his early fanciful fiction than for his sociological studies. The Welsh miner is poor and ignorant and sometimes violent, from the standpoint of the so-called educated. Yet from that meager library of his he is absorbing material and constructing a political program that bids fair to overturn the world.

Who Was It?

Popular Magazine: If the name of the victim of this story were published it would create a sensation from the Atlantic to the Pacific, not to say from the Great Lakes to the Rio Grande. In short, if the name were known the gentleman in question would have seven duck fits, and the remainder of the population of the United States would leap madly into laughing hysterics. However, the victim is a man high in national politics and widely known in the staring public eye. He had befriended the hero of this narrative, and had bound him to him with hoops of steel. An exigency of politics required signal service from the lesser light, and the great man sent for the other, and said to him:

"I am your friend. I have made you what you are. For my sake go forth into the countryside and do thus and so."

The lesser light, having consulted his own interests and the opposite faction in the party, journeyed forth all right enough, but what he pulled off in the aforementioned countryside was in direct contradiction to his instructions. When he returned to the place from which he had started, he called at the offices of his powerful friend, but was received by a subordinate, who said:

"My boss thinks that you have treated him very badly in view of all his past friendship to you, and he will not receive you. Furthermore, he wishes you to send back to him the autographed photograph which he gave you."

The man thsu rebuked, hurried himself into a taxicab, dashed into his humble dwelling, seized a large stub pen, wrote an inscription across the picture, and sent the photograph back to its giver. The inscription read thus:

"Received without solicitation—returned without regret."

Her Simple Question.

Boston Traveler-Herald: A young man took a young woman friend to a ball game for the first time, and in his superior knowledge he asked her after the first inning was over if there was anything about the game she would like to have explained.

"Just one thing," said the sweet young thing. "I wish you would explain how that rheumatic bush league relic in the box ever gets the ball over the plate without the aid of an express wagon."

And in the silence that followed all that could be heard was the faint chugging of the young man's Adam's apple working feverishly up and down.

Why?

New York Sun: Mr. Cortelyou testified that he took no active part in raising Republican campaign funds in 1904. That task he left to Mr. Cornelius N. Bliss.

Why was Mr. Roosevelt's three-ply moral alibi of Oct. 26, 27 and 29 sent to Cortelyou and not to Bliss?

THE GOVERNORSHIP

No Promises Needed.

Albert Lea Tribune: Archie Hayes, executive clerk to the governor, calls attention to the fact that the governor's campaign book, speaking of his great (?) achievements, does not contain a single promise to the people. Doubtless the governor concluded there was no use in making a promise. He knows that the people are well aware of the fact that should he by hook or crook be renominated and re-elected, that there will be another export price for farriers' hammers, while the United States Horseshoe company, at Erie, Pa., also makes horseshoers here pay a fifth more than its export price for steel horseshoes, and nearly a third more than its export price for iron horseshoes.

Plumber Taught to Charge.

The National Saw company, located at Newark, N. J., charges the American plumber for his 16-inch saws $6.32 a dozen at wholesale, 37 per cent more than its export price. He Lives.

Cuyuna Miner: They say that Ed Smith no longer guides the destiny of the Eberhart career. That sounds strange. When did the honorable Ed die? We must have overlooked the obituary notices lately.

The Wisdom of Horngren.

Virginia Enterprise: Andrew Horngren, deputy commissioner of labor, says that the "whole of Northern Minnesota is for Eberhart." Andy knows as much about the conditions of Northern Minnesota as does the Queen of Sheba.

Trivial Matter.

Waverly Star and Tribune: The governor deemed it advisable to make a statement showing where $115 of the contingent fund went to, but explanations of the balance were considered "too trivial." Misapplication of funds and misspending of the same is considered by this administration a trivial matter.

Watching for Commissions.

Fergus Falls Journal: The governor has decided to call another conservation congress. It is probable that every voter in the state will be appointed a delegate this time.

Sins of Omission.

Lake Crystal Union: What sin has Governor Eberhart committed that Republicans should withhold their support?—Bro. Pease in Anoka Union.

It is not the sins of commission why the Republicans will not support Governor Eberhart, its the sins of omission. See?

Colossal Nerve.

Thief River Falls News-Press: Eberhart's campaign committee has issued an official booklet in which it gives the governor credit for the 5 per cent gross earnings tax and the direct primary. Of all the colossal nerve. Will some one of this committee please point to the paragraph in the governor's message or in his call for the special session advocating the increase in the gross earnings law?

Lay Him Away.

Cuyuna Miner: Much as we appreciate Eberhart's work as governor of our great and glorious state, we are willing to see him laid on the political shelf for the next fifty years, at least, and will try our best to reconcile ourselves to having to worry along without his help.

Washington to His Troops

From an address delivered before the Battle of Long Island, 1776.

The time is now near at hand which must probably determine whether Americans are to have any property they can call their own; whether their houses and farms are to be pillaged and destroyed, and themselves consigned to a state of wretchedness from which no human efforts will deliver them. The fate of unborn millions will now depend, under God, on the courage and conduct of this army. Our cruel and unrelenting enemy leaves us only the choice of a brave resistance, or the most abject submission. We have, therefore, to resolve to conquer or to die.

Our own, our country's honor, calls upon us for a vigorous and manly exertion; and if we now shamefully fail, we shall become infamous to the whole world. Let us, then, rely on the goodness of our cause, and the aid of the Supreme Being, in whose hands victory is, to animate and encourage us to great and noble actions. The eyes of all our countrymen are now upon us; and we shall have their blessings and praises, if happily we are the instruments of saving them from the tyranny meditated against them. Let us, therefore, animate and encourage each other, and show the whole world that a freeman, contending for liberty on his own ground, is superior to any slavish mercenary on earth.

Liberty, property, life and honor are all at stake. Upon your courage and conduct rest the hopes of our bleeding and insulted country. Our wives, children and parents expect safety from us only; and they have every reason to believe that heaven will crown with success so just a cause. The enemy will endeavor to intimidate by show and appearance; but remember they have been repulsed on various occasions by a few brave Americans. Their cause is bad—their men are conscious of it; and, if opposed with firmness and coolness on their first onset, with our advantage of works, and knowledge of the ground, the victory is most assuredly ours.

The Unfailing Stimulant

George D. Pentice: Men have tried many things, but still they ask for stimulant—the stimulant in use but requires the use of more. Men try to drown the floating dead of their own souls in the wine cup, but the corpses will rise. We see their faces in the bubbles. The intoxication of drink sets the world whirling again, and the pulses playing music, and the thoughts galloping, but the fast clock runs down sooner, and the unnatural stimulation only leaves the house it fills with revelry—more silent, more sad, more deserted, more dead. There is only one stimulant that never fails, and yet never intoxicates—Duty. Duty puts a blue sky over every man—up in his heart maybe—into which the skylark, happiness, always goes singing.

The Teachers' Snap.

Emporia Gazette: You would think that little 18-year-old girl who finished high school this year, and had a job to teach a country school six hours a day for only five days a week, at a salary of $40 a month, has something of a snap, wouldn't you? Compared to her sister, who clerks in a downtown store nine hours a day for six days a week at the same salary, it might look a little that way. But suppose, as was suggested by Joseph Rogers in an article in Lippincott's Magazine a couple of years or so ago, when compulsory education was being agitated more than it is now, an advertisement for a public school teacher was inserted in a newspaper, reading something like this:

"Wanted—Governess in private family to attend to the mental, moral, and spiritual wants of children, to take the responsibility of their bringing up; must be well educated, refined, good tempered; should dress well and be willing to obey one thousand rules of the home; only fifty children in family; salary $10 a week, without board; sixteen weeks' holiday, with no salary."

"How many answers would be received, and what would such an advertiser expect?" said Mr. Rogers.

Yet this is what Lyon county is asking of more than one hundred girls.

Unbossed Candidates

Brooklyn Eagle: Speaking at Union Hill, N. J., to an audience of four thousand, Governor Wilson had this to say about himself and Governor Marshall:

One of the things that makes me confident of the future is that the men who are offering themselves to you on this ticket are free men. Nobody owns them. So far as I am concerned I not only have not made a promise to any man, but no man has dared ask me to make a promise. My ears are free to hear the counsels of my fellow citizens.

The history of the Baltimore convention, as read by impartial men, bears out the governor absolutely. The bosses who turned to his support did so under the pressure of party sentiment, not because they relished the nomination of a progressive of independent convictions. Governor Wilson owes to them no obligation which would, to the slightest degree, affect the discharge of his duty to the whole people, as president of the United States.

Col. Roosevelt sees in Governor Wilson's election the potential triumph of bossism in every state of the Union. He sees in his own election the destruction of bossism. The fundamental difference between the governor and the colonel is that the former, in office, smashed bossism in his own state, while the latter, with equal powers of reform, left it intact. The governor is not profligate of promises, but he has no reason to fear judgment on his record.

A PEOPLE'S CAMPAIGN FUND FOR A PEOPLE'S PRESIDENT

SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED AT THE HERALD OFFICE, DULUTH

Are you a progressive?

Do you want a progressive president of the United States?

Do you want a president who will be obligated to no interest other than that of the people and who will place the welfare of the country before that of the exploiters?

If you do, you will vote for Woodrow Wilson for president of the United States.

If you intend now to voto for Woodrow Wilson, you also want a sufficient number of other citizens of the United States to vote for the New Jersey governor to elect him.

Woodrow Wilson is depending on the progressive citizens of the nation who want him elected to furnish a campaign fund that will bring his cause before the people generally.

Seekers after special privileges are enemies of Woodrow Wilson. They are the men who would own the government, which is all men's. They have owned the government in the past, but the election of Woodrow Wilson would sever the bonds between Big Business and the government.

Wilson must look to the plain people for the campaign fund. Unless the plain people respond to the appeal issued by him and the Democratic national committee, the campaign may not be made on the lines planned, and Wilson's election will be made more difficult.

Every man who believes in progressive principles of government owes a duty to vote for Governor Wilson and to give him such financial support as they can.

Every man should contribute according to his means to the Woodrow Wilson campaign fund. It is a "People's Campaign for a People's President."

Every contribution, be it $1 or $500, will be received with gratitude and used to good effect. There will be no squandering of money in useless ways. Every cent will be accounted for. The campaign fund cannot be as great as some of the campaign funds of the past, for the plain people cannot supply funds like the corporations.

Woodrow Wilson's "pitiless publicity" will be applied to his own campaign fund. The name of the donors will be published, as will the methods of expenditure. Governor Wilson believes in taking the people into his confidence.

Every contribution will be acknowledged by publication in The Herald. The lists will be sent to the Democratic national committee and every contributor will receive a receipt suitable for framing. In after years he will have evidence of his assistance in electing a "People's President" to restore the government to the people.

Contributions may be in any sum, and every man should give what he can. Mail contributions to Wilson Campaign Fund, Herald Office, Duluth, Minn.

BIG MONEY IN LOGGED-OFF LAND

Jack Pine Stumps Easily Removed—Ground Can Be Satisfactorily Prepared for $20 an Acre—Clover Proves a Paying Crop.

By M. N. Koll of Cass County, Minn., in Orange Judd Northwest Farmstead

THERE are vast areas of burnt-over and logged-off lands in the American Northwest. Although the timber that once grew on these lands is of different kinds, yet the same methods of clearing and breaking will answer in every case. If these lands were cleared it would mean homes for many families on some of the best land that lies under the sun. In a great many instances it has been the poor man who settled on this land, and his funds and energy would not permit the clearing of many acres each year. Where funds are not lacking, the work can be done more efficiently and in a great deal less time. I have had considerable experience with this work and will give a general idea of what I have done and how I did it.

One part of my farm is jack pine or lacustrine soil. This soil has a very large per cent of fine clay in its composition. There is no gravelly subsoil beneath, and as far as I can discern, beginning three or four inches from the top it is the same for a depth of fifteen to twenty-five feet. I have found that the capillary attraction is great in this soil, and in growing crops the dust blanket must be kept and has given very satisfactory results, even in very dry seasons. It is a very rare thing to find Jack pine soil that is stony. There are pine stumps of all kinds on this part of my farm. They do not sprout from the roots, but reproduce wholly from seeds. Jack pine stumps rot quite easily and rapidly under favorable conditions. In a few years they will rot out if given a good chance. Norway and white pine do not rot so readily and must be removed in some other way.

In March, 1907, I had sixteen acres of jack pine and occasionally some small Norway pine trees cut off. They were all rather small and were used for making cordwood and lath bolts. The stumps were cut about twelve to fourteen inches high. They were up to as much as fourteen inches in diameter and ran all the way from 160 to 320 stumps per acre. In June of that year I put two men, a team and a stump puller into the field to do grubbing. They prepared this ground for plowing at a cost of a trifle over $20 per acre. This was after the brush and all timber had been removed. I seeded this land to medium red clover with rye for a nurse crop in September. The rye made a splendid crop, but the clover was almost a failure. I noted that all over the field where large stumps had stood the rye looked poorly. I laid this condition to the fact that the large stumps pulled up a great deal of subsoil. The breaking and harrowing did not properly cover this. The sprouts were easily discernible, even in the following year's crop.

Clover Paying Crop.

During the winter of 1908 I had wood choppers remove some jack pine timber. This cost me $1 per cord with the brush pile ready for burning. One tract of four and one-half acres I broke without removing the stumps. This land was plowed about three to four inches deep, covering as much as possible the stumps cut close to the ground. I harrowed this twice with the teeth of the harrow slanted well back to avoid catching the stumps. It was then seeded to medium red clover without a nurse crop in May of the following year. In 1910 two crops of clover were cut and another in 1911. In July, the same season, two men with grub hoe and sweep cleared out the balance of the stumps in nine days. A few weeks later I plowed under the second crop of clover for this year's potato field. Early last spring I plowed this field again, and harrowed several times before planting.

Last year I let a contract to grub and clear, ready for the plow, twenty acres of cut-over jack pine. On this piece the stumps had been cut high and no work had been done after cutting, which had been done three or four years before. This contract was let for $15 per acre. Evidently this job was not a paying proposition, for the contractor asked $18 per acre for similar tracts after working this one. Quite recently I let another contract for grubbing by hand a small tract of this same jack pine land. This was cut over during the winter of 1908 and 1909. The land was broken the following July three to four inches deep, and seeded to medium red clover in September, without a nurse crop. Here again the stumps were cut low and the breaking was done among the stumps. The ground was harrowed twice before and twice after putting in the clover. The seeding was done with a seeder and a very good stand was obtained. From this I took two crops of clover in 1910 and two last year. The contract for this grubbing was let for $8.

Best Method Described.

From my many experiences in clearing pine lands, I found one method which gives the best result. The stumps should be cut close to the ground and the land broken up and seeded to clover for several years. During this time the stumps begin rotting and are twice as easily and rapidly removed. The examples I mentioned are taken from tracts where the timber was very similar in size and quantity. The difference in cost in getting the stumps out by the different methods is evident. This bad feature of grain not growing where the stumps were pulled is avoided when they are allowed to rot. My theory is this: When a pine board is located where it never gets wet, it will last indefinitely. Or, on the other hand, if it is under water where it never dries or gets any air, it will last. If the same board is placed where it will get wet often and alternately dries slowly, it will last but a few years. By plowing and harrowing the loose soil about the stumps this condition is brought about. It also gives a better chance to reach the dead roots and hastens decay.

This last method is to be recommended where money is not available to grub out the new stumps. I have demonstrated to my own satisfaction that after two or three years the stumps can be taken out for half the cost. In the meantime good clover crops can be grown. The clover roots have been going down and will make the soil porous and the soil will be ideal when the rotted stumps are removed. I put in clover for the first crop and leave it in clover for two years. I then take out the stumps. This cut-over land will produce clover enough the first year from every acre to pay for removing the stumps by the method already mentioned. After the stumps have been removed, I plow the second crop of clover under, and follow with a potato crop the following spring. I raised 164½ bushels of wheat per acre, following potatoes the driest season we have had. Potatoes yield from 100 to 225 bushels per acre. In exceptional cases, the 225-bushel yield has been doubled. At 40 cents a bushel, the average price at harvest time, an acre of potatoes will bring from $40 to $90. The markets are near at hand and that is quite an item in any country.

I have seen land sold at a little over $3 per acre since I came here eight years ago. I saw the same land sell this last year at $1,500 for eighty acres, forty of which were unimproved entirely. The price of land will undoubtedly increase as the country develops. The price of land will undoubtedly increase as more livestock is brought into the country. Clover grows as a weed and this is bound to encourage the dairy business, and wherever the dairy cow finds her way land prices are bound to move upward.

Subduing raw timber land is no easy task. It is not a job for the tenderfoot. The good, honest-minded home builder is bound to win. With a limited amount of capital and lots of energy, one can hew out a home in the logged-off section. The citizenship in this section is of high class. It is only the thrifty, hard-working man that succeeds and remains in the country. Every foot of our domain was placed here for a purpose and each year will see the pioneer pushing into the raw lands of the great American Northwest.

OIL TRUST MEN ACCUSED

Archbold, Folger and Others Indicted By Federal Grand Jury.

Criminal Violation of Sherman Law Is Alleged.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 30.—The federal grand jury of the Northern district of Texas has returned an indictment against a number of prominent oil men as representatives of the Standard Oil company. The charge is restraint of trade and commerce and unlawful conspiracy and combination in violation of the anti-trust laws.

It is alleged that individual defendants, the Standard Oil company and the Magnolia Petroleum company, conspired to destroy the business of the Pierce-Fordyce Oil association of Texas.

The specific offense is alleged to have occurred June 29, 1912. The names of the following persons appear in the indictment:

Calvin N. Paine, Titusville, Pa.; John D. Archbold, New York; Henry C. Folger, Jr., New York; John Sealin, Galveston; A. C. Eble, Dallas; E. R. Brown, Corsicana, Tex.; W. S. Teagle, Plainfield, N. J.; the Standard Oil Company of New York, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and the Magnolia Petroleum Company of Texas.

Court Decrees Violated.

Washington, Aug. 30.—The indictment of the Standard Oil officials at Dallas, it is said at the department of justice, is the result of a three months' investigation of charges that the decree dissolving the so-called trust had been violated. The government, it is added, has not yet decided whether it will proceed on the question of the violation of the decree, which would involve contempt proceedings. The Texas grand jury considered the question under the criminal section of the Sherman law.

First Federal Move.

This indictment constitutes the federal government's first move against the Standard Oil since it was dissolved last November under the mandate of the supreme court of the United States into its thirty-three component parts, to restore competition. A fight between Standard Oil interests and the Waters-Pierce Oil company, now pending in the federal court at St. Louis, involves the faithfulness of the Standard Oil in carrying out the decree of dissolution. The federal government is not a party to this suit, which was brought nominally by the state of Missouri to compel the inspectors of the election of officers of the Waters-Pierce Oil company at St. Louis last February to vote the proxies of the Rockefeller and other Standard Oil interests, which are said to have named Standard Oil men as officials of the company. The inspectors refused on the ground that it would violate the dissolution decree.

Borah Not on Taft Stump.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 30.—Senator W. E. Borah of Idaho emphatically denies the statement that he will campaign actively in support of President Taft. He declared any speeches he proposed to make probably would not be acceptable to the Republican national committee.

ENROLL EARLY FOR NIGHT SCHOOL

Business Men Will Talk to Y. M. C. A. Students Monday.

Instructors of the Y. M. C. A. night school will hold a social evening with prospective students of the school and their friends, together with some of the representative buisness men of the city, at the association building on Monday, Sept. 25.

This date has just been announced by Harry J. Sopher, director of the school, as the opening time of the school year of 1912-13. Addresses will be made by instructors, business men and former students, the general aim being to give the new students the benefit of the experience of those who have trodden the same paths. The business men will tell some of the guiding principles that led them to success.

Mr. Sopher already has thirty-five enrollments for the school. When the school opened on Oct. 1 last year, there were no advance enrollments, but on the first night there were twenty-one. Before the school ended last June, a total of 295 had been enrolled. Thus there is much greater interest in the school this year and it is expected that the coming season will be the most successful along that line of work in the history of the local association. The class rooms are amply equipped for 500 students.

This year's curriculum includes twenty-seven subjects. These are largely the same as are taught in the common schools, but they also include certain technical courses.

SMITH WILL SOAR ALOFT

Birdman Waiting for Better Weather Conditions for Hibbing Flight.

Second Day of St. Louis County Fair Promises to Be Big One.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Although the rain came down in torrents here last night and this morning the weather man changed things about noon, shutting off the faucet and the indications are this afternoon for a fair-sized crowd at the second day of the St. Louis county fair.

If the weather permits late today, Aviator Kyle G. Smith promises to go aloft, having made this decision after the fair management furnished another site for him to get away from. Much interest is shown in Duluth day, Saturday, and a big crowd is expected if the weather permits. Sunday will also be a big day. The horse races will be run this afternoon, although the track is pretty muddy. The races were a big event yesterday and a large crowd enjoyed them.

Horse Races Enjoyed.

A field of four started in the free-for-all trot or pace for the purse of $300. Bertha A., owned by A. Rundquist of Duluth, won in straight heats in 2:19, 2:21 and 2:22½. She was driven by Lon Matthews of Duluth. Nellie M., owned by John Bradford of Crookston, finished second; Denny Bright, owned by W. Sullivan of Bemidji, third and French Girl, the property of W. W. Keenan of Fargo was fourth.

Roy B., owned and driven by William Randall, won the class 2:35 trot or pace for a purse of $300 in 2:29½, 2:31½ and 2:22¼. Spooner Boy second, Jim Henderson third and Little Patch and Queen Alice tied for fourth. Queen Alice, owned and driven by Dick Giffin, gave Boy B. a great race in the second heat, but a broken sulky resulted in her being distanced in the first as well as the third.

The Laws troupe of acrobats and Al Pikes' rough riders gave free exhibitions in front of the grandstand between heats. Pikes' trick and fancy riding is the best that has ever been seen in this city. His company also feature a half-mile Roman standing race that is a novelty in its line and full of thrills for the people.

Displays Pronounced Great.

The exhibits of the resources of St. Louis county are an eye-opener to all fair visitors, being by far the largest that have ever been seen at the fair. Particularly fine is the agricultural exhibit. The Bear River, Floodwood, Meadowlands and town of Fern exhibits with that of the Duluth Commercial club were all in place yesterday. The exhibit of grains and grasses from Floodwood is the best ever shown here. It is in charge of J. C. Fogarty. Mammoth clover is being shown which cut five tons to the acre on the first crop and will yield three tons on the second. Alsyke clover that cut three tons to the first crop and two to the second is also on display. There is also shown oats standing 6½ feet high, black oats which went over 80 bushels to the acre last year as well as some especially choice bearded red barley and medium red clover.

Bear River's Exhibit.

Bear River's exhibit is made by the Farmers' Club of Bear River and is in charge of Vice President Sutherland, assisted by W. J. McLeod of Hibbing. It includes 125 different varieties of grains, grasses and vegetables including three samples of tobacco and seven varieties of potatoes. One of the features is wild blue-joint hay, 6 feet in length, red top hay standing 4½ feet high, a sample of Early Minnesota sweet corn 7½ feet long, a stock turnip weighing 15 pounds, a rutabaga weighing 14½ pounds and the first celery ever grown in Northeastern St. Louis county. Five varieties of onions are also being shown. Bear River has one of the greatest showings of garden vegetables on the grounds.

Duluth Commercial Club's Display.

The Duluth Commercial club's exhibit is one of the lastiest in the agricultural building. It consists of grains and grasses and small fruits, including strawberries, gooseberries, currants, pickling onions and a large variety of garden stuff, all very neatly displayed.

The Meadowlands exhibit is another marvel. A feature of this is head lettuce, white turnips and celery grown on muskeg land of the first year's breaking. Here also are some of the best specimens of Early Ohio and Carmen Red potatoes at the fair.

Grier H. Thompson is showing some fine vegetables from his farm at Swan Lake and has some exceptionally good potatoes.

Dr. E. H. Nelson of Chisholm probably has the champion head of cauliflower at the fair and Ed Ahonen of Chisholm is a liberal contributor in the garden stuff classes.

R. M. Pritchard of Hibbing is showing a fine sample of fodder corn and some oats standing over six feet in height.

Another tasty exhibit in the agricultural building is that of the Itasca-Bazaar store of Hibbing. This is of particular interest to the ladies as a showing of ready-to-wear garments, suits, cloaks and furs and is much admired by all the fair visitors.

Livestock Exhibit Large.

The livestock exhibit is the largest of any the fair has ever had and is a big improvement over that of former years. Frank Ansley of Hibbing is showing a fine thoroughbred Holstein bull; the Meadowlands farm has two fine full-blood Jersey calves on exhibition, a full-blood Holstein bull and two litters of choice Yorkshire pigs. More thoroughbred stock will arrive today and this evening.

The woman's department also surpasses last year's show. It is already taxed for room. The domestic science department would do credit to a much larger fair and the household art, horticultural and flowers and decorative plants exhibits are large and attractive.

Fine Poultry Showing.

In the poultry department there are a large number of exhibitors. One of the best displays is that of the meadowlands farm, H. E. Abell of Stevenson will no doubt get the prize for White Orpington chickens. R. E. Webb of Nashwauk is showing Indian Runners; Ed Ahenen of Chisholm, Rhode Island Reds; Alfred Carlson of the Pool location, Silverlaced Wyandottes; Mrs. Anna Dahlen of Brooklyn, Buff Orpingtons; J. J. Strickel, turkey pullets and a barred Plymouth Rock rooster; the Meadowlands farm, ten pens of chickens, including White Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, White Leghorns, Ancenas, Barred Plymouth Rocks. Other exhibitors of fancy domestic fowl are R. M. Spiece, Mrs. G. E. Eppard, the D. & I. R. demonstration farm, M. P. Ward, Phil Rosenbloom, G. E. Crossley, Andrew Nelson, Andrew Roberts and Miss Harriet Kohrt of Alice.

A unique exhibit is a hand-carved Japanese mahogany parlor set, the property of Mrs. Peter Wring of Hibbing. It is constructed without a single nail, decorated with inlaid ivory and is very attractive. The centerpiece is a bronze parlor lamp which took the first prize at the Seattle exposition.

William Weltzel, a Grand Rapids taxidermist, has an exhibit of deer and moose heads mounted, wolf and bear skins and other products of the taxidermist's craft.

KING OBTAINS VIEWS.

County Commissioner Interviews District Division Petitioners.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Aug. 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting of people living around Bergville, in the northern part of Itasca county, Wednesday, the wishes of the people on the petition filed with the county board asking for a division of School District No. 1 of Itasca county, were obtained by County Commissioner King of Deer River. Director C. E. Burgess of District No. 1 and Supt. E. A. Freeman attended the meeting along with Mr. King. The vote taken at the meeting was almost unanimously against Mr. King voting for the petition.

Mr. King explained that he called the meeting for the purpose of ascertaining the sentiment of all the people of the section of the district affected, and he is to be commended on his wish to consult his constituents in this and other like important matters, he having called such meetings on prior occasions, with the results that he has been able to more intelligently represent them on the county board and put their exact wishes before the board.

"As chairman of the school board," said Mr. Burgess, "I know of nothing that could be so helpful to me in ascertaining the desires of the people and outlining the policies of the board than such a meeting. I only wish that such meetings could be arranged for oftener, for I have never attended a meeting where there was a fairer spirit manifested nor one in which the people were so unselfishly looking solely after the interest, as Mr. King expresses it, 'not of taxes, but of the child.'"

Two Harbors, Minn., Aug. 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. and Mrs. J. F. McLeod are preparing to move to Harbor Creek, Pa. Rev. McLeod announced his resignation as pastor of the First Presbyterian church last Sunday. His only reason for wanting a change is to get a charge where he will have only one sermon to prepare each week, so that he can devote the remainder of the time to special study. Rev. McLeod came here four years ago and during that time both he and Mrs. McLeod have endeared themselves to the people.

Nothing definite has been decided as yet concerning the successor. The board of directors of the church met on Tuesday evening and very reluctantly accepted the resignation of the pastor.

SUMMER SUGGESTIONS FOR THE MOTHER

Mothers should be careful not to overfeed children during the hot months. No one requires as much food in summer as they do in cold weather. Serve only the lighter and more easily digested foods, and see that the milk is kept cool and the fruit ripe.

It is quite natural to expect some disturbance, such as constipation, indigestion, or summer diarrhoea, often accompanied by a cold. A mild laxative at bed time will, in most cases, carry off the congested waste from the stomach next morning and by cleaning the bowels restore normal conditions.

Cathartic remedies and purgatives should never be used for children. They are harsh and violent in their action and tend to upset the entire system. The combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and sold by druggists for fifty cents a bottle, is now very generally used to correct stomach and bowel trouble. It is mild and pleasant to the taste and contains no drastic drug, or narcotic, but acts naturally and easily, yet most effectively. A larger bottle, containing more than twice the quantity, is sold for one dollar. If you have never used Syrup Pepsin and would like a free trial bottle, postpaid, write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 406 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

lege of listening to the revelations disclosed by the John Doe investigation into police corruption. Supreme Court Justice Goff is inclined to believe the John Doe investigation should be held behind closed doors, as he thinks that in this way evidence can be brought out for use before the grand jury.

The wife of Police Lieutenant Becker, who is to go on trial for the murder of Rosenthal Sept. 10, is being shadowed by detectives. Mrs. Becker's visits to banks wherein her husband kept much of his money have been recorded, and a sharp watch is being kept on Becker's bank accounts. Mrs. Becker cannot be compelled to testify against her husband in the murder trial, but she can be called before the John Doe inquiry to tell what she knows of police graft conditions.

Stock Story Falls Through.

The defense set up in behalf of Police Lieutenant Becker, alleged instigator of the Rosenthal murder and accused of gambling graft, that he accumulated his fortune of nearly $100,000 through stock speculation, was punctured when James E. March, the lawyer, declared before the grand jury that there was no truth in statements attributed to him that he engineered the police officer's stock speculations.

March had been quoted as saying that he and Becker had a joint account, and that as a result of his tips, Becker had made thousands of dollars through stock deals.

When the lawyer was first questioned by the jury he is understood to have said in a general way that he acted for Becker in stock transactions, but could not furnish specific details. He added, it was learned, that he had acted in a similar capacity for others, naming an Italian banker. This banker was immediately subpoenaed and appeared before the jury.

March was then recalled, and after being closely questioned by the jury, stated, it was learned, that he had never conducted any deals for Becker worth mentioning.

Witness Has Disappeared.

Thomas Coupe, an eye witness of the murder, who testified before the grand jury, has mysteriously disappeared and Mr. Whitman was told that he had sailed for Europe. The prosecutor declared that Coupe's testimony could be spared, but expressed the fear that some of his more important witnesses might be spirited away in a similar manner. He had no legal way of detaining them, he added.

Becker's trial will begin, if present plans are adhered to, before any testimony is taken in the John Doe proceedings before Judge Goff to expose police corruption. After formally opening the proceedings next Tuesday, Justice Goff will adjourn them until Sept. 11, when the September grand jury will be empaneled. The trial of Becker will probably begin the day previous.

BROOKSTON BURGLARY.

Brookston, Minn., Aug. 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—A few nights ago burglars entered the Harri & Miettunen and Eklund & Olson general stores. Mr. Harri, who resides above the store, heard the intruders and frightened them away before any loot was secured. The cash register at Eklund & Olson's store was rifled and a small amount of money secured. It is supposed that some tramp entered the places and made his getaway on a passing ore train.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Brookston Townsite company, held at Duluth last Saturday, Rowe McCamus of this village was appointed secretary and land agent to fill out an unexpired term. A. M. Brunelle of Cloquet was appointed a director to fill an existing vacancy.

AGED WOMAN TRICKED BY MAN WANTED FOR MURDER

Mrs. Mary McLusky Relates Pitiful Story in Suit for Divorce.

Induced By Fraud to Deed Property to Fugitive Murderer.

A story of how she had been tricked out of her property by the man she thought she loved, of how but five days after their wedding she had blindly consented to make her will, leaving her home to him, of her discovery that the paper she had signed was not a will but a deed of conveyance and of how she later became aware of the fact that her husband was strongly suspected of one of the most foul and cold-blooded murders in the criminal courts of the county—that is the story upon which Mary Anna McLusky, aged and gray, is suing her husband, Frank McLusky, for divoce.

McLusky, defendant, has been a fugitive from justice since February last. As he is under indictment for the brutal murder of Asa Shepard, an aged Civil war veteran, at Kelsey on Feb. 23, he probably has good reasons for not appearing to fight the divorce action.

The events which led up to the killing of Shepard are related in the divorce action filed by Mrs. McLusky today. Throughout her story runs a thread of intimation that McLusky actually had designs on her life and that had he not evolved the idea of making away with the old soldier at Kelsey she would probably have fallen victim to his greed for money.

In Poor Health.

Mrs. McLusky is 77 years old and feeble in health. McLusky is 55 years old, a man of medium stature and weight and is lame in one leg. They were married on Sept. 18, last, and lived at Eveleth, where Mrs. McLusky had property and a home.

Prior to her marriage, Mrs. McLusky was a widow, Mary McEwing. Patrolman McEwing of the Eveleth police force is her son and there are other children in the family. Her children, it is said, were much opposed to the marriage.

McLusky got into the favor of the widow last summer when he did some capenter work and repair work about her home. It is said that one day when McLusky had just finished putting in a walk and some steps that the widow was very favorably impressed with the job and remarked that some day Frank might live there himself. He evidently took the hint, as they were married soon afterwards.

In her complaint, Mrs. McLusky claims that he professed great regard for her. She thought his kindness to be real and not feigned, and being lonesome for a life partner in her declining years, consented to the marriage.

On Sept. 23, 1911, but five days after the wedding, she claims that he appeared very anxious to be provided for in her will and that she was talked into the idea of making it out then. He told her that she was much older than he and that she was liable to drop off first. She agreed that an attorney should draw up the papers at once.

McLusky, she claims, went to an attorney and had a warranty deed conveying her property to a third party, May F. Nagle, a woman clerk in the lawyer's office, and a deed of conveyance from Miss Nagle to himself, and she signed the papers, laboring under the impression that she was executing her will.

Cruel and inhuman treatment is one of the grounds upon which the divorce action is brought. On Dec. 27, she says, he took her watch and $10 and stayed away from home for two weeks. On Feb. 15, she says, he dragged her down a flight of stairs, threw her over a chair and choked her in an attempt to compel her to give him $20. The money was forcibly taken from her.

Went to Kelsey.

A few days later, she claims that he went to Kelsey. Here, she claims, he was believed to have perpetrated the foul and brutal murder of Asa Shepard after having robbed the aged man of his soldier's discharge, pension papers and a deed to the place. She believes that he is the man who immediately after the killing of Shepard, but before his body was found, took the deed to Superior and secured $300 on a mortgage execution, necessarily a forgery.

Shepard's body was found hidden under the snow and a clump of roots less than 100 feet from the shack in which he was murdered. His head was chopped open with an ax, the skull being crushed in two places. The finding of the body revealed a revolting and gruesome sight.

Sheriff Meining has put forth every effort to run down McLusky, but every clew has failed. His description has been mailed to authorities all over the country and the case has not been dropped by any means. A substantial reward has been offered for his capture, both by the county and state.

THE FRESHNESS OF PETE CAUSES A FRESHET —By C. L. SHERMAN

ONLY FLAX CROP POOR

All Others in McHenry County, N. D., Best Ever.

So Declares the Manager of Grain Elevator at Velva, N. D.

Velva, N. D., Aug. 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Barring flax, the crops in McHenry county and all over this section beat anything ever raised in this garden spot of North Dakota, according to Edward Gilbertson, manager of Gilbertson Bros.' elevator here.

"Flax is not good," said Mr. Gilbertson, "largely for the reason that the farmers did not use good seed. Another reason, however, is that it was put in largely on old land, and the weeds got a chance to come up first and prevent its growth. Flax always does best on newly turned land, where there are not many weeds. After coming up, flax will remain stationary for some time, apparently making no progress, while weeds, if there are any, will spring up all around it. But I believe that we shall get all the flax that there is now in the fields. Most of it is about ready to cut, and as the wheat will be out of the way in another week, the farmers will probably be cutting their flax by that time, and the danger of frost will be over. We have so far had only one frost and that was in July. It was too light to do any damage.

Wheat Crop Record Breaker.

"Wheat in this country is a magnificent crop, probably the best that it ever produced. I do not think there is much that will run less than fifteen bushels to the acre and a great deal of it will run as high as thirty, and some more than thirty. About 75 per cent of the wheat had been cut when I left last Sunday.

"There is a very large crop of rye. What has been thrashed thus far has run thirty-two to thirty-three bushels to the acre. Of course, we cannot raise corn as well as they do farther East, yet we are doing well with that grain. More and more corn is being put in from year to year. Last year we had a good crop of corn when everything else was a failure.

"We have a larger acreage of wheat this year than ever before. Our rye and corn are increasing from year to year. Flax is being gradually given up, for there is little more new land to be broken, and it does not do well on old land."

DOUBLE BILL SPLIT EVEN

Dooks and Red Sox Divide, Sox Taking First and Losing Second.

Errors Make Comedy of First Contest—Johnson and Stark Clouted.

Duluth and Superior broke even in the double-header of yesterday, the Dooks grabbing the first game by the score of 13 to 8 and the Red Sox getting the second mix by the count of 8 to 4.

The first game was a comedy of errors, the Red Sox being guilty of five misplays and the Dooks booting and otherwise mistreating the pellet seven times during the contest.

Cummings and De Lave were used by the yokels, and neither of the pair of heavers proved anything of a puzzle. Johnson started for the White Sox and was succeeded by Worman. Neither of the Duluth men had very much besides their gloves and a supply of Peerless, but as we were hitting the offerings of the domestic hill men, it mattered not.

Errors on the part of Superior helped in the run making for Duluth in the first game. The boots of the Superior players were bunched with the hits of the Dooks, assisting in the running up of the large score.

The second game was materially different from the first in the matter of fielding. Both sides played a good fielding game in the second engagement of the afternoon, Superior winning because the Red Legs found the offerings of Johnson and Stark to their liking.

Stark went into the game after Johnson had pitched himself into a hole. There were two on when Edward walked to the mound. He issued a pass, filling the runway, and then four hits came in a row and the game was lost.

If rain prevents the game scheduled for today there will be two games at Hislop park tomorrow, which is Booster day in Superior.

NEW YORK WINS ON ERRORS MADE BY BROOKLYN.

New York, Aug. 30.—New York won from Brooklyn, 4 to 3, taking the game by scoring twice in the ninth inning, largely through Brooklyn's miscues. Myers' pop fly to left was allowed to drop safe. Devore ran for Myers. Fletcher singled, but Devore might have been forced at second had not Moran thrown wild to that base. Devore scored after an out had moved the runners, when Kirkpatrick fielded Snodgrass' grounder and Miller dropped the throw to the plate. Doyle's hit scored Fletcher with the winning run. Northen's hitting and a great catch by the same player were the features.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—Chicago bunched hits off Harmon, after St. Louis had taken the lead, and won out, 10 to 6. Schulte made a home run in the first inning, after which Harmon pitched air-tight ball until a batting bee of the locals was started in the fifth. It continued throughout the next two innings, netting enough runs to win. Errors by Chicago and opportune hitting by St. Louis gave the visitors their score. The batting of Magee and Smith featured. Chicago remained the same distance behind New York in the pennant race, as the leaders won their contest at Brooklyn. Score: R. H. E.

McCARTY MAY YET MAKE GOOD

Experts Declare the Western Youth Has Makings of Real Fighter.

New York, Aug. 30.—It was the general opinion of those who saw Luther McCarty in his strenuous struggle with Jim Stewart last week that the man from Nebraska will yet make good. His one fault is that he has not learned to hit in good form. There is no reason apparent why he should not be able to correct this shortcoming. He is not handicapped with an excess of fatty tissue, as Carl Morris was.

McCarty's muscles are of the proper snappy kind required in a boxer, but he throws his fists around altogether too carelessly at present.

Instead of measuring his distance and shooting his fist to the mark, he lunges in wildly with extended arms. He never counters, but wants to do all the leading.

No doubt overanxiety to make a good showing had something to do with his wildness. He has one good punch—a straight left—that can easily be developed into a dangerous blow. His trouble in delivering it was that he failed to turn the palm of his glove upward, so that the knuckles could take full effect.

Most novices are inclined to use swinging blows to excess, but McCarty, on the contrary, seems to overwork the straight ones. Straight hitting is usually the hardest knack to acquire and McCarty's tendency to favor this style would not be much of a mistake if he only shot out his blows straight from the shoulder with plenty of snap.

But he is inclined to start the blow before he gets in range, consequently it is spent before it reaches the mark. McCarty might do a lot better if he changed from his rushing style and set himself for his blows. While boxing Stewart he was continually in motion, even almost running at times in his haste to annihilate his opponent.

For this reason he was unable to brace his feet and get a good purchase. McCarty's lack of polish and ring generalship is no sign that he has not the makings of a real star. He should show marked improvement in every bout, as soon as he gets over the notion that he must win in the first round.

SPEED ARTISTS ON STARTING LINE

Annual Automobile Races Are Taking Place at Elgin, Ill.

Elgin, Ill., Aug. 20.—Thirteen drivers, mechanicians and cars, all keyed to the hour, today lined up at the starting point for the first three events on the two-day program of the annual Elgin automobile race meet.

The first flight, scheduled to drive 203 miles or twenty-four laps for the Illinois trophy, consisted of four entrants. These were Gill Anderson, driving a Stutz; Hobbs, with a Bayfield six; Nell Whalen, seated in a National and Merz at the steering wheel of a second Stutz.

The second flight consisted of six entrants who were expected to go 152 and five-tenths miles or eighteen laps in the contest for the Aurora trophy. The entrants for the Aurora were E. Pullen, Mercer, Hastings, Falkan, Trussel, Falkar; M. Roberts, Mason Special; S. Wishart, Mercer and Hughie Hughes, Mercer.

The third flight racing for the Jenks trophy, called the "Baby" division by other drivers, was scheduled to race ninety-six miles or twelve laps. There were but three starters in this third flight. There were H. Endicott, Mason Special; F. W. Moe, Ford "1911," and W. G. Worthington, with a Herreshoff "20."

Fred J. Wagner, official starter, planned to send off Gill Anderson as the first starter in the 203-mile race at 11 o'clock. Then at thirty seconds intervals the other twelve cars in the three first-day events were to be sent away.

According to this arrangement the three races, while separate and distinct contests, would be run off practically simultaneously. Unless serious delays were encountered, all of the races were to be finished before late afternoon.

After a final inspection of the eight and one-half mile course officials and drivers declared that it was faster and safer than ever before.

CRACK PACERS GOING AFTER WORLD'S RECORD

Hamline, Minn., Aug. 30.—With a little luck in the matter of weather and track it seems certain that a new world's record will be made over the Minnesota State fair track Monday afternoon.

M. W. Savage's sensational pacers, Minor Heir, 1:58½, and George Gano, 2:02, hitched to pole, will start to beat the world's team record of 2:02¾. They are ready for a supreme effort. Whether they will succeed or not is a question that is being very generally argued by horsemen and horse lovers all over the Northwest. The big majority of the experts, however, believe that if conditions are right this team will pace a mile under 2:02. Some enthusiasts even go so far as to predict a mile right at 2 minutes. Whatever the result, it is certain that the spectators will see a remarkable exhibition. People in Minnesota and the Northwest have never seen a trial against time by a team of this class. A single horse going at extreme speed in an attempt to lower a world's record, accompanied by running pacemakers, is an inspiring sight. Two champions hitched to wagon in a performance of this kind make a much finer spectacle and one that is bound to arouse enthusiasm.

The present condition of both Minor Heir and George Gano are forcible arguments to prove that a new world's record will be made on Labor day. Minor Heir, admitted to be the fastest harness horse in training, has repeatedly demonstrated his ability to pace miles under two minutes and has a race record of 1:59 and an unpaced mile record of 1:58½.

George Gano, although he has a mark of only 2:02, has paced a half dozen miles under 2:01, and two miles under 2 minutes.

Both of these pacers have won laurels on the grand circuit, defeating all of the fastest horses of the day. They were driven together for the first time this spring and surprised everyone by taking to double harness with perfect good nature. They have been trained carefully during the season with the idea of having them at their best for the opening day of the Minnesota State fair. Their owner, Mr. Savage, is especially anxious for the team to lower the world's record over his home state fair track and the course made famous by Dan Patch's mile in 1:55.

In addition to the world's record effort of the Savage team, Dan Patch, the champion of champions, and his champion 3-year-old son, Dazzle Patch, will be exhibited before the grandstand and the afternoon will be filled with other high-class speed events, including the 2:25 trot, the 2:07 pace, 2:20 pace and the 2:17 trot, for purses aggregating $5,000.

There will also be two running races and a complete program of unusual vaudeville and track events.

TEN EYCK AND HACKETT MAY RACE AT BAUDETTE

Negotiations are on for a sculling race between John Hackett and James E. Ten Eyck, coach of the Duluth Boat club. The people of Baudette are extremely eager to have Ten Eyck come there some time this fall and row the long product of Baudette, Minn. Jimmy started training yesterday and if he finds that he can get into prime condition, will accept the challenge of the lone sculler of the northern part of the state.

Mayor William Noonan of Baudette, one of the cleanest and most enthusiastic of sportsmen, is keen to have the two men come together and is doing everything in his power to bring the contest off.

Fred Harnon, who has the interests of Hackett at stake, is also urging the Duluth man to come to Baudette and race, and it is very likely that the race will be brought off sometime during October.

If Ten Eyck can get into first class condition it is generally believed new park will not be opened until about Oct. 1.

RACES ARE OVER AT READVILLE

Grand Circuit Meeting Closes With Fast Events on Last Day.

Readville, Mass., Aug. 30.—The Grand Circuit closed its meeting here today with the 2:09 trot and the 2:06 trot promising the fastest trotters on the circuit this season, outside of Billy Burk.

The 2:06 trot was expected to bring together such well known horses as Anvil, from the stable of Ed Geers; Helen Stiles, handled by Tommy Murphy, and Nacy Royce, driven by "Knapsack" McCarthy of Terre Haute.

Peawee was favored by some for the 2:09 trot, owing to the showing made with her by Ed Geers early in the season.

It was announced that a special race for a purse of $1,200 had been filled to complete the day's card.

Esther W. won the classic Massachusetts stake for trotters which were eligible to the 2:12 class last spring in the Grand Circuit meeting here yesterday, but not until the event had gone five heats. Long Shot Cox drove the Pennsylvania-owned mare.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Announcement was made yesterday that ex-Alderman Stephen W. McKeever and E. J. McKeever, Brooklyn contractors, had purchased stock in the Brooklyn baseball club. President Ebbets needed capital to complete the new Ebbets field and the McKeevers joined with him in his venture.

LACK FUNDS FOR DETROIT INQUIRY

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 30.—Prosecuting Attorney Hugh Shepperd declared last night that the investigation of alleged aldermanic graft and enrollment frauds in Detroit and also the prosecution of the cases already started, have been halted temporarily at least because of the lack of funds. The principal reason, he said, is because a member of the board of auditors has applied for an injunction to restrain him from using the $15,000 recently appropriated.

Prosecutor Shepperd declared he had been forced to discharge all but one of the detectives who were employed by him in connection with both the aldermanic and enrollment cases. The statement said that he has already advanced $3,000 to finance the work he has accomplished, but that he will not use the $15,000 fund for fear that an adverse decision might mean that he would be compelled personally to make good any amount used.

The injunction was asked for by Auditor Buhrer, who from the start opposed the grant of the appropriation. The two other members of the board of auditors, however, overruled Buhrer's objection.

Was Renominated.

Tuesday last, Prosecutor Shepperd was overwhelmingly renominated at the primary election. Wednesday the preliminary examination of Alderman Walsh, charged with bribery, was continued to next Tuesday. It was stated at the time that the parties wished the continuance because the strain of primary campaigning had affected persons connected with the prosecution and defense.

The prosecuting attorney has indicated that he was ready to proceed against the alleged lawbreakers as soon as the "sinews of war" were assured him. He added that he would not ask for a grand jury investigation of alleged enrollment frauds until his department had been able to make a sweeping investigation of conditions generally throughout the city. He charged in his statement that the disclosures so far were of a partisan nature.

"IN BAD" WITH GENERAL TRADE

Lumber Manufacturers Who Sold to Consumers Put Under Pressure.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 30.—Further evidence of pressure brought to bear on lumber manufacturers and wholesalers who violated the lumber trade code of ethics by selling to mail order houses, "poachers" or consumers, was given in the government anti-trust suit against the Retail Lumbermen's association.

Lewis Schwager of Schwager & Nettleton, manufacturers and wholesalers of Seattle, told how his company had had much correspondence with some of its large customers and with the association's secretary when they sold to "unethical" dealers in North Dakota.

When Mr. Schwager was asked why a manufacturer or wholesaler would sell lumber to a railroad with which to build a roundhouse, but would not sell to a farmer to build a barn, Mr. Schwager answered:

"The rule of good fellowship. We did not care to offend the retailers upon whom we depended for our trade."

Opposed New Yards.

Evidence that lumbermen frowned upon the opening of new yards in towns where competition was keen was introduced in the form of a letter sent out by F. D. Becker, secretary of the Pacific Coast Shippers' association. This circular told of Schwager & Nettleton having received an order from a man at Kingman, Kan., who represented that he wanted to start a yard. Investigation through the Southwestern Lumber association, the circular said, showed that the would-be customer had small financial backing and no stock, and added:

"There are already three retail yards in Kingman."

Schwager & Nettleton declined the order.

E. G. Butterfield, who was formerly sales manager of Foy & Roy, a wholesale firm, said his firm sold four or five cars of lumber to the H. N. Roberts company at Davenport, Iowa. The sale was made the subject of much correspondence between the secretaries of the different associations.

GLEANED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

Frank Tunnen, a druggist at the Lyceum pharmacy, was badly choked when he awoke early this morning to find a burglar prowling through his room at 229 Fourth avenue west.

He raised himself on his elbow and was about to give an alarm when the man seized him by the throat, throttling him so that he could not cry out for assistance. The prowler was evidently standing beside the bed when Tunnen awoke.

After attacking Tunnen he quickly made his escape and disappeared. Tunnen dressed hastily and summoned a policeman who was close by. They made a thorough search of the vicinity but could find no trace of the prowler.

An examination disclosed that Tunnen had lost about $30 in cash, which he had in his clothes. No other valuables were disturbed, as far as could be discovered.

Two men who were convicted of stealing in downtown stores were handed the limit in police court yesterday afternoon.

Charles Brown, accused of stealing a waist from the National store, and John Carmichael, arrested for taking miscellaneous articles from the 5 and 10-cent store, each got $100 or three months in the county jail. Neither had the money to pay their fines and were sent over the hill for a term which will see them well into the fall.

Brown was arrested by Patrolman Riedel after a lively chase through the railroad yards and Carmichael was arrested by Detective Terry after he had been seen helping himself to several mirrors.

That misfortunes do not come singly was illustrated yesterday afternoon in the case of the Singleton dairy.

Yesterday morning Roy Singleton was struck by the automobile of M. H. Alworth at Eighteenth avenue east and Superior street after leaving the residence of Joseph Sellwood, where he had delivered milk. The machine was passing on the other side of a street car and Singleton failed to see it before it was on top of him.

The machine was stopped at once and the injured man hurried to St. Luke's hospital. An examination showed that he was badly bruised but that no bones had been broken.

Yesterday a live wire killed a horse belonging to the dairy farm. It appears that the animal went into a live wire which had been left hanging along the street by a telephone company at Forty-seventh avenue east and Cooke street. The horse died almost instantly.

Gunnor Berglund, the driver, attempted to remove the wire with his hand and sustained a severe shock. It was only with great difficulty that he was able to release his hold. Today he is able to attend to his work, but is going about with a decidedly stiff neck.

Felix Jasnoch promised to keep his chickens fenced in when he was arraigned in court yesterday on a charge of allowing his fowls to run at large and the case against him was dismissed.

John Barrett, charged with disorderly conduct in that he tried to lick Patrolman Mooney without giving any one any warning of his intentions, pleaded not guilty when arraigned in police court yesterday afternoon. His trial was set for this afternoon.

• • •

Edward Eklund pleaded not guilty when brought into police court this morning to answer to using abusive language. His hearing was set for this afternoon.

• • •

Tom Campbell and James Sweeney pleaded guilty to trespass when brought into police court today. They explained that they were slumbering in the barn of a man for whom they had been working and were given suspended sentences.

Frank Sjoras, a farmer, was arrested on a charge of drunkenness yesterday afternoon. The police reported that he was carrying a revolver in his pocket. He pleaded guilty this morning and got off with a suspended sentence after he explained that he had purchased the revolver for another man in the country.

LAWS WHICH DO NOT COUNT

Carelessness or Cunning in Framing English Statutes Was Fatal.

London, Aug. 30.—Besides possessing laws which are absolete in one part of the kingdom and rigidly enforced in another, and laws which are not thoroughly understood by the authorities who have to enforce them, this country can boast—if it cares to do anything so foolish—of laws that break other laws and actually have been declared illegal by the highest tribunal in the land. The latest and most astounding instance is Lloyd-George's land valuation act, 11,000,000 copies of which had been sent to property-owners. The high court has now confirmed the decision that the act contravenes the British Constitution and that it cannot be enforced.

Probably the English law that defeats the law more than any other measure is the so-called married women's property act. It lends itself readily to abuse and at the same time shields the abuser from justice. Owing to its careless construction, a man who is in debt up to his eyebrows can snap his fingers at his creditors by the simple expedient of calling himself his wife's manager—a course that was actually adopted by a prominent London publisher not long ago. A few simple precautions have to be taken, the debtor's wife, for example, has to be presented with all the debt-harried one's valuables, but when these things have been fixed, he is beyond the reach of duns and bailiffs.

Curiously enough, most of these laws that actually break or defeat the intentions of other laws are recent and largely socialistic enactments. The workmen's compensation act is another that, though sound enough in itself, succeeds principally in nullifying its own object. In order to meet the increased liability of employers the system of insuring servants sprang up. Most of the insurance companies, however, make it a rule to fight every compensation claim on principle, with the result that a lot of genuine claimants fail to get their full due.

A queer instance of a law being made futile by the thoughtless insertion in it of a single word is that which prohibits an English publican—or saloonkeeper—from selling intoxicants to children under the age of 14. For, by the wording of the act, the penalties of disobedience only can be enforced on the proprietor of a gin palace who knowingly offends. Of course, the boniface has only to state he thought the child over 14 to escape scot free. Nor is this the only law dealing with the selling of rum which robs itself of power by means of its own provisions. Another is the act which ushered in the famous blacklist.

The idea was that confirmed soaks should be photographed and the photo circulated throughout the neighboring district. But the act foolishly also provided that the bibulous one's consent must be obtained before he could be photographed. And practice soon showed that the man with an abnormal thirst was possessed also of an abnormal prejudice against photographers and all their works. Requests to pose were not met with that courteous compliance that the framers of the act probably had anticipated. The result was that it became a laughing stock and is now, for practical purposes, a dead letter.

If you have never read every ad in any one issue of this newspaper, try the experiment. You'll be glad you read this suggestion.

GOSPEL TO THE CHINESE

Princeton Graduate Engaged in Y. M. C. A. Work in the Orient.

Says the Younger Generation Is Adopting the Christian Religion.

Dwight Edwards, a graduate of Princeton university and at the present time working in the Y. M. C. A. movement among the Chinese, is in the city today. Mr. Edwards has been visiting at Isle Royale and at the present time is on his way back to China, where he will resume the work he has done for the past five years.

"We are meeting with the greatest encouragement in our work," said Mr. Edwards. "The spread of the Christian movement is greater than very many people, unfamiliar with the work, have any conception. The younger Chinese are rapidly taking up with the Christian gospel and at the present time in China thousands of young students are going through the land and helping us in our work.

"In many of the schools of the Celestial empire the Christian religion is being taught. The old prejudice against it and also the resentment against the men and women spreading it, are dying out. I have met with the kindest consideration during my work in China.

"Some of the most brilliant of the Chinese scholars—and the Chinese are a much greater race than some of us in America have any conception of—have embraced the Christian religion and are doing everything in their power to advance it. Education today is more general in China than ever before in the history of that nation. To my mind the advancement of the Chinese during the next decade is going to be something remarkable.

"The resentment against the adoption of foreign ideas is rapidly disappearing, and with the readiness to learn what some of the other nations are doing the Chinese have discovered their own lack of progressiveness. When you consider that only a few years ago education was a rarity among the young people of the empire, while today there are thousands of the boys and girls of China going to school, you may gain some small idea of what progress in one way is making."

Mr. Edwards went to China with Mr. Galley, one of the greatest football players that Princeton ever produced. He is associated with Mr. Galley in the Y. M. C. A. work there, and he says he looks forward to his return to his labors.

During his stay in China, Mr. Edwards has learned the Chinese language and carries on his work of instruction in the native language.

ATTENDANCE WILL BE LARGE

Great Interest in Meeting of National Conservation Congress.

Indianapolis, Ind. Aug. 30.—That interest in the meeting of the National Conservation congress here Oct. 1 to 4, inclusive, is more than national is indicated by the acceptances that have been received to invitations extended recently by the officers of the congress and the local board of managers. The replies received thus far show that practically every civilized country on the globe will be represented.

Additional interest has been aroused in the meeting of the congress this year, because of the fact the question of conserving human vitality will be discussed. Experts from both America and Europe will participate, and it is expected that the resultant benefits from the discussion will be very important. The number of notables that will attend the congress this year will be far greater than at previous congresses. Section meetings will be held to allow the full consideration of subjects paramount in the conservation movement.

Chairmen of the standing committees will preside at these section meetings. Among the list of chairmen and the subjects that will be considered are the following: Forests, Prof. H. S. Graves, Washington, D. C.; lands, Prof. L. H. Bailey, Ithaca, N. Y.; waters, Dr. W. J McGee, Washington, D C.; minerals, Dr. Joseph A. Holmes, aWshington, D. C.; vital resources, Dr. W. A. Evans, Chicago; food, Dr. W. Wiley, Washington, D C.; homes, Mrs. Matthew T Scott, Washington, D C; child life, Judge Ben B Lindsey, Denver, Colo.; education Dr. C. E. Bessey, Lincoln, Neb.; civics, Ralph Easley, New York city; wild life protection, Dr. W. T. Hornaday, New York city; national parks, Dr. W. J. McGee, Washington, D. C.

The greeting addressed to the American people in the official call says the time has come when the conservation of national vitality is a question of immediate concern. It declares that our efficiency as a nation depends on the care of our vital resources even more than on the care of our forests, waters, lands and minerals. "Hitherto," says the call, "the conservation congress has dealt principally with the four subjects mentioned, but this year it has taken for its main theme vital resources. National and state authorities, associations and individuals are giving earnest attention to this questionn. It remains for the conservation congress to bring all these forces together, that they may join in rousing a sweeping sentiment for the conservation of vital resources."

Mill City Widow Would Recover Money and Deeds.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 30—Mrs. Caroline M. King, widow of the late congressman, William S. King, a pioneer of the state and at one time wealthy realty dealer, has filed suit in district court here, asking that notes amounting to $45,000 and a deed to Minneapolis property valued at $40,000 be cancelled and that an accounting be made by Carleton Hudson of $35,000 in cash, said to have been given him by Mrs. King. Hudson, it is alleged in the petition, also holds the notes and property deed.

According to the petition filed Mrs. King, fearful lest a family scandal which is said never to have existed, become public, has given to Hudson practically her entire fortune in the last few years. Officers, it is said, are in Chicago, seeking Hudson for the serving of papers in the suit.

SNAPSHOT OF YOUNG BOY PROVES AID TO MOTHER.

Chester, Pa., Aug. 30.—When little Joe Doyle, who is four years old, strolled away from home in the Fifth ward two weeks ago he little knew that he was to become the relief agent for the whole family. Joe's mother Mrs. Patrick Doyle, is a widow and has been struggling heroically to keep her family together. Joe unwittingly answered her prayer.

In his ramble little Joe reached the federal building, a mile from his home. Wearied by the long jaunt, he sat on the postoffice steps, then his head began to droop and soon he was asleep. George B. Ditchfield, a clerk in the postoffice, saw the sleeping boy. Then John J. Buckley, a manufacturer, and William B. Chadwick, superintendent of the Chester Water company, came along. They sent for a photographer, then sought information about the sleeping boy.

Within a day or two postcards bearing the picture of little Joe asleep on the steps were on sale in Chester stores. The funds thus realized were turned over to Mrs. Doyle and good times have come back to the home.

GAY DOINGS AT NEWPORT

Vanderbilt $75,000 Ball Almost Broken Up By Chorus Girls.

Invited By Millionaires to Stay for Moonlight Bathing Party.

New York, Aug. 30.—Chorus girls in "The Merry Countess" company who played at the Cornelius Vanderbilt $75,000 ball at Newport, tell with no little pride how they almost broke up the ball. The members of the company were given their suppers under a tent on the lawn, and the millionaires slipped away from the regular party and helped to make things comfortable for the girls.

There was champagne in pitchers, and the millionaires wanted the girls to stay and have a moonlight bathing party. The millionaires promised to take the girls to New York in motor cars in time for the Saturday's performance. The girls were finally corralled by Morris Gest and put on the train. Lorraine Bright, assisted by her sister, Mildred, tells the story:

"You ought to see those millionaire women dance," began Lorraine. "I used to think I couldn't dance," Mildred broke in, "but after seeing those women get up in front of that crowd and make a mess of what they call dancing, I think I ought to have a medal."

"O, Those Skinny Ankles."

"And such skinny ankles; O-o-o," and Lorraine covered her face with her hands at the thought.

"If I had figures like they have I'd soak a few diamonds and buy me a pair of symmetricals. But I must tell you about the men."

"Yes, tell him about the men," Mildred said.

"They'd make great chorus men," complimented Lorraine, "and such Johnnies they are. You know they put us all out in the yard under the tent after the show to eat our supper. There weren't any of the guests there when we started, but one by one you could see the men sneaking out under the trees and coming around to pass the time of day. Before we got through every chorus girl had a millionaire John."

"And they were all millionaires, too," Mildred corroborated. "None of those Harvard boys. They were afraid to come out."

Nix! No Harvard Boys.

"Their mothers were with them," Lorraine said. "And a Harvard boy in Newport is a lot different from a Harvard boy in New York."

"We saw a couple we know," Mildred laughed, "and they dodged around and pretended they didn't see us. They were afraid we might speak to them and get them in bad with mamma."

"Then Mr. Vanderbilt, he came out, too," giggled Lorraine.

"Don't say anything about Mr. Vanderbilt," Mildred reproved. "He was perfectly proper. He didn't speak to anybody except the principals."

"But the others," exulted Lorraine. "They wanted us all to stay and have a moonlight bathing party on the beach. Can you beat it? Said they'd cut the ball and swim in their fancy costumes. And some of the girls were willing to do it."

"He was afraid all the time that something would start," Lorraine said. "He was sent up there to watch us and see that we all got back safely. And when he saw how things were going he came around and told us all to run for the train. When he made that announcement everybody laughed at him—millionaires and chorus girls. But he argued, and finally we all felt sorry for him and told the millionaires we really couldn't stay any longer; although the pitchers of champagne still seemed to be staying full, no matter how much was poured out of them.

"So we finally got into our wagon that took us down to the hotel, and about twenty of those Johns all dressed up in this Hindu stuff, followed us in motor cars and drove alongside and tried to coax us to get into their cars."

DARING EXPLOITATION OF MODERN SURGERY ALMOST BEYOND BELIEF

Two instances among the many seemingly miraculous performances of modern surgeons have recently seemed noteworthy enough to justify their finding a place in the telegraphic news of the day and being published far and wide in the newspapers, says the New York Sun.

One was the case of a patient in the Pennsylvania hospital in Philadelphia who had suffered a serious laceration of the heart. The treatment, to be of any value whatever, had to be almost instantaneous, and fortunately for him his case was taken in hand without delay. He was put under the influence of an anaesthetic and three of his ribs were sawed through to make a sufficient aperture for the operation proper, and nine longitudinal sutures were put in the heart itself, which, it is expected, will heal "by first intention," giving the patient a new lease of life.

The second case, which in former times would probably have been classed among impossible performances, was that of a young girl in Pittsburg who had suffered a fracture of one of the bones of the leg in an automobile accident. The bone was set and a recovery was expected as a matter of course, but for some reason nature failed to go with the usual knitting process and it seemed probable that the girl would remain permanently crippled.

The surgeon in charge, however, was a man of resource, and he devised a band of metal which was to be clamped about the two broken ends of the bone and left in position. This band or clamp he constructed of vanadium steel and fastened it in place with screws of the same material, so that the girl will go through life with a skeleton that is in part metallic.

Case of Clubfoot.

A third case, the description of which appeared just after the two others, was that of an infant who had been born clubfooted and taken when only 2 years old to the Post Graduate hospital for treatment. This trouble is defined as a result of an insufficient number of bones in the foot, and has been commonly treated by cutting the ligaments and forcing the foot into a normal position, in which it is confined by metal braces, after which nature is expected to complete the cure. Satisfactory results have sometimes been attained in this way, but in a discouraging number of cases the result has been far from satisfactory, and the surgeon who undertook this case resolved upon a new method.

Obtaining from Bellevue hospital the bodies of two children who had been born healthy, but strangled at birth, he took from them two pieces of bone such as were needed to supply the lack in the feet of the deformed child. And these he put in position by the well known methods of bone transplantation. All that remained was to confine the feet and legs of the patient in plaster casts and await the knitting process of nature. This was done, and it is now expected that the child will be able to walk naturally in due time.

Remarkable as these accounts seem to the lay mind, it is worthy of note that they occasion no great surprise among surgeons, who indeed seem to be so accustomed to the working of physical miracles that nothing short of actually restoring life to a dead body seems likely to astonish them. They serve, however, to recall the opinion of Napoleon Bonaparte, whose knowledge of all subjects of human interest has always been held to have been really marvelous.

He is quoted as saying that he had a poor opinion of medicine but the highest respect for the profession of surgery. And it is likely that he had as many opportunities to observe the practice of the two sciences as any one ever had, to say nothing of his having provided more opportunities for such practice than any one else in modern times. It is therefore somewhat of the nature of the irony of fate that Napoleon III. should have succumbed to the second operation he underwent for stone.

Attitude of Profession.

The attitude of the surgical profession generally may be realized from the remarks of one of the most prominent members of it, who consented to talk on the explicit understanding that his name should not be quoted. Such a request is often made of newspaper writers, but not always in good faith. This time, however, there was no question of sincerity. Without the promise he positively refused to talk.

When the first of the cases cited above was called to his attention the great surgeon leaned back in his chair and smiled.

"It was a creditable performance," he said. "Not every man, even if he knew how, would venture to saw through three ribs to get at a man's heart and then take nine stitches in it to close up a wound. And not every surgeon who might attempt such an operation would succeed in performing it properly. The man who did it in Philadelphia, as you say somebody did, undoubtedly understood his business and is certainly entitled to credit for having done a clever job. There is no reason to suppose that the patient will not recover. If the surgeon did his work properly a recovery is to be looked for as a natural consequence.

"It seems to the lay mind, I suppose, a particularly sensational operation to penetrate the interior of a living human body and patch up by mechanical means one of the vital organs such as the heart, when it is seriously lacerated. And of course in the case of the heart it seems very much more serious and sensational by reason of the fact that death is inevitable in case the action of that organ is suspended for any considerable time. But even an operation of that sort is to be considered as a routine matter in the experience of a skilled surgeon.

Depends Upon Operator's Technic.

"It is perfectly easy to get access to the heart by cutting through to it and even sawing the ribs, as is said to have been done in the case you cite. Then when it is laid bare all the surgeon has to do is to take it in his hand and put his stitches in quickly. It is only a great muscle, and the stitching does not compare in difficulty with much that is done in other cases. Of course the heart will wiggle, and he will have to hold it very firmly, but there is no danger in that. He may even grasp it so tightly that its natural action will be suspended for a few seconds without serious results, and a few seconds are all that he will require for his stitching if his technic is sufficient for the operation. All depends upon the technic of the operator, and such an operation as this makes no such demands as are made in a large variety of other cases.

"What would you class as the great achievements of modern surgery?" he was asked.

"Well, there are several branches in which surgery has made great advances in modern times," he answered. "One of these is undoubtedly gallstone surgery. The excision of stone has been practiced for many centuries, but it was only when the stone was located in the bladder that the surgeons of the olden times were able to accomplish cures. They were able to reach a stone then with comparative ease and to remove it with safety. They even practiced the crushing of the stone itself before removal in cases when it was not deemed advisable to make an aperture sufficiently long to allow of its removal without crushing, and that treatment was practiced centuries ago; but it is only in modern times that instruments have been devised with which the crushing can be done without making an artificial opening.

"It is only fair to say," he continued, "that this last process does not seem to have justified itself. The results too often fall short of a complete cure, and in my own practice I do not resort to the crushing process any longer.

Gallstone Surgery.

"But the actual progress made in this branch in modern times is in the line of gallstone surgery. Within comparatively few years we have ventured to use the knife in these cases and have had great success. Kidney and gallstones are now removed, whereas there was formerly no real cure known for such troubles.

"Another great advance has been made in the line of intestinal operations, and I would say that it is in cases of this kind that the surgeon has the opportunity to exercise the highest technic that has been attained. To enter the abdominal cavity is a simple matter. There is no difficulty encountered, and provided the operator understands what are now regarded as the elementary principles of surgery, there is no special danger to be apprehended. But it is after the entry has been made that the high technic is essential."

The enthusiasm of this man, distinguished as he is in his profession, is fairly matched in another direction by the admiration Dr. James J. Walsh of the Fordham Medical school entertains for the surgery of the ancients.

"I do not undertake to say that there is nothing new in surgery. Undoubtedly there are new things. Gallstone surgery is new. But much that is commonly called modern was well known to the ancients and has been rescued from oblivion only within a few years. We have no monographs of the ancient surgeons in which they might have detailed their great achievements, but we have their text books, and we know much of what they did. Many of these text books were republished in the Renaissance and afterward forgotten, but within the last few years they have been brought to light again in France and Germany.

The Ancients' Methods.

"We know that the ancients had their varieties of anesthetics, one of them an inhalent, by the use of which they could reduce the patient to insensibility and so make an entry into the skull, the thorax or the abdominal cavity without causing such a shock that the patient would be unable to endure the operation. And we know that they were well acquainted with one of the best antiseptics that have ever been in use up to the present time. They used strong wine, which modern practitioners admit is an excellent antiseptic; and by using it they avoided the after effects of their operations, which without such use would have been fatal.

"They were well acquainted with the operation of trephining in times of great antiquity. They operated for stone in the times of the Pharaohs. I have myself seen stones of over four inches in diameter that were taken from living patients in those days. And one of the maxims in a text book they used is proof enough of the practice they followed in intestinal cases. The rule was, 'If the intestine is lacerated it must be sewed up. Otherwise the patient will die.'

"Then the very name of the Caesarian operation is proof enough that one of the most delicate feats of surgery was known to the ancients.

"But the subject is inexhaustible. I could talk all day of the wonderful achievements of ancient surgeons, but if any one is interested in the subject, the best I can do is to refer him to a book I published last year entitled 'Old-Time Makers of Medicine.' There he will find concrete instances of what they knew and what they accomplished."

SHINE? NOT IN LONDON

Bootblack Business Poor—Housemaid Polishes Shoes —No Public Chairs.

London, Eng., Aug. 30.—There is expert authority for saying that when this year's American visitors have gone back home, the bootblacks of London will be put to it to make a living. The art of shoe-shining over here is about where it was in the United States twenty years ago, and of late Londoners have given the boys in the street who practice it the go-by to such an extent that they are practically dependent on the patronage of Americans. So, at all events, says J. Bird, who, as the secretary of the Central Shoe-Blacking Society of London, knows about the shoe-shining industry more than perhaps anybody else in this country.

Incidentally, this official discussed one or two attempts by Americans to introduce trans-Atlantic shoe-polishing methods here.

"One of your countrymen," he said, "called on me last year and told me he was going to revolutionize London so far as shoe-blacking was concerned. He opened a shoe-blacking parlor somewhere near Oxford street, but it was closed up in a fortnight. Americans mostly forget that our methods are quite different from their own."

Bird didn't mention the greatest difficulty about making boot-blacking parlors, as we have them in America, pay in this country, which is the fact that practically every Englishman has his shoes—or boots, as he calls them, for nothing but low shoes are shoes over here—done at home. The housemaid does them and those of the rest of the household as part of her regular duties. The result of her efforts would fill an American bootblack with pity and the boys in the street are not much better. The shine they put on looks pretty well to start with, but it doesn't last any time.

Red Coats and Peaked Caps.

The London bootblacks, who belong to the regular organization all wear red coats and peaked caps and they stick to the old combined box and footrest such as the American bootblacks beloved of Horatio Alger used to use. Chairs of the American pattern are not used here at all outside of two or three London branches of the American shoe companies, and there they are hardly patronized except by American travelers. Where they have been tried on street corners they have failed, Englishmen being too much afraid of making themselves conspicuous to venture to sit in them.

This fact, however, did not deter an American syndicate from approaching the London county council for permission to set up chairs of the American type in some of the chief London circuses, as the junctions of different streets are called, to the bewilderment, at first, of American travelers. The company, it was said, offered the council $10,000 a year for the privilege of having four chairs on the island in Piccadilly circus, which is the hub of the metropolis, but, although there are bootblacks there already as well as flower-sellers, the offer was refused. Had it been accepted, the company would have been wise, at first, to employ men of good appearance to sit in the chairs, for an Englishman is like a sheep and mostly will try a new thing if he sees other people trying it and surviving, and not unless. Once he has been convinced, however, that a thing is good, he needs no more cajoling, but will go on with it until the crack of doom.

Reasons for Bad Plight.

"There are two or three reasons for the bad plight of the London bootblacks," said the secretary of their association. "The chief one is to be found in the superior quality of the modern boot-polish. When the old-fashioned blacking was used it got dull in an hour or two and a city man often used to have his boots polished two or three times a day. Now he simply rubs them up in his office with a piece of velvet and the shine reappears.

"Then the fact that the streets are cleaner than they used to be is detrimental to our boys. Street alterations have also given them a setback by taking good pitches away from them. No fewer than five were lost to them by the Kingsway alterations.

"Altogether, it's a mighty poor outlook," he wound up, "and when the American visitors go the boys will be right up against it, as you say in your country."

CRIPPLE SWIMS

Philadelphia, Aug. 30.—Perhaps one of the happiest youngsters in Kensington, despite his misfortunes, is 14-year-old Tysen Detwiler of 2217 East Albert street. When 6 years old he lost both his legs, six inches from the thighs, while playing on the railroad near his home. For many weeks doctors despaired of saving the little fellow's life, but he finally recovered and his parents secured for him a set of artificial limbs, which he managed so well that he could be about the streets with his playmates quite as much as though his limbs were sound.

Tysen was a prime favorite with all the boys in the neighborhood and they always permitted him to join them in their games. But when the swimming season started Tysen grew sad, and he would often be seen sitting disconsolately on the curb watching the rest of the boys troop into the public bathhouse at Memphis and Tucker streets, not far from his home.

Supt. George M. Strohlein of the bathhouse noticed him one day and invited him in to watch the boys playing about in the water, and for a time he was satisfied. Then one day his father approached Supt. Strohlein and asked if it would be possible for him to be taught to swim. Strohlein consulted with Charles F. Parvis, the swimming instructor, appointed by William H. Stecher, the physical director of the board of education.

Parvis is a graduate of the Northeast Manual Training school and has a record as an all-round athlete at that institution. He said that although it would be an almost impossible task, he would try to teach the boy to swim. Strohlein and Policeman Millard of the Trenton avenue and Dauphin street station house, detailed at the bath, first taught the boy the motions of swimming while lying flat on a bench, and then turned him over to Parvis. After the first fear of the water left him, the legless boy took to it like an old hand.

Beginning on July 5, he has averaged four lessons a week, but is in the water every day. Now, according to Strohlein, he is one of the most expert swimmers that comes to the bathhouse, and can stay in the water for hours at a time. Several weeks ago Supt. Strohlein, noticing that it was difficult for him to dive from the sides of the pool, constructed a ladder and spring board for him, and he can fearlessly dive into the water from a height of over six feet. Now nothing pleases him more than to enter into a swimming race with a crowd of other youngsters and wriggle out on the opposite side and watch them pantingly scramble after him.

THE CANVASSERS OF TODAY.

The style in canvassers is changing, as any summer resident in a country town may become aware when entertaining a well dressed man who tells a straightforward story about his efforts to earn his way through college, says the New York Sun. The story itself is an old one, and it may or may not be true. The telling of it, however, is a matter of technique that has only lately been standardized.

The approach, furthermore, must be made by a presentable person, it is always urged by the sales manager, who is accustomed to insist that canvassers have become selling specialists whereas formerly the calling was followed largely by castoffs and incompetents. Today capable young men are entering the profession and making a serious study of its possibilities.

The book agent is still the typical canvasser in the public thought. Many people rather pity him. He is in reality in need of neither pity nor encouragement, for if he is ordinary competent he is making an income that may run as high as $5,000 or $6,000 a year.

The whole tendency among the subscription book publishers is toward the use of fewer canvassers and better ones. Some of them absolutely refuse to continue the employment of a salesman who after reasonable trial cannot average $1,000 a year, and they are constantly devising schemes to help the $1,500 man to make himself worth double that amount.

Training for canvassing is customary in most firms that sell from house to house. A book publishing firm insists that every man, however experienced, shall have at least a week's schooling before he goes out with a new book. He is drilled to answer every conceivable question.

Every talking point that may arise during an interview is forecast. The manager has seen how his salesman will behave from the very beginning when he walks into a place and speaks to the office boy until he has thanked the customer for his order. He is not permitted to go on the street until he knows as much about the work's selling points as the sales manager knows.

CLARK ON THE MAINE STUMP

Speaker of House Campaigns for Wilson and Marshall.

Answers Charges of Inexperience and Change in Beliefs.

Bar Harbor, Me., Aug. 30.—Champ Clark, speaker of the house of representatives, delivered a speech here this afternoon which was in part as follows:

"Under the rules of the Democratic party, Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey and Governor Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana were at the Baltimore convention nominated as our standard bearers in the impending contest. They are men of high character, and Democrats are united in their support. This is as it should be, for the chief work in hand is to rescue the government from Republican maladministration.

"As I have already said, we have not what the British have—'a responsible government.' The nearest approach thereto which we can have under the Constitution is to have house, senate and president all of the same political faith. Hence I am anxious to see the Democrats capture all three branches of the government so that we can try our theory. Then, if it works well, the people will recognize the fact and reward us. If it proves bad in practice, the people will throw us out, as they should do. If, however, all three branches are not of the same political faith, neither party gets an opportunity to try its theory.

Spectacle at Washington.

"We have recently witnessed at Washington a spectacle of a Democratic house passing good bills—bills which would have greatly reduced the high cost of living and which would have gone far towards relieving the people of the burden of heavy taxes—and of a Republican president vetoing these bills as fast as they reached him. So I repeat, that we want house, senate, and president all three to be Democratic.

"So far in this campaign the two political criticisms levelled against Governor Wilson are:

"First. That he has had little experience in public life.

"Second. That his opinions on certain subjects have changed in the lapse of time.

"As to the latter, while consistency is ranked among the virtues, it is much better to be right though inconsistent, than to be consistent though wrong. The question is not what Governor Wilson or any other man thought twenty or fifteen or ten or five years ago, but what he thinks now. We are acting in the living present, for people now in this country and for the millions yet to be—not groping in the dead past.

As to Experience.

"As to his lack of experience as a public man, I may be permitted to suggest to those most concerned that President Taylor had no experience whatsoever, never having voted even a single time and that President Arthur had very little experience. It was universally conceded that these presidents discharged their duties as chief executive of the nation faithfully and well.

"Everybody admits that Abraham Lincoln was a great president. Many deem him the greatest of the twenty-six. All agree that he was one of the four greatest. His name is written high in the scanty list of the immortals. Yet, prior to his election to the presidency, his entire public service consisted of a term or two in the Illinois legislature and one term in congress.

"Governor Wilson's public career consists of two years as governor of a great commonwealth. Everybody declares that he has made a good governor, and if he makes as great a president as Lincoln, even the most fastidious should be satisfied. He was for years professor in famous institutions of learning and president of one of the great univerities in the land or in the world. As a political scholar he will rank with Thomas Jefferson, James Madison, John Quincy Adams and James A. Garfield."

AMERICANS IN GRAVE DANGER

Minneapolis Company's Mine in Mexico Forced to Shut Down.

Campas, Sonora, Aug. 30.—Rebels under Gen. Ferdinand Escoba, after their fight at Montezuma, have been terrorizing the country about Central Sonora.

The Archipelago copper mine of the Minneapolis Copper company has closed down. The pumps have been stopped, and the entrances to the mines sealed.

El Tigre Wires Cut.

Douglas, Ariz., Aug. 30.—Wires running to the El Tigre Mining camp, where forty American men and nine American women were reported yesterday in grave danger, have been cut by rebels who threatened to attack the camp today if the seventy volunteer soldiers defending it did not surrender.

The Americans, also armed, have decided, it is reported, to prevent a fight if possible, but are intent on protecting the women. The El Tigre mine is an American property and is one of the richest gold mines in Northern Mexico.

American Is Killed.

El Paso, Texas, Aug 30.—While defending his home against Mexican looters, William Jackson Stevens, an American colonist at Pacheco, Chihuahua, was killed at his home, according to advices received at the colonial headquarters here. Mr. Stevens and his family had remained behind when the exodus of Mormon colonists took place.

LIMOGES CHINA DUTY EFFECTIVE ON SEPT. 30.

Washington, Aug. 30.—The new plan for the appraisement of Limoges chinaware will not go into effect until Sept. 30, after all. It was discovered today that copies of the appraisement plan had not been sent to Limoges, as previously announced. They were dispatched forthwith.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

WINNERS IN ELGIN RACES

Endicott Wins Jencks Trophy and Hughes, the Aurora.

Elgin, Ill., Aug. 30.—Harry Endicott, driving a Mason Special car, won the Jancks trophy race after the only two other entries had been eliminated by accidents. Endicott drove at an average of 59 3-10 an hour.

His time was 1 hour 40 minutes 42 seconds.

Gill Anderson and Charles Merz, both running Stutz cars at a 70-miles an hour clip and racing lap after lap in a great divers' duel for the Illinois trophy at 203 miles, furnished the feature of the opening day of the annual Elgin automobile races this afternoon.

At the end of 101 miles, or twelfth lap, Merz led Anderson by barely eight seconds.

In the Aurora trophy race at 152 miles Hughie Hughes with a Mercer won.

WANTED TO PLAY THE WHITE SOX.

Brainerd, Minn., Aug. 30.—Brainerd wrote to Darby O'Brien, manager of the Duluth baseball team, asking the Central International association team for two games. They wanted a guarantee of $200 and 50 per cent of the gross proceeds. It was the intention to collect an all-star team to represent Brainerd. For pitcher, it was proposed to have Leslie Bush, the star pitcher of Missoula, who goes to Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics Sept. 11. Bush is a Brainerd boy, who made good with Missoula on the jump off last May.

Retains Her Title.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—Miss Caroline Painter of Midlothian retained her title of champion of the Western Women's Golf association today by defeating Miss Ruth Chrisholm of Cleveland, Ohio, one up in the final match at Hinsdale Golf club. A single over-shot putt on the eighteenth green ruined the Ohioan's chance to win the championship. A gallery of more than 300 persons watched the play.

Gibbons Is Matched.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 30.—After several days of wire and mail correspondence with the Philadelphia matchmakers, Edward Reddy, manager for Mike Gibbons, today closed for a bout bewteen the champion and Young McCartney, a middleweight, for Sept. 14. The St. Paul boxer is to take on the Philadelphian in a six-round battle, and this bout will mark the opening of his fall invasion of the East.

Notice.

The Duluth & Northern Minnesota railway company's Sunday train is discontinued until further notice.

CUBA HAS MADE AMPLE APOLOGY

Case of Assailant of Charge Gibson Will Take Regular Course.

Washington, Aug. 30.—Ample apologies have been made by Cuban officials, from the president down, for the assault by the journalist, Maza, upon Hugh Gibson, American charge of the legation of Havana, and the state department here has concluded to let the case proceed in the regular way. It is willing to afford the Cuban government opportunity to see that full justice is done Mr. Gibson.

Officials here privately believe the legal proceedings against Mr. Gibson's assailant have not been characterized by that spirit of energy and determination to secure prompt court action which was to be expected. They realize, however, that the proper legal formalities having been observed in Maza's arrest and realease on bail, it would be only proper to afford the Cuban court a fair opportunity to administer the law.

Penalty Is Severe.

The penalty prescribed by the old Spanish law, still in force in Cuba, is severe in such cases, providing a maximum imprisonment of three years. As the case against Maza appears to admit of no contradiction as to the facts of the assault, it is assumed that in the end he will receive the proper punishment.

The annoying feature is that under the Spanish legal practice it is possible to drag out the proceedings to an indefinite length unless the Cuban executive himself should demand speedy action by the judiciary.

While the bitter attacks by certain Cuban newspapers upon the American charge have not been officially reported to the state department, it is possible that when this subject is brought to its attention officially, prosecution will be begun in Havana against some of these offending newspapers under the criminal libel laws.

TURNED DOWN DULUTH CALL TO RUN FOR CONGRESS.

The reason why Rev. W. E. Cadmus of Peoria finally declined a call to the Pilgrim Congregational church of Duluth is probably contained in the dispatch received from Peoria today, announcing that Mr. Cadmus had been chosen to represent the Progressive party in the congressional fight there.

Mr. Cadmus was given a call to the Duluth pulpit and visited this city. He appeared well pleased with conditions here, but finally decided not to accept the call.

JUSTICE BLAIR OF MICHIGAN IS DEAD.

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 30.—Justice Charles A. Blair of the Michigan state supreme court died here after several weeks' sickness. He was born in Jackson, Mich., in 1854 and was the son of Austin Blair, who was known as "Michigan's war governor." Justice Blair was appointed to the supreme court in 1904 to fill a vacancy and remained on the bench until his death.

One Killed on Katy Road.

Temple, Tex., Aug. 30.—One man was killed, two seriously hurt and fifteen slightly injured today when a northbound Missouri, Kansas & Texas railway train jumped the track three miles north of here and then the mail car and two coaches plunged from a trestle into a ravine.

Burn the Coal in the Earth

Secure Electric Power and Banish Smoke Nuisance--- Also Save Money.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 30.—Since the smoke investigation was begun by the industrial research department of the University of Pittsburg, numerous suggestions have been made as solutions for the smoke nuisance. Perhaps the most novel was that made by Sir William Ramsey at the recent international smoke abatement conference in London.

Sir William Ramsey startled his hearers with a scheme of burning coal in mines. "Should it prove successful, 'a candle,'" he said "will be lighted which will not be extinguished in our times." He suggested that a shaft should be sunk to the coal-bearing strata admitting sufficient oxygen to burn the coal and the gas could be drawn off for creating electrical power at the pit head whence it could be distributed. In this manner he would solve the smoke problem for, as he said, "If no coal were burned in the cities the whole question will be greatly simplified."

Under this plan power for railroads and industries could be obtained at one-fifth, and possibly one-tenth, the present cost; domestic lighting and heating could be supplied at a mere fraction of the present expenditure; a saving of fuel would prolong the life of the coal fields almost indefinitely; and the number of employes would be greatly reduced.

If such a plan as this should prove feasible, surely no city in the country would profit more by it than Pittsburg because of its proximity to the great coal fields. No doubt the whole country was astounded two weeks ago when Edward W. Parker, of the United States geological survey, declared that the value of the power lost in the coking operations in the Connellsville district was between $35,000,000 and $40,000,000 per year. If this power were utilized it would be more than twice the amount necessary to move every train on the Pennsylvania between Pittsburg and Harrisburg.

A report comes from St. Louis that the manufacturers there are interested in the announcement that a recently organized company, which is erecting a brewery to cost $700,000, will use the Mississippi river electric power from Keokuk to operate its plant at a saving of about 30 per cent as compared with coal. At present, however, the new brewery is the only local manufacturing plant which has announced a determination to be equipped throughout with Mississippi river electric power. If this piwer can be worked successfully, it is declared that St. Louis smoke nuisance practically will be solved.

No matter what may be the outcome of Sir William Ramsey's suggestion, our modern industrial life is gradually being revolutionized by the central power plant. The city of the very near future will have within 50 or 100 miles of its limits a central power plant which will supply all its motive power, heat and lighting power. One need only reflect that at the present time the greater part of the power used in heating, lighting and transportation is not made at the point of application but comes from some distance. It will only be a short time until that distance will be increased and thus we will have solved many of our industrial problems of which the smoke nuisance is perhaps the greatest, for it affects all to a greater or less degree.

MORE SLAMS AT ARCHBOLD

Tells Questioner His Is Not Progressive Republican Party.

St. Albans, Vt., Aug. 30.—"This is a might good start on a two months' campaign," said Col Roosevelt today. "I am greatly pleased with the way the Vermont trip opened. I had a fine yesterday."

The testimony of Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania and John D. Archbold of the Standard Oil company before the senate committee which has been investigating campaign contributions, has supplied Col. Roosevelt with campaign material which he is making use of in almost every speech. With his denunciation of Messrs. Penrose and Archbold, he couples gibes at the Standard Oil man on account of his remark to the committee that there was nothing in "darkest Abyssinia," which was worse than the treatment of Standard Oil at the hands of the Roosevelt administration.

Col. Roosevelt laughingly referred to the "Abyssinian treatment."

More of Abyssinia.

"He doesn't think of darkest Abyssinia when he thinks of the dissolution suit, but he thinks of my administration and that I may have another. If I have there will be more of the Abyssinian treatment, and he knows it. He knows we put the fear of the Lord into his heart."

After a thirty-mile automobile trip from Burlington, Col. Roosevelt reached St. Albans at 11 o'clock and made his first speech of the day to a crowd in the public square. A large part of his audience was composed of farmers, some of whom had driven many miles to hear him. Col. Roosevelt continued his attack on John D. Archbold, president of the Standard Oil company, and Senator Penrose.

"The whole country is watching the outcome in Vermont," he said. "A peculiar situation is always attached to the result of the Vermont election. I want to see this state lead in the Progressive movement."

"Not Progressive Republicans."

As he was speaking a man in the crowd called out:

"Is this the Progressive Republican party?"

Col. Roosevelt whirled about, and pointing a finger at his questioner, shouted:

"No, sir; it is a brand new party. When Lincoln left the Whigs there were bigots who would not vote for him, just as there are now some bigots who will not stand with us."

From St. Albans Col. Roosevelt started over the hills by automobile for Morrisville, his next stopping place. The morning's run was over heavy country roads and it was impossible to travel at the rate reached yesterday.

HOLDS WIFE'S CUT VEIN TOGETHER

Beloit Man's Presence of Mind May Save Life of Spouse.

Beloit, Wis., Aug. 30.—Except for the presence of mind of her husband, Mrs. Benjamin Serns would be dead today, and even now her recovery is doubtful.

Mrs. Serns fell down the cellar stairs last night while carrying a dish to the basement. The dish broke and a jagged portion severed her jugular vein. Her husband hastened to her assistance, and held the ends of the vein together for an hour while a little son summoned a doctor. Mrs. Serns still is unconscious and physicians say only a pint of blood remains in her body.

BISHOP GRAFTON WELL KNOWN IN BOSTON, MASS.

Boston, Aug. 30.—Bishop Charles Chapman Grafton, who died today in Fond du Lac, Wis., was a familiar figure on the streets of Boston for many years. A pronounced ritualist, a prolific writer and an eloquent preacher, he was long recognized as the leader of the high church party in the United States.

He was born in this city in 1830. With Father Benson and Father O'Neill he founded in England the Order of St. John the Evangelist, (the Cowley Fathers) which has its headquarters at Oxford, England, and Boston. Several years ago Bishop Grafton visited England and Russia in the interest of unity between the Anglican and Russian churches.

BECKMAN TALKS FOR GOVERNMENT

Lumberman Testifies in Suit to Dissolve Alleged Trust.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 30.—Victor H. Beckman, founder of the Pacific Coast Lumber Manufacturers' association and its secretary until fifteen months ago, testifying today for the government in its anti-trust suit against the Retail Lumber Dealers' association in the Middle West, identified correspondence which passed between secretaries of the retail association and himself in 1905 regarding the reciprocity agreement between the manufacturers and retailers.

The government alleges that although this reciprocity agreement was abrogated in 1906, it has the effect of preventing manufacturers from selling to others than the recognized ethical dealers.

MILLIONAIRE DEAD IN VAT

Solomon Luna of New Mexico Meets Sudden Death.

Albuquerque, N. M., Aug. 30.—Solomon Luna, millionaire banker and sheep owner and for sixteen years Republican national committeeman for New Mexico, was found dead today in a dipping vat at his sheep ranch, seventy miles from Maddalana, N. M.

Rod Waggoner, representing the William A. Brady attraction "Bought and Paid For," arrived in the city today to make arrangements for a week's engagement opening Sept. 8.

"Duluth will be the sixth city visited by the company," said Mr. Waggoner. "It has just left The Playhouse after appearing there for 474 performances and Duluth will see it before Chicago does. It is the original New York company."

SENATOR STEPHENSON REPORTED ALL RIGHT.

Marinette, Wis., Aug. 30.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator Isaac Stephenson is all right and will continue his fishing trip down the Escanaba river.

This was the substance of a report received by his relatives here this afternoon. The report came from Watson, on the Escanaba railroad, the nearest point.

The senator had an attack of indigestion and it was thought best to send for a physician, but he recovered in a short time.

A SONG WRITER WORKS FAST.

New York Sun: Popular song writing is said to be about as highly a commercialized undertaking as one finds nowadays and the glowing amateur might feel very isolated in the cold, businesslike atmosphere that prevails in the production department of some of the large music publishing concerns.

It is in this department that all of the lyric writers and composers connected with the staff of the house congregate daily to compose the melodies which the public may be singing a few months later.

A music publishing house is likely to be a perfect bedlam of melodic noises. Five and six piano rooms (little square partitioned boxes, just large enough to contain a piano and a stool) can be found in large concerns. In some departments composing has reached such a rapid fire state that even ten and twelve of these piano rooms are found insufficient for the demand.

In one of these little rooms a lyricist and a composer may be trying to "compose a new one." The lyric of most of our popular songs is written first. That is, the title and poem is already completed before it is set to music. For, although few realize it, the lyric of a song is considered of greater importance than the melody.

The lyric writer places his new poem on the piano before the man who is to evolve the melody. The composer scans the lyric intently, studying it from every angle until he has mastered the various tricks of metre which the lyric writer has put in to give his composition a greater selling value. Although the lyric is considered the most important factor by many publishers, the melody is the thing which eventually sells the song.

After a new song is completed and ready to leave the hands of its author and composer the question of marketing is considered. Publishers have come to the conclusion that it does not always pay to advertise a song as one would a book. The publishers cannot announce that on such and such a day a new song will be on sale in the music stores entitled "So and So." The public must hear it sung, and one way that this can be accomplished is through the medium of the stage. Therefore large publishers advertise in the tneatrical journals and by impressing the different vaudeville actors and actresses that they have a new wonderful song the publisher plans to reach the public at large who buy music.

Unless you are willing that people shall CHANCE to come to your store, you must advertise.

First Choice Is Best Choice!

The fall styles in coats, suits and skirts are beginning to come in. Already our collection, which includes the famous Wooltex garments, shows a number of the handsomest models we expect to see this season.

It makes little difference to us whether you choose early or late, but it does make a difference to you.

The woman who chooses early has a distinct advantage in style over her more tardy sister.

Secondly, she has the larger and more varied stock to choose from, with her pick of the best things that often go first.

And finally, it is easy to see that there is more economy in getting longer wear at the same price.

Therefore, for your own sake choose early.

There is much here now that cannot be found here later on—the best-dressed women of the neighborhood will have snapped it up.

Have You Seen the New Ladies' Home Journal Hats?

Our buyer sent on copies of the hats you saw pictured in the last Ladies' Home Journal.

WHEAT ACTS STRANGELY

Wet Weather in the Northwest Sends Flax Futures Higher.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 30.—Although the weather through the Northwest has been such as to put a stop to thrashing over a vast range of territory, wheat took a downward turn on the markets of North America during the latter part of the session today and made closes that were almost invariably bearish. Duluth September wheat today closed ¾c lower. Cash wheat closed 2@4c over September. Durum closed ½c lower; oats, ⅝c off, barley, 3c higher to 4c lower and rye unchanged. Duluth September, October and December flaxseed closed 3c higher and November 3½c up.

Wheat took a contrary turn on the markets of North America during the latter half of the session. In the face of "bull dope" the prices took a downward turn. Earlier in the day the markets were substantially bulled by the reports of the heavy showers through the American Northwest and the southern part of the Canadian West. Later in the day there was a bearish turn at Chicago and the other markets followed. The primary receipts of wheat on the American markets were still large and today showed the usual gain over the primary receipts of a year ago.

Duluth September wheat, which closed yesterday at 94½ cents bid, opened today at 94⅝c bids and was strong for some time, but before noon it had gone down, following the Chicago trend, and at noon was quoted at 94⅛c asked. Winnipeg, Chicago and Minneapolis markets were all lower at noon today.

Wheat on the Liverpool market today closed ¼d to ⅝d higher. The rise was due mainly to continued bad weather in the British Isles and to stronger cables from Buenos Ayres. On the other hand the bullishness of the market was mitigated by the forecast of larger world's shipments, large Pacific coast offers, favorable crop reports from Canada and America and weakness at Paris.

Flax Goes Higher.

The wet weather of the Northwest, together with reports of frosts in some parts of the Canadian West, had the effect of boosting all the futures on the Duluth market today. Moreover the demand for cash seed was strong and there was little of it to be had. On the whole the morning was very bullish, Duluth September seed at noon today was 4c up, October 5c up, November 3½c up and December 2¾c up. Winnipeg October at noon was 2½c higher at $1.63½, or 10c under Duluth October. Buenos Ayers October last night closed at 1¾c off at $1.67½. London, Calcutta August and September today closed 3½c higher at $2.14⅜.

MARKET GOSSIP

Charles Manasse of Hamburg, representing certain European grain companies, and on a trip of investigation through this country, was a visitor on the Duluth exchange today. Mr. Manasse said there was no doubt at all that the movement of grain from both the United States and Canada to Europe during the crop year just opening would be far larger than it has been for many years. He said this was due to poor crop conditions on the other side of the Atlantic and to the big crops of North America. He spoke particularly of the heavy rains and floods in England, and said there was no question at all that that condition was having a very bullish effect on wheat markets in all parts of the world. The wheat crop of France, he said, was a doubtful proposition. That of Germany was fair. What Russia had was very hard to say. It was difficult to get any reliable information about the yield in that vast country. The Roumanian crop, he said, was about average.

A wire from Chicago says: "Liberal receipts of spring wheat seem to have more effect upon prices in Minneapolis this morning than do the reports of frost in scattered regions of the Canadian Northwest and the further rains in the American Northwest. It looks to us as though it would be rather difficult to advance prices now, particularly as clearing conditions are apt to prevail shortly and then the movement will be exceedingly heavy."

The Modern Miller, St. Louis, says: "Winter wheat farmers are progressing with their plowing. In hard winter wheat territory a large acreage is looked for, but in many localities of the soft winter wheat states the wheat area will be reduced. Most of the soft winter wheat coming from the farms is of poorer quality than during the early movement."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Rain Causes Development of Strength in Wheat.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—Fear that thrashing northwest would be delayed a week on account of rains caused strength to develop today in wheat. For a while, however, the market suffered from a surprising lack of buying orders. It was apparent that many traders were looking for a reaction from the recent continuous advance, especially as immediate arrivals at Minneapolis were large. The opening varied from ⅛c off to ¼@⅜c up. December started at 95c to 95¼c, a gain of a shade to ½@⅝c, fell to 94¾c, and then rose to 95¼@95⅝c.

Subsequently prices slipped down as a result of free realizing by longs and in consequence of predicted enlargement of the winter wheat area. The close was weak ⅝@¾c net lower for December at 94¼c.

Corn advanced owing to dread of frost. Shorts and new investors both bought. September opened ½c to ⅝c higher at 74½c to 74⅝c, eased off to 74¼c, and rallied to 74⅝c.

After some additional advance, slackening of demand brought about a backset. The close was steady with September 74c, just the same as last night.

Absence of export demand kept oats relatively weak. September started a shade lower at 32⅞c, touched 32¾@32⅞c and later recovered to 33⅛c.

Provisions were generally weak with hogs. First sales ranged from 2½@5c lower to 10c up, with January, $19.40 for pork, $10.80 for lard and $10.25 for ribs.

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Influence of Approaching Holiday Is Reflected By Extreme Idleness.

Buying Orders in Few Stocks Advance Prices in Last Hour.

New York, Aug. 30.—The extreme idleness of today's stock market clearly reflected the influence of the approaching holiday, although the Texas indictments against the Standard Oil company and officials, reported frost in the Canadian wheat belt, spreading opposition to Canadian Pacific's stock increase and the indictment of a president of a large New England textile mill on labor conspiracy charges offered food for reflection. Leading issues held firm, however, the most conspicuous exception being Louisville & Nashville, whose heaviness expressed disappointment of shareholders at the 20 per cent capital increase. Tobaccos were again decidedly weak. Bonds were irregular.

Stocks were dull with an irregular tendency at the opening of today's market. Steel, selling ex-dividend, gained a slight fraction, with losses in coppers, Union Pacific and Louisville & Nashville.

Apart from the extraordinary dullness the market presented no features other than increased weakness in Louisville and an abrupt decline in Woolen preferred.

Some inactive specialties moved widely including Omaha and Baldwin Locomotive, but the balance of the list was at a standstill.

The market closed firm. Buying orders were concentrated in a few stocks in the last hour. Union Pacific, Reading and Erie moved up sharply. Elsewhere the movement was perfunctory.

FEARS TRIAL IN NEW YORK

Becker Will Ask Change of Venue If Tried at Once.

Two Gunmen Arrested for Rosenthal Murder May Help State.

New York, Aug. 31.—Failing in an attempt to delay the trial of Police Lieut. Charles Becker for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, counsel for the accused lieutenant will ask that Becker be tried in another county.

District Attorney Whitman plans to bring Becker to trial before Justice Goff here on Sept. 11, but John F. McIntyre, chief counsel for the policeman, said today that he would fight to the limit to prevent his client from being tried "during the present clamor, which I consider so prejudicial to my client."

Mr. McIntyre said that if he was unable to get a delay he would seek to obtain a change of venue.

"Strong Enough to Convict."

Just what plan of action the state's attorney will follow in the case against Becker has not become known, but one of the assistant district attorneys remarked today:

"The district attorney's case as it now stands against Becker for murder is strong enough to convict."

Conspiracy will be the defense for Becker, Lawyer McIntyre said:

"My associates and myself feel that we will be able to reveal at the trial a conspiracy framed up by the witnesses upon whom the state is now relying, outrivaling the plots and conspiracies formulated by Titus Oates in the seventeenth century."

Turn State's Evidence.

"Whitey" Lewis and "Dago Frank" Cirofico, the indicted gunmen in the Rosenthal murder case, are reported to be ready to turn state's evidence on condition that they be let off with light sentences. The men received favorably, it is said, the offer of a certain lawyer who visited them in the Tombs yesterday to use his influence with District Attorney Whitman to get them off with a light punishment in return for a "squeal." The lawyer assured them that this was their one chance to escape the extreme penalty of the murder charge against them, according to the report, and they

KEEP CONVICTS IN THEIR CELLS

Michigan Prison Warden Is Investigating Friday's Rioting.

Jackson, Mich., Aug. 31.—The only convicts working at the state prison here today are the "trusties" employed in the engine room and on the lawns fronting the big institution. The rest of the inmates are locked in their cells. Warden Nathan R. Simpson returned last night from Chicago and immediately began an investigation of the rioting yesterday, which is said to have been started by convicts who complained about the food.

HAD TOO MANY FINGERS.

Sixth Digit on Each Hand of Boy Is Removed.

Little Falls, Minn., Aug. 31.—A few days ago the 10-year-old son of John Carvett of Brockway underwent one of the most peculiar operations ever performed by a local surgeon. The little fellow has since birth been possessed of twelve fingers. All were fully developed digits, complete with finger nails. Until a short time ago the matter had never been called to the attention of a surgeon, however. An operation followed the disclosure. Growing from the little finger knuckle on each hand, the boy was possessed of a second little finger, both on the right and left hand. One sixth finger was an inch in length, while the other was about three-fourths of an inch long.

STEEL OFFICIALS DO NOT SEE MILL VICTIM.

Steubenville, Ohio, Aug. 31.—Inspection of the Mingo junction plant of the Carnegie Steel company by James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation, and thirty officials of the company was delayed yesterday until the body of Joseph Biers, aged 25, could be removed from an eleven-inch roll where the man had been accidentally crushed. After removal of the body the roll was cleaned up and the inspection trip of the steel officials resumed.

SEALEY DENIES TRUST LAW HAS BEEN BROKEN.

Houston, Tex., Aug. 31.—John Sealey, president of the Magnolia Petroleum company who, with other officials of that concern and officers of the Standard Oil company, are charged in an indictment returned at Dallas with violations of the federal anti-trust laws, has issued a statement denying the allegations.

CHINESE OFFICIAL IN NEW YORK DEAD.

New York, Aug. 31.—Dr. F. F. Tong, formerly Chinese vice consul in New York, on the eve of his departure to accept a position in the new government, was found dead today, evidently of natural causes, in his office here. He had been dead twenty-four hours.

GLASGOW CELEBRATES STEAMBOAT CENTENARY.

Glasgow, Scotland, Aug. 31.—The centenary of the launching of the first passenger steamboat in European waters was celebrated today. Just 100 years ago Henry Bell's "Comet" left the ways on the Clyde. The engine of the original "Comet" is now in the South Kensington museum, at London.

AFTER LONGWORTH'S SEAT IN CONGRESS

DR. A. O. ZWICK.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Aug. 31.—Dr. A. O. Zwick, the candidate of the third party for Nick Longworth's seat in congress, is going to make a hot fight. His campaign will be largely a stereopticon campaign. He has some views which he expects will startle the citizens of the First district. It is understood that some of the views will show tenement houses owned by the Longworth estate. Dr. Zwick will continue to use the slogan, "Wipe out the slum," that has been his in local movements against the spread of the white plague. The fact that Longworth is a son-in-law of the ex-president will have no effect on Dr. Zwick's campaign.

WORRY OVER NICARAGUA

Near Anarchy Prevails There, Say Washington Officials.

Minister Weitzel Has Difficulty Communicating With Government.

Washington, Aug. 31. — American Minister Weitzel at Managua still has difficulty getting his dispatches through to the state department. A message from Mr. Weitzel, received early today, was dated Aug. 28. The minister repeated previous statements that conditions in Nicaragua were bordering on anarchy.

While more American forces are now beginning to arrive and others are on the way, the state department is worried over the safety of foreigners beyond the lines of communication already established. Particularly it is concerned for those at Matagalpa.

Rear Admiral Southerland's reinforcements are doing their best to hurry the repair of the railroad and telegraph.

Captured Rebel Supplies.

More definite advices from Minister Weitzel regarding the capture of ammunition by the government forces, has added a great deal to the importance of the affair. It appears that a convoy had been dispatched from Granada by the rebel forces at Leon, the second largest city in Nicaragua, and on the railroad from Managua to Corinto. The government forces attacked this convoy near El Guayabal and captured 80,000 rounds of rapid fire cartridges.

As the government had been a little short of ammunition, this was a valuable acquisition and the rebels were seriously weakened because they had no means of replenishing their supplies.

Minister Weitzel expresses the belief that the capture has probably lessened the danger of Gen. Mena's threatened attack upon Managua.

Leaders Lack Control.

The Salvaderean minister at Managua, who has been interned by the rebels at Leon for a few days, declares that Gen. Baca and other revolutionary leaders practically have no control over the mob, which pillaged many stores and houses, and destroyed much property.

HOLDS UP LUMBER RATES TO CANADA

Commerce Commission Will Investigate Southern Schedules.

Washington, Aug. 31. — Proposed increases in the transportation rates on lumber, ranging from 1 cent to 6 cents a hundred pounds, from points in the South to destinations in Canada, were suspended today by the interstate commerce commission from Sept. 1 until Dec. 30. In a supplemental order the commission also suspended for the same period proposed increases ranging from 1 1-3 to 2½ cents a hundred pounds on lumber from Ohio river transfer points to Canadian destinations.

The traffic selected is heavy and the proposed tariffs apply to every railroad in the South.

MONTANA RANCHER NOW BRITISH PEER.

London, Aug. 31.—A Montana rancher becomes a British peer by the death today of Baron Grey de Ruthyn. The successor to the title is the baron's brother, Cecil Talbot Clifton of Northfield's ranch, Montana.

The dead lord was the twenty-fourth baron of his line, the first lord of the same title having been created in 1324.

PLEADS FOR WHOLE SLATE

Roosevelt Insists Vermont Must Elect State Progressives.

Says It Would Have Influence on Whole Nation.

St. Johnsbury, Vt., Aug. 31.—"If the crowds turn out on my Western trip as they have done in Vermont I don't know as I shall live through it," said Col. Roosevelt as he started out on the last day of his campaign in this state prior to the state election next Tuesday.

"I don't need to keep my hat in the ring now," he added. "There are too many bandanas."

Col Roosevelt was up at 6:30 this morning for his day's work, and before 8 o'clock was in his automobile headed for Barre, where he was to make his first speech. Randolph, Bellows Falls and Brattleboro completed the day's itinerary.

From Brattleboro Col. Roosevelt will return to Oyster Bay, where he is due tomorrow morning for a brief rest before leaving for the West Monday morning.

Boosts State Ticket.

Barre, Vt., Aug. 31.—An appeal for support of the Progressive state ticket was made here today by Col. Roosevelt. He said he had learned that many persons who intended to vote for him in November would vote the Republican ticket in the state election next Tuesday. The colonel protested against this policy, and urged all of his adherents to stand by the state ticket.

Col. Roosevelt reached Barre shortly after 10 o'clock, after a thirty-mile automobile ride over mountain roads from St. Johnsbury. He spoke in a public square to one of the largest

SWISS STREETS RUN WITH GORE

Mad Soldier and Terrified Policemen Create Reign of Terror.

Berne, Switzerland, Aug. 31.—A frenzied Swiss soldier ran amuck last evening and transformed the little town of Romanshorn, on Lake Constance, into a miniature battlefield strewn with dead and dying.

The soldier is a native of the town and is named Schwartz. Suddenly, in a fit of madness, he seized his rifle and shot every one within range of the windows of his house, killing four and wounding six men in a few minutes. He then barricaded himself in his residence.

When night fell the house was surrounded by armed police and citizens, among whom an hour or so later a panic broke out when they heard a shot. The besiegers, under the impression that Schwartz had come among them, started firing and shot one another down until a dozen of them lay badly wounded on the ground.

During the scare the mad soldier escaped from his house and fled to the forest, where he is still at large and armed.

HATCHET, GLASS, WIRE ROPE AND GASOLINE FIGURE IN MURDER.

Central City, Ky., Aug. 31.—When C. O. Dutsinger, a tailor, today learned that his bride of two months was at a lawyer's office here making preparations to file suit for divorce, he seized a hatchet and running to the office attacked both his wife and the lawyer, James Stroud.

After hacking them with the hatchet, inflicting fatal wounds on his wife, he ran back to his shop and dived through a plate glass window, wrecking a gasoline stove inside and setting fire to the building. He then made an effort to hang himself with a wire rope, but failing in this he was hacking himself with the hatchet when firemen dragged him from the burning building. His wounds are mortal. The lawyer will recover.

FAST FREIGHT TRAIN WRECKED

Two Killed As Result of Misplaced Switch In Ontario.

North Bay, Ont., Aug. 31.—A misplaced switch at Mattawa threw a fast freight train of the Canadian Pacific railway into a siding, where it collided with a work train, early today. Thomas Duncan, conductor, and F. Wallace, a brakeman, are known to have been killed and a cable man named Ellerdial is reported dead. W. A. Graham, a brakeman, and several laborers were seriously injured.

CLOSED TENDERLOIN IN THE QUAKER CITY

GEORGE D. PORTER.

Philadelphia, Aug. 31.—To show that it could be done, George D. Porter, director of public safety of Philadelphia, closed every Tenderloin resort in this city. Mr. Porter has been the subject of a number of attempts to make trouble between him and his wife and family. The latest attack occurred when an inmate of a Tenderloin resort, carrying a baby in her arms, called on Mrs. Porter and declared that the director was the father of the child. The director ordered that the woman be found and punished, but detectives were unable to locate her. Mr. Porter admits that his experiment in segregating vice is a failure.

POISON FROM PEACH TREES

Deadly Ingredient Found in Medicine Given By Chinaman.

Oriental Who Treated New York Sculptor in Seattle Is Not Found.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 31.—Poison extracted from the roots of peach trees, said to have been one of the ingredients of medicine prescribed by a Chinese herb doctor, is believed by Coroner J. C. Snyder to have caused the death of Louis Potter, the New York sculptor, who died here Thursday.

Search of Pacific coast cities is being made for the Chinese doctor, who has been missing since Potter's death.

The woman who was with Potter at the hotel where he registered as "Dr. Percy and wife," was found last night at the office of a physician, who has been treating her since her collapse at the time of Potter's death. She refused to reveal her identity to Coroner Snyder, but admitted, the coroner says, that she had not been married to the sculptor. The coroner obtained her promise to remain here until the missing Chinese had been found and the death of the sculptor fully explained.

According to friends here, Potter had long been deeply interested in Oriental mysticism, but none of those questioned had heard anything from the sculptor of the treatment he was undergoing at the hands of the Chinese for a skin disease.

GERMAN POLICE FIGHT THIEVES

Battle for Hours With Burglars—Two Killed and Four Hurt.

Haspe, Westphalia, Germany, Aug. 31.—Burglars and policemen last night fought a battle here which lasted several hours and ended with two killed and four wounded.

A gang of five housebreakers was surprised by a village constable, whom they fired at and fatally wounded. They then fled and, meeting another constable, shot him dead. They were brought to bay in the neighborhood hamlet of Milspe by a force of military police, and after a fierce fusillade in which they wounded three gendarmes while one of their own party was disabled, they were arrested.

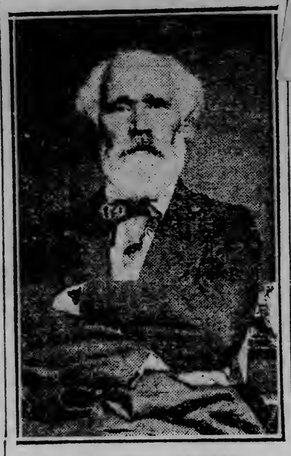
TAFT BACK ON THE BEVERLY GOLF LINKS.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 31.—President Taft returned to Beverly this morning for another brief vacation period. Motoring over from Boston, the president arrived at Panmatta, the summer White House, at 8:20.

The president took breakfast with Mrs. Taft and a few minutes later he was headed for the Myopia golf links for his usual morning game.

President Taft will remain in Beverly until next Tuesday evening, when he will leave for Washington to participate the next day in the opening of the International Congress of Applied Chemistry.

ENGLISH SOCIALIST IN AMERICAN CAMPAIGN



JAMES KEIR HARDIE.

New York, Aug. 31.—James Keir Hardie, well known labor leader of England and Socialist member of the British house of commons, is in New York. Mr. Hardie will deliver a series of addresses in this country in support of Eugene V. Debs, the Socialist candidate for the presidency. Next Monday he will speak in Boston and from Boston will go to Denver to visit the mining districts and study labor conditions. He does not believe there is any danger of war between England and Germany, and says the workingmen of both countries are against war, and should hostilities start a general strike would in all probability be declared.

Politicians, Marksmen and Editors Call on Governor Wilson.

Rolla Wells Says Contributions Will Be Published By Sept. 10.

Sea Girt, N. J., Aug. 31.—Governor Woodrow Wilson had a number of callers today, among whom were Senator Shively of Indiana and Vice Chairman W. G. McAdoo of the national committee. At noon the National Rifle association, which is encamped on the rifle range in front of the summer capitol, marched by the governor's cottage, where the nominee reviewed them.

The editors of thirty foreign-language newspapers were to call in a body during the day.

Rolla Wells, national treasurer, and Henry Morgenthau, chairman of the finance committee, dropped in at the governor's cottage. Mr. Wells was asked how much money had been received to date.

"That reminds me," he replied, "of what the mother of the James boys out in Missouri used to say when the detectives got to questioning her where the boys were. She would say: 'You must excuse me, that's a military question.'"

Mr. Wells said the contributions would be made public by Sept. 10.

WOOD NOT ONLY ONE ACCUSED

More Indictments Are Expected on Dynamite Charges.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 31.—Interest in the investigation of the alleged "planting" of dynamite at Lawrence during the big textile strike was renewed today by the report that the indicting of W. M. Wood, president of the American Woolen company, Dennis J. Collins and a third man who has not yet been formally arrested, would not complete the work of the grand jury. The grand jury will meet again next week for the regular September term, and it was reported that the district attorney might have still further evidence to present at that time.

Officers who went to the house of the third man indicted found him ill, but it was agreed that if he was able he would give himself up to the police Tuesday morning. He is said to be a man nearly as prominent as Mr. Wood in the social and financial world.

FATAL WRECK ON WAY TO ELGIN

H. B. Landon of South Elgin Killed—Father and Brother Dying.

Wheaton, Ill., Aug. 31.—One man was killed and two injured, probably fatally, when an automobile in which they were driving to the automobile races at Elgin, Ill., was struck by an interurban electric car at Jewell road, one mile west of here, today. The dead: H. B. LANDON, South Elgin, Ill., owner of the machine.

The injured: C. B. Landon, Elgin, father of H. B. Landon. B. K. Landon, Syracuse, N. Y.

Charge That Campaign Fund Was Solicited Is Made at Capital.

Hooker Is Said to Have Called on National Bank Officer.

Contribution Would Make Institution and Officials Liable to Fine.

Washington, Aug. 31.—Reports that one of the political parties is soliciting contributions from national banks for the pending political campaign, stirred treasury department officials today. Any national bank making such contributions, declared Thomas P. Kane, acting comptroller of the currency, whose attention was called to the reports, will be subject to fine and its responsible officers and directors liable to fine and imprisonment for violating the law.

The Washington Post today published a report that E. H. Hooker, national treasurer of the Progressive party, in a personal letter to the president of a local national bank with a capital and surplus of nearly $1,000,000, had solicited a contribution of $250.

Against the Law.

The act of Jan. 26, 1907, Mr. Kane pointed out, specifically forbids national banks or any corporation "organized by authority of congress to make money contributions in connection with the election to political office, including the offices of president, vice president, senator and representative in congress."

The penalty for the violation of that act is a fine not exceeding $5,000 against the corporation, as well as a fine ranging from $250 to $1,000 against every officer and director consenting to the contribution, or their imprisonment for not more than one year, or both.

The acting solicitor of the treasury department recently decided that national banks could receive and forward gratuitous contributions to political parties, providing there was no expense to the bank. This does not, however, permit the bank itself to contribute, it is declared.

HUNDREDS OF HORSES DEAD

Drouth Drives Them to Deadly Pasturage in Kansas and Nebraska.

Washington, Aug. 31.—The department of agriculture, co-operating with the Kansas state authorities, has found that the large number of deaths recently reported among horses pastured in western Kansas is due not to any contagious disease, but to forage poisoning attributable to the remarkable drouth.

The bureau of animal industry sent an expert there, and he reports that on account of the effect of lack of rainfall on the pastures, the horses were feeding on plants that caused intestinal irritation. The report indicated that the horses were suffering from lack of feed, and that if green alfalfa were fed to them there would be no further trouble.

Die By Hundreds.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 31.—More than 500 horses have died in the last week, according to reports received by the state veterinarian. The disease resembles fungus poisoning and is said to be due to the late growth of pastures following the late summer rains.

SUSPENDS NEW RATES

Commerce Commission Acts on Tariffs on Commodities.

Transcontinental Charges Are Halted for Investigation.

Washington, Aug. 31.—Increased freight rates proposed by trans-continental railroads for transportation of commodities from Eastern points to Pacific coast terminals were suspended today by the interstate commerce commission from Sept. 2 until Dec. 31, pending an investigation.

The tariffs suspended proposed general increases on practically all commodity freight from Atlantic seaboard and middle western points of origin to destinations on the Pacific coast, ranging from 5 to 50 per cent. In most instances they were effected by the cancellation of existing commodity rates.

GOOD ROADS AT LOW COST

Automobile Club President Experimenting With a Road Drag.

Says Cost of Repairs Will Not Exceed $25 Per Mile.

The efficiency of the King drag in improving roadways has had an excellent demonstration on the road between Lester park and the pumping station.

The work was done in the nature of a demonstration under the direction of Dr. J. D. Park, who was recently elected president of the Duluth Automobile club. Dr. Park has urged the use of the drag for years, having seen the results which have been accomplished elsewhere and it was to show its possibilities that it was operated on the road out of Lester park.

Three miles of highway have been put in first-class shape at remarkably small cost. Where even autoists formerly dreaded to travel for fear the vertebrae of the spinal column might be displaced, they can now run with greater ease than on the majority of the city streets. Ruts and bumps have been practically eliminated and the surface placed in excellent condition. Dr. Park states that the outside cost will not exceed $25 per mile and he doesn't think that it will run as high as that. The work of improving the road has been under way the last two or three weeks.

"One of the aims of the automobile club is to get good roads for this part of the country," said Dr. Park today when he was asked relative to the work which is being done by the local automobile club. He referred to the roadway to the pumping station and waxed enthusiastic of the benefits which can be derived at small cost by employing the drag.

J. D. PARK,

"We trust that it will not be long before the county and city have a couple of dozen or more of these drags in the city and along the roads which lead to Duluth," he continued. "Once the officials are convinced of what can be accomplished by them, I am certain that they will lose no time in getting them into operation. The maintenance expense would be small. The drags could be placed with farmers along the roads, at intervals of five or six miles. After rains they could hitch a team to the drag and go over the piece of road under their charge. He would be unable to do anything in his fields and he would be glad to make $5 in that manner. He would take an interest in it, for good roads appeal to the farmer just as much as they do to the man who owns an automobile. The gain would be mutual.

"We want the citizens as well as the members of the automobile club to know what the club is doing. The organization can accomplish much in that direction. We have a considerable membership and with all pulling together it can be made a big factor in the campaign which is being conducted for good roads."

LONDON PAPER APPROVES TOLLS

The Nation Says Senate's Action on Panama Is Right.

London, Aug. 31.—The only English journal thus far to approve the Panama canal toll act, as recently passed by the United States congress, is the Nation, a Radical weekly, which in its leading article argues that the exemption by the act of American coastwise ships from the payment of canal tolls has not violated the Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

"Fair-minded people," the Nation says, "must recognize that the exempting clause is not a new grievance upon the trade of this or any other country."

It characterizes as a "serious blunder" local British protest against the clause, and adds that "no American government could concede a point involving incidentally so grave a disturbance of a deep-rooted policy, and we do not for a moment believe that any international tribunal would decide the matter in our favor."

Beating the Air."

In conclusion, the Nation says:

"Those journals of Great Britain and on the continent which are arraigning with so much vehemence the claim of America to a right to remit fees for coasting vessels, are beating the air. Their case is founded upon a complete misapprehension of the situation. Though this misapprehension seems to be shared by not a few leaders of public opinion in the United States, this support evidently is a survival of the strong feeling used against the quite unjustifiable claims in the earlier draft of the measure."

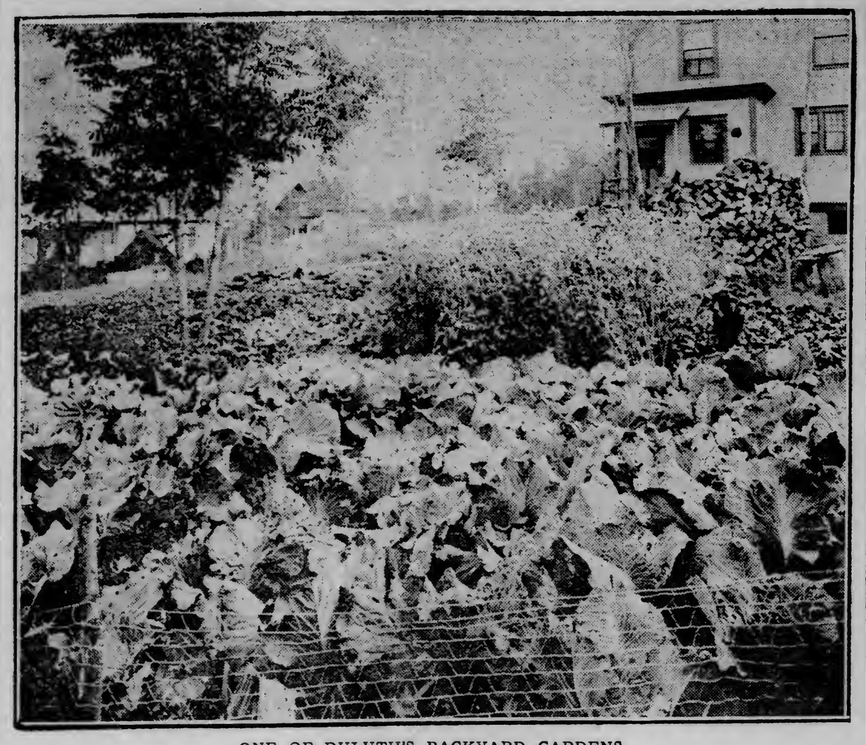
"Failing an arrangement between the great nations, injured Yankee perfidy will compel observance of treaties by force. Then by common agreement they should withdraw their ambassadors from Washington and treat with the politicians who hold sway there as they would with only the kind of states such people are fit to govern."

HOME GARDEN HAS CUT COST OF LIVING IN TWO FOR ONE DULUTH FAMILY



ONE OF DULUTH'S BACKYARD GARDENS.

One Duluth woman has convinced herself and a good many of her neighbors that the high cost of living can be reduced materially and at the same time one may indulge in a degree of luxury and not merely exist on the bare necessities for the table.

This demonstration of the possibilities of cutting down expenses is in the matter of growing one's own vegetables for use throughout the year. She has sent to The Herald a statement of her expenses per month —there being only two in the family —showing the fluctuation during the months in which the garden supply was available and during those when the supply was exhausted. In dollars and cents the statement shows an important result.

In addition to the extremely low cost during July and August this woman makes a note of the fact that during those months she put up in cans for winter use and for all winter, carrots, peas, beans, beet greens and kohlrabi. Last year some of her garden vegetables lasted into February. She has a garden 140 feet deep by 30 feet wide, and has a winter supply for her cellar of potatoes, beets, rutabagas, carrots, cabbages, pumpkins, squash, dry beans for baking and winter radishes. Here is the statement she offers to show what her groceries and meat cost her per month for her husband and herself:

	Groceries.	Meat.	Total.
January	$11.33	$10.28	$22.11
February	11.26	11.40	23.66

DARES T. R. TO ATTACK LIQUOR

Chafin Says Roosevelt Is Not Hitting at Solution of Problems.

Plymouth, N. H., Aug. 31—"Mr. Roosevelt's solution of the high cost of living simply is to induce the poor farmer to work a little harder and longer so that he might produce a little more," said Eugene W. Chafin, Prohibition candidate for president, in an address here last night. "He did not dare say a word about brewers, distillers, saloon keepers, bartenders and others engaged in the manufacture of liquor, who do not produce anything contributory to happiness.

"Instead of prodding the farmer to make him produce more, why does Mr. Roosevelt fear to point to the vast army which produces insanity, poverty, crime and dependents?

"The fact is that these old party candidates simply are feeding the American public with buncombe on this high cost of living issue. The middleman, inadequate soil culture and the tariff may have something to do with it, but you could eliminate all those factors and the cost of living would remain a burden. The man who does not work at the production of something useful should not eat and wear what more useful members of society have produced. The people are entitled to be treated as though they had intelligence, and Mr. Roosevelt is not treating them that way."

KANSAS ELECTORAL CASE IN HIGH COURT.

Washington, Aug. 31.—The fight between the Taft and Roosevelt forces over the presidential electors from Kansas, has been transferred officially from the courts of that state to the supreme court of the United States. The record of the case in the Kansas courts was filed in the supreme court here. It will be rushed to the printer, so that the court may dispose of the case immediately upon convening on Oct. 14.

The transfer of the record of the litigation was in response to the command of Associate Justices Vandevanter and Pitney, given Aug. 6, at New York, upon the request of the Taft attorneys. The decision of the Kansas courts was adverse to the Taft followers.

RICH CHICAGO MAN LETS SON GO TO JAIL.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Harold Hoops, 22 years old, son of William H. Hoops, a wealthy manufacturer, has been sent to the Bridewell to serve fifty days for failure to pay a fine of $25 imposed for annoying a 17-year-old girl. When arraigned in court for sentence, Hoops said he was unable to pay the fine. His father declined to come to his assistance. Several hours before being sent to the Bridewell. Hoops was arraigned on another charge, and hearing of the case was continued. The second charge was operating a confidence game. Leo Hollman, a chauffeur, accused Hoops of having given him a worthless check for $23 in payment of a taxicab bill.

HEAR HARVESTER TRUST EVIDENCE ON SEPT. 16.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Taking of testimony in the suit of the United States government against the International Harvester company, filed at St. Paul several months ago for alleged violation of the Sherman act, will be begun in Chicago before Special Master Robert S. Taylor of Duluth, Monday, Sept. 16.

Subpoenas have been issued for Clarence S. Funk, general manager; E. N. Wood, secretary; William H. Jones and John Glessner, vice presidents, and Alexander Legge, assistant general manager. A score of other officers and employes of the corporation, will, it is said, be summoned as witnesses later.

MAY CALL CONFERENCE TO END PRESENT WAR.

Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 31.—The view that the Turco-Italian war can only be terminated by a regularly constituted peace conference of an international character, is rapidly spreading in diplomatic circles.

It is thought in influential quarters here that unless more rapid progress is made, the signatories of the Treaty of Berlin will feel compelled to call a European congress and bring the combatants together.

There appears also to be a possibility that the arrangement of the Balkan situation will be simultaneously brought up for discussion.

GRAND FORKS WILL HEAR COL. ROOSEVELT SEPT. 6.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—Theodore Roosevelt, chief Bull Mooser, will be Grand Forks' distinguished guest Friday, Sept. 6.

The colonel is expected to arrive here on Great Northern train No. 9 at 8:15 o'clock in the morning. He comes here from the Twin Cities, where he will speak at the Minnesota state fair. Arrangements have been made to have the presidential candidate speak at the Auditorium, probably at 9:30 o'clock on the morning of his visit.

Bury North Dakota Pioneer.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 31.—The funeral of the late Col. Wilbur F. Ball, the well-known pioneer attorney of North Dakota, who passed away Tuesday in this city, was held Thursday afternoon from the house. The last rites for the brilliant member of the state bar were largely attended by many of the older citizens and close personal friends of the family and deceased, among whom were many members of the Cass County Bar association.

Bishop Mann officiated at the funeral services, which were most simple. The remains were laid to rest in Riverside cemetery.

PAID POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT

Inserted by Jos. W. Cumming, 2732 West Second street, Duluth, candidate for Republican nomination for county commissioner. Amount to be paid $11.26.

JOS. W. CUMMING

To the Voters and Taxpayers of the 3rd Commissioner District Which Comprises the 6th and 7th Wards of the City of Duluth:

In asking for your support at the polls on the 17th of September, for renomination, I beg leave to mention some of the improvements that have been done during the terms of office which I have held that are a benefit to the western end of our city. The principal improving has been the opening up of the Hutchinson road. This road parallels the Hermantown road and has a grade of less than 2 per cent running a distance of about two miles, doing away with the grades on the Hermantown road, which run from 7 to 15 per cent; also the reducing of the grade on Piedmont avenue at Miller creek. This was quite a drawback to the farmers living in the country adjacent to the heavy grade, being dangerous coming down and almost an impossibility to take a load back. This grade has been reduced from 15 per cent to 6 for a distance of two blocks, making it possible now to take any load that a team can haul and also to continue the car line, which was the ultimate object in view. I have endeavored also to keep all roads running into the western end of the city in first-class condition, believing the success of our city depends upon it. Other large improvements have been made—the building of the courthouse at Virginia, the tuberculosis hospital, the laying of plans for the building of a penal farm—all of which is of general interest to the taxpayers of St. Louis county. Hoping this will meet with your approval,

Respectfully yours,

JOS. W. CUMMING.

WEST END

HERALD BRANCH:

Herman Olson, Manager, 1523 West Superior Street.

NEW FACTORY FOR WEST END WILL EMPLOY 600

F. A. Patrick & Co. Will Begin Work on $100,000 Structure.

Entire Block on Superior Street Purchased for the Site.

F. A. Patrick & Co. are about to build a large three-story building in the West end, where they will establish extensive manufacturing departments, including a knitting mill and garment factories. Six hundred or more employes will be accommodated.

This will be, by far, the largest manufacturing plant established in Duluth in years, and together with the factories which F. A. Patrick & Co. now operate, the company will undoubtedly have the largest payroll of any concern at the Head of the Lakes.

The site purchased for the proposed factory is the block between Twenty-ninth and Thirtieth avenues west on Superior street, and is 140 by 400 feet in area. The plans now being completed by Architect C. E. Nystrom, are for a model of up-to-date factory construction, fireproof and designed to accommodate 600 or more employes. The building will be three stories high, constructed in two sections, each having ground dimensions of 60 by 140 feet. These will be connected by a section of the same height, 50 by 80 feet in dimension. One of the larger sections, three stories and basement, will be occupied by the garment factory. The other section will house the knitting mill. The elevator, stairways, cloakrooms, toilet rooms, rest rooms, offices, etc., will occupy the middle section.

The estimated cost of the building will be about $100,000 and the work of construction will start very soon. Some portion of the land purchased and not immediately occupied by the new building will be held in reserve for future use as the growth of business in the manufacturing department gives promise that even the proposed new addition to the facilities will prove inadequate before very long.

Over 200 are now employed in the Patrick-Duluth factories at Fifth avenue west. These factories have reached their limit of capacity in the space used by them. More capacity is demanded by the growth of the wholesale departments of F. A. Patrick & Co. The new factory in the West end will have a largely increased capacity in the manufacture of F. A. Patrick & Co.'s present products. In addition to this an extensive knitting mill for the manufacture of underwear, sweaters, hosiery and mittens will be housed in the new building, equipped with the most modern machinery. These new lines will require the service of a large number of men operatives.

The Patrick-Duluth woolen mill will continue to be operated on Rice's Point. The cloth made in the mill is manufactured into garments in the clothing factory.

F. A. Patrick & Co. have had great success with the lines at present manufactured, the "Patrick-Duluth" mackinaws, shirts and overalls, having the highest possible reputation throughout the United States. It is only by absolutely controlling the processes of manufacture from the raw wool to the finished garment that a high standard of quality can be maintained in goods of woolen manufacture, and it is for this reason that F. A. Patrick & Co. own and operate their own woolen mill, and are about to engage in the manufacture of knit goods. The very large outlet which they already have for underwear, hosiery and sweaters insures the successful operation of the knitting works for which the yarns will be supplied by their woolen mill.

WANT GRAND AVENUE PAVED

At the meeting of the West End Commercial club, held last night, Alderman Joseph Gibson and J. P. Daly made addresses and a committee from the Oneota and Hazelwood Improvement club asked the West End organization to cooperate in getting the city to put Grand avenue in proper shape for travel.

Alderman Joseph Gibson and J. P. Daly addressed the club on the subject and asserted that it will be necessary to pave Grand avenue in order to give the western part of the city a good business thoroughfare. Messrs. Gibson and Daly suggested that the city should pay out of the general fund the major portion of the necessary expenditure and assess the balance against the property benefited. The matter will soon be brought to the attention of the council.

The club accepted an invitation from County Commissioner Cummings to inspect the newly completed road at Piedmont avenue and Fourteenth street on Sept. 11.

John S. Pardee, secretary of the board of public welfare, addressed the club and explained the proposed work of the board, answering all questions asked him.

WILL RAISE $15,000 BEFORE LETTING CONTRACT.

The Orpheus Singing society has decided to await the raising of half the amount required for the construction of its proposed new building before awarding the contract. The amount necessary for the building will be $30,000, and members are out now trying to sell shares in the company which has incorporated to erect the building. As soon as $15,000 will have been subscribed, the contract will be awarded. The shares cost $10 each, and are being offered to the Swedish residents of the city.

A meeting of the society will be held next week and further plans will be made. By Nov. 1, it is believed, everything will be ready for the letting of the contract, even to the raising of the money. The building will be located at the corner of Twenty-third avenue west and Third street just across the street from Lincoln Park. It will be two stories in height and will have a basement for club purposes, gymnasium and assembly rooms. The ground floor will contain two store rooms.

McCORMICK ON BIG COMMITTEE

Represents Illinois in Progressives' National Organization.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—At a meeting of the state central committee of the Progressive party it was announced that Medill McCormick had been made national committeeman, and Chauncey Dewey chairman of the state central committee. These changes were put into effect several days ago, although yesterday's meeting was the first gathering of the central committee since the transfer. John F. Bass, temporary chairman of the county committee, offered a resolution that the new party in the state of Illinois "carefully avoid the methods of boss rule," and announced that he would not be a candidate for permanent county chairman.

Before his departure for Denver, Senator Dixon declared that he would welcome an opportunity to testify if an investigation of pre-convention expenditures was begun.

"Our hands are clean," he said, "I would be most happy to testify, if the investigation would cover all the presidential candidates. We could easily demonstrate that in view of the results achieved, we spent less than any candidate on the whole list."

Senator Dixon will go from Denver to Salt Lake City and possibly to Montana to attend the state convention.

SAYS ALMIGHTY IS HELPING HIM

Roosevelt Continues Automobile Campaign in Vermont.

St. Johnsbury, Vt., Aug. 31.—Col. Roosevelt struck up an intimate acquaintance with the rural sections of Northern Vermont during his automobile campaign through the state yesterday. He spent most of the day in a motor car, made five speeches and received such a welcome that he said he thought Vermont was waking up.

Before a lively chowd in the courthouse square here last night, Col. Roosevelt made a speech which brought him many cheers. He assailed his critics and defended the Progressive party. John D. Archbold of the Standard Oil company and Senator Penrose were attacked for their testimony before the senate investigating committee.

"I thought for a time that they would do some damage to the Progressive party," he said, "but the Lord hath led them into my hands. I have them on the hip. I have them in the open. I'll hew them as Israel hewed Ammon, hip and thigh."

Why He Is for Suffrage.

Col. Roosevelt explained why it was that he declared himself in favor of woman suffrage. He said that he had not been influenced to this view by the women who devoted their time to promoting the cause of suffrage, but rather through his acquaintance with women like Miss Jane Addams of Chicago, whom he had come to know through their interest in sociological work.

In speaking on the trust question, Col. Roosevelt declared that neither the Democrats nor the Republicans had an effective plan, and that "the big trusts cordially approve of both platforms." He denounced the Stanley congressional committee which investigated the trust question as mere sound and fury, and explained the proposal of the Progressive party.

St. Paul Lineman Killed.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 31.—Carl Linstrom, a lineman employed by a local electrical company, was electrocuted while repairing a wire at the top of a pole on the street late Friday. He was caught in a network of wires and held in the air, where his body was discovered by a passerby. It was removed by a hook and ladder company of the fire department.

VISITORS DELIGHTED WITH THEIR RANGE TRIP

European Scientists Express Amazement at Great Iron Mines.

Visit Steel Plant and Are Entertained at a Luncheon.

The distinguished American and foreign geographers, who have been in Northern Minnesota for two days will leave this evening for the West.

Yesterday they visited the open pit mines at Hibbing. This morning they were taken to the steel plant site on the steamer Plowboy, viewing the points of interest in the harbor and along the route. At noon they were guests at a luncheon at the Northland Country club, and this afternoon they were taken for a trip around the boulevard.

From the standpoint of scientific men, the visit to Northern Minnesota was a delight. They saw the iron ore in great ranges being scooped from the earth without the aid of explosives. They discoursed on the geological formations of this section of the country. They viewed with interest the steel plant, the ore docks, the aerial bridge, the grain elevators.

This morning on the trip to the steel plant, W. J. Olcott, president of the Oliver Iron Mining company, explained the operations of the ore docks, and the extent of the steel plant project. Prof. W. M. Davis, who is conducting the party, gave a talk on the geological formation of this country, with which he is familiar. Dr. D. M. Rastall of the Commercial club told of the development projects under way. American and foreign visitors showed keen interest in the development of the country, both agriculturally and industrially. Dr. Davis also took occasion to thank the Duluth citizens for their hospitality to the party.

Visitors Delighted.

The foreign visitors were delighted with all they saw. From their standpoint they had just entered into the most entertaining part of the trip.

"We are glad to get into a country where we are especially interested in the geological formations and the development operations," said Prof. Fritz Jaeger, professor of colonial geography in the University of Berlin. "The iron mines were wonderful. I have never seen anything like the taking ore out of the ground without the aid of explosives. I am looking forward to my visit to the farther West. There is not so much attraction in a round of receptions in the big cities as in the viewing of nature's works in the interior of the country."

Nearly all of the foreign delegates can speak English. Some have a ready command of the language, while others have great difficulty in expressing themselves as they would wish. About the only visitor who can do nothing with the English language is Jules de Schokalsky, professor of geography in the Pedagogical Institute of St. Petersburg, but he is at home with German and French and isn't lonesome.

Distinguished Party.

The geographers are a distinguished party. They have among their number men who have traveled into almost every part of the globe, civilized and uncivilized. There are distinguished explorers whose reports on scientific studies in unknown lands have been invaluable contributions to the literature of scientific research. Some of the Old World geographers and explorers with the party are among the best known men in the scientific world and are authors of standard works on geographical subjects.

Eduard Brueckner, professor of physical geography in the University of Vienna, is the author, in collaboration with Prof. Penck, of a treatise on the Alps in the glacial period, a work well known to geographical students. Fritz Machatschek, also of the University of Vienna, has conducted researches in the Alps, the Jura, the mountains of Norway and the Tien Shan mountains of Central Asia. Eugen Oberhummer, president of the Geographical Society of Vienna, has written a standard work on the geography of Cyprus and other valuable works.

Prof. Ole Olufsen of Denmark has traveled extensively in Transcaucasia, Khiva, Bokhara, Turkestan, Pamis and Persia. Henri Baulig of France was instructor in French at Harvard and at George Washington universities in the United States for four years and has published a treatise on the distribution of the means of transportation of the aborigines of North America.

Prof. Erich Von Drygalski of Germany is widely known as the leader of the German Antarctic expedition in 1901-03. He also participated in expeditions to the Arctic in 1891 and in 1892-93. Fritz Jaeger of Germany has done valuable work in German East Africa. Gottfried Merzbacher has made many first ascents in the Caucasus and has devoted much attention to the Tien Shan mountains of Central Asia.

Eugene de Cholnoky of the University of Koloszvar, Hungary, has traveled extensively in China, Manchuria and Mongolia, conducting scientific research. Paul Teleki of the Austrian delegation is a count and is an authority on the history of geography.

Dr. Cesare Calciati of Italy was topographer for the Workman expeditions to the Himalayas in 1908 and 1911 and has traveled extensively in Burma and the Malay states. Giuseppe Ricchieri of Italy is also a count and is also a well-known authority.

Karl Oestreich of the University of Utrecht, has published works on the physiography of Macedonia and of the Northwestern Himalayas, based on personal observation.

Prof. Emile Chaix of Switzerland is the author of geographical text-books.

EFFIE M. RECORD.

GILBERT TAX CASE FINISHED

Judge Dibell yesterday took under advisement the Gilbert tax assessment case, which has been pending in district court since the first of the week. The case has attracted attention among the people of the new range towns, because of the points which have been raised.

The legality of the assessment of about 250 lots in the village of Gilbert is attacked. At the time of the first assessment of the lands in the village these lots were assessed low, it is claimed. At the 1910 assessment, a substantial increase was made. The property owners claim that the raise was not justified and refused to pay. Taxes amounting to about $7,000 were held back from the village of Gilbert.

The county started proceedings to enforce collection. Among the witnesses heard yesterday were: E. C. Jones, D. M. Mouser, Tom Trendgrove, C. O. Welsh, L. Rubenstein and Peter Cosgrove.

OBITUARY

Edward Murray La Penotiere, well known in Minnesota, a descendant of the Huguenots, and also of a noble English family, is dead at his home in Minneapolis, Minn. He was born at Woodstock, Ont., in 1844, and for a number of years lived at Cedar Rapids and Grand Junction, Iowa.

Mr. La Penotiere came from a distinguished English family, his grandfather, Capt. Frederick La Penotiere, having commanded the schooner Pickle under Lord Nelson in the battle of Trafalgar. His father, William La Penotiere, was appointed judge at Toronto by the crown in 1834. Mr. La Penotiere is survived by his wife, born Emma McKee, to whom he was married in 1877.

Rev. D. L. Crowe of Kewanee, Ill., member of the state park board and a brother of Dean Crowe, of Jacksonville, Ill., and Rev. Joseph Crowe of Chicago, died in Rome, Italy, Aug. 30. He will be buried there, according to a cablegram received by relatives.

George Washington, a planter, collateral kinsman of Gen. George Washington and a native and resident of Westmoreland county, where the first president was born, died in a hospital at Richmond, Va., of heart disease. He was 58 years old.

Duc Decazes died at his chateau at Chantilly, France, Aug. 31 at the age of 48 years. He suffered an attack of paralysis a year ago. A second stroke came Friday night. Duc Decazes was the third of the line. He also bore the Danish title of duke of Glueckesberg. He is succeeded by his son, Louis, born in Paris on Feb. 28, 1889.

GOES TO POOR HOUSE AFTER SEVENTY YEARS OF ACTIVE WORK

When Angus McDonald, wizened and gray, walked into the poor commissioner's office yesterday afternoon and asked to be sent to the county poor farm, he declared to Clerk Charles Shogran that he had supported himself for seventy years without a cent from his friends, relatives or the public.

Save for his rheumatism, McDonald declared that he would be "as lively as a spring colt," although he is now nearly 87 years old. He was apparently troubled little with the usual infirmities incident to old age, except that he was rheumatic. He told Mr. Shogran that he had been working steadily making enough to support himself but that he felt that he was playing out.

The old man came to the city yesterday from Swan River, where he has been living for several years. He said that he had been given work doing chores about various farms. The other day, he said, he figured that he was getting too old to be useful and that he had better retire from active work. So he bought a ticket to Duluth and called on the poor commissioner.

Forty years ago McDonald moved to Minnesota from Canada, where he had a farm for thirty years previous. He said that he had never been married and didn't know of any relatives, his parents and other members of his immediate family having died when he was young and a boy in Scotland.

Mr. Shogran assured McDonald that he would be given quarters at the county poor house and that he would be well taken care of in his declining days. He was taken out yesterday.

McDonald is the second oldest man at the farm. John Foleno, aged 92, is the oldest inmate.

WILL OPEN BETHEL SOON

Handsome New Structure Will Be Completed Within a Month.

Will Provide Accommodations for 250 Men—Fireproof Construction.

Duluth's new $100,000 Bethel building will open its doors for business within a month, according to announcement made today by the building committee of the Bethel society.

Construction work has practically been finished and Contractor Lounsberry now has a crew of men putting on the finishing touches on the interior. There is yet some plastering to do and some plumbing, heating and electric wiring connections to make.

The building will be the latest work in fireproof construction. It is four stories high and built of steel and concrete with brick facing. The floors, which are of reinforced concrete, are ten inches thick. There will be accommodations for 250 people.

The sleeping quarters consist of two large dormitories, each being able to take care of fifty-five men and private wards to accommodate the rest. The building is well lighted, having been so constructed that there is not a dark room in the place. The ventilating system which has been installed is the very latest, it being possible to change the air in the entire building within ten minutes.

A large spacious reading room and chapel, a good-sized dining room and kitchen, a doctor's office, an isolation ward for special cases, a laundry room for the men with steam dryers and fumigators, large bath room quarters with showers and other modern plumbing equipment are among the many features of the new building.

The new Bethel will have a "snake" room. To this room will be assigned men who come in and who are suffering from the ill effects of over-intoxication. As soon as they have sufficiently sobered they will be removed to more congenial quarters.

Another interesting feature of the new Bethel home is a large veranda on the Mesaba avenue front, which overlooks the narbor. This will undoubtedly prove a very popular rendezvous for the patrons of the Bethel during seasonable weather.

AMERICAN FUNDS HELPING OROZCO?

Senate Sub-Committee Prepares Investigation Into Rebellions.

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 31. — Arrangements were made today for the investigation by the sub-committee of the United States senate as to whether American money was furnished to assist the Orozco or the Madero revolutions in Mexico.

Senator Fall of New Mexico, a member of the sub-committee, is here seeking witnesses. Before taking testimony he will go to Los Angeles to meet Senator William Alden Smith, and after an investigation there the two plan to return to El Paso to take testimony here.

"We will investigate not only the effect of American capital on the present revolution as conducted by Orozco," said Senator Fall, "but the effect of American capital on the revolution against the Diaz government as conducted by Francisco Madero, now president of Mexico. Also the trouble in Cuba will come under our investigation.

"There was a certain element of truth in the assertion from the City of Mexico that I had attempted to see Pasquale Orozco, the leader of the present revolution, but it was not true that I did see him or communicate with him, or that I had anything to do, intentional or otherwise, with the failure of recent peace negotiations. I attempted to see Orozco because he had made allegations on many occasions that American money influenced the Madero revolution, and this was in direct line with our investigation.

"I merely wished to give Orozco, whom I know personally, an opportunity to prove his claims."

Washington, Aug. 31.—Responsibility for the accident on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad at Western Springs, Ill., July 14, in which eleven passengers and two employes were killed and twenty-six passengers and two employes were injured, is placed by the interstate commerce commission upon Flagman Woodworth.

Chief Inspector H. W. Belnap's report to the commission says the accident, which was a rear-end collision, might have been prevented had the flagman exercised proper precautions in warning the oncoming train. It is pointed out that Woodworth did not give warning at a sufficient distance to enable the engineer to stop, and gave merely a caution signal instead.

Up to Managers.

"A contributing cause of the accident," reports Inspector Belnap, "was the failure of Engineman Brownson properly to control the speed of his train and to obey the indications of fixed signals. This investigation also disclosed the fact that it was not an uncommon occurrence for trains to run past signals in the stop position during fogs or stormy weather."

Sharp criticism also is made in the report of the high rate of speed at which the train was being run, particularly as the weather was foggy and heavy. One of the officials of the line, F. C. Rice, inspector of transportation, testified that "excessive speed is the cause of about 75 to 80 per cent of the catastrophes in the last few years."

Inspector Belnap points out that if this statement be true, "it lies wholly within the power of the railroad managers virtually to put an end to from 75 to 80 per cent of these harrowing disasters."

A GREAT BOON FOR BONEHEADS.

Chicago Inter-Ocean: It took a German scientist to invent the intellectual pill.

The basis of this is a drug called anti-kenotoxin, which has the quality of neutralizing the poisons which are said to be the cause of mental fatigue.

Dr. Weichardt, professor at the University of Erlangen, recently demonstrated that the muscles of animals suffering from physical or mental weariness secrete a certain poison, to which he gave the name kenotoxin. Then it was shown that antikenotoxin injected into a man increased his physical and mental vigor.

This led Prof. Lorentz to think of utilizing antikenotoxin to stimulate brain work. He considered that errors of calculation, for example, should be set down to fatigue.

He found that problems given to his class in mathematics at the beginning of the lesson were solved in five minutes by three students; in eight minutes by thirty-three; in ten minutes by sixteen. Other similar problems, given at the close of the lesson, were solved in five minutes by one student; in eight minutes by twenty-seven; in ten minutes by twenty-three. Evidently, said the professor, it is mental fatigue that causes the slower work.

On a subsequent day Prof. Lorentz vaporized antikenotoxin in the classroom first before the close of the period and then set his pupils problems as before. The result was that they were solved in one minutes by thirty-one and in ten minutes by one. And the solutions contained fewer errors than usual.

This was the origin of Dr. Lorentz's intellectual pills! European physicians are still a bit skeptical, saying the pills must be subjected to more thorough tests.

Peking Daily News: Several ladies have asked Gen. Li to establish a women's law school in order to promote the political education of women as a preliminary step to giving them a voice in the parliament. It is reported that Gen. Li has told them that the time is not yet ripe for women to learn law.

HEAL DISEASES WITH X-RAY AND ELECTRICITY

THE MOST WONDERFUL OF ALL THE CURES THAT HAVE BEEN MADE IN THE CITY OF DULUTH WERE NOT MADE WITH THE AID OF THE KNIFE, NOR WITH ADMINISTERING MEDICINES; THEY WERE DONE WITH THE AID OF THE X-RAY AND ELECTRICITY.

NEVER BEFORE HAVE SO MANY PEOPLE BEEN CURED IN SO SHORT A TIME. THE ELECTRO MEDICAL DOCTORS OF DULUTH HAVE HAD GREATER SUCCESS IN RESTORING HEALTH TO THE SICK AND SUFFERING, THAN ANY OTHER INSTITUTION. THEIR DOCTORS ARE SKILLED SCIENTISTS, WHO NOT ONLY KNOW MEDICINE IN ALL ITS BRANCHES, BUT ALSO THEY ARE EXPERTS IN DIAGNOSIS, THE X-RAY AND IN THE ADMINISTRATION OF ELECTRO MEDICINE FOR ALMOST ANY AND EVERY KNOWN CHRONIC DISEASE OF MEN AND WOMEN.

THE ELECTRO MEDICAL DOCTORS EXPECT TO HAVE CURED 1,000 PEOPLE BY THE END OF 1912. THEY OPENED THEIR OFFICE ON THE 15TH OF JANUARY, 1912, AND HAVE SUCCESSFULLY CURED MORE THAN 500 MEN AND WOMEN, MANY OF WHOM HAD BEEN GIVEN UP IN ROCHESTER, MINN.

BEEN OPENED FOR CANCER.

Mr. Johnson of Ironwood had gone to Rochester, Minn., to have cancer of his stomach removed, however, when the surgeons had seen the extent of the disease, they sowed him up and left him go as his cancer had progressed beyond the operative stage. His wound had not healed yet when he came to the Electro Medical Doctors of Duluth, who immediately began to work on the cancer. This is only a few months hence and Mr. Johnson has not only gained in weight and health, but has lately started to work to support his family.

Lately there have been several patients who had been operated upon. Exploratory incisions revealed the fact of advanced cancrers, in which case they were not operated upon any further, but were left with the cancerous growth. Out of the six which have applied for treatment by the Electro Medical Doctors, five have improved so much that patients and doctors alike are living in greatest hopes of healing the disease completely.

POWERFULLY HEALING.

So powerfully healing and curing qualities is Electro Medicine that the most advanced hospital and sanitariums of the East as well as in Europe are employing Electro Medical experts.

Healing disease through the medium of high electro-medical power is but a natural phenomenon whereby the nerves and vitality itself is restored and liberated from disease and the blood will flow unobstructed through veins and arteries of the body.

Electricity has been the master key which has unlocked the doors which have revealed nearly all of the important discoveries up to the present time and there is no doubt that the solution of the medicine difficulty lies in electricity.

The trend of science on all sides is to electricity. Discoveries made hour by hour point to one grand conclusion —the bed-rock of Nature is electricity. Life, force and mind are intimately connected with electricity. A man, brain and body, is a battery, and the nerves correspond to wires. The power that drives the body is electricity. Life is electricity and ozone its normal supplement which supplied the red corpuscles of the blood with the element of life.

GET OUT THE POISON.

One of the first things the Electro Medical Doctors do, when a patient comes under their treatment is a thorough cleansing of the whole system. Electrical machines which generate a power as high as 100,000 volts take in the remedies into the diseased body with lightning rapidity. Poisons which lodged for years in the body and have caused the patient's illness, are broken up and are compelled to leave the body, and quite often may one see the disease disappear while the patient is under the influence of Electro Medical power. Such is the case with some forms of Exceemas, Erythemas or eruptions also in ulcerating wounds and open legs, carbuncles, and other sores of nonmalignant character.

HEALING STOMACH TROUBLES.

There is hardly anything more wonderful than the method of these doctors, and it probably would be hard to find people who are more happy than those who have been treated by the Electro Medical method. Mrs. Gustavson of Duluth said that she has been troubled with stomach trouble for the last eleven years and there was nothing which did cure her, she had received only three treatments and feels entirely free from pain and feels at least ten years younger. She said that a thousand dollars would not be as welcome to her as her health is now. Among other patients was a man whose left arm was paralyzed for ten months; he spent six months in the hospital without getting any better; a few treatments have brought new life in the arm so that he can move it fairly well. The doctors say that there is absolutely nothing wonderful in the treatments, nor is there any mystery in the rapid improvement of the patients. While the patient is put under the influence of 20,000 volts of the Ozone-Electro—X-Ray power, every tissue in the body gets new life and the patient has the most pleasant feeling. This Electro Medical power is so strong that uric acid crystals are dissolved in the blood as well as in the joints, and other poisons, which are the cause of so many diseases, are carried away and the nerves, stomach or the joints are made healthy in the most natural way.

The Electro Medical Doctors are permanently located at No. 26 West Superior street (next to Gidding's), Duluth. Every sick man and woman is welcome to a free consultation.

DULUTH BOOSTERS, 400 STRONG, INVADE HIBBING

Visitors Are Cheered as They March Along the Streets.

White Caps, Duluth Pennants and Song Birds in Evidence.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—The St. Louis county fair is turned over to Duluth today.

About 400 business men of the Zenith City, accompanied by the Third Regiment band, arrived on a special train shortly before noon today and took possession of Hibbing. The invasion was a welcome one. Hibbing has been looking forward to the visit of the Duluth visitors and it seemed that the entire population of Hibbing and of two or three more range towns for good measure, was out to greet the Duluthians and welcome them to the fair.

When the train pulled in the coaches disgorged their crowds of boosting Duluthians. Every man wore a white cap with a ribbon badge bearing the word "Duluth." They carried Duluth pennants attached to canes, and wore their most enthusiastic Duluth smiles. The Duluthians formed in line behind the Third Regiment band and Company E, Minnesota National Guard, which is here for a sham battle with Company M of Hibbing. The parade marched through the streets, which were lined with cheering people. It was the most enthusiastic, exuberant, encouraging demonstration of interest that has taken place during the fair, and the Hibbing people who have worked hard to bring the fair to a place of recognition in other parts of the county were delighted. The parade was three blocks long. A crowd of cheering people, that jammed the sidewalks, greeted it at every block. It was like the return of a lot of conquering heroes, and much more of an attraction than any parade that has ever been held in this village.

Dinner at Armory.

The parade wound up at the Armory, where the Girls' Booster club and the Church of the Blessed Sacrament served dinner. The dinner was all that could be desired, and the servers were the flower of Hibbing girlhood, of which the Duluth boosters were not unappreciative.

After dinner the Duluth visitors went to the fair grounds, where special features had been arranged for their entertainment. The agricultural exhibits were visited by most of the Duluth party, and there were revelations that set the Woodland and Lakeside contingents to squabbling about the relative production of Woodland, Lakeside and the Hibbing district, agriculturally speaking. Some of the visitors took in the horse races, and the other amusement features were not neglected. The Third Regiment band gave a concert in its best style—which is some style—and the song birds warred against the usual fair noises by raising their voices in song.

William E. Lee, a candidate for governor, accompanied the Duluth party on the special train and was drafted into service as a Duluth booster. He didn't object. In fact, he seemed to enjoy it.

F. A. Patrick and party, in an automobile, were among the early arrivals today. Another party which left Duluth early this morning was badly delayed and there was a suspicion that they had encountered roads that were not of the best.

The cars which left Duluth this morning were driven by Henry Bridgeman, E. J. Filiatrault, Norman Haagenson, Arthur Michaud, Verne Culbertson and Miss Sarah Smith. Miss Smith drove her own car and was accompanied by Misses Anna and Louise Smith, Mrs. A. Smith of New Duluth and Miss Lillie Larson of the West end.

HEAD WAITER WHO IS HELPING MAKE SPALDING CAFES FAMOUS

One of Duluth's leading colored citizens is William Dawson, who was born in the city of Indianapolis, forty-two years ago and commenced his hotel life as omnibus in the Bates House of that city. In six years he worked himself up from the lowest position in the dining room to the position as second head waiter. He left the Bates house to become general superintendent of the culinary department of the Surgical Institute of Indianapolis, remaining with this institute for three years. He then went to the Columbia on Monroe street, Chicago, as head waiter, remaining there one year. Leaving the Columbia he spent two seasons at the Grand hotel, Mackinac Island, and two winters at the Auditorium Hotel, Chicago. At the Grand he was head waiter, at the Auditorium, second. He then went to the Leland hotel, Chicago, as second waiter. This, during its palmy days, was one of Chicago's great hotels. He remained there for two years. He left the Leland to take charge of the Palmer House cafe, remaining there eighteen months and from there went to Pittsburg to become head waiter in Newell's Cafe, one of the leading restaurants in that city, and remained there one year. He left Pittsburg to become second head waiter at the Plankinton, Milwaukee. From the Plankinton, in 1900, he came to Duluth to become head waiter at the Spalding, which position he has held ever since.

William Dawson is an exceptional head waiter and has had rare training while in the business. He is a strict disciplinarian and a man who commands the respect of those who work under him, as well as that of his employers. His work at the Spalding has greatly assisted the management of that hotel in making its restaurants, possibly the most talked about, or those of any hotel in the Northwest. He is one of the leading colored men of the state of Minnesota and holds several positions of trust in their fraternal organizations. He is a property owner of Duluth and a substantial one and takes a deep interest in the progress and welfare of the colored people of this city.

crowds that has heard him during his Vermont campaign.

"Since I have been in Vermont," said Col. Roosevelt, "I have been informed by thirty or forty voters that they intended to vote for me in November, but that next Tuesday they would vote for the Republican or Democratic candidate. I wish to emphasize that the only way you can stand for the Progressive national ticket, and incidentally for me, is to support Mr. Metzger, the Progressive candidate for governor and the Progressive state ticket next Tuesday.

Election Next Tuesday.

"The election next Tuesday will be watched eagerly outside of Vermont and judged from the national standpoint. Every political boss of the type of Mr. Penrose, every head of a big corporation of the type of Mr. Archbold, will eagerly be hoping for the defeat of the Progressive ticket in Vermont. The Penroses and Archbolds do not care a rap which of the old parties triumphs if only the Progressives are beaten.

"Up here in Vermont you will, of course, understand that your own votes in the state election do not indicate how you will vote in November, but outside of Vermont they won't understand it."

Col. Roosevelt said, after he had finished his speech, that it had been charged that he had come to Vermont merely in quest of votes for himself at the November election.

"With this fight on in Vermont I should have come anyway," he said. "I wanted to make it clear that I had come here just as much for the state as for the national ticket."

Are "After Him."

Speaking of his attitude on Senator Penrose and John D. Archbold, Col. Roosevelt said:

"These men think there must be something crooked about me. They can't understand that there is not, and they keep hoping to get something which will discredit me. Somebody is always making charges against me, and I always deny them and produce a letter to prove they are false."

Checked by Commission.

While in some instances charges to inter-Rocky mountain destinations would be reduced, a checking by the commission appears to indicate that the reductions would apply to little more than 10 per cent of the westbound traffic.

The lowering of rates to such destinations as Spokane, Wash., Reno, Nev., Tucson, Ariz., and similarly situated cities, was in substantial accord with the recent agreement made by shippers of these places with the railroads, and sanctioned by the commission, as a modification of the commission's findings in what popularly are known as the "Pacific coast cases."

These examples of proposed increases on commodities are cited by the commission: Thirty cents a hundred pounds on automobiles, 43 cents on furniture, 75 cents on plate glass, 10 cents on petroleum products, 40 cents on plumbing materials, 20 cents on stoves and 46 cents on vehicles.

Generally, from points of origin in Middle Western states, the charges are somewhat lower, although to many articles a "blanket rate" is applicable, alike to all the East and Middle West.

It is expected the commission may be finally compelled to dispose of the case by the expiration of the period of suspension.

Johnstad School of Shorthand and Penmanship.

For the past two years I have conducted a school of shorthand and penmanship for the purpose of devoting all my time and attention to special work. I have met with encouragement at the hands of business men, parents and students of this city and community for which I wish to express my sincere appreciation. I have resolved to make the coming year a greater year for the advancement of good shorthand and penmanship. I have secured the right to teach in Duluth the Success System of shorthand, which holds the world's record for speed and accuracy. It shall be our endeavor to give to the students of the Johnstad school the best stenographic training possible. Miss Lillian Olssen, formerly teacher in the Lincoln school, this city, has had charge of the English department during the past summer. Visit the school. Write or telephone (Grand 2354) and get our prospectus. It gives information that every one interested in learning shorthand should know. Fall term opens Tuesday, Sept. 3. Day and evening sessions. CONTRACT FOR WATER MAINS

S. Johnson Will Lay New Duluth System—Penalty for Delay.

S. Johnson has been awarded the contract for the laying of the gas and water mains for the New Duluth system.

The board of water and light commissioners, in letting the contract, passed a resolution requiring the contractor to lay all pipe delivered before Oct. 1, by Dec. 1, and all pipe delivered after Oct. 1, within similar time, under penalty of $5 a day.

The contract price is $7,371.34 on the estimates. The contract calls for the laying of about 11,000 feet of gas pipe and the same amount of water pipe. The water mains will vary in size from six to twelve inches. The gas mains will all be four inches.

Water in quantities sufficient to supply New Duluth has not yet been discovered by the sinking of wells, but the engineers of the board believe that sufficient water will be found at depth. The drills have gone over 100 feet in the earth without finding water enough, but they are likely to get into quantities of water at any time now. As soon as they do, the contracts for the independent pumping plant will be let, and by the time the plant is built and equipped the mains are expected to be ready.

E. Norquist & Co. were given the mains in Twenty-sixth avenue east from First to Sixth street. The main will be ten inches. The successful bid was $3,392.

MRS. HUTT IS DENIED DIVORCE IN NEVADA.

Reno, Nev., Aug. 31.—Mrs. Edna Hutt, wife of Henry Hutt, the artist, was denied a decree of divorce in the district court here by Judge French. The court held that Mrs. Hutt's allegation of wilful desertion had not been substantiated.

Dodge Gets Decree.

FIREMEN IN TWO RUNS

Blazes in Residences Keep Department Busy During Morning.

Kerosene Can Again Proves Effective—$50 In Bills Burned.

Firemen had two long runs in quick succession early this morning.

The first blaze was in the residence of Dr. Robert Graham at 1919 East Second street. Workmen had been redecorating the house, and left some oiled rags in the kitchen. These caught fire and the blaze did about $250 damage before it was extinguished.

The second fire was at 524 East Eleventh street and the old combination of a kerosene can and a kitchen range was responsible. Mrs. Joseph Walkowiak attempted to light the fire this morning with kerosene. It exploded and her apron caught fire. She threw the apron off, but the blaze spread quickly through the kitchen and to the attic. The firemen had a long run up the hill, and before the fire was extinguished the damage amounted to about $1,000. The sum of $50 in bills was hidden in the attic and this was burned.

The gunmen then authorized the lawyer to negotiate terms with the district attorney, it is said, but owing to Mr. Whitman's departure for Manchester, Vt., to remain over Sunday, no action was taken by the lawyer.

John F. McIntyre, counsel for Becker, indicted as instigator of the murder, has issued a statement declaring that "the trial of Becker in the newspapers has been a disgraceful proceeding."

"Sacred Rights Obliterated."

"Day after day," said Mr. McIntyre, "that which transpires in the grand jury room is expressed broadcast and done only with one viewpoint—to so bias and prejudice the public mind that the accused will be denied a fair and impartial trial.

"Every sacred right guaranteed by the Constitution has been obliterated, and every tradition of criminal jurisprudence violated. Never in the history of the country has there been such a spectacle.

"The indictment was returned some weeks ago against Becker, yet if we are told aright by the newspapers, every day since then some one who it is assumed will testify for the defendant is brought to the grand jury room and there, as it is stated in the public prints, grilled by the district attorney.

"It is done to menace or intimidate to an extent that is alarming many that are willing and anxious to tell the truth in behalf of the defense. It is not unusual for a district attorney to call witnesses supposed to be for the defense in the guise of a grand jury mandate, obviously to learn what the defendant and his witnesses will say in a trial to be held.

"It is a most novel way of anticipating a defense, and in my judgment unlawful."

Denies Story of Gunmen.

Mr. McIntyre denied reports that "Gyp the Blood" and "Lefty Louie" would be produced by the defense as witnesses, or that any witnesses of the state had been "spirited away."

Becker's counsel, it is understood, has agreed with District Attorney Whitman to interpose no technicalities looking to further delay in his client's trial, when Becker is arraigned for pleading next Tuesday.

Capt. Joseph Faurot has been appointed to temporary command of the detective bureau. While Faurot, who has been in charge of the "finger-print bureau" of the department, was officially assigned to take charge of the bureau only during the absence of Inspector Hughes, who is on sick leave, it was rumored that the appointment would be made permanent.

Looks Like "Lefty Louie."

Durango, Colo., Aug. 31.—Lefty Louie, or a man answering very closely the description and pictures of him sent out from New York, is in or near Durango. He stopped at the house of W. C. "The Sunny Side of Broadway" Opens Engagement in Duluth.

Lyceum audiences yesterday were amused and entertained by "The Sunny Side of Broadway," which opened an engagement at popular prices.

It is a lively comedy, clean and amusing. There are some catchy song numbers, and Max Bloom drew his fair share of laughter on every appearance.

The plot has to do with the love affair of a college youth and a show girl and the parental opposition.

The popular musical numbers were: "Irish Honey Moon," "Meet Me at the Stage Door, Johnnie," "Horse Dance," "Beware of the Garden of Love," "Under the Pazaza Plant," "My Pal From Frisco" and "When Tommie Atkins Does the Texas Tommie Dance."

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 31.—By appointing a committee of three men to draft resolutions, members of the Northwestern Photographers' association, in session here, Friday made a protest against the bill recently introduced in congress which would prohibit the publication or display of any photograph of a living person without the written consent of the subject. An address opposing the bill was made by W. S. Abel of Cleveland, Ohio.

MARKET IS COMPLETED

Farmers Now Have Place to Sell Produce in West Duluth.

Commercial Club Wants Fish Hatchery at Fond du Lac.

The West Duluth Commercial club last night received a report to the effect that the public market has been finished and that farmers are invited to come in and put their produce up for sale to the public.

The market is situated at the corner of Ramsey street and Fifty-sixth avenue and it has been suggested that market days be fixed for Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday of each week. However, the farmers will determine the days for themselves, but it is believed that these would be good days to adopt.

A committee consisting of M. J. Filiatrault, Otto Haller and F. H. Wade was appointed to invite the state game and fish commission to come here and investigate sites at Fond du Lac for a state fish hatchery. A resolution suggesting this was introduced by Mr. Filiatrault and adopted.

The Eighth ward aldermen were instructed to take up the matter of compelling the Soo road to put a depot in somewhere west of Forty-eighth avenue west as provided for in their franchise, and to consult with the city attorney about it, taking whatever steps may be necessary to bring the matter to a head.

The club voted to purchase a piano for use in the club rooms.

ACTIVITY ON WATERFRONT

Nearly 250 Men Employed Building New Coal Docks.

About 250 men are at work on the steel construction of the Island Lake company's coal dock and that of the Pittsburg Coal company. Both structures are being rushed to completion. The West Duluth water front presents a scene of great activity, of which few people in West Duluth seem to be aware.

FARMERS' DAY AT PROCTOR

The first "farmers' day" in the history of Proctor is on today. The city is dressed in its best clothes and brilliant decorations adorn the buildings and streets. Addresses are being made and a program of sports held. A picnic dinner was served at noon and immediately following that the Proctor fire department gave a most interesting exhibition, showing some quick work. The sports program and the baby contest and that among farmers for supremacy as to the largest family present, created a good deal of amusement.

PUTS A BULLET THROUGH HIS HEEL.

Fifteen-year-old Joseph Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Collins of 119 North Fifty-sixth avenue west, is laid up with a badly wounded heel, the result of an accidental shooting. He rested the muzzle of the .22 caliber rifle on his heel while waiting for a target to be fixed and accidentally pulled the trigger. The heel bone was shattered and the boy is suffering much pain.

FINDING FAULT WITH CONTRACTOR.

Considerable fault is being found among Central avenue business men over the methods used by Contractor Dahl in the work of paving. The street is torn up from one end to the other, badly blocked in places, and no effort has yet been made to lay any concrete and get the work out of the way. The council's attention will be called to this on Monday night.

Motor Boat Parade.

All arrangements have been made for the motor boat parade of the Western Boat club on Monday, and the members are just now wishing hard for a clear day. The parade will be from the slip between Sixty-first and Sixty-third avenues to Fond du Lac, where a basket picnic will be enjoyed. The boats will be vivid with color and a pretty scene will be obtainable if the weather is good.

IS KNOWN IN WEST DULUTH

Young Woman Arrested in Superior Has Bad Record Here.

The Superior police find Mabel Howard, the young woman arrested in an opium den there a few days ago, in company with a negro, considerable of a mystery.

Lieut. Wilcox of the West Duluth police says that the woman is no mystery to the Duluth police. She was arrested in West Duluth on July 4, in company with a colored woman named Mary Carter, whom she claims to be a sister-in-law. They were arrested in a boarding house at 226 South Fifty-sixth avenue on complaint of some of the boarders that they were immoral women. Mabel says that early last spring she was married to a colored Portuguese at Ishpeming, Mich. His name is Bart Howard and he was on July 4 a piano player at Dunn's saloon in Red Jacket, Mich.

Mabel told the police here that when she was 14 years old—she is now 21—she was arrested in Calumet for running away from home, and was sent to the reform school at Adrian, Mich., where she was for three years. When she was released from there she met Howard, and they corresponded at intervals until three months ago, when they met again and were married in court at Ishpeming. She told the police that she smokes cigarettes and sometimes cigars, that she drinks very little, and also that she is not immoral.

Now she is held by the Superior authorities, who do not seem to know just what to do with her.

GLEANED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

Jennie Schwantz was in the custody of R. E. Morse as well as of the police when she woke up at headquarters this morning.

Who's R. E. Morse? He's an old friend well known to those who throw discretion to the winds while traveling under the bright lights where the chief topic of conversation is "Give I's Another."

R. E. Morse generally comes around the morning after the night before. Those who have met him and know him from experience declare, as they call for ice water to quench that burning thirst or hold shaking hands to fevered brows and curse that nauseating, dark brown taste, that they have had more welcome visitors. Casting aside the decorations and the capitals he is more commonly recognized in his everyday garments as plain remorse. The accepted mode of greeting him, made so by ancient usage, is "Never again for me."

Jennie was in the grasp of R. E. Morse, capitals and all, this morning. Jennie is an old acquaintance. For years back her name has decorated the blotter at irregular intervals, the length usually varying according to how long she was in jail the last time. But this a. m. she was in worse shape than usual. Not only did she have the customary accompaniments of too long an acquaintance with old King Barley Corn, but her features showed plainly that she had been engaging in battle. Her eyes were what is termed black and blue, and divers bumps and bruises were ample evidence of what had happened to her.

She looked as though she had been picked up in a cyclone, but the police say that such was not the case. They aver that she encountered a veritable whirlwind in the person of Eva Saharan, who is a close rival of Jennie when it comes to the question of which has been arrested the more times.

What caused the trouble in the first place is not known to the minions of the law. It appears that Jennie and Eva were engaged in a drinking bout down on Garfield avenue and that it developed into another kind of bout in which Jennie got decidedly the worst of it. Not only was she beaten up but she was so unfortunate as to fall into the hands of the police, while Eva managed to make a safe getaway before the bluecoats swooped down upon her.

The authorities declare that Jennie ought to be well versed in the art of handling herself. They point out that she is the wife of one who was well known in these parts in years gone by as the "Minnesota Chicken," who was quite a favorite in the square ring. But if she tried to come back she failed woefully, for she was no match for Eva at all.

When Jennie was brought into court this morning she entered a plea of guilty to second offense drunkenness. She wept copious quantities of tears while she was in the courtroom, but turning on the water works did not melt the heart of the court. Jennie's tears couldn't liquidate a fine of $10 and costs and she was sent over the hill for ten days.

Axel Borg is getting to be a most persistent caller at police court. Ever since he took the pledge and promised to join the church he has been getting drunk regularly. This morning he didn't deny the charge but begged for a "last chance" to go to work. He just finished a term in the county jail yesterday and the court gave him the opportunity which he craved.

George Mamilovich and Mike Mannila engaged in an argument over religion in a Bowery saloon yesterday which culminated in blows. Mike smashed George in the eye and ran away. George proceeded to get a gun and after arming himself started out to look for Mike. He went into the lavatory of the saloon and tried out his smoke wagon. The report drew a policeman and he was sent to headquarters on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. He pleaded guilty in police court this morning and was given fifteen days straight in the county jail. George swore out a warrant for Mike's arrest, charging him with assault. He pleaded guilty and was released on paying a fine of $10 and costs.

John Brander, a beer agent catering to family trade, was arrested this morning on a charge of selling liquor in quantities less than five gallons without having been licensed to do so. He pleaded not guilty and his hearing was set for Tuesday afternoon. He was released on his own recognizance.

* * *

Robert Smith, the colored man arrested on a charge of having stabbed Gust Peterson on the Lake avenue viaduct the night of Aug. 21, waived examination when brought into police court this morning. It is alleged that he sank a knife into Peterson when he was refused alms.

Bessie Suss, 18 years old and married, was arraigned in police court this morning on a disorderly charge. She was arrested last night in a rooming house near First avenue east and Superior street. She pleaded not guilty, and her hearing was set for Tuesday afternoon.

Henry Sevais, a chauffeur employed by the Board of Trade livery, was arrested yesterday on a charge of violating the traffic ordinance. Kenny & Anker complained that he had his machine standing before their store longer than the twenty minutes allowed by the ordinance. Sevais pleaded not guilty and will be tried Tuesday afternoon. A resolution was recently passed by the council giving it as the sense of that body that automobiles be allowed to stand on Superior street until the first of the year. The resolution did not change the ordinance in any way as far as its legality is concerned.

The hearing of Alexander D. Kerr, arrested on a charge of holding up A. J. Adrehan of the Interstate Traction company and forcing him to turn over $138.25 of the company's receipts, was continued one week when it was called in police court this morning. In the meantime it is likely that his case will be taken up by the grand jury, which convenes Wednesday.

H. Brown, a clerk at the Lyceum pharmacy, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a warrant sworn out by A. D. Silbbald of the state pure food department, charging him with selling adulterated candy. He pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $15 and costs.

Clarence Hertzog was arrested yesterday by Officer Murray of Park Point on a charge of discharging fire arms in the city limits. He pleaded guilty and sentence was suspended after he promised to be more careful in the future.

SCANDAL

Regarding Affair on the White House Lawn Is Denied.

EXECUTIVE GUARD CALLS IT CANARD

Washington, Aug. 31.—Pauline Wayn, President Taft's prize cow—the gift of "Uncle Ike" Stephenson of Wisconsin—was so peeved today over a published report that she had clandestinely been milked on the White House lawn by J. F. Koehler of Canton, Ohio, that the official milkman declared he "just couldn't do a thing with her." Moreover Pauline was interrupted all day long as she munched the tender grasses of her private pasture by throngs of reporters who came for interviews, and to the rude clicking of camera shutters, demanding to know "is this true, Mrs. Wayne?"

And to each query, modest Pauline returned from her soft brown eyes a glance bespeaking reproach and indignation, and a whisk of her tail, which is to say in bovine, with business of hauteur:

"He did not."

Magnificently Gowned.

Mrs. Wayne was magnificently gowned for the interview in an exquisite robe of Holstein-feslan velvet, having a white background with rosettes and trimmings of jet. She wore a bandeau of white, startling jet ear-rings, spotless stockings of cream-colored silk and was shod with flesh colored pumps.

"I wasn't milked on the White House lawn by a strange man," Mrs. Wayne declared, tearfully, when she finally consented to talk in little moos and grunts, between sobs, "because, in the first place, I haven't been in the White House lawn in more than a year, but have been enjoying life on the pasture near the army quartermaster's stables. Moreover, I'm a very able, athletic young lady and quite prepared to protect myself. There is absolutely not a word of truth in it, and if you don't believe me, ask the White House policeman."

Exonerated by Officer.

The lone minion of the law who solemnly guards the executive offices when President Taft is away, allowed that, in the first place, he never contradicted a lady; and in the second place, if a cow were milked on the White House lawn, it must have been some hussy trying to pass herself on strangers as Pauline.

CUBAN HELD FOR ASSAULT

American Protest Gets Action By Havana Authorities.

Radical Press Praises Assailant of Diplomat as Patriot.

Havana, Aug. 31.—In consequence of a vigorous protest by Hugh Gibson, charge d'affaires of the American legation here, against the release on trival bail of Enrique Maza, the newspaper man who assaulted him last Monday night, Maza has been arrested for the third time by order of the audience court and committed to jail to await indictment. Immediately after the re-arrest of Maza, the squad of secret service men who had been detailed to watch the American legation and to attend Mr. Gibson wherever he went was relieved from duty.

Mr. Gibson's vigorous insistence that his assailant be prosecuted aroused a fresh storm of indignation among the newspapers comprising the anti-American section of the press.

El Siglo, which professes to be the conservative organ, but which has been repudiated by the leaders of that party, fills its front page with an account of comments upon the attack of Mr. Gibson, representing it as merely a trivial affair in which Mr. Gibson was the aggressor, and was worsted by a patriotic young Cuban.

Attacks Private Character.

The newspaper also violently attacks Mr. Gibson's private character. Other journals follow the line of attack of El Siglo.

The government professes its inability to stop these attacks.

The prosecution of Maza will be begun as soon as Mr. Gibson makes a formal complaint against him.

Maza continues to receive the sympathy of many Cubans, and a proposition has been advanced to start a popular subscription for his release as a patriotic defender of his country's honor who is worthy to rank with Alberto Yarini, who, in 1908, assaulted J. Cornell Tarler, charge d' affaires of the American legation, in a manner similar to that of Maza against Mr. Gibson.

Tool of Plotters.

Washington, Aug. 31.—Enrique Maza, the reported who attacked Hugh Gibson, American charge of the legation in Havana, last Monday night, was merely a tool in the hands of Cuban plotters who are antagonistic to the United States, and who would like to get the Cuban government into trouble with this country, according to the opinion expressed by Senor Martin Revero, the Cuban minister. He was of the belief, he said, that Maza had not attacked Mr. Gibson of his own volition, but that he had been urged on by others who had made him think he had been insulted and that he should seek revenge.

Under no circumstances, no matter what his provocation may have been, said the minister, was Maza justified in the action he took. That justice would be done in the case was the declaration of the minister.

RAILROADS

HEADED FOR GRAIN FIELDS

Nearly 2,000 Men Pass Through Duluth on Way to Canada.

One Train Brings 700 Laborers; Another Coming With 900.

The rush to the harvest fields of Canada is on in earnest at the present time. More than 700 laborers and homesteaders came through last night on the Omaha and left shortly after their arrival here, on a special for Winnipeg, from which point they will be distributed through Northwestern Canada.

Another party came through this morning, there being something like 150 men in the crowd. Like the laborers and those seeking homes who came through in the special of Friday evening, these men are also bound for the fields of Canada.

Some time today there will be a special train in over the Omaha with over 900 laborers and those going to Canada for settlement. This is the biggest party, counting the three trains, that has gone through the Duluth gateway the presnt season.

According to the information given out at the Omaha office, the demand for men in Canada continues almost as strong as it was some few weeks ago, and the farmers up there are crying for men to come and help with the harvesting of the great crop.

BIG CROWD TO STATE FAIR

Railroad Offices Report Heavy Advance Sale of Tickets.

Duluth is going to send the biggest representation in its history to the Minnesota state fair, according to the indications at the various passenger offices of the city. Many reservations have already been made and it looks as if there will be a very large crowd of Duluthians present on the day set aside as Duluth day.

Inquiry at the Omaha, Soo, Northern Pacific and Great Northern offices shows that many tickets have already been purchased at the special rate price. Railroad men are authority for the statement that there will be a very large crowd going down, starting with tomorrow.

RAILROAD MEN VISIT HIBBING

Duluth is well represented at Hibbing today by the railroad fraternity of this city. Among the railroad men who left with the boosters' special today, are George Sherwood of the Soo; Fred A. Hills, Great Northern; J. I. Thomas, Northern Pacific; C. L. Kennedy, Great Western; James Maney, South Shore, and O. C. Scherer of the Omaha.

WILSON "AFTER SOME FINE GAME"

Talks of Sport to Riflemen Who Visit Sea Girt Home.

Sea Girt, N. J., Aug. 31.—Addressing members of the National Rifle association here today, Governor Wilson said:

"I have explained to my comrades in New Jersey that through a partial loss of eye-sight I now merely pretend that I used to be a great shot. My sport has been in the political jungle, and I have had some real sport and brought down some real specimens. I am now on the trail of some fine game. I hope to have either the skin or the head mounted, as the case may be."

"A bull, governor," cheered the crowd.

"Perhaps both the head and skin. I have plenty of room for such political trophies. But seriously speaking, it is a real pleasure to see you here, to see so many men face to face who are in a worthy service."

WABASH FLYER DITCHED BY SCARED WATCHMAN.

London, Ont., Aug. 31.—The Wabash Flyer, which left Detroit at 12:30 o'clock this morning, was wrecked six miles west of Chatham. There were more than 100 passengers, but the injuries of those who suffered were slight. The engine and five coaches were overturned.

It is said that the accident was due to the action of a watchman who, believing that another train was approaching and a collision imminent, threw the derail to avoid more serious consequences.

Michigan Mining Men Elect.

Houghton, Mich., Aug. 31.—The board of directors of the Michigan chapter of the American Mining congress held a meeting here yesterday and elected the following officers: Governor, James B. Cooper, Lake Linden; lieutenant governor, George H. Abeel, Ironwood; treasurer, Willard J. Smith, Mohawk. The secretary will be named later.

AT HOME, in the afternoon and evening, there are time and inclination to read—and the good evening newspaper, with its up-to-now news, and its valuable home features, is the favorite "reading matter." Its ads, partaking of the newsy quality of the paper itself, are not merely glanced at—they are studied FOR PROFIT, for guidance in buying aright!

BERGDOL IS IN THE LEAD

Millionaire Driver May Capture Free for All at Elgin.

Elgin, Ill., Aug. 31.—Edwin Bergdol, the young Philadelphia millionaire, driver, racing a 90-horse power Benz car, led at the end of the first 150 miles of the 305 mile free-for-all event on the second day program of the annual Elgin automobile meet this afternoon.

Ralph de Palma, driving a Mercedes was less than five minutes behind Bergdol. George Clark of Dallas, Tex., driving a Mercedes and his mechanician, Malone, narrowly escaped instant death at Hornbeck's turn in the sixth lap of the Elgin national trophy race. Clark was attempting to drive the turn at high speed when he ran through a bunker of baled hay into the fence. Clark and Malone both said to be seriously injured, were taken to a hospital.

Twelve cars start in the two races on the card for the second day. Of those eight are decided to go 305 miles around the eight and one-quarter miles road course for the big event of the day, the $2,500 free-for-all. These entries were: Ralph Mulford, (Knox); George Clark, (Mercedes); Ralph De Palma, (Mercedes); Teddy Tetzlaff, (Fiat); Eddie Hearne, (Fiat); E. Bergdol, (Benz); Neil Whalen, (National), and Hughie Hughes, (Mercer).

Five of these eight, Mulford, Clark, Depalma, Tetzlaff and Whalen, also were entered in the 254-mile Elgin national trophy race, which was to be run at the same time with the free-for-all.

In addition to the last five named, the following entries made up the field of ten in the Elgin national race: Harry Endicott (Mason), Gill Anderson (Stutz), Charles Merz, winner of yesterday's Illinois trophy (Stutz), Spencer Wishart (Mercer) and Hughie Hughes (Mercer).

Fred Wagner, official starter, sent off the first car at 11 o'clock this morning. The others followed at half-minute intervals.

The 120-horse power Fiat entered in the free-for-all was disabled during the tryout this morning. A crank shaft was broken, putting the car out of the race. Efforts were made to have Tetzlaff, the driver, use another Fiat machine or exchange with Eddie Hearne, his team-mate. The National entry to have been driven by Neil Whalen also was put out of the race before the start by mechanical troubles.

COURSE IS IN SPLENDID SHAPE

Finishing Touches Are Being Made for Great Vanderbilt Races.

Finishing touches are now being put on the Milwaukee race course over which will be run the contests for the Vanderbilt, Grand Prize, Wisconsin and Pabst trophies, Sept. 17-21. The circuit which is 8.2 miles in length, has been improved at a cost of more than $25,000 and it is judged by experts to be the speediest of any road course in America.

E. G. Williams, an expert road builder, who was sent to Milwaukee to inspect the construction of the work for William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., chairman of the contest committee of the Automobile Club of America, and donor of the Vanderbilt cup, when asked his opinion of the course said: "New records are almost certain to be made on it. The course is both speedy and safe, with long straightaways and just enough roll to provide a thrilling tinge. Wide curves will permit a great speed without adding to the danger materially."

Teddy Tetzlaff, the best known of Western drivers, who averaged 78.5 miles per hour in the Santa Monica road race, had this to say of the course. "Race enthusiasts who visit the Milwaukee events will see the greatest speed events ever run. The long straightaways with wide fast turns permit of record breaking speed. I will make some new records myself, or provide the spectators with some thrillers in the attempt."

The course has been built with the utmost regard for safety, and spectators will not be permitted to be within 300 feet of the course.

Manager Bartt J. Ruddle and his committee are making elaborate plans for the entertainment of visitors to the races and they have designated Sept. 17 as Milwaukee day. It will be observed by a public and official reception on the part of the citizens of Milwaukee and by state officials.

Governor Francis E. McGovern will be present to represent the state and will take an important part in the formal opening proceedings. Mayor Gerhard A. Bading will represent the city of Milwaukee in like manner. Assisting the governor and mayor will be Gen. Otto H. Falk, president of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association; William George Bruce, secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association; Harry W. Lewis and Francis A. Cannon, respectively president and secretary of the Citizen's Business league; I. G. Hickman, president of the Milwaukee Automobile Dealers' association, which organization is promoting the race, and representatives of others of the city's institutions.

Col. Gustav Pabst, Milwaukee, donor of the Pabst Blue Ribbon cup, and Charles H. John, Milwaukee, president of the Wisconsin Motor Manufacturing company, donor of the Wisconsin Motor Challenge trophy, will be especial guests of honor on this occasion and also will assist in the overtures of welcome.

The visitors will be officially represented on this notable occasion by William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., donor of the Vanderbilt cup and chairman of the contest board of the Automobile Club of America, which organization donated the gold Grand Prize cup; President F. W. Whitridge, Automobile Club of America; President Robert P. Hooper, American Automobile association; William Schimpf, chairman of the contest board of the American Automobile association, and the presidents of practically all of the important automobile organizations in the United States.

PUTTING AIRSHIP TO BED.

Hooks, Trolleys and Ballast Bags to Subdue Big Dirigible.

If you are in Frankfort, a thing which may happen to anybody, go and see an airship arrive, says the London Express. You may have to get up at 6 in the morning, but it is worth it. You will drive out of the town in a few minutes, even if you have to take a horse-taxi as I did. It was a sorry looking horse, but when the driver knew that his destination was the airship ground, he got a wonderful speed out of the animal. All good Germans are airship mad just now.

Frankfort is one of those happy towns that has no suburb, and in ten minutes you are among the wheat fields, the poppies, a tram line, and sharp to the right the huge inclosed field. Sixpence lets you through the gate, and a quarter of a mile on you see a vast oval shed. It is partly brick, but mostly glass and iron, a miniature Crystal palace with an oval roof, and two huge doors at each end reaching from the ground to the roof.

As we watch, sixteen men working levers in couples cause the door at one end slowly to open. The airship is due in a couple of hours, and they take no risks in such matters in the Fatherland. Already a small army of men in uniform scatters itself about the ground, and as we are smoking, one of them promptly informs us that there is no smoking allowed. We are half a mile off the gasometer and 100 yards from the shed.

"Not out here?" we ask in our best German. "Other days, yes," he says, "but today, no! A ship comes." It is well to be on the safe side; the ship has already started from Baden-Baden!

We solace ourselves with eggs and coffee and the excellent, but in England politically deaplsed, black bread and butter. This we get at one of a set of small tables ranged along one side of the shed. Outside there is a little kitchen, and our breakfast is beautifully cooked. Along the whole length of the floor of the shed run two pairs of rails some thirty yards apart. The building is nearly 500 feet long. The rails take the little trolleys on which ropes from the ship are fixed, by means of which men can pull it along in the shed. Iron steps lead up one side of the shed to its glass and metal roof, below which runs a platform.

A uniformed man walks along to the end and gets outside. He carries a trumpet, which he will blow as soon as he sights the ship. A bell rings and the army comes in to breakfast. So we stroll out into the sun, and, carefully hiding ourselves in a wood a mile off, smoke in surreptitious safety. Then, as we walk back across the field, the trumpet brays, and half a hundred loyal and early-risen German men and women trot in the appropriate direction. We trot after them, throw back our heads as they do, and—there she is. Yes, there is a misshapen golf ball hanging in the sky in the direction of Baden-Baden.

Almost before we have had time to think of the exact simile, she is near enough to be a huge cigar. Now a cloud darkens her, and she is a gigantic slug. Another minute and there she is over our heads, a huge, white, oblong ship, her four metal propellers glittering beautifully in the sun, a little bulge below her middle showing the passengers' cabin, and two others, one toward each end, the boats which carry her crew.

Behind her, like a bi-plane with vertical side pieces, is fixed her huge steering gear, and above it floats the Prussian flag. A loud but gentle hum reaches us from her engine. She floats off round Frankfort a bit for the passengers' sake. Sometimes she appears to be almost vertical. Then she turns and is over our heads again. Then, dipping her nose and following it with her tail, she zigzags gently down. A whistle blows, the army runs forward, ropes are thrown from the ship and seized by the soldiers, and in another moment she is gently gliding along just above the earth's surface. She is enormous, and white, and smooth moving, and gentle.

Everything connected with her seems to happen just as it should, and as she is led gently toward the shed and fastened to the little trolleys on the lines that run her in, and as the ballast bags are fastened to the hooks that hang from her for the purpose, lest she should wish to arise and bump the roof, we are astounded at the ease with which the cumbrous structure of canvas and metal and machinery is maneuvered. "They handle her jes, like as if she were a baby," says an admiring American near us.

A passenger—we see only one—steps down from the cabin on a ladder placed for him. The ship herself does not touch the floor; she rests only on two little humps of aluminum that project down from beneath the two boats on her under surface.

The passenger looks happy, but very pale. Our American friend explains this. The fare is 250 marks. But we envy that passenger. He tells us that, whether the ship was vertical or turning or dipping or soaring, he felt nothing of it. All the time one swift, smooth sensation of moving. Sky and clouds and birds your companions, and beneath you a wide panorama of fields and mountains and forests and towns. When I have got 250 marks to spare I shall ride in an airship.

There are now twelve in Germany, counting the military ships, and two leave Frankfort with passengers every week. An aeroplane is more thrilling to watch, but to realize the extent to which the conquest of the air has reached I recommend you to watch the swift, the smooth, the majestic, the noiseless landing of an enormous airship.

The profits in diamond mining can be imagined from the fact that the Premier Diamond company of the Transvaal paid last year a 250 per cent dividend on its preferred stock and 500 per cent on its deferred shares.

To the Voters of St. Louis County

GEORGE H. VIVIAN

Candidate for County Treasurer.

Would you, as a business man, place some one at the head of your business who has no experience or knowledge of the business, or would you promote a man who has the experience and full knowledge of the business in every detail? If you believe that experience and a knowledge of the office sought should count, I want your vote.

I have been a resident of the county for more than twenty-eight years, and during the past eight years have been filling the position of Chief Deputy in the County Treasurer's office.

The present Treasurer, Mr. Holgate, is retiring from the office at the end of this year, and is not a candidate for re-election.

Under these circumstances, I feel justified in seeking the nomination, and solicit your support in the belief that I can give you a competent, efficient administration of the affairs of this important office. Respectfully,

GEORGE H. VIVIAN.

DEMOCRATS PUT OUT TEXT BOOK

It Includes Platforms of Three Leading Political Parties.

New York, Aug. 31.—The Democratic textbook for the 1912 campaign, a book of more than 400 pages, has been issued. It is the joint publication of the Democratic national committee and the Democratic congressional committee. Its contents include the platforms of the three parties, the speeches of acceptance of Woodrow Wilson and Thomas R. Marshall and a mass of matter on the tariff and high cost of living.

At the same time, the national committee gave out an article calling attention to the publication in the textbook of a purported receipt for a $10,000 contribution by the United States Steel corporation to the Republican campaign fund in 1904.

BRADY HEADS THE CONGRESS

Trans-Mississippi Organization Meets Next Time in Wichita.

Salt Lake City, Utah., Aug. 31.—The Trans-Mississippi Commercial congress chose Wichita, Kan., the next meeting place and elected ex-Governor James R. Brady of Idaho, who was agreed upon yesterday by the directors, as president. The other officers nominated by the directorate also were elected unanimously.

The resolution in favor of granting the right of appeal from final decisions of the secretary of the interior in land matters to the United States district courts, was framed after a hard fight and a close vote.

Work mapped out for the congress, which closed yesterday, includes a campaign for the betterment of farming, amendments to the interstate commerce law, agitation for the reduction of fire losses, "See America First" propaganda, improvement of the gulf ports, and flood prevention on the Mississippi.

President Brady and Vice President John L. Powell of Wichita, Kan., announced that they had agreed to push the work of the congress in their respective territories, so that an impressive showing might be made at the 1913 meeting in Wichita.

MINNESOTA POLITICS

Candidates Turning Attention to Eighth District—Eberhart's Friends Make Overtures to Committee of Fifty—The Governor's Contingent Fund—Second Choice Feature of Primary Law Figures in County Contests.

Candidates Are Busy.

The activities of the campaign have been confined for the most part to Southern Minnesota, but indications are that the Eighth district will receive its full share of attention in the next two weeks.

L. C. Spooner was here some weeks ago and made a tour of the range. Frank M. Eddy slipped into Duluth and did a little gumshoe work. William E. Lee is now on the range spilling facts and figures attacking Governor Eberhart's administration. James A. Peterson will give a political speech at Foresters' hall next Monday night. He and P. M. Ringdal will be the speakers at the Labor day celebration at Fairmont park. Mr. Ringdal will make no political speech while here, but local Democrats will call on him during his stay. James A. Manahan, the foe of the Pullman company, will arrive in Duluth next Saturday to boom his candidacy for congressman-at-large.

The primary will be held two weeks from next Tuesday. The time is short. Candidates who have not been in the field long will have trouble reaching the voters of the state in the short period remaining before the primary. The candidate who attempts to cover the whole state personally will be a wreck on the day of the primary.

However, the voters of the Eighth district will have an opportunity to meet some of the candidates. There will be handshakes, pleasant smiles and plausible arguments. For some reason, the voters don't take much stock in campaign speeches. In a state, where every man who has been in public life has a record, the voters show a disposition to look over the record and judge a man by what he has done. Campaign speeches this year have received little encouragement from their audiences. The individual thinks for himself, and no man can tell how the majority of the voters think until the primary votes have been counted.

Eberhart Overtures.

The Roosevelt committee of fifty will hold a meeting next week and the question of the indorsement of a candidate for governor will come up. The probability is that no indorsement will be made. The committee was appointed to deal with the situation after the primary election, and will probably express no preference before the primary. Gordon is the out-and-out Roosevelt man among the candidates for governor, and that seems to be pretty well understood throughout the state. An indorsement of him would gain nothing, and would probably stir up some feelings among friends of the other Progressive candidates.

It is given out that friends of Governor Eberhart have been making overtures to the committee of fifty. Hugh T. Halbert would not give the names of his callers, but he admitted a delegation had called on him in an effort to head off an opposition Progressive candidate if Governor Eberhart should be nominated at the primary. They urged, it is said, that they are supporters of Roosevelt and many of Eberhart's supporters throughout the state are Roosevelt men. Opposition to Eberhart would hurt Roosevelt's cause in the state, they said, and nothing should be allowed to interfere with the presidential campaign.

Eberhart and all he stands for, and Roosevelt and his principles, are as far apart as any men and sets of principles can be. The supporters of Eberhart and the colonel must find themselves in a decidedly strained position.

• • •

Roosevelt Plans Blocked.

Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith has ruled that petitions to nominate presidential electors for the Progressive party may not be circulated until after the primary election. Leaders of the party had planned on circulating petitions on the state fair grounds next week, but the attorney general's opinion requires the abandonment of the plan. Mr. Smith also rendered a decision that under the provisions of the new election law, no petition may contain more than 4,000 signers, and one petition must be circulated for each candidate for elector.

• • •

The Contingent Fund.

The manner in which Governor Eberhart has expended his contingent fund has come in for harsh criticism from his opponents. The governor's secretary and other supporters have endeavored to laugh off the charges as too trivial to be given consideration, but they refuse to be laughed off.

The Luverne Journal, in discussing the contingent fund, admits the triviality of the amounts, but holds up the principle as something not to be neglected. It points out that the contingent fund is intended to relieve distress among the people in times when the legislature is not in session, but the governor has regarded it as an addition to his salary and has used it for traveling expenses, for newspaper subscriptions, for newspaper clippings and for taxicab rides. It says:

The governor and his friends come to the defense of his action in thus spending the sacredly entrusted contingent fund. Principally their defense consists of a contemptuous belittling of the whole matter on the ground that the amount so spent is too trivial for attention on the part of the people of the great state of Minnesota.

True the people of this state are well able to stand all the extravagances possible in squandering the amount of money usually placed in this contingent fund. No denying the people can afford to lose many times that amount of money.

But, rich as is Minnesota, wealthy as are her people, she cannot afford to have in the highest office in her government for one single hour a man who wilfully allows or winks at the misappropriation of one dollar of the people's money. Honor and absolute integrity in the use of every cent and in the consideration of every question of public policy is the price the men and women of this generation demand of their officials from governor down.

Governor Eberhart, neither in his conduct in public office has paid the price, nor evinces in his defense of his actions the least desire to come up to this high standard set by the people in this epochal year. His end and the end of politicians of his ilk is in sight.

• • •

Contest For Chief Justice.

The question of the sale of the Virginia bonds now held by the state has crept into the contest for chief justice of the supreme court. Chief Justice Start, who is a member of the investment board of the state, is opposed to the sale of the bonds. Judge C. W. Stanton of Bemidji is on the other side of the proposition. Judge Stanton's friends intend to put up a contest for him, not on that issue particularly, but upon his record on the bench and his personal popularity. A campaign for judicial office is likely to be largely on the ground of personal popularity.

• • •

Young Headquarters.

C. L. Hood has arrived in Duluth and has opened headquarters for E. T. Young in Parlor C of the St. Louis hotel. Mr. Young will come to Duluth before the primary and will make a personal campaign. He is the only candidate for governor who has not been here at some time during the campaign and is a little behind the others in getting in touch with Duluth people.

• • •

The Second Choice.

The second choice feature of the primary law will figure in thre contests in the county generally, in two commissioner's districts and in the Forty-ninth legislative district in St. Louis county. The candidates are not making overtures to friends of other candidates.

There are three candidates for the Republican nomination for register of deeds, three in the same party for sheriff, and four for coroner. Five Republican candidates are in the field in the Fifth commissioner's district and three Democrats. Five Republican candidates have filed in the Seventh district also. Four Republicans seek the nomination for the legislature in the second division of the Forty-ninth district.

The second choice will figure in all these contests. More voters will probably neglect the second choice on county offices than in the state contests, but wise voters will cast a second choice for every office for which the opportunity is given. A man's first choice may be beaten at first count, but his second choice vote may debut his second choice vote may determine the result of the contest. No second choice vote can be counted until the first choice is eliminated from the race, so the chances of a man's first choice cannot be lessened by the recording of a second choice.

AT THE AUDITORIUM

The big Auditorium roller rink has already arranged for the comfort of its patrons, when it will open its second season Labor day afternoon. With the growing popularity of the Auditorium rink, which is taking its place as one of the legitimate amusement places of the city, the coming season's attractions will be rather a surprise to the people of Duluth.

The Auditorium is being placed on a big circuit of a large amusement association, which will enable the management to give its patrons and the general public the very best and down-to-the-minute skating rink "Stunts" in the country.

There will be skating every Sunday afternoon and evening following Labor day, when the regular season will open Sunday afternoon, Sept. 29, with two sessions daily.

CHOIR BOYS STRIKE IN CHICAGO CHURCH.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Forty-four members of the boys' choir of St. Martin's Episcopal church struck last night, not for more pay or for "better working conditions," but out of respect for William J. Coxe, who has been assistant choir director at the church for twenty-two years.

Thursday night, after choir rehearsal, friction arose between Rev. William White Wilson, rector of the church, and Mr. Coxe, which resulted in the resignation of Mr. Coxe. As was their custom, the boys who compose the choir had waited outside the church doors for Mr. Coxe, and he told them that he would not act as their director any longer. The boys debated the matter and went on strike. A committee of five was appointed to picket the church next Sunday.

REJECTS BULL MOOSE NOMINATION FOR JOB.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 31.—Charles T. Bisch, nominated Wednesday by the congressional convention of the Progressive party of the Twenty-first district as a candidate for congress, has notified the county leaders that he would not make the race or allow his name to go before the voters as a candidate. It has not yet been decided whether another nomination will be made.

NOVEL POLITICAL ADVERTISING PLANNED BY MARTIN FALK

If any voters attends the state fair and does not learn that Martin F. Falk is a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor it will not be Mr. Falk's fault. He is going to stage some advertising stunts at the fair which are original, as applied to promoting publicity for a political purpose.

On a building fronting the main entrance to the fair grounds at Hamline Mr. Falk will have a cloth sign 12 by 14 feet in size making the announcement that "Martin F. Falk is the Progressive candidate for governor." Mr. Falk will take a stand near the entrance and as far as possible will endeavor to meet personally all of the voters who attend the fair. He figures that 300,000 people will be in attendance. Each of these will receive a four-page pamphlet answering the Minneapolis Journal's question, "Who Is Martin Falk?" After describing Mr. Falk's early struggles in Minnesota as a farm hand, "lumberjack" and homesteader, going to night school when he could and working another time as a fireman in a normal school for his board so that he could study, the pamphlet prints Mr. Falk's platform.

On a field adjoining the fair grounds there will be a big sign 10 feet deep and 20 feet wide, containing the one word in huge letters, "Falk." This sign will be illuminated by night by different colored fires and is bound to attract attention. His men will see that all of the thousands visiting the fair will get his literature. Other men will distribute his literature at the Labor day picnics next Monday at the Twin Cities, Duluth and other points in the state. Mr. Falk is making much capital out of the fact that he has been "bucking" the paper trusts and combinations for fifteen years.

The week after next Mr. Falk will make a strenuous campaign by automobile, covering all the territory possible in the southern part of the state. About the same time he will publish half-page advertisements in the principal daily newspapers of the state. He is determined that everybody in Minnesota shall know who Martin F. Falk is and what he stands for before the primaries on Sept. 17.

Mr. Falk has plans for other publicity stunts which have not yet been made public. He says he is going to make his five opponents hustle for the nomination.

TALK IT OVER, SAYS WILSON

Governor Urges Use of Schools for Neighborhood Meetings.

Says Such Gatherings Would Help Build Public Opinion.

Sea Girt, N. J., Aug. 30.—Neighborhood consultation and a more extensive use of schoolhouses for gatherings, where public opinion might be conserved, were the things Governor Wilson advocated in his speech at the Monmouth county fair at Redbank, N. J., yesterday afternoon. After a series of conferences the governor motored to Red Bank and was cheered as he entered the fair grounds.

"There is one thing in which I have been very much interested in recent years in this country," he said. "You know I used to be a schoolmaster and the interesting thing about the schools of the United States is that the United States makes so limited use of them—for example you take your schoolhouses all through the countryside, standing here, there and everywhere in the cities, and they are closed for the most part between the school session of one day and the school session of the next day.

Public Buildings.

"They are public buildings. They belong to the communities. They furnish ideal places in which to assemble and discuss public affairs. They are just what we need for neighborhood conferences of every kind. And yet it was reserved for a recent date for somebody to suggest that the schoolhouse be made a social center; that the schoolhouses be used for every kind of legitimate conferences and just as soon as they began to be used for conferences some politicians began to get very uneasy.

"There is a certain class of politician that dreads nothing as much as that the neighbors should get together and talk things over, because the minute you begin to talk things over, you begin to make that most powerful instrument that exists in any free country. I mean public opinion. If you once gather public opinion into nuclei, into heads, into centers, then something is going to happen with regard to the action of politics itself.

In the Public Interest.

"Why don't you agree to bear the small expense that will be incident to your using your own buildings to do your own business in the public interest?"

"Now, of course, you know the reason that a public man is supposed to come to a country fair. He can't always come because of his personal beauty and his desire to be looked upon. He is supposed to come for the purpose of getting acquainted. But there is no use getting acquainted unless he believes that by getting acquainted, you will take his word for things. You will say, 'Yes, I met him, I know him. He's all right.'

"Now, how do you know he is all right? You can't tell it by looking at him. I used to think when I was a boy that you could tell an honest man by looking in his eyes, but I find you can't. I have looked into some eyes that seemed very honest, and they turned out to be the eyes of a rogue, and you repeat that exercise a little while until you get to be about, say 55 years old, and then you don't allow appearances to impose on you. I want to know a man's table of contents.

Process of Liberty.

"I want, not to be trusted blindly, but to match my opinion with yours. I want to match my wits with yours. I don't know any sport comparing with that. If I am right, why do you agree with me if you haven't studied the thing and conferred about it and know that I am right? If I am wrong, how are you going to prove it unless you have conferred about it? The whole process of self-protection and of liberty consists in these processes of neighborhood consultations.

"You know the trouble about a nation is that it has only this world in which to vindicate itself. Most of us believe—and I most devoutly believe myself—that there is another world for the individual; but there is no other world for the state of New Jersey, and there is not another world for the United States of America. It's got either to succeed or go bust in this world, and therefore, its own salvation and its own damnation have to be played out on this platform here, this platform of the fair earth itself.

"And I am so interested in the dramatic properties and the plot of the great play that leads either up-hill or downhill, that I would like to see the upward incline begin right at my feet, begin right in the county I am living in, and I would like to see the levels rise and rise, and rise until we should have reached the outlook of the immortal hills."

Thousand to Contribute.

Col. Robert L. Ewing, national committeeman from Louisiana and chairman of the press contribution bureau of the campaign committee, called on the governor last night. The press contribution bureau, Mr. Ewing said, would be moved to Chicago next week from New York. He brought the governor a letter which he had received from Governor Colquitt of Texas, pledging himself as "one of the thousand Texans who would give $100 to the Wilson campaign."

BALLOON DRAGS BOY UP.

County Fair Crowd at Flint, Mich., Sees Lad Killed.

Flint, Mich., Aug. 31.—In the presence of hundreds of people, 14-year-old Chester Betts, son of Bert N. Betts of Flint, was accidentally caught by the guy rope of a balloon and carried about 2,000 feet in the air before the rope untangled and hurled him to his death. He crashed against the roof of a barn and was still alive when spectators reached him, but soon expired.

The tragedy occurred at the county fair, and when the balloon and aeronaut shot upward, many people thought the youth dangling at the end of the rope was a dummy. The heroic efforts of the balloonist to rescue the boy soon disclosed the truth to the crowd below. As the bi gas bag crept higher and higher, the aeronaut, in peril of his own safety, could be seen working desperately to pull the dangling form to the trapeze.

Finally the rope swirled away from the lad and the tiny form dropped downward like a stone.

BRITONS AND CANADIANS HOPE FOR MORE UNITY.

London, Aug. 31.—High hopes for closer unity of the British empire for defense went with Robert L. Borden and Louis P. Pelletier, the Canadian statement, when they left London for Liverpool to embark for Montreal. The Dominion premier and postmaster general were cheered on their way by a large group of Canadians who had gathered with the Canadian high commissioner, Lord Strathcona, to wish them farewell.

The conservative newspapers today expressed hopes of the result of Mr. Borden's mission in enlisting Canadian co-operation for imperial defense.

J. P. JOHNSON

CANDIDATE FOR CLERK OF DISTRICT COURT.

Careful, competent and successful administration of his office during the time that he has been in charge of it is the record of Mr. Johnson. With the work well done, with expenses reduced to a minimum, with all that have business at the clerk's office highly pleased with the administration, Mr. Johnson is assured of a renomination and re-election by an overwhelming vote. This office is closely associated with the district court, and is therefore too important to be lightly handed from one person to another without good excuse for change.

EXHIBIT OF HOME GOODS

"Made in Duluth" Exposition Will Be an Eye-Opener.

Everything Served at Dinner Will Be From Local Gardens.

The committee having charge of the Home Products exposition, which will be held at the Auditorium, Sept. 24, 25 and 26, met last night and took steps toward completing its program for the three days. This event is considered much more important to Duluth and St. Louis county more than a very few people appreciate. It will show local people and visitors just what Duluth is doing in the way of production.

It is pointed out that Duluth needs manufactures, and it is asserted, that after the home products exhibit Duluthians will conclude that the experimental stage has been passed long since, for there are more factories and successful ones—in Duluth than people realize. Everything from matches to gun-barrels, made in Duluth, will be shown.

Then to close the affair, on the evening of Sept. 26, there will be a Home Products dinner, nothing that is not grown in St. Louis county being used. And it will be shown that a very elaborate menu can be furnished from St. Louis county products.

At this dinner the waiters, even, will be home grown, and will wear mackinaws and other clothing made in Duluth. During all of the three days of the exposition there will be band concerts, vaudeville, musical programs and speakers. Even in these, home products will be used, and there will be no charge to see them. Consistency in the "home products" idea will be observed to the very least detail.

The movement was started by the Rotary clug, but the Commercial club has been taken into the movement and both clubs are working together. The only charge made will be for the dinner.

FRAUD PRACTICED ON RELATIVES OF DEAD.

Chicago, Aug. 31. — Louis B. Grossman, 32 years old, who says his home is in Columbus, Ohio, has been arrested by postoffice inspectors on a charge of using the mails to defraud. According to the postal inspectors, Grossman's scheme was to send by express to persons recently deceased a fountain pen, said to be worth 19 cents, for which the relatives of the persons were asked to pay $2.65 upon delivery.

In this way he is said to have defrauded thousands of persons in the West and Central states. He obtained the names and addresses of his victims by reading the obituary columns in newspapers in the Chicago public library.

MILLER CHAIRMAN FOR IOWA PROGRESSIVES.

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 31.—Frank B. Miller of Cedar Falls has been chosen temporary chairman of the Progressive state convention to be held here next Wednesday, according to announcement by Chairman Carl Franke of the state central committee. County conventions will be held in practically every county in Iowa today for the purpose of selecting delegates to the state convention.

THE evening newspaper became a necessity to the people as soon as they ceased to be content with knowing, today, only what had happened in the world YESTERDAY. In the times when news traveled slowly, and life itself lagged along at a peaceful pace, it was a great privilege to be able to learn, in the morning, something about the events of the day before; but as the living pace quickened, and the telephone and telegraph made TIME a figure of speech, the desire and the need to know THE SAME DAY, what had transpired in the world THAT DAY, called into existence the EVENING newspaper. And the same conditions that give it peculiar NEWS VALUE, give it, of necessity, equal value as an advertising medium.

HOW TO SETTLE CUT-OVER LANDS.

In Northern Minnesota lie millions of acres of the most fertile land on earth, idle because they are covered by brush and stumps as they were left by the lumberman's ax.

The most important thing before the state of Minnesota today is the problem of how to get these lands, most of which are owned by the state, settled and under cultivation, paying taxes and contributing to the wealth of the state.

The Northern Minnesota Development association at its spring meeting proposed for public discussion the problem of how to get these lands settled and tilled.

The Herald has considered several proposed plans of state aid, and correspondents have sent in others.

As a matter of fact, this problem has not yet been approached with sufficient boldness.

The way to get these lands settled is to make them fit for settlement. The way to make them fit for settlement is to clear them, ready for the plow.

As the state is the principal owner of these lands, the state should clear its lands and make them ready for the market, adding the cost of clearing to the selling price of the lands, and giving bona fide settlers long time terms of payment.

The state's swamp lands are precisely analagous. Wet, they were unfit for any use.

Drained, they are fertile and easily available, and the state sells them readily.

Cut-over lands, covered with brush and stumps, though the most fertile on earth are useless until they are cleared. The men who may be expected to settle them are men of small means. When they settle on uncleared lands it takes a year or two to make them ready to produce, and in the meantime the problem of existence is a hard one.

Let the state clear its own lands, as fast as they can be marketed. The money spent in clearing is an investment that will return itself many times over, both directly and indirectly. It need not be done all at once. Let the state establish community units and work out from these gradually, clearing the land by contract and disposing of it on liberal terms, yet terms that will keep the state's financial interests undamaged.

The money?

The state has $17,000,000 or thereabouts in its permanent school funds, the safe and profitable investment of which constitutes always an important problem.

How could these millions be better invested than in such a tremendous work of state development as that proposed here? What safer or more profitable investment could be devised than that of making the state's rich and idle acres ready for the plow? If the money to do it is drawn from the school fund, the profit that results will return to the school fund.

No broad-gauged business man, owning these acres and equipped with this fund, knowing how eager the market is for such land as the state could furnish when the cut-over lands are cleared, would hesitate a moment to embark in this enterprise. It is certainly profitable, absolutely safe, and beyond the immediate profit to the state school fund it would yield tremendous benefits to the state as a whole.

The way to settle state land is to make it fit for settlement. The way to make it fit for settlement is to drain that part which is submerged, and to clear that part which is covered with stumps. It is the state's duty, and in no way could the state profit itself half so well as it can by doing that duty.

'Ware, Mr. Lorimer!

It would seem that the doctor gave Uncle Ike almost as clean a bill of health as the senate did.

ROOSEVELT.

Col. Roosevelt's champions are rushing manfully into the fray precipitated by the Penrose and Archbold disclosures at Washington, and are demanding that the integrity and honesty of purpose of their candidate for president shall not be doubted. They declare that it is not doubted, and that there is no reason why it should be doubted. That, in fact, it is so patent and so well known that nobody who considers the matter in a calm and unbiased light can doubt it.

There are different opinions about that. Suspicion is a mighty ugly thing, and it attaches itself to many persons and acts that in themselves are free from the things that suspicion charges against them. Also, it takes very little to breed suspicion, and unquestionably there are some who are convinced that our ex-president is untrustworthy.

But even granting that the colonel is in fact all that his friends claim for him—that his motives are pure and exalted and his honesty unassailable, they still fail to make out a convincing case in favor of his re-election to the presidency. Their argument, simmered down, means only that he "means well," and the dire possibilities of the man who "means well" is generally known through the adages that cluster round the phrase "fool friend."

Even granting that Theodore Roosevelt is honest and "means well," his election to the presidency now would be a serious mistake. This, not only because of the conviction of some persons that he is in fact a scheming demagogue, a conviction that would lead to uncertainty and fear in the business world in case of his return to office, but because his personality is not one that should be placed in the position of president of a great nation.

Through the efforts toward extension of our commerce and through the coming opening of the Panama canal and the questions already arising out of the operation of that waterway, we are on the verge of delicate relations with the greatest of the old world powers. Such a situation requires that the head of our government be a man of less radical tendencies, calmer judgment and less likelihood to antagonize an opposing interest than is our ex-president. The situation is one pregnant with serious consequences, leading even to the brink of actual armed hostilities, not to say that it involves points of national honor and international recognition. To have the fiery colonel in power in such a crisis is to invite cumulative difficulty.

Nor is the situation within our country such as to make advisable the presence in the White House of a man of high moods and defiant personality. The relations between labor and capital are slowly but surely reaching an adjustment that will insure industrial peace; the questions incident to federal and state jurisdiction respectively over big business and transportation interests gradually are being brought to a solution; vital alterations are being made in some of the applications of our principle of government; and the nerves of the nation are tense with the spirit of advancement at the expense of the things that have been tried and found wanting.

In such a time as this it would be only an invitation to disaster to put in the place of greatest power and influence in our land a man whose actions, however well meant, are certain to be erratic and more or less aimlessly radical. Col. Roosevelt may mean only the best, but his methods are not those calculated to insure calm thought and judgment by the people, and calm thought and judgment are the factors that are to determine the welfare of our country in the next several decades of development and change.

Hark To the Joyful Chorus!

Now, boys and girls, tell us what it is that begins next week?

CORPORATION CAMPAIGN GIFTS.

When a corporation contributes to a campaign fund, it is not the corporation which really gives, but the consumers who provide the corporation's profits.

And so the consumers are forced to pay for their own undoing through the purchased betrayal, with their own money, of their interests.

The consumer is forced to pay so the trust may have the privilege of squeezing still more money out of him.

That's why corporation contributions like those that came through Harriman and Archbold and helped elect Roosevelt in 1904 are peculiarly criminal and immoral.

The corporation has neither soul nor conscience—nor has it patriotism.

Its gifts are investments from which it expects rich returns.

Corporation contributions to campaign funds ought to be strictly forbidden by law, as they are in this state under the new corrupt practices act.

In the meantime, no candidate who is honest and is singlemindedly devoted to the public interests will accept a dollar of such money.

That's why Governor Wilson refuses to take campaign money that is tainted with the greedy hope of special interests.

That's why those who want to elect a president who will be truly a people's president wish to have a Wilson campaign fund that comes solely and directly from the people.

Have you contributed yet to The Herald's Wilson campaign fund?

The campaign is opening, and the money is needed. It must come from this source, or there will be no campaign fund.

Give according to your means. You will be assured that it will be an act of pure patriotism, that the money will be carefully used, and that it will nobly serve the purpose of the common good.

Direct your contribution to the Wilson Campaign Fund, Herald Office, Duluth. Its receipt will be acknowledged by publication, and your name and your money will be sent to the national committee, which will acknowledge it by sending you a handsomely engraved receipt that will be worth keeping as a reminder that in this year of enlightenment you participated in this clean, new deal of electing a people's president by a campaign fund supplied by the people.

Worth Looking Into.

Have you any scheme that you might get John D. Archbold interested in to the tune of about $125,000?

ANOTHER GAIN FOR THE PEOPLE.

There is one more thing for which The Herald has fought for many years but for which it will fight no longer.

That thing is the parcels post, and the fight for it is ended because it has been successful. As in the case of the postal savings banks, long years of agitation have ended in victory for the people.

Congress at its session just closed provided a complete parcels post plan which goes into effect Jan. 1.

Under it parcels weighing up to eleven pounds and not exceeding six feet in length and girth combined will be carried and delivered by the postoffice at rates very much lower than those now charged by the postoffice or by the express companies.

The limits of weight and size are too low, and the rates will ultimately be reduced; but the provisions of the new law are good enough for a start. The main thing was to get the system inaugurated. Improvements will come later, and fast enough. We believe that the parcels post will prove the most popular move the government has made in a generation.

And it is making a pretty good start when under it a resident of Duluth can have the postoffice bring him a ten-pound jar of butter from a farmer on a rural route running out of Duluth at a cost of fourteen cents.

That will profit producer and consumer at the expense of the middleman.

The sensible adoption of the zone plan provides for a grading of rates according to distance. The lowest rate is given on business carried on wholly through a single postoffice, and including city and rural delivery routes. Thus a parcel mailed at the Duluth office for delivery on any city or rural route starting from that office, or mailed on either a rural or city route for delivery at the postoffice or on any other route, will go for five cents for the first pound and one cent for each additional pound.

The present fourth class rate is sixteen cents a pound, and the limit is four pounds to the package. The rate of a cent an ounce will still prevail on fourth class matter under four ounces.

The rates will be as follows:

Distance—	First pound.	Each additional pound.	Eleven pounds.
Local, as above	5	1	.15
Under fifty miles	5	3	.35
Under 150 miles	6	4	.46
Under 300 miles	7	5	.57
Under 600 miles	8	6	.68
Under 1,000 miles	9	7	.79
Under 1,400 miles	10	9	1.00
Under 1,800 miles	11	10	1.11
Over 1,800 miles	12	12	1.32

Congress will be criticized, chiefly for political purposes; but if it had not accomplished another thing, the parcels post would have made the session well worth while.

It is not to be expected that the system will work smoothly on the start. A tremendous bulk of new business will be thrown almost in a day upon the department. New stamp issues are needed, rate maps must be made, postmasters instructed, collection and delivery wagons designed and bought or built, and the whole postoffice system adjusted to the innovation. It will not be surprising if for a few months the new plan fails to work with perfect smoothness.

But there are three months for the department to get ready in, and it has gone to work at it already. The system will be in operation the first of the year, and The Herald is no prophet if the people of the United States do not agree, after a year's trial, that the parcels post is the greatest boon the government has yielded to them in a generation.

On the Witness Stand.

And say, where are the malefactors of great wealth in this campaign?

THE SAME OLD THIEF.

Meat dealers account for the unprecedented prices of meat by the assertion that production is short of the demand.

The New York Sun a few days ago took the trouble to cable over to London for the London prices of American beef, and then compared them with New York prices.

American sirloins were found to be nineteen and a half cents in London and twenty-six cents in New York.

The wholesale price of American beef was two and a quarter cents a pound less in London than it was in New York.

This after paying the ocean freights.

If the beef trust can sell sirloins in London at nineteen cents after paying ocean freight on them, why are its sirloins twenty-six cents in New York?

No labored arguments about the shortage of production will answer this question.

With millions suffering from the high cost of living, and many denied even enough to nourish their bodies decently, the beef trust holds up the domestic price and disposes of its surplus by selling it abroad in competition with the world.

Meanwhile, this government stupidly helps this game by keeping a tariff on meat. Why?

This disclosure shows the tariff to be the same old thief, robbing the poor to foster the rich.

Nor Changes Back.

"Mere change," says President Taft, "is not necessarily progress." Yes, we noticed something like that the last time we changed presidents.

REGISTER NEXT TUESDAY.

Those who wish to participate in the primary election which will be held Sept. 17—and that ought to include every voter—should not overlook the fact that the new election laws require registration for the primaries in Duluth, St. Paul and Minneapolis.

Because it had been charged that "floaters" were voted at a primary election in St. Paul, the law was amended so as to require registration for the primaries in these cities.

Under the old law it was necessary to register for the general election, which comes in November, but primary election day was the first registration day. Now there are two registration days before the primaries—Sept. 3 and Sept. 10—and if you do not register on one of these days it will be necessary for you to present an affidavit, supported by two witnesses, proving that you are a resident of the precinct in which you seek to vote.

This trouble can be avoided by registering next Tuesday, and then you will have it out of the way and will be eligible to vote both at the primary election and the general election.

Ha-ha-ha!

President Taft says that he represents all the people. William will have his joke.

BUT ALL IS NOT LOST.

Pettigrew of South Dakota, George Fred Williams of Massachusetts, and Bourke Cockran of Tammany Hall, all former Democrats, have joined the Bull Moose party and are supporting the third term candidate.

They take this step in common with George W. Perkins, "Contract Bill" Flinn and Tim Woodruff, all former Republicans.

Still, heavy though these blows be, we refuse to abandon hope that Wilson will be elected.

A few days now and we'll know whether the voters of Vermont are as green as her mountains.

Also there is the coincidence that TR is the beginning of TRust, TRemendous, TRifling, TRansportation and "TRun out."

Can there be any connection between the present wet season all over the world and the introduction of the hydroaeroplane?

George Perkins of California has decided to withdraw from politics. But you don't see New York's G. P. doing anything like that.

The intentions of that Ohio woman who wanted to slip a knife into the president offer another chance for the colonel to make use of his new expression—"infinitely base."

When a Canadian farmer buys an American plow for $7.20 after a duty of 15 per cent has been paid on it, and an American farmer pays $9 for a plow just like it, where does the American farmer benefit by the protective tariff?

MINNESOTA OPINIONS

Bound to Come.

Brainerd Tribune: You couldn't scare prosperity away from Northern Minnesota with a gatling gun.

Importance of Second Choice.

Elk River Star-News: With six candidates for governor in the field for the Republican nomination it is all the more necessary that voters exercise their second choice privilege, as it is not probable that any candidate will have a majority of the votes cast on first choice.

Chance to Get Even.

Buffalo Journal: The president set a fast pace in vetoing bills, and he will get some of his own medicine when the voters veto the Taft Bill. A nomination can be "passed" over their heads, but not an election.

Doubtless!

St. Peter Herald: Young Mr. Hilles settled the whole thing the other morning by announcing that Taft would carry thirty-four states. There is a possibility that the young man was misquoted. Doubtless he intended to say: "Three or four states."

Who Is Responsible?

Austin Transcript: State Auditor S. G. Iverson says that twice as much money is collected and expended in the conduct of the business affairs of Minnesota as was handled in the year 1905. It is only fair to hold the state officials, including the governor and the legislature, responsible for this ruinous extravagance.

Business Is Unshaken.

Stillwater Gazette: A pleasing feature of the present campaign is that business is not being held in check, but on the other hand the people are going right along attending to business just as if there was to be no election. Instead of contracting, business is being extended by all the large interests in the country, showing confidence in the general prosperity that is abroad in our land. There has not been the same confidence shown all over the country in a presidential year, for many campaign as there is in 1912, which shows that the people do not fear the country will go to the demnition bow wows, no matter who is elected president.

Should Compare Products.

Hutchinson Leader: The farmer who thinks he is growing the best grain and raising the best livestock, but never exhibits at the county fair is making a huge blunder. It is by comparison of our efforts with those of others that we progress, and many a man never gets within speaking distance of success until he has the conceit taken out of him.

Unenthusiastic Campaign.

Montevideo Leader: The muddle in the alleged Republican party in this state does not clear up and the candidates are doing more or less high stepping and straddling. Senator Nelson files as a Republican, but we haven't heard of his making any Taft speeches. In fact, when approached on tender political topics, he is fond of talking about the crops. Governor Eberhart is supposed to be a Taft man, but isn't advertising it very strongly. Sam Gordon appears to be a Roosevelt Republican, if you know what that is, but Roosevelt resents the imputation that he is a Republican in any way. Lee and Spooner are pretty busy talking of the shortcomings of our present state administration and appear to have plenty to talk about, and the other Republican candidates are not "pointing with pride" to any great or alarming extent. The campaign so far has been far from enthusiastic in anybody's behalf and even the Democrats and Prohibitionists are sleeping undisturbed in their tents. It reminds us of one year ago when a certain candidate for congress "hoped that the acrimony of the campaign would continue to be pleasant."

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

DULUTH PAVING PROBLEMS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

It is indeed lamentable that disagreeable controversies must arise over paving improvements in Duluth.

Standardization of paving materials and what is suitable for grades on our hillside town is certainly one of the most important questions of the day. This question might be settled by a committee of citizens, that would give sufficient time to study the problem thoroughly and recommend their decision to the voters

New York city has suffered in like manner and finally adopted this method of a committee of investigation to make recommendations.

Property owners have not generally the time or inclination to thoroughly study this problem for the streets in front of their homes and the consequences are that in Duluth many streets and avenues have been paved with unsuitable materials.

In regard to the decision of the property owners on Third street between Fourteenth and Eighteenth avenues east, I feel that bitulithic is not suitable for the five per cent grade that exists on that street. Bitulithic is one of the most slippery materials.

When are the citizens of Duluth going to awaken to the fact that such materials are unsafe for traffic? Horses continually fall going up the slippery grades and skin their knees or get strained, which may ruin them for life. Said accidents may produce spavins, splints or other ailments.

Then on coming down the grades they skate along with tremendous discomfort and often fall. There is no comfort or pleasure driving horses over such slippery pavements from the time the snow goes off in the spring until it returns to us in the fall, which is about eight months of the year.

The unsafe streets now are:

First avenue east, from First street to Cascade park. (Bitulithic.)

First street, from Seventh avenue west to First avenue east. (Creosote block.)

Tenth avenue east. (Tar macadam.)

Twelfth avenue east. (Tar macadam.)

Sixteenth avenue east. (Tar macadam.

Seventeenth avenue east. (Tar macadam.)

Nineteenth avenue east. (Bitulithic.)

Twentieth avenue east. (Donnelite.)

Twenty-third avenue east. (Donnelite.)

Twenty-fourth avenue east. (Tar macadam.)

Twenty-fifth avenue east and up above the normal school. (Granaloid.)

Superior street east from Twentieth to Twenty-third avenue. (Tar macadam.)

Jefferson street, east between Twentieth and Twenty-second avenues. (Donnellte.)

If one stops to consider the situation it will be very easy to understand there is decided inconvenience now at the present time in driving horses about the East end of our city. If the property owners are allowed their choice in the future all of our streets may be ruined in the same way.

The property owners are responsible for the choice of materials in years gone by with the above stated results. Now at this time our aldermen are trying to protect the city from like mistakes and they are getting considerable criticism.

If those doing the criticizing would take the time to look up the records of the past history of the paving problem they would find the property owners' decisions on materials and poor inspection very largely to blame for the conditions of our streets.

The streets are certainly first of all highways for traffic and suitable materials should be selected from this point of view, not what might be pleasant to the eye to look at or the ear to listen to. Let us stop and think what is best for our faithful friends and valuable property, the horses.

A CITIZEN AND HUMANITARIAN.
Duluth, Aug. 30.

THANKS, AND A CORRECTION.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Thank you for the kind things said of me in last night's paper. One of our church papers is to blame for a mistake that is made therein. Seabury Hale is to confer the degree of doctor of divinity on me next May and I have had the other degree for years and that probably gave rise to the misstatement. Then Mr. Smithies is the admirable—and admired—chairman of the Men & Religion Movement. I was chairman of the original committee on the part of the Ministers' association which organized and started the local movement.

Thanking you for the article and for the privilege of making this correction.

Respectfully yours,
ALBERT W. RYAN.
Duluth, Aug. 31.

Her Proxy.

Judge: "Well, Auntie," asked her young master, "do you really believe in the Bible?"

"Yes, sah, ebery word."

"Do you believe that the whale swallowed Jonah?"

"Yes, sah; I believes it cause the Bible says so. I'm gwine tuh ask Jonah 'bout dat jes as soon as I gets to hebben."

"But suppose Jonah isn't there."

"Den, honey, you ken ask him."

Save the Workhorses.

An appeal from the Illinois Humane society.

Mr. Teamster: Has is ever occurred to you that your horse never gets a vacation? He dbesn't go to the seashore or to the mountains in the hot weather. He works, and the pathetic part of it is he never works for himself. He always works for somebody else; not infrequently for a man who doesn't at all appreciate his uncomplaining service. If you've ever watched your horse standing with his head between his legs, utterly fagged, hot and thirsty, you must have been aware of a movement of pity. This isn't cant. It's the mere truth, and a man who has never experienced such pity must be a brute indeed.

Well, now the hot season is drawing to an end. Your horse has worked pretty hard; no doubt you've worked hard yourself and you are often impatient with him. That's only natural, but a little consideration for his welfare is natural to you, if you only stop to put yourself in his place for a second. Up to now he has stood the strain pretty well, but this is the most perilous season for him. If he is overworked now, if he suffers from sunstroke—as he is very likely to—what happens? The chances are that he will die. He will lie right down and never get up again. And civilization will have exacted its toll of one more needless sacrifice to human carelessness.

In order that this may be avoided, the Illinois Humane society has sent out an appeal and a warning. Both are printed herewith, in the hope they may do some good:

The first symptom of heat prostration is panting. This is usually accompanied by profuse sweating, dilation of the nostrils, hanging of the head, drooping ears, slowing up, loss of animation, bloodshot eyes. If the horse is pushed along he ceases to perspire, staggers, goes down and soon becomes insensible. Death follows in an hour or two.

Prevention: Don't overfeed. It is generally believed that horses which die from sunstroke are suffering from indigestion. Certain it is that there are many cases of colic from indigestion in very hot weather, and the probabalities are that the stomach is out of order in a case of prostration. To keep this organ in good order, the best of hay and oats should be used, and a double handful of dry bran should be mixed up with each feed of oats. It is a good plan to feed a little less in hot weather than the horse has been accustomed to.

Don't overwork. It is the overworked horse that usually gets sunstroke. He is not able to do as much in hot as in cold or mild weather; consequently, horses should not be loaded as heavily nor driven as fast, nor as far, as in cool weather.

Don't neglect to water often. Horses should be watered on a hot dry day every hour or so. When a horse begins to pant and shows signs of weariness, he should be allowed to stop in the shade and rest for half an hour. The owners of horses should give this order to their drivers, as it will be the means of saving their animals, and, consequently, their money.

It is really a duty to interfere in all cases of overwork, overdriving, excessive fatigue and heat prostration, and to advise the owner or driver of horses to call in their veterinarian in such cases. Delays are dangerous. Almost all cases of sunstroke can be saved if relief is given promptly, but if delayed, even half an hour, death is likely to be the result.

Man's Truest Friend

From Youatt's "On the Dog": The dog is the only animal that is capable of disinterested affection. He is the only one that regards the human being as his companion and follows him as a friend; the only one that seems to possess a natural desire to be useful to him and from a spontaneous impulse attaches himself to man. We take the bridle from the mouth of the horse and turn him free into the pasture and he testifies his joy in his partly recovered liberty. We exact from the dog the service that is required of him and he still follows us. He solicits to be continued as our companion and our friend. Many an expressive action tells us how much he is pleased and thankful. He shares our abundance and he is content with the scantiest and most humble fare. He loves us while living and has been known to pine away on the grave of his master.

He Needed a New One.

Montreal Star: While on a visit to Dublin a professor of art, noted for his absence of mind, had occasion to require a cab. Looking around he espied one coming in his direction, drawn by a miserable specimen of a horse. Hailing the cabman he was about to enter the vehicle, when, looking at the horse, he appeared dumbfounded, then said:

"What's this, driver?"

"A horse, of course, sir," replied the cabby.

"A horse, eh?" said the professor abstractedly. "Well, rub it out and do it again."

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

Work Glorified.

There was a time when the world's workers were not thinking primarily of wages and hours. Work was essentially worship; a man's job was his means of praising God. In those days artisans were wont to hang the implements of their crafts on the walls of cathedrals. Laborers performed their tasks under the stimulus of religious motives.

The art school of a certain university contains some carved confessional taken from an old monastery in Belgium. The dark, rich oak is carved into wonderful shapes of angel faces, running vines and clusters of fruit. The monks spent many months on the exquisite work and did it as so much worship to God. To toil with the chisel was accounted no less an act of devotion than to say prayers at the altar. The last thing they thought of was pay for their labor. The sole desire was to turn out a noble product.

There was a splendid power in this old medieval motive that our modern world of industry lacks. The men of the Middle Ages who built the great cathedrals and copied Bibles in illuminated script got a smaller wage than present day masons or printers, but there are indications that they found more joy in their toil, for they worked consciously for the glory of God. Most of us would work with better heart if we could feel the touch of an idealism like this.

Let no one assume for a minute that such lofty impulses have wholly ceased to operate in our modern life. Only a crude cynicism will assert that naught but hope of gain animates the workers of our time. There are teachers and preacher and scientists and inventors and medical men and hosts of others with whom the wage they are paid forms but a secondary consideration. How many generations of doctors, to name but one class, have worked on some invention or discovery, designed to advance human welfare, but which the etiquet of their profession forbade them to patent or monopolize!

I wish it were in my power to raise the pay of every honest workman in the land. But I sometimes think a boon equally great would be to raise the zest and interest each one feels in his particalar bit of labor. It is as true now as centuries ago in Palestine that "Man does not live by bread alone." The pay envelope is not the sole criteri on of success. A job which represents merely an eternal scramble for dollars may become a very sordid concern; but if changes character at once when we sense it as one's own chance of contributing something of value to that great human brotherhood to which we all belong.

The daily task can hardly be performed happily and well without what is at bottom a sort of religious unselfishness. We are privileged to see our work in its relation to the welfare of the world, God Himself, who brings the night and the day, alternates seed time and harvest, and rolls the planets in their mighty courses, is the great worker without whose activity the race would perish. He who does anything useful with pick or pen, behind a loom or a counter, is partner with the Eternal.

For fifty years a man worked in a dusty black shop of Cremona on violins that are worth their weight in gold. His care was less what the world should pay him than that he should produce perfect instruments.

If my hand slacked
I should rob God—since he is fullest good.
Leaving a blank instead of violins.
'Tis God gives skill,
But not without men's hands. He could not make Antonio Stradivari's violins without Antonio.

It is not on record that the old master, under the spell of an impulse like this, found his labor irksome. And whatever the labor union may have thought of him, he certainly earned the gratitude of posterity.

THE PARSON.

Peace, Peace, Peace

Quincy Herald: Our good regular Republican friends have asked the Herald to make the statement that there is peace in the party in Adams county. They shall have their way. The Herald hereby says it, "There is peace in the Republican party in Adams county."

Of course there's peace. Blame it all, of course there's peace. Six committeemen have resigned, the Republicanism of two of the candidates on the county ticket is shaky, and the chairman of the county committee in an idle and thoughtless moment signed the call for the Progressive party.

But there's peace. The Republicans have told the Herald so, and they are all honorable men. Take this and swallow it, there's peace. Choke on it if you have to but there's peace and that's all there is to it. A state job or two fixed matters up and there's peace.

Quit your grinning, there's peace.

No Whirlwind Tour.

He isn't engaging a train
To carry him hither and yon.
The traveling circus campaign
Is not what he wishes to run.
By open-mouthed rushing
From Frisco to Flushing
He knows that no victory's won.

He smiles a benevolent smile
When Roosevelt is racing to reach
His million-and-thirty-ninth mile,
Each mile representing a speech;
For Wilson's concluded
No voter's deluded
By any hysterical screech.

The echoes blow in from afar;
They're cutting big holes in the air.
The Theodore mouth is ajar
And laboring everywhere.
But Wilson, not flitting,
Is quietly sitting
And keeping his voice in repair.

The transit of Taft's going on.
He scoots like a garrulous gale
From South Carolina to Conn.,
With talk splattered over the trail.
But Wilson refuses
To go on such cruises
And holler and bellow and wail.

The others go roaming the land;
In thousands of towns they appear.
They yawp to the noise of the band
Until you put wool in your ear.
But Wilson the quiet
Is certain no riot
Will win the election this year.

O voters whose tympanums tough
Are subject to agony keen
By force of Rooseveltian guff
Or echoes of Taftian spleen,
Hail Wilson far-seeing
And love him for being
No traveling talking machine!

The Power of Sex.

Earl Barnes in the Atlantic: Sex remains the greatest mystery and the most powerful thing in human life. Its deeper values are lost sight of when men and women are warring over work, wages and votes, just as the power of religion has been lost when priests and laity sought to advance their meanly selfish interests. But in the great crises of life it always comes back. When a great ship founders in mid-ocean, and but a third of the people can be saved, there is then no question of woman's rights. In the darkness of early morning, eager men's hands place the women in the lifeboats and push them off. The poorest peasant woman takes precedence over any man. Almost every woman there would prefer to stay and die with her man; would glory in staying and dying if he might thus be saved; but in her keeping are the generations of the future, and she is weak—therefore, the strong gladly stand back and go down to death. The solution of woman's place in the society of the future must be based on a recognition of the supplementary forces that send women to undesired safety while men die.

AND THIS DIDN'T HAPPEN AT PALM BEACH EITHER

—By C. L. SHERMAN

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1892.

•••George William Curtis, a prominent figure in politics and literature, died early this morning at his home on Staten Island. He was chairman of a meeting of Independent Republicans in New York on June 19, 1884, to take action against the nomination of Blaine for president by the Chicago convention, and subsequently supported the nomination of Grover Cleveland, from which he gained the title of "mugwump." He was 68 years of age.

•••The matinee of the Breton fete drew a good-sized audience to the pavilion yesterday afternoon despite the disagreeable weather. The dances by the children were much enjoyed. The fisher's hornpipe, by Miss Nichols and Master Ralph Davis, deserves special mention. Gussie Miller's song, "Where Are You Going, My Pretty Maid?" was loudly applauded.

•••"Queen Esther" was produced before a large audience at the Temple last evening. The principal parts were taken by Misses Margaret McDonald, Anna Farrell, Fannie Calverly, Rebecca McKenzie and Julia Donovan, Fred Reynold, A. W. Leahy and T. L. Lammers.

•••Quite a party of Duluthians will go to New Orleans to witness the Sullivan-Corbett and other fights next week. Among them are Mike Roach, Thomas Donnelly, Frank Hayes, James Connelly, William Wright, George Est and Jay Anderson.

•••Edward Smith of the Smith-Fee company will return tomorrow from Chicago with the steamer Ossifrage which the company will run between Duluth and Houghton. This boat has been at Duluth before and is one of the speediest that has ever visited this port.

•••The Duluth Gas & Water company now has thirteen men at work getting out plans, making surveys and getting estimates on the cost of removing the intake pipe and pumping station to Lester Park. The company has agreed to submit a proposition to the city on Sept. 15, in which it will definitely state what it is able to do.

A PEOPLE'S CAMPAIGN FUND FOR A PEOPLE'S PRESIDENT

SUBSCRIPTIONS RECEIVED AT THE HERALD OFFICE, DULUTH

CAMPAIGN FUND FOR A PEOPLE'S PRESIDENT.

The following contributions to the Wilson campaign fund have been received by The Herald:

C. d'Autremont, Jr., Duluth.	$100
A. C. Weiss, Duluth.	100
T. T. Hudson, Duluth.	50
Alfred Jaques, Duluth.	50
Harris Bennett, Duluth.	25
W. J. North, Duluth.	10
C. N. Christofferson, Hibbing.	2
W. S. Wicks, Duluth.	1

Now is the time to contribute to the Woodrow Wilson campaign fund.

The fund will be needed during the campaign, not after the campaign is over. The campaign has started. Money is needed for legitimate uses. The Democratic campaign committee must depend on the money which comes from the common people of the nation to meet their expenses. There will be no contributions from big interests coming in big checks to the headquarters of the Democratic national committee.

The Herald has received word from many Democrats announcing that they would contribute to the fund a little later and indorsing the idea of appealing to the people for the money needed to conduct the campaign.

Now is the time to contribute.

The opponents of Governor Wilson have plenty of money. They have not applied to the people for their funds. The money for their campaigns will be forthcoming without widespread appeals such as are being sent out by the Democratic national committee. Governor Wilson's opponents will have more money for their campaigns than will the Democratic candidate, and the money is available for them at any time.

The Democratic campaign fund is dependent on the people of the nation. It will not consist of large contributions from various interests, but will be built up in bulk by the $5 and $2 and $1 contributions of the men who can afford no more.

Are you a Progressive?

Do you want a Progressive president in the White House?

Governor Wilson is a Progressive. He is the hope of the people who want government by all the people,—not by "a representative part of the people."

Money will be needed to elect Governor Wilson. His name and his cause must be carried to every part of the United States. His New Jersey record of Progressive accomplishment must be shown to a people made skeptical by the unfulfilled pledges of politicians.

Governor Wilson will be assailed from every side. He is feared by men who will spare no efforts to defeat him at the November election. However untrue and unjust the assaults upon him may be, they must be fought, and money will be needed for the campaign of education. On his record, Governor Wilson needs no defense, but his record will be distorted and twisted to politician's ends, and the Democratic national committee must put that record before the people with candidness and clearness.

The campaign will be long and hard. It must be financed by the true friends of Governor Wilson,—the common people.

Every contributor will find his contribution acknowledged in the columns of The Herald, and will also receive a handsomely engraved receipt, suitable for framing.

Contributions may be in any sum. There is no amount too small to help the cause. Contributions should be mailed to Wilson Campaign Fund, Herald Office, Duluth, Minn. They should be mailed now, for the money is needed now.

BOURKE COCKRAN, A MOOSE

By SAVOYARD.

And so Bourke Cockran has declared for the Terrible Teddy and will take the stump for him? It is not surprising. Mr. Cockran is a splendid meteor athwart the political sky, brilliant and erratic, radiant and elusive, effulgent and unstable. He is a very able man, classically educated, deeply read, overflowing with acquired knowledge, an erudite and a skilful lawyer, an eloquent advocate, and as a declamatory platform orator superior to Bryan, or Breckinridge, or Ingersoll. His is the richest vocabulary, his the most rhythmic periods of any man of his time; but he is a soldier of fortune and influences no man, not even himself. There be shrewd observers who will tell you that all patriotism other than that which is devotion to the land of one's birth is a sham, and the cases of Alexander Hamilton, Judah P. Benjamin, Carl Schurz and Edward D. Baker were not exceptions. Certainly Bourke Cockran is an adventurer from Ireland, but an adventurer of great parts and vast attainments. No doubt he loved Ireland as Schurz loved Germany.

He was educated in Paris, France, for the priesthood as I have heard. He came to America in 1871 when 17 years old, was a teacher in a private academy, studied law, was admitted to the bar, entered politics and joined Tammany. In his early manhood he was much addicted to strong drink and was nearly wrecked by that appetite; but he had the force of character to reform himself and alcohol has not passed his lips for more than thirty years. Men and brethren, it takes a man to do that, and if you don't believe it, try it—you fellow with the drunkard's hunger. Honor to him that overcomes.

Nature did a heap for Bourke Cockran. To a commanding figure, a handsome presence and a matchless voice, she added a powerful understanding and a vivid imagination. As an orator he was vastly superior to Tom Grady, or John R. Fellows, when they, too, were Tammany braves and his rivals for the applause of the forum. Cockran is a rich man, but it is slander to say that he is a corrupt man. In a community like New York city, any lawyer, one-tenth the advocate he is, can get rich in a legitimate way at the bar. Cockran is the greatest advocate that bar has known since James T. Brady. Not only is he a great trial lawyer, but he is a great jurist and powerful before the bench in the argument of an abstruse and recondite question of law.

In 1886 Dick Croker sent Cockran to congress and he remained in congress till the Boss quarreled with him. They said Croker bullied him, came here to Washington for that purpose. The following day I got a good look at Croker at close range. He was the incarnation of force, brutal and utterly without refinement. The only rule that such a man could imagine was that of the bully. He would have lasted about one campaign in some of the Kentucky districts. After Croker left New York, Tammany again returned Cockran to congress and kept him there several terms till Murphy quarreled with him and took his seat from him. The story was that Cockran, newly married, was pardonably, commendably, uxorious, and in some great litigation in New York he had at disposal a receivership or something of that sort that was very fat with perquisite. Tammany wanted it for a henchman and Cockran gave it to his father-in-law. Then Murphy hurled Cockran out of congress and he has been out ever since.

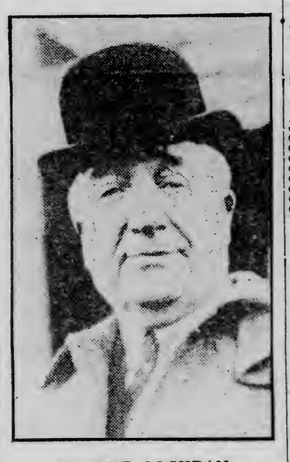
The Hon. William Sulzer is one New York city statesman of the Democratic faith who can wrap his fingers at Tammany. He knows not only every voter in his district, but all the women and children. He goes among them, visits them in their homes, sit at meat with them, sympathizes with them, succors them, and he is invincible. Tammany has ceased to try to beat him.

Cockran's case was very different. One morning the rarest of the rare, Bill Sterrett, the most popular and one of the most capable newspaper men the press gallery ever knew, offered to bet Amos Cummings what Proctor Knott called "a miserable repast of sea turtle and champagne" for twenty, that Bourke Cockran might roam over New York for a week and never be able to identify the district to which he was accredited, or meet a single person he could confidently greet as a constituent. Amos declined the wager. It is doubtful if Cockran ever knew the number of his district, much less where it was located.



BOURKE COCKRAN.

Cockran's discussion of the academic phase of the tariff was the most brilliant parliamentary eloquence I ever heard. He was deeply versed in Adam Smith and was one of the few of our public men who could interpret that profound reasoner so that a common man, like you or I, could understand it. He put to flight the entire Republican side when that side was led by Thomas B. Reed. It was worth a day's journey to hear him utter the word "plunder," which he employed as a synonym of "protection." He seized on the contumelious definition given to protection by Daniel Webster in 1824 and made terrific use of it, varying it and elaborating it like the marvelous juggler of words he is.

There is one thing to be said of Cockran—he has never wobbled on the tariff. His mind and his conscience are in thorough accord about it.

I wish I had space to deal with the speech Cockran made in 1904 on the powers and duties of the house of representatives. Perhaps he would himself say that it was his greatest effort. Unfortunately he butted right up against the Constitution of the United States. He mistook our house of representatives for the British house of commons. However, every boy in his teens should read the speech. If he has any brightness it will send him to a search of Hume and English history and English politics generally.

Cockran is best remembered for the flippant speech he made against the nomination of Grover Cleveland at Chicago in 1892 in which he said that Cleveland was the most popular man in America every day in the year but election day. That was a bald, though excusable, plagiarism from a one-horse Ohio congressman of half a century earlier. I believe his name was Dickson. Now, I am as well satisfied as I am that there is such a man as Bourke Cockran, that while he was making that speech his first choice for president was that same Grover Cleveland. But he was enlisted under the banner of Tammany, and, Dugald Dalgetty that he was, he was faithful to the engagement.

And so Dalgetty is in Roosevelt's camp! There is not one single solitary thing political that these two have in common, other than that both are statesmen out of jobs and both want to get jobs. Now it may be that Cockran hopes to get back to congress by this route, as Tammany has closed its doors to him; but what would he do in congress? He is not John Quincy Adams, that son of Hagar whose hand was against every other man's hand. Magnificent orator that he is, Cockran would be miserable and impotent in such a situation, though if he could get the backing it is possible that he could do some awful things to Tammany as a free lance in the house of representatives.

• • •

But again. He is like that brilliant Scotchman, Wedderburn, the costliest statesman Great Britain ever had, of whom Junius wrote, "He never threw away the scabbard, never led a forlorn hope."

And that is what keeps Bourke Cockran from being a very great man.

THE FACTS ABOUT THE NEGRO

By CHARLES STELZLE.

The negro problem is shifting from the South to the North. At any rate, the census figures indicate that the South is becoming whiter, largely due to the fact that there is a steady migration of the negro to the North. Also, the figures show that the negro is going to the city in both the North and the South. The percentage of negroes for the entire country is 10.7; for the cities of 25,000 and over it is 16.5. Negroes constitute one-fourth or more of the total population in each of twenty-seven of these cities, and in four of them the proportion is more than half. In each of twelve cities there are more than 40,000 negroes, although in Washington, D. C., the negro population is 94,446.

The wildest guesses imaginable have been made as to the future of the negro race. It has been said with equal insistence, and with probably equal authority, both that the negro would ultimately dominate the United States because of the large birth-rate among negroes, and that the negro race would some day be practically eliminated.

As a matter of fact, while during the past sixty years the total population of the country has increased four-fold, the negro population has increased only two and two-thirds fold. But it must not be forgotten that, whereas the increase of the white population was largely due to a considerable influx of foreigners, the increase of negroes depended almost entirely upon native stock. However, the actual situation may be arrived at by comparing the relative death and birth rates of the two races.

While it is impossible to secure complete vital statistics in this country, there are certain registration areas in which figures are kept. Unfortunately these areas are for the most part in the cities; there are almost no records for the country. In 1890 the death rate for negroes in the registration areas was 29.9 per thousand, whereas for whites it was only 19.1 per thousand. As these figures for the negroes included a few Mongolians and Indians it would be fair to say that the actual death rate was about 29 per thousand for the negro. This means that for every thousand negroes, 29 die annually. In the census report for 1900 the figures for death rates are as follows: negroes, 30.2 per thousand; whites, 17.3 per thousand. It will be seen that not only is the death rate among negroes nearly twice as great as it is among whites, but that the death rate among negroes is increasing, whereas it is decreasing among whites.

In the matter of birth rates, all the facts are against the negro. Absolutely reliable data is not available, but taking the number of children in the United States to females between the ages of 15 to 44 years of age, we arrive at the following conclusions: In the United States as a whole there were in 1880 to every 1000 white women, 586 children; to every 1000 negro women (including Indians and Mongolians) 759 children. In 1900 there were in every 1,000 white women, 508 children, and to every 1,000 negro women, 585 children. While the birth rate has greatly declined for both races in twenty years, it has declined more rapidly among negroes than among whites; namely, 75 per thousand for whites, and 174 per thousand for negroes.

These figures would seem to indicate the continued supremacy of the white race—if present tendencies continue. But this fact continues to stare us in the face; the negro is actually increasing in numbers, not as fast relatively as is the white, but we may as well make up our minds that the negro is here to stay. It's simply a question as to whether he will be a "good" negro or a "bad" negro. And the answer to this question depends as much upon the whites as it does upon the blacks. We should also consider it a finality that the white race and the negro race will rise or fall together. It is impossible to have a nation part free and part slave; it is still more impossible to have at the same time in one country a morally and physically decaying race and a surviving race untouched by the dying race's fate.

If we could definitely settle this, it would save us from a lot of flabby thinking and worse scheming. The negro will never return to Africa to establish a Liberian republic. He is the only man in America who has been brought here against his will. For 250 years there was systematically expunged from the negro race the best qualities which fit a man for citizenship in a democracy. Considering the lack of opportunity, the advice of fool friends and the inherent limitations which are both natural and acquired, the negro has done pretty well since the day that he was set free.

The fact that the negro is dying in such large numbers of tuberculosis and other still more frightful diseases is, of course, due to his ignorance and to other reasons for which he is largely responsible; but we cannot forget that it is also to be charged to the fact that he is compelled to live in the worst sections of our towns and cities, often without drainage or sewerage or garbage service, without water within a reasonable distance, and scarcely any of the sanitary conditions in house or yard or street which whites consider an absolute necessity. We drive the worst forms of immorality into the negro quarters and then curse the negro because of his moral weakness. We subject him to the severest tests of our city life—physical, moral and political—and then cynically declare that the "nigger" is no good anyway. Let's give him a square deal—a man's chance. Neither race hatred nor mawkish sentimentality will settle this very delicate question. The South cannot settle it alone, and the North cannot do the work for the South. The North and the South, the city and the country, must tackle the thing together, for this is a national problem.

SUBURBAN SCHOOL FOR CITY BOYS

An Experiment By an Iowa School Principal—His Boys Want a Twelve-months School Year.

By ROBERT E. YOUNG, Jr.

(Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau.)

During Prof. B. J. Horchem's experience as a teacher in country and city schools, as a county superintendent, and as principal of a public school, he was fond of outdoor work for his pupils. As county superintendent, he was zealous to see that Arbor day was observed. Finally, in the fall of 1907, he purchased a neglected farm of a few acres near Dubuque, and in 1908 eight or nine of his boys went out to it two or three times a week to work in the garden a few hours. After they had finished their labors, they sat in their tent and debated, sang and learned of things that would be useful to them in later life. Their arithmetic meant something practical to them now as commercial problems came up; their board measure became useful to them in the shop; their physics and chemistry had a part in their everyday life. Agricultural problems sharpened their wits. Every boy at the end of that summer was healthier, wiser and happier.

The good results of that first year led to a continuance of the work. A few acres on the top of a majestic bluff overlooking the Mississippi river were secured. Here forty or fifty boys, attracted by the glowing stories of the older members, pitched their tent and stayed all through the summer weeks except Sundays. They experienced a summer of happiness and joy, of optimism and hope. They learned more than ever. Prof. Horchem induced lecturers to come from various progressive educational centers. They opened to the boys realms which heretofore had been mysteries to them. The boys were told of the stars above them as they sat around the campfire at night. The doors of the plant kingdom were opened for them. Agricultural experts explained the good points of fine cattle and gave lessons in cultivating the great staple crops. The members of the group learned to govern themselves—the lecturers and professors marveled that there was such good order without formal discipline. The school was conducted for all, rich or poor, and it taught faith in the integrity of fellow associates.

Then came educational trips. The boys were taken on short excursions to points of interest in the country surrounding Dubuque. On these jaunts the boys camped out.

The third and fourth years were repetitions of the second, except that the work was on a larger scale. "Park Life" antedated the Boy Scout movement, as well as the later development of the school garden; but when new ideas or improvements were developed by these and other boys' clubs organizations, they were promptly incorporated in "Park Life," with the result that it employs some of the methods and principles of all in a harmonious blending of city and country life.

"Park Life" anticipated nature-study with large domestic animals. It teaches the youth to learn to do by doing, to know by seeing. It gives health first, sociability second, and then knowledge. It teaches the boys to appreciate a home with park-like grounds for ornamentation and economic purposes. "Park Life" instills a desire in the hearts of its boys to get away from the congested districts of the large cities—they will work to get little homes in the suburbs, surrounded by gardens. Rapid transportation will enable them and others to do this. By this means the slums, the festering sores of our cities, will be done away with. Every third generation should return to the land, or it will degenerate. "With Park Life" laborers living near to the soil, and combining city and country life, this danger will be eliminated. "Park Life" is as yet only in a transitional period. But in time these things must come about; and "Park Life" will be supported by the state, just as the public schools are, in order to maintain the integrity and wholesomeness of that state.

This year "Park Life" has secured a large tract of 400 acres near the city of Dubuque along the Mississippi as a magnificent location for continuing the work.

"Park Life" looks to a happier, more wholesome education of the physical, the intellectual, and the moral nature. It looks to the improvement of the social structure of America; and it takes into account the rapid change of conditions certain to come in the mode of life of the population of this country—something that our time-worn education system of the present can not do. "Park Life" will prepare the pupils to enjoy more, and to be of greater service to their fellows under the new social conditions to which, as a people, we are rapidly tending.

HAVE FAIR ON MONDAY

Because of Rain St. Louis County Fair Will Run Another Day.

Duluth Delegation Given Warm Reception on Arriving at Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Duluth special train bearing 200 or more boosters who come for the St. Louis county fair arrived at 12:05 today and got a royal reception, a large crowd being at the depot to greet the visitors. Headed by the First Regiment band, the party marched through town, winding up at the hotels.

Although the weather is not entirely favorable today, it is some better than yesterday and an effort will be made to carry out the day's program including the races and the sham battle.

It has been decided to continue the fair to Monday.

Rain marred the entire program yesterday. The race course was sodden and heavy and the card for the afternoon was called off. There was a big crowd out to see the exhibits, however, and the fair management admitted everybody free during the afternoon. The evening attendance was also good.

Friday's Races on Saturday.

Yesterday's racing card will be run today. That arranged for today will be pulled off tomorrow, and tomorrow's card is down to be carried out Monday afternoon.

The failure of the airman to make good, and yesterday's weather, caused the management some anxiety for the attendance today, but the exhibits and the speed card, with the other free attractions, are more than making good with the public, and there is little question but that the attendance will be large on all of the days remaining.

The sham battle between the members of Company E of Duluth and Company M of Hibbing will be a special attraction this evening. It will occur about 7 o'clock and promises to be one of the finest attractions of the fair. A miniature fort has been erected in front of the grandstand at the race track enclosure, and Company E will defend this against the assaults of Company M. There will be umpires to decide the progress of the affray, and the plan is to force Company E to evacuate and burn the fortification or to capture it and burn it. Besides the blank cartridges that will be discharged in the affray there will be a liberal display of fireworks.

The exhibits are being judged this afternoon and the winners in the various classes will be announced late this evening.

Tomorrow special trains will be run from Tower and Ely over the Duluth & Iron Range railroad to Gilbert and from Virginia and Eveleth over the Missabe, also from Grand Rapids, and the indications are that a big crowd will come on them.

MILLER TRUNK ROAD AGAIN HIT

Virginia Automobilist Back From Long Trip Finds It Worst of All.

Virginia, Minn., Aug. 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Everybody's doing it"—to the Miller Trunk road. The latest to criticize that highway is G. H. Kopp who has just returned from a long motor trip.

Mr. Kopp traveled more than 1,500 miles through Southern Minnesota and Central and Northern Wisconsin, and says the worst piece of road in all that distance was the Miller Trunk road between Half Moon lake and Virginia.

There are other stretches of the Miller Trunk road Mr. Kopp says that could be improved to the great convenience of the public, but they could not be compared for deplorable condition to that stretch from the lake on to this city.

A few persons have come to the defense of the Miller Trunk road, but the preponderance of testimony is that it is in very bad condition and should receive the immediate attention of the county commissioners.

HICKS DRIVING DRAY.

Grand Rapids Man Relieved of Job Takes Another.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Aug. 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—The young man who was recently relieved of his job of cashier in the local office of the Great Northern on the ground there was a shortage of several hundred dollars in his accounts and who is out on bonds pending the outcome of his preliminary hearing that was started then adjourned, proposes to stay right here and establish his claims of innocence. To that end he has taken a job draying and is working faithfully for his employer.

He claims that he has not misappropriated a single dollar and alleges that the then agent and night men had access to the safe as well as he, therefore he should not be held solely liable if there was a shortage. He is a likeable young fellow and his friends believe his story of innocence.

RUNAWAY HURT PROVES FATAL

Robert Hayward, Injured Last Week, Does Not Survive Operation.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 31.—(Special to The Herald.) — Robert Hayward, aged 50, having a wife and four children, died in a local hospital this morning from injuries received Aug. 22 during a runaway. He was engaged in the draying business and had lived here about nine years.

Mr. Hayward was driving through the Pool location last week when he collided with another rig as both were trying to pass an automobile and his team ran away, throwing him out on his head. He sustained a fractured skull. An operation was performed at the hospital, but he did not survive.

BIRDMAN LEAVES; FLIGHTS ARE OFF

Aviator Smith Unable to Make Ascent From Hibbing Grounds, He Claims.

Hibbing, Minn., Aug. 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—For the second time the St. Louis county fair officers have suffered the humiliation of widely advertising an airship flight, entering into a contract in good faith with flying machine concerns and at the last moment being informed by the aviator that airship flights here can not be successfully negotiated from the center of the race track.

Kyle Smith of Wheeling, W. Va., who was sent here by the Moissant International aviators, left Hibbing last night protesting that he could not make a flight from the race track enclosure and refusing to accept the terms offered by the fair management for flights to be made with a start on the Chisholm road or from the Mahoning hill on the Stevenson road.

Fair People Indignant.

The fair directors are charging bad faith. Hundreds of visitors to the fair have been disappointed and the whole incident has given rise to a storm of indignation that for a time bade fair to make things decidedly unpleasant for Smith and his party. Smith left last night for Virginia and announces he will make exhibition flights there.

Last year's fiasco with Aviator McGoey is still fresh in the minds of the people of the ranges and since the recent experience with Smith the people of this section have concluded that the open pit mines and general rugged surface conditions of this section do not appeal to the birdmen.

RAIN HELPED CROPS.

Itasca County Farmers Welcomed Recent Downpour.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Aug. 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—The soaking that Northern Minnesota has received in the last few weeks has been welcomed by the farmers of Itasca county, especially the downpour of the last few days. Despite reports to the contrary the rain has been a great thing for potatoes and other maturing vegetables. The plants are all strong and healthy and the yields in this section of all kinds are phenomenal.

The weather today is cloudy with prospects for more rain.

GILBERT VS. AURORA.

Range Baseball Nines to Play on Sunday.

Gilbert, Minn., Aug. 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new ball park here is nearly completed. The fence is completed around three sides, but the grandstand is not yet erected. The boys are using the grounds. Last Sunday they were defeated by the Mohami club of Virginia, by a score of 6 to 1. Tomorrow they will play Aurora and expect to keep the bacon home, but they will have to play ball to do so, as Aurora is going some.

The work on the high school athletic field is not yet completed. Part of the work of filling in is in place, but there was more rock than earth in the material, so it will be necessary to borrow some earth to provide a sofe, springy top over the stone pile. The present field has been completed fare enough to permit a full sized football field being laid out.

Motherhood

The highest point of woman's happiness is reached only through motherhood, in the clasping of her child within her arms. Yet the mother-to-be is often fearful of nature's ordeal and shrinks from the suffering incident to its consummation. But for nature's ills and discomforts nature provides remedies, and in Mother's Friend is to be found a medicine of great value to every expectant mother. It is an emulsion for external application, composed of ingredients which act with beneficial and soothing effect on those portions of the system involved. It is intended to prepare the system for the crisis, and thus relieve, in great part, the suffering through which the mother usually passes. The regular use of Mother's Friend will repay any mother in the comfort it affords before, and the helpful restoration to health and strength it brings about after baby comes. Mother's Friend is for sale at drug stores. Write for our free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature.

ITASCA COUNTY SENDS EXHIBIT

Display at State Fair This Year One of Best Made.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Aug. 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—The preparations for the Itasca county fair, which will be held here Sept. 19, 20 and 21, are going along nicely. The work on the new buildings and other improvements at the county fair grounds is progressing. The agricultural exhibits promise to be the best ever, if the interest taken in the fair along that line mean anything.

The amusement bill is being prepared by the committee on amusements, and it will contain some excellent attractions.

State Fair Exhibit Shipped.

The Itasca county exhibit to the state fair was shipped last evening to Hamline, and will be in charge of T. H. Shoaff. While the corn and vegetable portion of the exhibit was not quite up to the standard owing to the cold, backward season, the grasses, grains and forage crops were unusually fine, excelling anything ever sent down to the fair from this county. Among those who aided very materially with their products in making up the exhibit were: T. H. Shoaff, B. S. Booth, C. E. Wright, Mr. Eldy, George F. Kremer, E. A. Arnold, Leroy Wheaton, William Powers, Miss Burlingame, Niles & Alton and A. M. Sisler.

Accompanying the county agricultural exhibit was the school exhibit, prepared by the schools of Itasca county, and which will show, among other things, a map of the county showing the location of roads, schoolhouses, towns and other geographical features, pictures of school buildings, school gardens and other classes of school work, and other things of an educational nature. The exhibit is a very elaborate one.

PRETTY COOK WEDDING.

Miss O'Hair Becomes Bride of Chisholm Mining Engineer.

Cook, Minn., Aug. 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—A very pretty wedding was solemnized on the O'Hair farm, four miles west of Cook, Thursday, when William H. Hinn and Miss Marjorie O'Hair were wedded. Rev. Henry E. Neff of Virginia officiated at the interesting ceremony.

The O'Hair home is on the banks of the Little Fork river, facing the south. The house is well built and cozy and was beautifully built for the occasion. This, with the grassy lawn sloping to the river, where the family canoes rocked in an inviting manner, gave the place and occasion a very romantic appearance.

A number of O'Hair's friends living in the community were present at the wedding, also a brother of the groom, Carl Hinn, living near Madison, Wis.

There were quite a number of useful and costly wedding presents.

Following the ceremony an elaborate wedding feast was served under a canopy on the lawn facing the river.

Mrs. Hinn was a professional nurse and spent her vacations with her mother on the farm. Mr. Hinn is a mining engineer at Chisholm, where the young couple will reside. They left for Chicago and other points of interest on a wedding trip.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

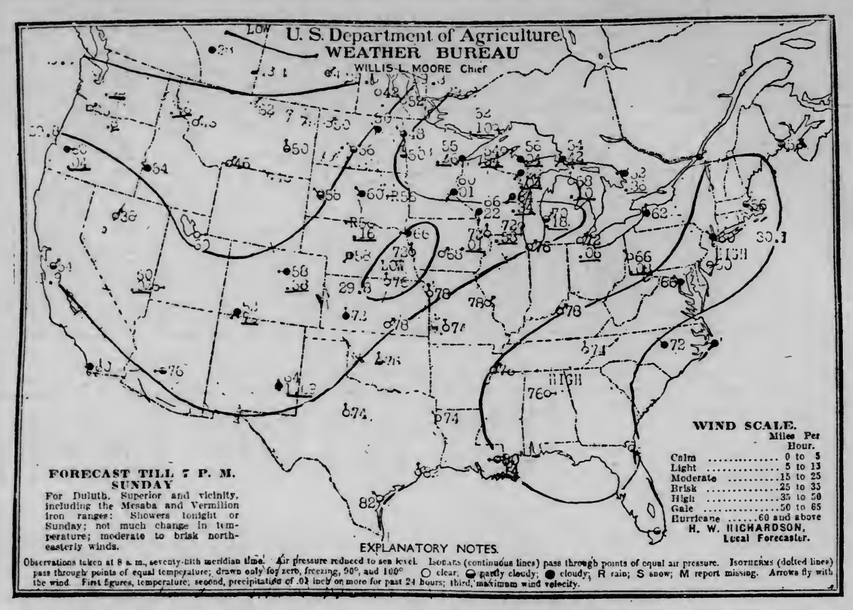
OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER



RAIN

Last night was beautiful enough for anybody, and promised a beautiful day today, but the weather man willed otherwise and today is gray and threatening. "Showers tonight or Sunday." Bah!

Fair, cool weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 5:26 and it will set at 6:50 this evening, giving thirteen hours and twenty-four minutes of sunlight.

Ralph W. Smith, temporarily in charge of the weather bureau, makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The area of low pressure over Alberta yesterday morning has remained about stationary but has increased in intensity and in connection with the barometric depression over southeastern Nebraska, has caused rains in the lake region, South Dakota, Iowa, Nebraska and the Southwest. The rains in New Mexico and Southern Colorado have been heavy. Showers have also fallen in Washington and Oregon. Hot weather continued Friday in the Central West, Southwest and South, while in the Canadian Northwest the weather has remained cool. Indications favor cool, cloudy weather and more or less rain tonight and Sunday at the Head of the Lakes."

NORWEGIAN AND SWEDISH

Will Be Elective Studies for High School Third Year Pupils.

Committee Working to Induce Juniors to Study Scandinavian.

A short time ago, when an effort was made to have the Scandinavian language made a part of the course of study in the public schools, the board of education agreed to make it an elective study for the junior year in high school.

A committee of leading Scandinavians of the city then took up the work of trying to interest parents and students in the matter and have just issued a circular to high school students who are about to enter their junior year. The committee consists of Rev. J. H. Stenberg, Dr. J. J. Eklund, J. J. Wagenstein, Dr. D. E. Seashore and George M. Jensen. The following is a copy of the circular which they have sent out:

"To the junior class of the Duluth Central high school: In compliance with the request of a committee of leading citizens of Duluth, the board of education has decided to include the study of Scandinavian languages in the course of the junior year. Provisions have been made to teach Swedish and Norwegian, and it is the desire of the board to see as many as possible take this course. It has long been the wish of Scandinavian parents to have these languages taught in the high school, in order that their children might have the opportunity to become proficient in the old mother tongue. Children in the junior class will have the opportunity to select Swedish or Norwegian will be welcome to a great number of Scandinavian parents who desire their children to study the Scandinavian literature, but have in the past had no facilities for doing so. Also the children of Scandinavian parents who possibly understand the language, but are unable to speak it, will find it much easier and more interesting to master than an entirely strange tongue of which they have no previous knowledge and whose future benefit is more than problematical. The Scandinavian mythology and literature offers fascinating studies for the young mind, and the student would be able to benefit by the practical knowledge of the parents in the pronunciation and construction of the language. As a consequence the study would be easier and enable the student to earn higher credits than otherwise possible in German or French. Students of Scandinavian extraction should take these matters into consideration and elect Swedish or Norwegian as one of the studies the coming year."

WILL ADD 50,000 TO POPULATION OF DULUTH

David Adams Predicts Tremendous Growth for Zenith City.

Talks on Steel Plant and Industries It Will Bring.

That the completion of the steel plant and its auxiliary industries will add 50,000 people to the population of Duluth, is the prediction of David T. Adams, who is in Duluth today.

Mr. Adams is one of the pioneer mining men of Northern Minnesota and has been closely connected with the iron and steel industry for years.

"You ask my opinion of the future of Duluth," he said today. "Naturally my heart is in Duluth and its prosperity. I have changed my voting place, but I still call Duluth my home and always will. I may naturally be a little partial towards Duluth and its future.

"Duluth is bound to be a thriving city sooner or later. It has abundant resources, the two principal being agriculture and manufacturing. It has a natural position geographically for manufacturing. Nature has provided a great location for a great city at the Head of the Lakes and it only remains for the people to do the rest. You have the foundations and resources for a large and thriving city and if the energy of your people are directed in the right channel, good results are bound to come.

"You know I travel a great deal and am away from Duluth most of my time which probably makes me an outsider in the point of view, and as the old saying goes, an outsider can see more of the future of a city than the permanent inhabitants themselves, although I do not claim the distinction. Nevertheless, I cannot but notice the very little interest given by the people of Duluth to the importance of the agricultural possibilities of this section and the great steel plant now under course of construction.

3,000 Wage Earners.

"If such an enterprise was undergoing final completion in any other city, the future beneficial results would have been discounted long ago. Can you not realize the great benefits your city will derive from this source alone, saying nothing of the numerous resources laying dormant at your door on completion of your steel plant. At least 3,000 high wage earners will be employed therein. This means an increase in the population of your city, from 15,000 to 18,000 people; to say nothing about the population which will be added to Duluth by numerous other iron utilizing establishments following in its wake.

"I believe it is safe to say that with the completion of the steel plant now under course of construction and other iron using industries which will be located here in the near future through the influence of the steel plant, will give the city of Duluth a net increased population of from 40,000 to 50,000 people, practically doubling the present population. Such institutions employ skilled labor at high wages. I am not familiar with the wage scale in this class of labor but it is fair to say that the wages will range anywhere from $3 to $5 per day or an average of $4. Thus the pay roll per day in the steel plant alone would amount to $12,000 which will indeed be a handsome thing for Duluth as nearly every dollar of this pay roll can be made to pour in the laps of the business men, farmers and garden truck growers of Duluth.

Huge Payroll.

"It is not necessary for me to say what this payroll will amount to per month or year but I believe it will amount to more than all of the present payrolls of Duluth combined, and for the payrolls of the other iron-using manufacturing establishments which is bound to follow. We, of course, can only surmise it is possible, however, that they will reach the level of the payroll of the steel plant. You will have your population and you will have your payrolls, but how are you going to feed the people on your own home-grown food products so as to keep the fruits of these enormous payrolls in Duluth. This is one of the most vital problems you have to solve at present.

"You must have farms to grow your own product to feed your own people. You cannot depend on the average settler. He is too poor. It would take too long for results and your lands in the vicinity of Duluth suitable for farming purposes are held too high. You drive the settler away. Your lands are of the best but they are under a heavy growth of timber.

"I am told that it is impossible at present to purchase land within five miles of Duluth for less than $50 per acre in its virgin state. The timber must be removed from the lands at an additional cost of $70 per acre, making the cost to the settler of $120 per acre before he can commence to produce anything for himself or the public. Before the average settler has succeeded in clearing up ten acres of land, less than which would be of no use to himself or the public, his working days have passed. The process is too slow and the first cost of your land is too high for the poor man. It makes it necessary for the rich man to take up the task, if you want quick and beneficial results.

"Some of your enterprising citizens have taken great interest in the matter and are doing all in their power to attract attention to the agricultural possibilities in the vicinity of Duluth; for instance, John G. Williams, C. P. Craig, G. G. Hartley, S. F. Snively and Dr. McGee. But there are not enough of them and their efforts are being discouraged by your own people rather than giving them a helping hand which they deserve in their good work for the people of Duluth. Until you all put your shoulders to the wheel in the common cause, there can be no speedy results come from your farming interest in the vicinity of Duluth, which you all need so much.

"Duluth is a very wealthy city, the wealthiest city on the continent of its size. It has a great many wealthy men with no place to go. Why could not these men each interest themselves in a few acres of land in suitable locations, build a cottage and other necessary buildings to house their products and have a man and his wife to cultivate and take care of the premises. Enough could be raised on ten acres of ground to pay the man and his wife for their labor and good interest on the investment and give the investor a place to go during the summer when he is tired of the city. This would give one great pleasure, to say nothing of the fresh eggs, butter, milk and vegetables he would have at his command, besides marketing enough garden truck every year at a low price to help bring down the high cost of living to your laboring people.

"The Lyceum Farm company is providing and clearing land for just such places. Their ground is being cleared and prepared on a large scale. Would it not be a good place to establish a cottage and a small truck farm and to have a place where you could go and visit at your will?"

TOO MUCH SALMON

By E. Burrows.

It was a wild, blustering March morning; but now and then a gleam of sunshine shone from between dark, scudding clouds into the dining room of Heartease, where the Carden family were seated at breakfast.

Carden, as befitted the master of the house, was almost invisible behind the newly-arrived paper. That it was a day-old was a drawback, but when one has dumped oneself and family down in Maine from motives of economy one has to put up with drawbacks. Mrs. Carden was trying to read her letters and feed her son and heir with porridge at one and the same time.

"Now, Hughie darling, one more spoonful—there! Now let mummie look at her letters and then you shall have bread and honey."

Hughie being graciously pleased to consent to this plan, Mrs. Carden plunged anew into her letters. As she tore open a fourth and ran over its short contents a little gasp escaped her.

Oh, Tom!"

"What's the matter, Nina?"

"It's Uncle Steve—he wants to come down next week. And what shall I do with him?"

"Put him up and put up with him, I suppose, darling! What else? He's not an ogre, is he? Didn't I see him once? A tubby, old chap with white hair and whiskers who was at our wedding?"

Mrs. Carden laughed.

"You've described him exactly," she said; "only it's rather unkind to call him 'tubby.' He is an old dear, but with a temper which goes off in the most awful explosions if the cuisine isn't up to the mark. And, Tom dear, you know cooking is not our Julia's strong point. Now is it?"

"It is not," said Carden; "but it wouldn't do to put the old fellow off, Nina."

"I know it wouldn't. He's worth thousands. Oh, I'm not mercenary, really, Tom; but he is rather fond of me, and there's Hughie, you see?"

Mrs. Carden's eyes dwelt with excusable fondness on her son and heir.

They found it rather difficult some times to make both ends meet; a few hundreds a year more would make all the difference when Hughie had to go to school—and Uncle Steve was kindness itself, in spite of a peppery temper. No, it would never do to postpone his offered visit.

"It's so difficult to make a change in the food!" murmured Mrs. Carden, her housewifely mind still dwelling on the cuisine and its many weak points. "The only thing is—Tom, what about salmon?"

"Well, what about it?"

"You might catch some. Think what a stand-by it would be—most people look upon it as a treat."

"Well, the river ought to be in the best of condition. I'll tell you what, Nina—I'll go down the river for a week. When is the old gentleman coming?"

"Next week."

"Then that'll just do. A decent-sized fish will keep the larder going, and, after all, there are always chickens and wild birds. If he can't eat those he's hard to please!"

There was excellent fishing to be had in the neighborhood, and that sport was Tom's one weakness; all his friends and relatives were aware of it.

The good fishing and the cheapness of the sport had indeed been one of the things which had tempted Tom to bury himself at the "back of beyond," and so this blustering March day he set off for a village inn some ten miles distant, intent on catching a salmon which was to strike awe and admiration into the heart of Mr. Stephen Baynes, while Nina made preparations for the coming of her guest and wrote an ecstatic little letter of welcome to the old gentleman.

Then there ensued a period to which Carden's relatives were by this time quite accustomed. Every day a letter or postcard arrived, which Nina read with anxious eyes.

"River in flood—prospects hopeless. Water clear as gin; fish not taking. Hooked a beauty yesterday in the lower pool; played him for nearly an hour; he got clear away."

The days passed and the coming of the visitor was drawing near, and there was no sign of the return of Carden or the arrival of the salmon. Nina growing desperate, despatched this telegram to her husband:

"If it comes to the worst, buy one."

She little knew what the telegram would bring forth! The entire village knew its contents long before it reached Carden, and fully understood, thanks to the interpreting powers of the postmistress, to what it referred. The whole place knew that Mr. Carden had gone off to catch a salmon, and further, that a distinguished visitor was expected at Heartease almost immediately.

This explained the mystery—it was a mystery to Nina at first—of the numerous offers of fine salmon made to her in the course of the next day or two. They arrived at the back door by stealth, conveyed by all sorts of unexpected persons—including the local postman, who in odd hours was something of an angler himself, and a poacher to boot; they were found in all the majesty of their glittering silver scales on the front doorstep in charge of an aged woman with a shawl covering her picturesque head.

"An illgant fish, ma'am," she announced in a husky whisper—"caught this morning."

Reflecting that possibly Tom would neither catch a salmon nor remember to buy one, Nina purchased one of the many fish. Uncle Steve was due to arrive on the morrow.

It was therefore certainly disconcerting to be given two fine salmon when Carden returned in the gloom of a wild evening. His luck had stuck to him for two days, the result being a couple of eight-pound fish. Nina regarded them with mingled pride and apprehension—pride in her husband's prowess, and alarm as she thought of the household living on salmon for the next week or ten days; it would be salmon at every meal!

"Well, we shall have heaps for Uncle Steve to eat, at any rate," she said gally, "and, as there are so many fast-days in the kitchen just now, they may as well feast on salmon, too!"

The arrival of Mr. Stephen Baynes in a downpour of rain formed a topic of talk for the entire neighborhood for many days. The number and size of his portmanteaus and dressing-bags were freely commented on, as was also his personl appearance. But he was deposited in due course, whole, though distinctly shaken both in body and mind, before the hospitable doors where his pretty niece and her cordial welcome did much to drive away his pertubation.

It was his first visit to the wilds of Maine and he was ready to survey and take notes on the entire situation, political, social and commercial. He had views—which he did not hesitate to express with delightul freedom.

"Dinner will be ready in a minute, Uncle Steve," said Nina; "I am sure you must be nearly starving!"

"I confess to a slight feeling of hunger," admitted Mr. Baynes; "and by the way, my dear, I brought a little present for you. I asked your maid to take charge of it, and hope you will accept it with my love. Knowing that salmon at this time of year is something of a treat, I bought one at a junction at which we stopped at for an unwarrantably long time, from a person whom I have reason to fear was slightly under the influence of drink. She had, however, some remarkably fine fish and sold them at the most inadequate price of 10 cents a pound."

Nina gave a shriek. Carden laughed.

"Ten cents a pound!" they said together. "Why, Uncle Steve, salmon isn't worth more than 2 or 3 cents a pound round here—it's so plentiful! Was the woman with a big red face and black hair?"

"I think he might answer to that description."

"Oh, Uncle Steve," cried Nina laughing, "I'm sure a magistrate at home, aren't you?"

"I am, my dear; I trust I always fulfil my duties with judgment and discretion."

"Then do you know that what you bought was a poached salmon? That woman—Molly, the fisherman, we always call her—is the biggest poacher in the county. She and her sons live by it."

Mr. Baynes gasped. Poached!" he exclaimed.

"My dear Nina, if I had only known!" Mr. Baynes paused; his face cleared. "However," he said, "salmon is a thing I never eat myself. It disagrees with me!"

* * *

As the day wore on, and Nina's anxieties increased, it was soon seen that it would be quite impossible to get to the distant market town or even to the village and the larder overflowed with salmon—the one thing which Mr. Baynes "could not eat!"

"Isn't it just our luck?" said Nina in despair, as the day waned and the snow fell persistently. "Uncle Steve will never get over this, Tom—imagine such an introduction to a new country! And think of the salmon—the larder is still full of them!"

"It would be much worse if they weren't there—for us!" declared Carden. "We've got plenty to eat, at any rate, and I bet you the old fellow will eat salmon fast enough when he's hungry, or when he's done up in a pie or something of the kind."

And so he did; and perhaps it was during his enforced stay indoors during that unprecedented snow storm that Mr. Stephen Baynes found his rather hard old heart touched by baby hands and realized that little Hughie was really a most attractive child. They became the firmest of friends, and when, a week later, he took his departure, the snow having nearly gone and his holiday being over, he found it quite hard to say good bye to that fascinating little person with his round blue eyes and confiding voice.

Yet Nina would declare that the visit had been a failure. She changed her mind, however, a few days later—it was the first of April as it happened—when she received a letter from Mr. Baynes, accompanied by a parcel, which was found to contain a most cleverly made salmon formed of some silvered composition. In its jaws was a slip of paper.

"The idea of Uncle Steve playing a joke on us!" said Nina. "And—Tom! Look at this!"

She held out the slip of paper, and Carden looked at it. It was a check made payable to Nina Carden for $5,000 and this was the letter:

"My dear Nina—Just this line to thank you for my pleasant and instructive visit. This is not sarcasm. I have rarely enjoyed myself more, but, as I feel that Hughie ought not to be entirely educated and brought up in a country where poaching is regarded more as a joke—and a praise-worthy one—than anything else, I venture to send you this check, which I should like you to use later on for the boy's education in some good school. The salmon, I may mention, is for Hughie—in case you should be out of that excellent comestible! Your affectionate uncle, Stephen Baynes."

If that was Mr. Baynes' first visit to Heartease, it way by no means his last; it has now become an annual event, and he has the pleasure of seeing Hughie growing up, getting ready for that good education in a famous public school on which Nina had set her heart, and for which the $5,000 will come in very usefully. But Mr. Baynes has never dared to buy a salmon since in Maine!

AMERICANS AWE MEXICAN REBELS

Camp at El Tigre Is Not Attacked By Rafael Campa.

Douglas, Ariz., Aug. 31.—Awed by the determined attitude of the American defenders at El Tigre, Rafael Campa, the rebel leader operating in Sonora, southeast of this city, has not as yet made good his threat to attack the rich gold mining camp.

Instead, he has been moving his force further north, after informing couriers that he had given up his intention of taking El Tigre. It was reported he would go to the Mormon colonies of Morelos and Oaxaca, but the Americans at El Tigre expect he will try to surprise them.

All of the women and children of the Mormon colonies have left and are expected in Douglas. There are 450 refugees in the party, escorted by an armed guard.

Five troops of the Fourth cavalry stationed at Fort Huachuca have been ordered to Nogales, Ariz. This places all twelve troops of the Fourth cavalry in active service along the border.

Rebels under Escobosa and Alatorre are reported to have surrounded Campa south of Nacozari. These are the same rebels that have looted the property of the Transvaal Mining company. The property is owned by Cincinnati capitalists.

Man May Live Two Hundred Years

Scientists Assert That Following the Correct Rules Will Thus Increase Longevity—Rules of Right Living—The Cell Principle.

Thanatology is the name of a new science; the study of nature and causes of death. Scientists in America and Europe are engaged in this most fascinating of all investigations which may be called a revolt against old age and death, says the Kansas City Star.

The most startling discoveries and suggestions have come from investigations and experiments, but the most astounding of them all is the suggestion that a human being may be kept alive forever.

Dr. Alexis Carrel, medical investigator at the Rockefeller Institute in New York, in a paper in the last issue of Experimental Medicine, telling of his experiments with tissues of the body which he kept alive for months outside the body, said:

"These results showed that the early death of tissues cultivated outside the body was preventable, and, therefore, that the permanent life was not impossible."

The investigators are proceeding along different lines in different countries, thus in the Rockefeller Institute's experiments are being made in the transplanting or grafting of organs from one body to another, in the hope of discovering a way by which a diseased or worn-out organ or tissue may be replaced with a healthy, fresh and youthful organ or tissue, and life prolonged in that way. The greatest discoveries have been made along this line of experiments, culminating in a triumph of modern surgery in which the brain of a man who had just died was put in place of a portion of an elderly millionaire's brain which had atrophied and had been removed, and the new brain united with part of the healthy brain of the rich man which remained, and became part of it, so that all his mental faculties were restored in their full vigor.

In another case Dr. Lexer of the Rockefeller Institute, removed the diseased knee bones of a girl and replaced them with the knee bones of a man who had recently died, and the bones united with those of the girl's legs and she walks perfectly well, and she walks without a limp.

Kidneys Transplanted.

The surgeons have done more than this. They have transplanted kidneys from one living person to another, and from a dead man to a living man; they have cut the heads from two frogs and grown the both on another brog, making a three-headed frog that is living yet; they have cut the heads of two dogs and switched them, and each dog lived with the other dog's head; they cut off the ear of a dead man and sewed it to the head of a man who had lost his ear and it grew there; they have drained blood from the veins of a healthy young person to the veins of an old man and given him new strength, and they have gone far enough in their experiments to assert positively that it is possible to remove the healthy heart from a person who has died from accident and place it in the body of a person who has heart disease, and whose heart has been removed and he may live on with the healthy heart.

Another astounding discovery made recently is that when a person dies he does not die all over at once. We die by inches. Thus the heart may die and other organs of the body live on for hours or even days, although the whole body has the outward semblance of death.

If you wish to read the latest discoveries and theories of science upon this subject get the last issue of the Journal of the American Medical association and read the paper by Dr. Rosewell Park and Dr. Ferguson who attended President McKinley after he was shot. There you will read how the heart of a chicken was removed from the body and kept alive and pulsating in a glass jar for months, proving that all the organs do not die when the body dies.

Promise of Life Everlasting.

In these experiments is the promise of life everlasting. If each separate organ, cell or tissue, each group of cells does not all wear out at once, might it not be possible for expert surgeons to prolong human life indefinitely by transplanting healthy organs to replace those worn out?

In this connection Dr. Park writes: "We may assume that after the death of a man his most specialized cells are the first to die, or more, that their death has preceded his own. In the ante-mortem collapse, seen in many diseases and poisonings, has not this very thing occurred, i. e., that the patient has outlived his most important cells? Certainly when a person has died of gangrene he has outlived a large portion of his millions of component cells. Perhaps 20 per cent of his body may be dead and the rest living."

Dr. Park writes further: "Let a healthy young woman meet accidental and instantaneous death. It would be possible to use no inconsiderable part of her body for grafting or other justifiable procedures. The arteries and nerves could be used, both in the fresh state and the former even after preservation, for suitable transplantation or repair work on the vascular and nervous systems of a considerable number of other people. So also could the tyroid, the cornea and especially the bones.

"All the teeth, if healthy, could be reimplanted. With the thin bones, ribs especially, plastic operations—particularly on the noses—of fifty persons could be made. And then the exterior of the body could be made to supply any amount of normal integument with which to do heterogenous dermatoplastic operations, or would furnish an almost inexhaustible supply of epidermis for grafts, which latter material need not be used in the fresh state, but could be preserved and made available.

Not a Fantastic Dream.

"This is, after all, not a fantastic dream, nor such an extreme picture as would at first appear, since every organ or tissue mentioned—and more—has been used as indicated, and with success."

The scientists who are carrying on these experiments in the Rockefeller Institute assert that they have merely begun. They expect it will soon be an everyday thing in surgery for the limb of a dead person to be grafted on and take the place of one amputated because of disease from a living person, and they hint at the possibilities in the prolongation of human life beyond a century, and perhaps for two or three centuries by replacing wornout tissues with youthful ones.

Among the investigators of Europe who are studying along this line is Dr. Tranjen of Plevna, in Bulgaria. He proposes to make young persons immune to the poison of old age by inoculating them with infusions of the tissues of old persons, and to employ serum obtained from these immunized young persons in the treatment of senility in the aged. He has experimented with animals and had good results.

Another investigator is Dr. Edward A. Ayers, who puts forth the theory that growth and decay in the human body are both accomplished through fermentation, one constructive, the other destructive, and length of life depends upon the relative strength of these two antagonistic ferments of the body. Every individual growth has a limited era in which it can build faster than the ferments will pull down. The problem is to so balance the constructive against the destructive ferments in the body that the losses and repairs will be equalized, and then life would be brought to a standstill of perpetual youth.

So far his theory is just a theory and nothing more.

Radium May Solve Problem.

A French scientist believes, from experiments he has made, that radium will some day solve the problem of old age. He has exposed meal worms to the continued action of radium rays, and they survived in the larvae state through three generations of weevils. This is equivalent in the human body to prolonging childhood through two centuries.

Dr. Doyen of Paris has announced the theory that life is a perpetual struggle between the white globules of the blood, known scientifically as leucocytes and the microbes that seek to penetrate the lungs, digestive tubes, etc., and that in health and youth the leucocytes destroy the microbes before they have time to infect, but in old age the leucocytes have become tired of fighting and permit the microbes to get the upper hand. He believes that if something could be found to rejuvenate and freshen the leucocytes senility might be staved off indefinitely.

Metsch and Loeb, two other students of thanatology, attribute the phenomena of old age to the accumulation of poisonous products of metabolism in the body, and Dr. Ribbert of Bonn, says it is due to the obstruction of wasting cells, and, he asserts, if some way could be discovered to induce the cells by external influence to expel the accumulated waste products the problem of everlasting life would be solved. He points out that it is natural for the dead body to decompose and yet men learned 6,000 years ago how to stay that process, and he believes they will yet learn how to stay the senility of the living body. The nightshade plant has already produced seed in May and June, but Daniel, the French botanist, rejuvenated them by grafting on young tomato plants and they bore seed again. Just so, believes Ribbert, man may yet be able to live two or three centuries.

Due to Bacteria.

Prof. Elie Metchinkoff of the Pasteur institute in Paris startled the world recently with the announcement that he had discovered that old age and senility were symptoms of a disease as well pronounced as typhoid fever, and far more deadly. Old age was simply a poison produced by millions of bacteria in the larger intestine of man. The enemy of these bacteria is a microbe called Macrophages such as are found in sour milk, and by prolong life he would simply drink quantities of sour milk.

Man has attempted from remote antiquity to replenish the almost exhausted lamp of life with fuel drawn from healthy young bodies. One of those cults had the name of Shunammitism, and its principle was that an old person could draw in some of the vigor of youth by sleeping with young persons, on the theory that youth, like electricity and radio-activity, may be transmissible from one body to another. The transfusion of blood from the young to the aged was in vogue in the middle ages, but there is no evidence that it ever lengthened life beyond the normal period of old age, although it has often lent a temporary strength.

There is another class of scientists who are seeking, not to prolong life beyond the alloted span, but to increase the length of the active period of existence by preserving the vitality of the body by right living and observance of natural health laws.

In this class is Dr. I. L. Nascher, special lecturer at Fordham Medical college, New York, at the Boston College of Physicians and Surgeons and at Bennet Medical college in Chicago. He points out that during the fifteenth century the average length of life was 23 years. In our day it is 44, owing to better sanitary laws and better housing and food and knowledge of disease.

Rules to Prolong Life.

He gives rules of living to prolong the active period far into old age. They are much the same as the twelve commandments for a green old age, given by Dr. Arnold Lorand of Carlsbad, at the close of his book, Old Age Deferred. They are:

1. Have all the open air, sunshine and exercise you can and breathe deeply.
2. Eat meat only once a day and eggs, cereals, green vegetables, fruit and raw milk from healthy cows. Masticate properly.
3. Bathe daily and take a sweat bath once a week or once in two weeks.
4. Let there be a daily action of the bowels.
5. Wear porous underwear and clothing, loose collars, a light hat and low shoes.
6. Go to bed early and rise early.
7. Sleep in a very dark, quiet room, with the windows open. Sleep not less than six nor more than seven hours, and women eight and one-half hours.
8. Take one complete day's rest a week, without even reading or writing.
9. Avoid mental emotions and worries. Say no unpleasant things.
10. Get married and be temperate.
11. Be temperate in the use of alcohol, tobacco, coffee and tea.
12. Avoid places overheated, especially by steam; and badly ventilated places. Finally, when you begin to grow old replace or re-enforce the functions of the organs which become changed by age or disease by means of extracts from corresponding organs from healthy animals.

Jean Finot, in his book, The Philosophy of Long Life, says:

"Scorn of death is one of the surest methods of prolonging life. When man arrives at a certain age he begins to worry about death if he fascinates him; he hears its call with terror; he feeds on the fear; he intoxicates himself with it; dies of it."

WOULD SIMPLIFY CRIMINAL CODE

Lawyers Suggest Changes That Would Work for Justice.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 31.—A plea for simplicity in the instructions of a judge to a jury was made today before the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology by, Charles A. Dococurcy of Boston, who favored the use by the judge of words almost bordering on what is known as the "language of the street."

The "long-winded" present instruction, replete with compound legal phrases, only tends to confuse the average juryman, he contended, whereas a brief and simple charge in such language as "I want youse guys to get busy now and figure out if this defendant," etc., would make the meaning more plain.

That homicides should be tried immediately after the crime is committed was the argument of Judge S. H. Russell of Ardmore, Okla., speaking on the question of procedure in criminal cases. Under the present systems, where the trials are allowed to drag for months, he contended, there is too much opportunity for the "faker" and the high sounding defense that should not be taken into consideration when the courts are dealing with a man who has taken human life.

If Judge Russell had the dictation of how such trials should be run, he would do away with "extenuating circumstances," the "unwritten law," "brainstorms," "dementia Americana," or any of the other popular excuses for shedding blood.

The only excuse for murder, he contended, is self defense. His argument was that the law provides punishment for wrong doers and that the individual should not take justice into his own hands.

Lumber Business Good.

"We are shipping more than a million feet of lumber every day of the week, including Sunday," said S. J. Cusson, general manager of the Virginia & Rainy Lake Lumber mill of Virginia, at the Spalding today.

"Right at the present time the lumber market is in fine shape. The outlook is also good for its keeping up until late this fall, although by that time we will be pretty late along. But we are running at capacity at the present time trying to keep up to orders, and find business very good. Generally speaking, the lumber market is in fine condition."

ST. PAUL GIRL IS HURT IN WRECK

Edna Hays Hurt and Three Men Killed on Northern Pacific.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 31.—In a head-on collision between westbound Northern Pacific passenger train No. 6 and an extra freight train near Maywood late last night, three trainmen were killed and several passengers injured. Details of the accident were received here today.

The dead:

W. E. STOVER, Seattle, engineer, No. 6.

The trains were running about twenty miles an hour when they met.

CHICAGO CARMEN NEAR UNANIMOUS

Vote Against Wage Agreement Stands 6,351 to 866.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—The official figures in the voting of the surface line employes on the proposed agreement for a three years contract, defeating it by 6,351 to 866, were announced today by a substitute committee of the union joint committee. Edward McMorrow of the general executive board represented W. D. Mahon, international head of the carmen's organization at the committee meeting. Arbitration of the difference between the employes and the street car officials is the next step.

Will Organize Women to Work for Roosevelt

MISS ALICE CARPENTER.

Miss Alice Carpenter of Brookline, Mass., will have charge of the women's campaign on behalf of the Progressive party. She has established headquarters in New York and is busy organizing clubs in other cities to work for the election of Col. Roosevelt. She will organize committees for each state and will send out speakers to work with the regular men speakers. Women will also be expected to work in the election districts with existing committees in order to get out the suffrage workers. Women delegates will also be sent to primary meetings and conventions. Miss Carpenter was a member of the committee on resolutions at the convention of the Progressives in Chicago.

ALL ATTENDANCE RECORDS MAY BE BROKEN ON BOOSTER DAY

By Far the Largest Crowd That Has Ever Filled Athletic Park Should Cheer On the Pennant-Winning White Sox in Double-Header Against Superior.

(BY BRUCE.)

With decent weather, Booster day, with its two games, a balloon ascension and other attractions, is expected to break all the attendance records of the local grounds.

Some few years ago 4,800 people went out to Athletic park to see Duluth and Superior play. That has stood as the attendance mark of the local ball yard ever since that memorable occasion. With fair weather there is every indication that this mark will be set by the boards.

It has been stated on numerous occasions that the Duluth team has remained in the field simply because the board of directors have dug into their pockets to pay salaries and other current expenses of the upkeep. Tomorrow is an occasion when the fans can show their appreciation and help make the debt less.

However, that is not the whole idea. The attraction that is to be staged will well be worth the money. Prof. Robinson, the man who is to make the balloon ascension, is one of the greatest balloonists in the business.

The games tomorrow will be the last opportunity for many to see the White Sox in action. The season comes to a close on Labor day, with a game at Superior and one here in the afternoon. There are many fans, judging by the attendance at the local games during the present season, who have not been out to see the team play; tomorrow, Booster day, will be the opportunity of seeing the aggregation that has now placed the pennant beyond the stage of doubt.

Flag Cinched.

The White Sox have cinched the flag. The boys have played good baseball all of the season, have remained out in front despite all of the difficulties that have beset the team, and now at the windup of the race, Mr. Fan, you ought to get out and show your appreciation of this fact.

Darby O'Brien, Sam Menlece, Muggs McGraw, Lucella Sours, Harvey Bluhm, Teddy Leber, Hardy Hargrove, Cy Bennett, Elmer Miller, Eddie Stark, Rube Johnson, Sally Hoffmann, Bingo Brackett, Bob Worman—these are the men on the team at the ending of the season.

During the entire race some of the others on the Sox team were Popham, Erickson, Sweeney, Johnson, a pitcher, and several others. But the regulars who are on the team at the present time are the soldiers who have done most of the hard fighting throughout the campaign.

Harvey Bluhm, the tall, lithe and clear-cut red-headed youth who guards the first base in so handy a manner, is without doubt the best player of that position in the league, and by all odds the greatest first baseman that the Duluth team has ever had.

John Ness, who afterwards was tried out by Detroit, was a great player for the minors, and the same goes for Merry McCrone, when his hitting is taken into consideration. But neither of the two men mentioned can field the sack the way the redhead has been doing the present season.

Darby O'Brien deserves all the credit in the world for landing the second flag for Duluth. His first year here as manager he copped the coveted gonfalon. Since that time his plans were somewhat interfered with, and he was not given free rein. The present season he was told to go ahead and get the team. He used his own judgment and was not crossed, and he has won.

The Irishman is a fighter and he knows the game. He treats his players fairly, and as a consequence he gets the work out of them. That he has got the very best out of his men is proven by the standing of the team. Look at Winnipeg.

Lucella Sours has been the hitting kid the present season. He has made errors at short, 'tis true, but he is an outfielder and was pressed into service to fill the gap at the shortfield position. Always in the game, always up there at bat to get one when a bingle was needed, Lucella is the kind of a player that endears himself to the fans, and it is not at all strange that his coming to the plate at a pinch has generally been greeted with applause.

Slugging Sam.

Large Sam Menlece has had the year of his life with the war club. The tall boy has literally torn the cover off the ball. It has been his terrific and timely hitting all of the season that has kept the team up there in front. Much of the credit for winning of the pennant goes to Sam, for he has sure clouted the present season.

Ted Leber is another of the wrecking crew. Sours, Menlece, Leber and McGraw are the four wreckers. The hitting of these men has been the bane of the pitchers of the See-Eye. Little Eva has been there with both spiked feet the present season, hitting at times when hits have often turned the tide of the game.

McGraw has had one of the best seasons of his career. His hitting and fielding have been big factors in the winning of the golden gonfalon, and O'Brien will tell you the same.

Hargrove is another that is justly entitled to a lot of credit. The old boy's work does not shine like the diamond, but the members of the team know that it is his directing of the pitching that has much to do with the winning. He, like Lisette, last year with Superior, knows the hitters and what they don't want.

Johnson, Stark, Hoffman and Worman have been the men who have been out on the firing line during the greater part of the year. At the start of the season Worman pitched the game of his life. Later he slumped some, but he has been one of the hurlers to whom great credit must be given. Johnson has been steady and effective throughout the year, and during the greater part of the season Sally Hoffman has won most of his games. Eddie Stark has pitched some brilliant ball since joining the Sox and must be given credit for helping bring the pennant this way.

Brackett joined the team near the close of the season and in his few games has shown real goods. The game he pitched against Winnipeg here was one of the best pieces of pitching that has been seen in the league during the present year.

Cy Bennett and Elmer Miller came on later. Doc was just beginning to clout the ball when he broke his ankle. His playing after he started to hit was the feature of every game. Miller's services were taken from the team just at a time when they were most needed, making it unfortunate for both the player and the team.

When every man steps up to the plate tomorrow the fans should give him a reception. The boys have kept playing right up to the notch, though they have not received very much encouragement from the fans. A monster crowd tomorrow and a right royal reception, such as the boys are entitled too, would be the fitting thing to close the season with and show the members of the team that the fans appreciate what they have done.

Every one should be doin' it. Let's all combine and make the day one beyond the most optimistic expectations of the officials of the team. Everybody get out and root; make it one of the old-fashioned ball games. Let's get enthusiastic about baseball for one day of the season. It has been a long hard fight and we've won. Wake up, fans, and come out and show that you appreciate pennant-winning team in your midst.

THE NORTHWESTERN GUN CLUB HEAD AND TROPHY

JOHN WOLD.

Canadians Win.

Niagara on the Lake, Ont., Aug. 31.—The Canadian players, Baird and Herrwell, defeated Beals Wright and Johnson, the American pair, in the semi-finals of the tennis tournament yesterday by 3-6, 6-4, 6-4. The final match in the open singles was won by Williams in straight sets, all of a 6-3 score. McElroy of Pittsburg, his opponent, made Williams extend himself to win, however.

MEETING OF MAGNATES OF MUCH IMPORTANCE

Future of Baseball in Duluth May Hinge on Visit to the Twin Cities.

There will be a meeting here next Wednesday of the officers and club owners of the Central International league. The regular business of the league will be transacted and the pennant for the first year of the league officially awarded to the White Sox.

At this meeting it is likely that a delegation will be chosen to go to the Twin Cities and hold a conference with Messrs. Cantillion and Lennon. The old desire to get into St. Paul and Minneapolis still tugs at the heart strings of the magnates hereabouts, and a determined, not to say, diplomatic attempt will be made to clear the barriers away.

The time has clearly come when the larger league must co-operate with the smaller leagues if the kindergartens, where the young player is nurtured, are to continue.

This has been one of the worst seasons in the history of the game of baseball. Along the great highway of the great national game there lie the corpses of leagues, strewn out in grotesque and bleaching form, a warning and menace to the very future of organized baseball.

Serious minded men in the game must get down to cases and think of the greater future, the one that lies ahead of the immediate dollar. If the little leagues of the country are to go the very foundation of the game will be knocked from under the palatial residence of baseball.

The cellar of the house is not always imposing, but you see very few swell residences, George, that haven't cellars.

Minneapolis and St. Paul and Grandma Ritchie, the mouthpiece of the Cantillions, have always frowned on the attempts of Duluth and Superior to break into the Twin Cities. However true this may be, the day is coming when the larger leagues will be forced to lend the helping hand to the smaller leagues in their vicinity.

At the present time there is hardly a minor league in the country that is meeting expenses. In many cities, and Duluth is a shining example, the fans hang around the places where they have returns of the big league games, failing to go out to the park to see the local team play.

Great ball players are very scarce at the present time. The real stars of the big league can be counted upon the fingers of the two hands. Ball players come up from the corner lot and pass through the minor league, the diamond in the rough being polished as it progresses. Let the little league die and the majors and the class AA teams are going to find the source of their supply cut off.

Duluth is a city of 80,000 people and finds that it cannot get the kind of baseball that its size would, under ordinary circumstances entitle it to. The addition of St. Paul and Minneapolis should, one would suppose, make a league with cities like Duluth, Winnipeg and Superior in it, a very solid league. The teams of the Twin Cities would be owned by Cantillion and Lennon and would be a farm for their players.

Such an arrangement would give us the best baseball that we have had since the days of the old Northwestern league and would probably serve to stimulate the interest in the game. To the least observant it is very patent that something must be done.

Most people believe that Duluth is to grow. A city the size of Duluth without baseball would be something that would be the wonderment and at the same time the derision of those who came to see and saw not.

Something must be done before the coming of another season if we are to continue the game. Citizens of the city have failed utterly to support the game here. A few men have been asked to support the game from their incomes or resources. Such a condition cannot endure.

Therefore it is to be hoped that the delegation that is going down to beard the Cantillions and Lennons in their dens will be able to accomplish something and set the baseball future of the city on a solid foundation.

WALTER JOHNSON, THE GAME'S BEST PITCHER

Weiser Wizard Stands as the Greatest Flinger in Either League.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 31.—No pitcher in the national game today stands out more prominently than does Walter Johnson, himself a sensation of five years standing and largely responsible for the sudden dash of the Washington club from seventh place, between which and eighth it had fluctuated from time immemorial, to second place in the American league with a first-class chance to win the pennant.

This star performer is considered by many of the players and managers in both major circuits the best in baseball today, writes F. S. Rice in the Eagle. His title as premier pitcher in the American league is hardly disputed, while his claim to the honor is almost as equally well supported in the National league.

If Johnson had always received the first-class support he has had this year he would probably have made the greatest winning record in five years ever made by a modern pitcher.

The reddish-haired phenom was born in Humboldt, Kan., on Nov. 6, 1888. From Kansas he went to the Pacific coast and had a trial with a team in the Northwest, but was turned loose, a chapter in his career not generally known. He finally dropped into Weiser, Idaho, and it was there he was unearthed. Who first discovered Johnson is not definitely known. Every traveling man who had been to Idaho as much as fifteen minutes and knew the difference between a water tank and a base hit has claimed the distinction of being the original bright eyes who tipped Johnson. In those days there were few opportunities for seeing the elongated youth do his stunts, for the Weiser Wizard, as he was afterwards known, was in a league that played two games a week.

Lucky Tips.

That a lucky coincidence caused several straight tips on Johnson to reach Washington at once is known, and with the tips went his sage-brush record of 150 strikeouts and no runs in eighty innings. Tom Hughes, a ribald veteran of the Washington team, and still with it, remarked that if the Rube dared to brag about that performance he would lean over and tap him once on the bean for luck.

Cliff Blankenship, then a Washington catcher, who was recuperating from a broken thumb that had been set so that every time he raised his hand he looked like Silk O'Loughlin signaling an obstreperous player to go to the clubhouse, was sent to Weiser to take a look at Johnson and see if he could pitch.

Blankenship found upon his arrival that Johnson's team would not play for several days. He took the phenom to the ball yard and asked him to send over a few. He caught three or four and then told Johnson to pitch 'em against the fence, as he thought a lot of that biased thumb and was taking no chances.

After a half dozen or so assaults on the fence, Blankenship signed him instanter, beat it to the telegraph office to telegraph a $9 eulogy of the find, and took the youngster out of town on the first train for fear he would be kidnaped.

An Instantaneous Success.

When he reached Washington, the phenom had already been widely advertised and the park was packed the first day he pitched, which was somewhere around the middle of the season. No new pitcher who lost his first game could have received more flattering notices. He was trimmed by 1 to 0, but it was no fault of his.

His next game was against the Detroit Tigers, then undisputedly the best team in the American league. He shut out the Tigers by 1 to 0 with a burst of dazzling speed that was declared to be the equal of anything Amos Rusie showed in his palmiest days, if not better. So fast did the ball sizzle across the plate that the opposing teams were hypnotized and he burst full fledged upon the country as one of the most remarkable pitchers in the annals of baseball, all on two performances.

Never for a moment was there the slightest doubt that he would make good, and he was worth $25,000 to the Washington club before a week was out. He could not be bought today for $50,000. Charley Street made his reputation because he was able to handle Johnson's delivery, and when Street caught the first ball dropped off the Washington monument and thereby made himself immortal, he could find no better simile to express how it felt to receive a ball that had dropped 500 feet than to say that it jarred him just about as much as receiving one of Johnson's fastest shoots.

In 1910 Johnson was thought to have made the greatest number of strikeouts for one pitcher in modern times. Delving into the dope subsequently revealed that his number was not the largest, but his percentage of whiffs per inning undoubtedly was. He fanned 374 in 316 innings, but the gross for a season was made by Rube Waddell in 1904, who fanned 377 in 343 innings. The citizenzery of Washington thought so much of Johnson's stab at the gross and his leadership in percentage that they gave him a purse of $500.

A Hold-Out in 1911.

Johnson was a hold-out in 1911. He is a money maker and money saver and wanted all he could get. His view of the case was that he should have $8,500 for 1911, $9,00 for 1912 and $11,000 for 1913. This was frowned upon by the Washington owners and Jimmy McAleer, then managing the Washington team, told him to go back to the farm, which he did. Subsequently he compromised on a contract for three years at $7,000 per year, and that contract will end next season.

Perhaps Johnson's best remembered performance was when he came to New York in 1909 and shut out the Highlanders three games in succession, on Friday, Saturday and Monday.

Few major league pitchers in these coddling days have had such a remarkable run of victories as Johnson has had this season, and especially for the past week.

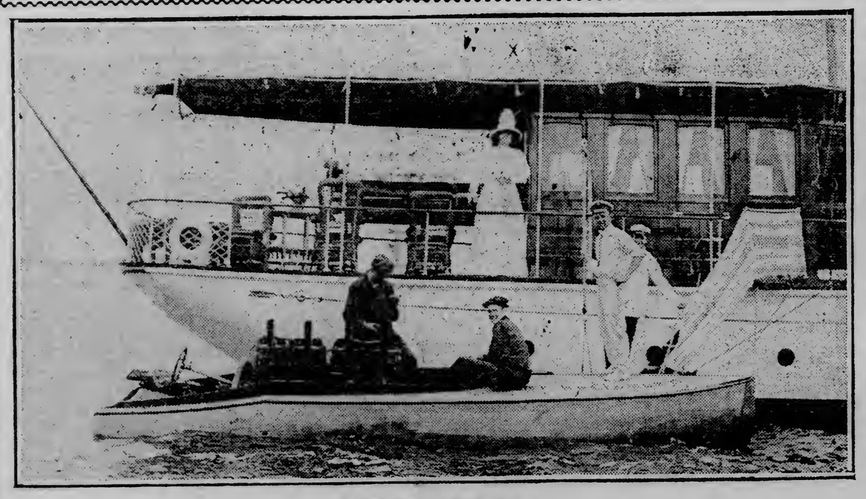
Batting Around .300.

In addition to these little matters connected with pitching Johnson has been batting between .290 and .300 this season, and if he played every day would probably gain fame as one of the heaviest sluggers in the major leagues. One of his swatting achievements was to make two or three years ago the longest hit ever seen on the Washington grounds.

Last year with Washington, a team that finished seventh in the American league, with a winning percentage of .416, Johnson won 23 games and lost 15, was taken out once, finished one game and wound up with a percentage of .605. He pitched a total of 323 1-3 innings, gave 70 bases on balls and fanned 209 men. The enemy made 292 hits and 117 runs off him.

It was a wonderful season for a man receiving the support in the field and at bat that was accorded Johnson, and he promises to make it look sick this year. Among his other feats last season was to carry his seventh-place team to eleven straight victories, perhaps the greatest winning performance with a losing club that ever made or will be made for many years to come.

SPEEDY MOTOR BOATS TRYING OUT FOR HONOR OF DEFENDING HARMSWORTH CUP



BABY RELIANCE NO. 2.

ANKLE DEEP.

BABY RELIANCE NO. 2 IN ACTION.

The first of the elimination trials for the purpose of selecting three motor boats to represent America in the international races which begin next Saturday was held recently on Huntington bay. The best time made was by Baby Reliance II. She went 22½ nautical miles in 38 minutes 51 seconds, which is at the rate of 38.16 nautical miles an hour. This little boat has come from the West with reports of having made sixty miles an hour. Commodore J. Stuart Blackton is the owner of this little craft. Count C. N. Mankowski is the owner of Ankle Deep, which made the next best record. This boat went the three rounds in 43 minutes 13 seconds. The boat to represent Great Britain arrived last week. They are the Mona and the Maple Leaf. Both are fast and some interesting races are looked for in these races.

STUTZ CAR WINS AUTOMOBILE RACE

Merz Puts Car Over Elgin Course in Little Over Three Hours.

Elgin, Ill., Aug. 31.—Charles Merz and Gill Anderson, both members of the Stutz Automobile racing team and both driving Stutz cars furnished the high lights in the opening day's program of the annual Elgin automobile race meet yesterday afternoon.

Merz won the 203-mile Illinois trophy race over the 8¼-mile road course in the record time of 3 hours, 4 minutes and 32 seconds, after a spectacular driving duel with Anderson. The two drivers were but two minutes apart at the finish. Frequently they swayed down the hills and through the stretch at a 70-mile an hour clip with less than a dozen feet separating them. Merz drove the entire distance at an average speed of 66.11 miles per hour.

Don Herz, who won the Illinois trophy with a National last year drove the same distance at an average of 65.63 miles per hour.

W. Hobbs, driving a Rayfield car and Neil Whalen, with a National, the only other starters in the Illinois trophy race were eliminated early in the contest by engine trouble.

JOHNNY McGRAW IS VERY FRANK

New York Leader Tells His Men the Truth at All Times.

McGraw looks upon baseball in a cold, shrewd and crafty manner. It is purely a business proposition with him, and so he informs his players. Unlike most old players, McGraw does not cherish feelings of sympathy for the veterans in his heart. He knows that to be successful a ball team must win and that it cannot win by playing favorites or by sticking to men who have seen their best days McGraw had no better friends on the New York team than Al Bridwell and Arthur Devlin. Some sentimental managers would have kept them on the Giant pay roll after they were through their usefulness, just for the sake of good friendship and old times and what they had done for the team in years past. But McGraw never thought of any such thing. The moment he saw that Brid's legs were going bad and that Devlin was slowing up, he began to plan to fill their places and to get them out of his lineup. Sympathy and sentiment cut absolutely no figure with him. McGraw makes no bones about this attitude. He does not four-flush along with an old friend and then alibi the necessity of trading him off onto President Brush. He tells his men frankly that he will treat them liberally and generously so long as they are winning games and delivering the goods for him, but that then he will be through with them. They know this, respect his attitude and go out and play their heads off every day, knowing they will continue to draw high salaries as long as they make good and not an instant longer. McGraw is a separate entity from his team. He does not mingle freely with his players off the field and never becomes familiar with them. He is like an army officer, who is supreme over the rank and file, but does not associate with them off the parade ground. McGraw is the general and his players are the subordinates. He has full and absolute control and exercises it without fear or favor. He has been the most successful of all managers in either league in getting championship ball playing out of a team composed of ordinary players, some of them ragged in their defensive work and inaccurate in many details, but all trained to run and hit and then to run and hit some more. The reason that the Giants are so far out in front is because McGraw, by his driving, cold-blooded system gets more out of comparatively ordinary material than most managers do out of really high-class stuff.

MEET CLOSES WITH LIGHT CARD

Grand Circuit Horses Are Sent to Hartford for Next Engagement.

Readville, Mass., Aug. 31.—A light card closed the Grand Circuit meeting here yesterday, only two events being decided, and the horsemen got away early for the meet beginning Monday in Hartford, Conn.

Anvil with Ed Geers up, had no trouble winning the 2:06 trot, although in the second heat, Helen Stiles, the California entry, made the winner step the fastest mile of the meeting here—2:06½. Don Labor took second money and went his best race of the year.

Major Wellington won the 2:09 trot easily, though Funny Crank succeeded in sticking to the stretch in the third heat, the winning of which gave him second place.

SMOOTH WATER FOR MOTOR BOAT TRIALS.

Huntington, L. I., Aug. 31.—Smooth water and a light breeze from the east at sunrise greeted the motorboat men here today, conditions favorable, they thought, for the selection of the two remaining boats to represent America in the international race for the Harmsworth cup.

It was regarded as entirely possible that the international races scheduled for 2 p. m. today might be postponed. It was not known, how serious the break of the rudder casting of Maple Leaf IV, one of the British challengers, might prove to be. The marquis of Anglesey's Mona, the other challenger, lay in readiness on a steam lighter in the harbor.

The owners of all boats competing in the elimination trials were told to be at the starting line at 8 o'clock. Weather permitting, the officials planned to select the Ankle Deep's two sister defenders during the forenoon.

FLEERS MAKE GOOD.

Defeat All Teams in Their Class and Claim Championship.

The game of baseball between the Oscar Fleer and Fitger teams was played last Sunday on the diamond at Duluth Heights. The Grams team, which claims to be the best ball team on East Fourth street, was beaten the previous Sunday by the Fitgers and in consequence a challenge was issued to the Fleers to settle all disputes as to the best ball players. It was taken up. The Fleers came out victorious, playing seven innings and winning 11 to 13, which makes them the baseball champions on East Fourth street.

AUTO RACES AT THE FAIR

Speed Championship for Circular Dirt Track to Be Decided.

Famous Racing Stars Will Be Seen at the Big Show.

The speed championship of the world on the circular dirt track is to be decided this year at the Minnesota state fair.

Eli Warner of St. Paul, head of the automobile department, has completed plans to bring to Hamline a half dozen of the world's greatest drivers, including that dean of the space-eating fraternity, Barney Oldfield.

To assure the keenest competition possible and to urge the drivers to extend both themselves and their cars to the limit, an open five-mile race for 600 cubic inch cars will be included on the program. This event will be run best two out of three heats and for a purse of $1,000.

A free-for-all and the world's time trials will also be included in the program, and there will be races for all classes of cars from the 161 cubic inch class to the big powerful monsters that can be exercised for the distance of only a mile with safety.

For two years Barney Oldfield, the world's greatest speed hero, was outlawed for riding against Jack Johnson, the heavyweight champion fighter of the world. He has been reinstated and is now driving better than ever, and his aim in coming to Minnesota is to capture the dirt track speed record.

The return of Oldfield to the Minnesota state fair will be received with a welcome from every auto enthusiast and member of the sporting fraternity in the Northwest, and his presence will assure the most spectacular driving possible, as he is now handling the famous front drive Christy machine, a mate to the car with which Walter Christy twice lowered the world's dirt track mark over the state fair track.

Mr. Warner has also decided to encourage local competition in the auto races and will hang up $500 to go to local drivers who compete in the class races.

Another world's famous racing star has been secured as an entry for the auto races which will feature the last day of the Minnesota state fair this year. Louis Disbrow of New York and his famous 200-horse power Fiat racer, known to the speed world as the Jay-Eye-See, will be on hand to battle with the other famed daredevils who have entered the races.

In the big 600 cubic inch class race Disbrow will pilot the famous White Streak racing machine, which he drove in the Santa Monica race meet in California.

Disbrow is one of the famed speed-eaters who has never been seen in action in Minnesota, although his career as a pilot began several years ago. He is holder of eleven world's records and has beaten almost every driver in the game today in one or more races.

Last year at Jacksonville, Fla., Disbrow lowered the world's speed records for 150, 200, 250 and 300 miles, beating a field of stars that included Bob Burman.

This year Disbrow has proven a sensation. He started out in California by lowering the world's record for a two-mile dirt speedway. Then he next attached the mile marks and lowered the world's 15, 20 and 25 mile figures. Last week he lowered the world's mile mark on a half mile track in Montreal, Canada.

With Disbrow, Oldfield and others in attendance at the Minnesota state fair this fall the program of auto races should prove the most sensational of any ever staged on a circular dirt track.

Chairman Eli Warner of the automobile department of the Minnesota state fair has inserted a new feature into the racing sport this year. He will have a place on the program for the trucks and proposes to offer special prizes for certain kinds of competition along this line.

Wild Bill Endicott, dean of the famous coterie of drivers who have made the city of Indianapolis and its famous speedway the most popular racing center in the world has been secured as an entry for the Minnesota state fair auto races this fall.

Endicott will come to Hamline prepared to defend his reputation against such stars as Barney Oldfield, Louis Disbrow and the others. The machine he will pilot will be the famous Schacht Tornado, which he sent over the speedway in the recent International sweepstake in record time and hauled down a large slice of the $50,000 prize money offered.

Endicott is coming to the fair to try for the $1,000 prize offered in the best two out of three heat race for cars of 600 cubic inches and under.

At Montreal last week, while taking part in the Canadian championships, in which he won his share of honors in his class, Endicott blew a right front tire and sent his car through the fence. He was knocked unconscious, but was revived in five minutes.

Two years ago after he had swept the entire country in the light car class and won the title of light car champion driver of the world, Endicott retired from the racing game and bought himself a big farm outside of Indianapolis.

But the lure of the speedway and the excitement that goes to the daredevil who eats space for money soon brought him back to the racing car and his return was made a wonderful success through his showing in the sweepstakes race.

FRANK SCHULTE WILL CELEBRATE

Great Cub Player to Have Birthday and Chicago Anniversary.

Frank Wildfire Schulte, champion home runnist of the National league last season and winner of the Chalmers trophy offered for the player most valuable to his team in 1911, will celebrate two birthdays next month, but unfortunately for the Cub fans who might wish to have some festivities in his honor on either of these anniversaries he will be absent from Chicago on both dates, which are the seventeenth and twenty-first.

On the first mentioned date Schulte will be 30 years old. Cohecton, N. Y., having received a lot of free advertising by reason of Frank M. (no one knows what the M stands for except himself and a few others), having been born there.

Schulte's birthday during September will be the eighth anniversary of his debut in the major leagues. He played his first game in the fast set in Philadelphia on Sept. 8, 1904, and covered himself with more than credit, gathering three hits (including a double) off Bill Duggleby in five times at bat and catching all three flies that came his way in left field. By an odd coincidence the Cubs will be in Philadelphia when Schulte begins his ninth season as a National leaguer. The schedule calls for them to appear in New York on the occasion of Schulte's thirtieth birthday.

The Cubs got Schulte from Syracuse, Frank Selee being his Christopher Columbus. Selee was sent to the Salt City by Jim Hart to look at a pitcher, and in deciding that the hurler wouldn't do made up his mind that Schulte would add to the Cub outfit, F. Wildfire's purchase immediately following.

Schulte already has played more than 1,000 games in the National league and ripped off his 1,000th base hit in the game played with the Pirates on April 21 of this year, the Corsairs' pitcher being Lefty Leifield, now a Cub. F. Wildfire made his 150th double on April 27 in the contest with St. Louis. Bill Steele pitching, and he mauled his fiftieth big league homer on July 1 in the skirmish with the Pirates. Marty O'Toole hurling and said hit breaking up the tussle. Before Schulte celebrates either his thirtieth birthday or his eighth anniversary as a major leaguer, he will have poled his 100th triple.

Schulte led the National league in manufacturing homers last year and in driving in tallies, but he will have to step lively to gain these honors and the Chalmers trophy this season. Up to Tuesday he had driven home fifty-eight tallies and made ten wallops good for the full route. The pitchers off whom the winner has secured his four-baggers this season are Yingling and Ragon of Brooklyn, Perdue and Donnelly of Boston, Steele of St. Louis, Alexander of Philadelphia, Benton of Cincinnati, and O'Toole of Pittsburg. Yingling and Donnelly each have yielded two homers to the Cub right fielder this year.

GOOD PROGRAM FOR RIFLEMEN.

Rifle Range, Sea Girt, N. J., Aug. 31.—An elaborate program confronted the expert riflemen of the United States on this, the seventh shooting day of the twenty-second annual Sea Girt tournament. The company team match and the Tyro company team match, postponed from Wednesday to permit of the participation of a large number of teams delayed by duty in joint maneuver camps, were carded for today. In addition, the program called for the life and annual members' match, a national rifle association event, the all comers expert match and the Leech cup match. Weather conditions continued favorable.

The twenty-four competitors having the highest scores in the Remington expert, Sea Girt championship, Wimbledon cup, Leech cup and Marine corps matches, it has been decided, shall engage in a final try-out for places on the all-American team to shoot at Ottawa, Can., for the Palma trophy. The try-out will be held Monday, Sept. 3. The team, as finally selected, will practice here until its departure for Canada. The match will be shot in Ottawa, Sept. 14.

BASEBALL NOTES

"Bubbles" Hargrove, catcher for the Terre Haute team, has ambitions to become a sporting editor. He has announced that he will start next fall to prepare himself for that line of work by taking a couple of years' college work. He intends to play ball for at least two seasons before branching out as a scribe.

Three Brown university baseball stars are to get trials with major league clubs. Kenneth Nash, the shortstop, will hook up with the Cleveland Naps; Joe Conzelman, the righthanded pitcher, is pledged to the Pittsburg Nationals, and Eddie Warner, the crack southpaw, will go either to the Athletics or to Detroit.

• • •

The Burlington team of the Central association claims the base stealing record for a game—at least for a "bob-tail" contest. In a seven-inning affair with Kewanee recently Burlington players stole eighteen bases and as a feature put through a triple steal. With the score 12 to 3 in the first half of the eighth inning in favor of Burlington the game was called by agreement, as Kewanee had used all its pitchers and catchers trying to head off the slaughter.

A recent Pittsburg announcement is that the United States league may be "cut" to four clubs. To the impartial observer this would look more like expansion. As far as the naked eye can see there have been but two clubs in that "league" for the past couple of weeks and both of them operated by the same angel.

• • •

Steve Engelbretsen, the Kellogg, Ida., pitcher who expected to get a trial with the Chicago White Sox last spring, is reported dying of consumption and a benefit game was recently played at Kellogg to raise funds to send him South. Engelbretsen was signed with Spokane last year, but sent to Kellogg for development.

The national commission has put the ban on the Lake Shore league for taking up suspended players who were under the national agreement. Dahlgren of Cincinnati is playing at Escanaba and other association players include Stoney McGlynn of Milwaukee, Harry Seibert of Kansas City, and Ernest Groth of Columbus.

• • •

The Ohio-Pennsylvania league directors at their recent meeting decided to drop Newcastle and Connellsville and finish the season with six clubs. The talk of ousting President Travis amounted to nothing. Instead he was indorsed for his work as head of the league, as it was shown he had been very active in its interests.

• • •

President Fitzgerald recently fined the London club of the Canadian $200 for issuing more passes than the league regulations allowed. London threatened to "strike" but the league directors upheld the president's action and London backed up. The $200 was divided between four clubs that were victims of the London pass liberality.

The players of the Newberg team of the late New York-Cincinnati league proved more honest than their magnating manager, who deserted his club, leaving a lot of debts. The players put on a series of exhibition games and a dance, raised money enough to square all debts and had enough left to pay their railroad fares to their homes.

Sammy White, the Princeton bright star, who has been on the point of joining several teams, with Baltimore making the most definite claim to his services, now announces that he is going to join none of them but that he will go into business. Baltimore claims to have his contract tucked away in the office safe to spring on him any time he changes his mind again.

• • •

Rube Watkins, the star portsider with the Sharon team of the O. & P. league, in ten games fanned 101 batsmen, an average of ten men a game. He has issued twenty-five bases on balls and has been touched up for seventy bingles. Watkins was sent to Sharon by Manager Bill Phillips of Youngstown, for development. It is understood that Cleveland has a string on the young pitcher.

Norman Elberfeld is said to be telling with considerable glee how he fooled Hugh Duffy of Milwaukee into giving him his release with the old story of the bum hip and bent back, after Duffy had paid good Milwaukee money to Washington for his release. Duffy may deserve nothing better than that for making the deal, but it does not sound well to hear Elberfeld chortle.

• • •

Manager Ramsey, of the Anderson team of the Carolina association, pitched the first no-hit game of the season in his league against Greenville, winning, 1 to 0. Pitcher Van Pelt, of the Charlotte team on the same day allowed Winston its first hit after one was out in the eighth inning, being pitted against Ray, who defeated Charlotte in three successive games in the week before.

• • •

In spite of his successes as a minor league manager, Cliff Blankenship of the Missoula team of the Union association, is tiring of the job, and he has confessed to friends in San Francisco that unless something better turns up for him next year, he will retire from the game. His wife, who is the granddaughter of Thomas Hopper, a rich California banker, recently inherited a $50,000 fruit ranch in Sonoma county, Cal., and Blankenship is planning the running of this ranch.

RED CARD CONTEST AT NORTHLAND CLUB.

The red card golf contest will be the feature at the Northland club today. On Monday the play against bogey will start for the trophy offered by the president of the club. Qualifications were made in the August handicap last Saturday and play in this event will continue during the present week. A week from the coming Saturday the Houghton players are expected here. There are a number of events still to be played off and there will be general activity at the links during the remainder of the season.

QUERIES ANSWERED

Yes, the White Sox have the pennant won. They can't take it away from them.

Shamrocks to Play.

The Shamrocks of West Duluth and the Holzberg Tailors of Superior will meet at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Hammond park, Superior. The Shamrocks have a very strong team and the game is expected to be one of the best of the season.

Kennedy and Davis.

Lauren Kennedy, winner of the championship of the Duluth Boat club in the tennis singles, will meet Davis today, the champion of last season, in the challenge round. This should be one of the greatest games played at the Oatka courts the present season, as both men are crack players and both have been playing some great tennis the present season.

CUBS GAIN FULL GAME IN RACE FOR PENNANT.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Chicago gained a full game on New York by defeating St. Louis, 5 to 4, in a hard-fought battle, while New York lost to Brooklyn, 5 to 7. Four games now separate the two leaders in the race for the pennant. The locals took an early lead against St. Louis by bunching hits, but this was offset as the result of loose playing by the home team. A triple, two bases on balls, a sacrifice fly and two wild pitches put Chicago in the lead, and Schulte's twelfth home run of the season, in the seventh inning, cinched the game. St. Louis started a belated battling rally in the last inning, but could not overtake their opponents.

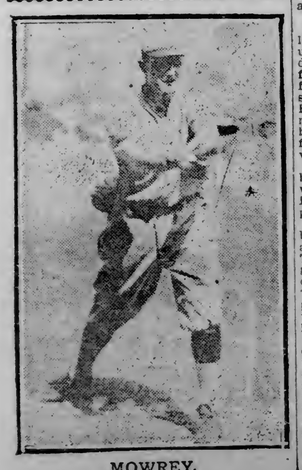
SHORTSTOP OF THE ST. LOUIS CARDINALS



MOWREY.

ENGLISH ARE ALARMED OVER OLYMPIC RESULTS

(By G. W. Axelson.)

Physical education as measured in time and yards has become as acute a question in Great Britain as votes for women or the German invasion. Continued defeats in the Olympic games have so worked up the imagination of the Briton that the losses in the classic games have become strongly identified with the question of national defense. It is as if the specter of the Teuton has become the pacemaker on England's cinder paths, and for that reason preeminent men of England are raising heaven and earth to finish in front at the Olympic games at Berlin in 1916.

Never before have English journals used as much ink in connection with an international event as over the games at Stockholm. It no longer suffices the Englishman "to write to the Times." He is too much in a hurry to pin his faith to "The Thunderer" only, and every newspaper in London, as well as outside, has been bombarded with suggestions from "Vox Populi."

It takes the genuine Anglo-Saxon across the water a long time to get started, but when he gets under way he usually makes a thorough job of it. There was hardly a single edition of any newspaper in London which for two weeks after the games did not devote a column or two to England's sorry exhibition at Stockholm. Then out of all the spilt ink arose the athletes' advisory committee to set things aright, but it found a large job confronting it, and the end is not in sight and probably will not be for some time to come.

Caste Spirit Strong.

Regardless of denials, the caste spirit in certain respects is as strong in England as in India, and it is this very thing which blocked the efforts of the committee at the start, and this despite the fact that Lord Desborough is at the head of the body, with W. B. George, a well-known newspaper man, as secretary. Lord Desborough is president of the British Olympic committee, and as such was largely responsible for the Olympic games at London and in some measure also for the unpleasant aftermaths in which the United States was largely concerned. Still he is regarded as the highest authority on athletics in Great Britain and readily admitted to the writer in London that a herculean task confronted him and his co-workers.

Lord Desborough himself, of course, could say nothing about caste, as those who worked with him were not so circumspect. They openly admitted that as long as the teams were made up of "gentlemen" who refused to have anything to do with trainers or mere athletes it was hopeless to expect a winning team. The happenings at Stockholm, where some of the members of the British team refused to have anything to do with other athletes because they were not of their "class" were recalled with some comments steeped in gall and wormwood.

Those best posted in British athletics admitted that the only hope lies in a truly democratic team and this is to be modeled after America's. They expect to go even further by beginning to train their athletes practically four years in advance of the games. To this end it is proposed to collect $100,000 a year for the next four in order to properly bring out every athlete of promise in the island possessions. It is proposed to go about it in a systematic way, that is, provided the Briton with money will "loosen up." If he does not, some other way must be provided, as it is admitted that the nation's honor is at stake.

"There is no question but that we must do something, and that quickly," said Lord Desborough in conversation after the meeting of the athletes' advisory committee. "We admit that you Americans have a good system, but whether or not we shall adopt it remains to be seen.

Will Be On Hand.

"There has been some talk about England not sending a team over to Berlin in 1916, but you may deny that absolutely. We have only one thought on the subject, and that is to retrieve lost laurels. It will in a large measure depend on the amount of money we shall be able to collect in the next four years. I do not think £25,000 a year is too much. With that sum we could get trainers for different teams, and see to it that the men were looked after properly.. It is the feeling here that we must make a good showing at Berlin and I think we will, as the country has been aroused by the poor exhibition of our athletes at Stockholm."

Sir Conan Doyle is another prominent Englishman who has entered the lists for British supremacy. He started the ball rolling by proposing a British Empire team, and this has been taken up with a vim. The idea was not entirely new with the distinguished novelist, but he put it in concrete form. Another point he has brought out was for an annual or bi-annual athletic meet modeled after the Olympic games. In this way, it is argued, it will be possible to get a line on promising material.

Sir Conan does not dodge the problem of training, but comes out flatfooted in favor of a regular system. He suggests that the team should be brought together in a special training quarters for as long a period as possible before the games, with the best available advisers. He also has this to say:

"There should be such a public spirit over the games that it would become impossible for anyone to throw obstacles in the way of our complete representation. As a mark of such public interest the team should have a public send-off and a public reception upon its return."

As noticed by Americans who visited London after the games, it was easily seen that the agitation was mainly brought about through a certain amount of jealousy of United States and fear of Germany. It is not allowed to get into print, but Englishmen make no secret of it in conversation. Getting beat by Americans is getting to be an old story, but fears are entertained for future relations with Germany should the English athletes finish behind the Teutons in 1916. Here is a sample of conversation heard at the meeting of the athletes' advisory committee between two prominent Englishmen:

"Just think," said one, "what the feeling in Germany would be should we be defeated at Berlin. The Germans would then say that we were degenerating and it would hasten the war (the speaker taking it for granted, apparently, that a war between England and Germany is bound to come). The rest of the world would chime in and say in truth we were a decaying nation, and God only knows where it would end."

"Quite true, quite true," came the answer from the other, who carries the name of one of the titled families of England.

The situation would furnish plenty of material for a Gilbert and Sullivan opera but the average Briton takes it seriously. It is no longer a joke. It is a call to arms. The national pride has been touched as never before and the appeal has gone out not alone to Great Britain, but to all its colonies and dependencies, save India. There will be no invitation sent to the land of the Hindu. Not because a Pathan might not outrun the swiftest of the palefaces. It is something else, a fear that a giant asleep might become awakened to the possibilities of gathering in a few medals on his own hook, and that might lead to serious consequences.

HIDDEN SIGNALS OFTEN DECEIVE WISEST FOLLOWERS OF BASEBALL

In the game of competition where more than one person is involved on each side, harmony will prove one of the principal points of strength, says a New York sporting writer. The college crew pulls together on its stroke, so that every ounce of power may be put to the very best advantage.

So with a baseball nine. All must "pull" together, which involves a lot more than appears on the surface. Every man must be not only willing to bear his personal share of the work, but eager, as well, to lend every possible assistance to his fellow-players.

A chain is no stronger than its weakest link. A baseball team may be stronger than its weakest player, but not unless the inferior athlete is given the support and co-operation of that superior skill about him. A span of light, spirited horses can accomplish more in one day than two balky teams in a day and a half. A "bush league" team, welded together in common interest and single purpose, will outplay a galaxy of the greatest major league stars working only for individual aims. It is simply a matter of strength in numbers properly united.

The successful manager maintains perfect working harmony among his charges. The individual pales into insignificance before the cause. Petty spite and prejudice that often crop out among players of the best-known teams must all be laid aside when the athletes are in uniform.

Few Know Signal System.

Because of the fact that it is absolutely necessary to have a thorough understanding on plans of attack and defense, as well as to hide the same from the opposing side, it has been found necessary to employ a secret, silent language for baseball purposes. Fandom believes itself reasonably familiar with the "signal" system of baseball. Yet very few outside the profession have more than a hazy idea of what it implies.

I think a great deal of charm would be added if the spectator knew what was being attempted in every case. How often the unsophisticated judge plays wrongly.

"What kind of baseball is that, you bonehead?" they rave, mistaking a hit and run play for an attempted steal. The poor catcher is roasted for pegging to center field when it is the fault of the second baseman or shortstop in "muffing" the sign to cover. The pitcher is exonerated for an "alleged" wild pitch when probably the catcher has "crossed" him on signals.

There would be less misplaced criticism if it were possible for the crowd to be in on the "inside stuff." That, of course, is impossible, for a signal system has to be so mysterious as to fool an opposing team well versed in the art of sign language. It wouldn't go very far to doing this if it didn't fool the fans.

There is nothing terribly complicated in the major league baseball signals. Of course, a great deal of responsibility for their proper application rests with the battery. The signals are divided into two general classes—defensive and offensive. The pitcher and catcher are most personally concerned in the defensive signs.

The catcher shoulders the greatest responsibility on the team when his side is on the defensive. He not only supports the pitcher, but the entire cast as well. He has the field of play laid right out before him and he has to watch that entire field for himself, and for the pitcher, too. If three men are on base, say, the catcher has to watch every base, so that if a fielder can sneak in behind some one napping a throw may be made in time to catch him off his guard.

Catcher Must Direct Play.

We'll talk first about the battery signals. On them depends the defensive strength of a team. They mask battery efficiency and at the same time coach the supporting cast in proper defensive formation.

For instance, I am pitching to a left-handed batter. If I throw my fast ball to him he will naturally hit late at it. Consequently, if it goes to fair territory, it will go to the left field side. Now, every one knows that the general tendency of a left-handed hitter is to "pull" the ball into right field. Consequently, to cross this fellow we give him something he likes and trust to luck. When nothing is at stake the fielders all know what the pitch will be and they plant themselves accordingly.

It is as natural for a right-handed hitter to hit toward left field and for a left-handed hitter to hit toward right field as it is for a duck to take to the water.

There are some few notable exceptions, of course. Hans Wagner, a right-handed swatter, is as likely to push a ball toward right as he is to pull it to left. Cobb, a left-handed hitter, can place his hits on most any sort of delivery.

How Fielders Work It.

Knowing the general laws of hitting ethics, the fielders station themselves accordingly. Every man on the team knows just what sort of ball is going to be served the batsman. When the battery agrees one of the infielders down around second catches the sign from the backstop. He flashes it to the outfield. Sometimes you will see the infield or outfield switch suddenly after the pitcher assumes a pitching position. It is because such a pitch is forthcoming that if the player connects the ball is almost bound to travel in a certain direction. In other words the pitcher is playing for a batter's weakness.

The pitcher and catcher must have absolute confidence in one another. Each depends upon the other like a building on its foundation. The catcher, having the play always before his eyes, must keep the pitcher posted as to the situations of base runners. If the catcher thinks a runner has strayed too far from his base he signals the pitcher. This particular baseman guarding the territory involved must get that sign at the same time. He rushes toward the bag; the pitcher after a certain specified wait—while he counts three for instance—whips the ball blindly to that cushion. If all three—catcher, pitcher and baseman—have calculated to a fine mathematical precision the base runner may be caught napping. If anyone falls down a most damaging error is likely to result.

Pitcher at Fault Sometimes.

Unless one fully appreciates the play contemplated it is impossible to fix responsibility of many a "bone." The pitcher always is charged with bases stolen by rival clubs, when maybe half the time it is the pitcher's fault in not holding the men to their stations. The greatest catcher in the world cannot stop a fast man who gets a good start on slow delivery.

Directly upon the cunning of signals depends in a great measure the success of "inside" baseball. I'll illustrate with a few examples.

A fast man is on third base with one or more out and one run needed badly. A scientific hitter is up. Naturally, the infield is drawn in for a play at the plate. The batter takes a swing at the ball as if trying for a long fly. That "Moriarty" may be only a ruse to catch the infield napping. Perhaps the batter intentionally missed his swing with the idea of attempting the "squeeze" play on the next pitch. And he may get away with it, too.

The hit and run play is one that depends for success upon the clever execution of some fixed idea. In this play the runner starts with the pitch and the batter is supposed to hit through the infield. When the runner starts one of the guardians of second base naturally races over to take the throw from the catcher. The batter's plan is to hit through the place where that base guardian should be.

It's simple enough if the battery guesses out the hit and run properly. All that is necessary then is a pitchout and the runner is flagged. But, on the other hand, if it proved a bluff and the runner does not really go, a pitchout puts the boxman in a bad way. The real good catchers are the ones that do not ask for too many pitchouts, the ones who are game enough to take a chance of handling a "groove" ball with all the stuff the pitcher can put on it.

The team on offense has its strategy to offset the defensive side. No hit and run play is ever attempted without the batter and baserunning being in perfect accord. If the batter is a right-field hitter he knows that the opposing shortstop will doubtless move over for the throw when the running breaks for second. He gives the opposition credit for enough sense to believe that the second baseman will remain where the ball is likely to be hit.

Now, the batter will try to pull or push his grounder through short, the unprotected territory. If the battery happens to cross him with a pitchout the batter must always protect the base runner, if possible, by fouling the ball, even if he has to throw his bat at it, provided the runner has not such a break in his favor as to merit belief that he will be able to steal successfully.

Signal System Is Simple.

You must not get the idea that the signal system involves any great complication of signs. It is simplicity itself. There are just four battery signs —one for a curve ball, one for a fast ball, one for a pitchout and another for a toss to a baseman to catch a "sleeper."

All the signals the stands ever notice are those employed by the battery and they don't get those, for the catcher conceals them always. The offensive signs are given by manager, coacher, batter and base runner in such a fashion that no one but his teammates are a bit the wiser. A player wipes his shirt breast with his knuckles. That may be the office for a hit and run or any one of half a dozen other plays. The same with scratching his head, uttering some phrase, squatting in a certain position, shifting his hands or feet. The batter taps the plate with his bat a couple of times, puts dust on his hands or draws a line in the dirt. These actions may or may not be signals. The clever players are the ones that so mask their signs as to keep the opposition always in doubt.

CHINA SENDS YOUNG STUDENTS TO AMERICA.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 31.—The first women students ever sent by the Chinese government to the United States to receive university educations are Miss Y. T. Law and Miss F. Y. Lieu, who arrived on the steamer Minnesota. Traveling with these young ladies are twenty-seven young men who will enter universities in the Eastern states.

With few exceptions the students are graduates of the Canton Christian college, and were selected after competitive examinations. They are being educated at the expense of the new republic.

Miss Law will enter Mount Holyoke university and Miss Lieu will study medicine at Ann Arbor, Mich.

The young men will be distributed among the universities of Yale, Harvard, Johns Hopkins, Cornell, Illinois and Princeton.

AUTOMOBILES

EXPORTS ARE ON INCREASE

Thirty Millions Worth of American Cars Sent Abroad in 1912.

Ten Years Ago Automobiles Exported Amounted to Less Than $1,000,000.

Thirty million dollars' worth of American automobiles found markets abroad last year, against less than $1,000,000 worth ten years ago. Figures just completed by the division of statistics of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce show that the exports of automobiles to foreign countries in the fiscal year 1912 were valued at $21,550,000, and of parts thereof, including tires, $6,750,000.

If to this were added the shipments to Hawaii and Porto Rico, we get for the year's sales of American automobiles outside of continental United States is around $30,000,000, since the value of automobiles and parts thereof sent to Porto Rico was nearly a million dollars and to the Hawaiian islands a little over a million dollars. The total number of machines exported to foreign countries was 21,757, valued at $21,550,139, averaging slightly less than $1,000 each; while those to the noncontiguous territory were higher, averaging $1,600 each.

The export price of American automobiles in 1912 averaged less than in any earlier year in the history of the export trade. The average for 1912, dividing the total number of machines exported into stated value, was $990 each, against $1,100 in 1911, $1,380 in 1910, $1,700 in 1909, and $1,880 in 1908.

On the import side, the automobiles imported last year amounted to only about $2,000,000 in value, against more than $4,000,000 in 1907. The average import value of the automobiles brought into the country last year was $2,216 each, against $2,128 in 1911, $1,936 in 1910, $1,788 in 1909, and $2,392 in 1908. Thus the export price of American machines has fallen from $1,880 in 1908 to $990 in 1912, while the import price of foreign automobiles entering the country has only fallen from $2,392 in 1908 to $2,216 in 1912, the reduction in price on the export side being 48 per cent, and on the import side but 8 per cent.

Even the remarkable growth in the exports of American automobiles noted above has not kept pace with the growth in production at home, since the census of 1900 showed the value of automobiles manufactured in the United States in 1899 at $4,748,000, while that of 1910 showed $249,202,000 as the value manufactured in 1909. The wages paid in the automobile industry, as shown by the census report, aggregated $1,321,000 in 1899 and $48,694,000 in 1909; the capital employed in the industry in 1899, $5,769,000 and in 1909, $173,837,000, and the number of wage earners employed, in 1899, 2,241, and in 1909, 75,721.

English-speaking people are the chief purchasers of American automobiles, of the 21,757 exported in 1912, 6,288 went to Canada, 5,716 to the United Kingdom, and 3,625 to Australia and New Zealand; the next largest number, 1,611, being credited to South America, while European countries other than the United Kingdom took 2,296.

Of the 963 automobiles imported into the country in the fiscal year 1912, 401 were from France, 188 from the United Kingdom, 181 from Italy, 116 from Germany, and 127 from all other countries.

"AMERICA FROM A TOURING CAR"

Automobiles Have Given Americans a Chance to See the Country.

"Thousands of Americans never knew their country until the advent of the motor car. Its Switzerlands, its Rhines, its Italian lakes, were sung only in the prose or verse of pioneers, who by wagon-trail, on horse, or in canoe had penetrated regions fair as Europe at her best can boast.

"From railway car window, the traveler might catch a mile-a-minute glimpse of mountain, valley or plain; but the spirit of discovery, the impulse to go into the back-country, to know its quaint byways, its hills and dales and babbling streams, came with the automobile."

Such is the introduction of the brochure entitled, "America From a Touring Car," which has just been issued by the Touring Club of America, Broadway at Seventy-sixth street, New York, containing interesting descriptions of the most popular touring sections of this country, including "Motor Trails of the Empire State," "New England as a Touring Ground," "Journeys Through Pennsylvania, New Jersey and the South," "Highways of the Middle West" and "Across the Rockies to the Golden Gate." Following these entertaining articles, which are from the pen of Foster Gilroy, is a description of the automobile blue books, also a history of the Touring Club of America, outlining the organization's activities, its purposes and objects and the many benefits to be derived through membership in this progressive body. The last chapter is given to the official appointments of the Touring Club of America, including hundreds of the leading hostelries and garages in America and Europe recommended to tourists in their travels. A list of the departments and branches of the touring club is also given, showing how the club has extended its activities until it is now represented by touring bureaus in more than a score of cities in the United States and a Canadian bureau at Montreal. Automobilists interested in this brochure may obtain copies upon application to the Touring Club of America, Broadway at Seventy-sixth street, New York.

OWNERS EASY ON DRIVERS

Odd Condition That Applies Only to One Branch of Employees.

Owners Tolerate Grumbling Over General Abuse of Machines.

It is a curiosity of the automobile that the average owner tolerates from his chauffeur actions that would mean instant dismissal of a clerk on the occasion of their first happening. If a man had in his regular business an employe who grumbled at the conditions of his work and who found fault with materials put in his hands the chances are he soon would lose his place, says the New York Sun.

The relation of the chauffeur to his employer is peculiar, because although he is a servant, by reason of his supposed mechanical knowledge he is a little higher grade servant than the coachman used to be. Then again, as there is nothing particularly humanizing in the association with automobiles, the chauffeur never began by being on the same plane with his owner, as was the case with the driver of horses. It probably grew out of the fact that the owner or employer knew as much about horses or about their liability to injury as the driver.

He may not have been an expert veterinary or a farrier, but in any event he knew that a horse can be driven thus and so far, and that if the horse were sick it would manifest itself in certain signs, and that generally the science of the horse was not quite as complex as that of the early automobile. Because of the somewhat general lack of information on the part of the owner in those days the chauffeur was able to obtain an ascendancy over him, sometimes based on bluff as much as anything.

At any event from this grew the present conditions and matters have progressed so far that a great many men seem willing to put up with nearly anything from their mechanical servants on the rather poor ground that "if he is bad there are probably others much worse and if I change I might get a worse one."

Of course, the chauffeur does not work the same kind of hours as the old coachman did, because there were very evident limitations to the number of hours a horse might work and even if there were several pairs of horses to be had, it was not the custom to take extended drives, beginning early in the morning and lasting until late at night. Even on city service there was a fairly definite limit of hours that the coachman might be expected to work, and it could not be kept up day after day, because the horses simply could not stand such extended periods of service.

With the automobile, however, the matter is entirely different. An automobile can do at least ten times the amount of running that the horses could do and do it day after day, long after the horse had passed away. It is not a difficult thing to keep an automobile running, or at least so it seems, especially in the winter on city surfaces, and the chauffeur is able to and does work anywhere from twelve to fourteen hours a day. Therefore, it comes about that there is a decided difference in the relation between owner and chauffeur from what there was between the employer and his coachman.

One case comes to mind which is really typical of the relation between some owners and some chauffeurs, although it may seem to some persons exaggerated. A man bought a car of a certain type which cost $4,500. The chauffeur, who had done fairly satisfactory work on a much cheaper car, was continued on the new job. One of the chief reasons why he had appeared so satisfactory on the other job was that he was willing to work longer hours than an exceedingly disobligingly earlier chauffeur who had been on that car. Furthermore, although the cheaper car seemed to be falling to pieces he had managed to keep it running. Especially by contrast did he appear more desirable than the first man.

However, not long after the bigger and better car was turned over to him things began to happen to it. Some were small things that necessitated trips to the shop and only a very elastic interpretation of the year guarantee by the agents saved a good bit of money to the employer. Then he discovered that one day the man had taken the car out without permission, and, although he lied most sturdily, it was proved against him. In any other business the man who did a thing that was positively illegal and lied about it to cover himself up certainly would not last long.

Not only that, but this driver also was found to have been guilty of knocking down a small boy at play in the street, which happening he did not at all report to his owner, and which came to him only through a newspaper friend, who had seen the police slip on it. The injury not being serious enough and the owner not being of any particular prominence, the item therefore did not reach print.

This also was vigorously denied by the chauffeur, who said that he was nowhere in the neighborhood and that some one must have used his name and number and his owner's name and address. Later on it became clear that he had been guilty of this act, but in spite of that he was allowed to remain on the job.

When the family went away for the summer the car was taken along and installed in a temporary garage in the back of the summer house. There its condition speedily became worse. It suffered from lack of washing and polishing and more small matters were constantly going wrong. Careless driving resulted in breaking of springs and then the brakes got out of adjustment and the chauffeur seemed to be unable to fix them up. Constant trouble with his air pressure showed that he was not acquainted with this, although he had driven a foreign car which used the air pressure, with which he said he was thoroughly familiar.

Later on he became considerably less obliging and—never very neat in his personal habits—he lapsed considerably further back when he reached the country. Yet in spite of this his present employer fights those who say that the boy ought to be discharged, as he is ruining the car, and says, "Well, if I did fire him I might get somebody worse."

Here is a chauffeur who had driven cars for a number of years and yet did not know enough to put the car up a slight grade without letting the engine pound. He speaks ill of the machine and says that it is a very bad car and that all the particular cars of this make are particularly bad and that he has a terrible time to keep it running. It is a characteristic of inefficient chauffeurs that they blame on the builders and makers of the car the results of their own incompetence.

Automobile Polo Now.

What is thought to be the first automobile polo game ever played was staged near Wichita, Kan., one day last week, four stripped automobiles and eight men taking part. An ordinary basket ball was driven back and forth in a field, the object being to drive it between goal posts sixty feet apart.

The game was played in three ten-minute periods and ended with a tie score of 1 to 1. One automobile turned a complete somersault in the air on a sharp turn, but was righted and finished the game. No one was injured.

Griff Jones Knocked Out.

New York, Aug. 31.—Joe Jeannette knocked out Griff Jones of Utica in the second round of a scheduled 10-round contest at the Atlantic Athletic club last night. This is the fourth successive bout in which Jeannette made his opponent take the count in the second round.

Fitwells and Proctor.

The strong Fitwell team of this city, with all of the star players in the lineup and probably in the best condition of the season, will go to Proctor for games tomorrow and Monday. The members of the Duluth team are confident of taking both games, though Proctor has one of the best teams in the history of the railroad village.

Weddings

The wedding of Miss Maude L. Clymer and George W. Owen took place Thursday evening at the home of the bride's sister Mrs. John Brown, Jr., 1107 East Second street. It was a pretty home affair, Rev. Edward Sayles, pastor of the First Baptist church, performing the ceremony at 8:30 o'clock in the presence of friends and relatives.

The Lohengrin wedding march was played by Miss Alice Holen of Stillwater, Minn., and the bride had as her bridesmaid, Miss Gertrude Schiller. Percy Dovey attended Mr. Owen as best man.

The bride wore a pretty gown of white crepe brilliant, made over white messaline, with trimmings of shadow lace and pearls. Her bouquet was of bride's roses and white sweet peas. Miss Schiller wore a gown of apricot voile over white messaline and carried a bouquet of pink Kilarney roses and white sweet peas.

The living rooms were effectively decorated in pink and white, asters and sweet peas being arranged with a background of palms and ferns.

The dining room was in yellow and green, golden glow being the flower used with ferns. The bride's cake with a large yellow maline butterfly on the top formed the centerpiece for the dining room table with small glass candlesticks tied with yellow maline bows grouped around it. Asparagus ferns entwined about the cake and candles added to the effect.

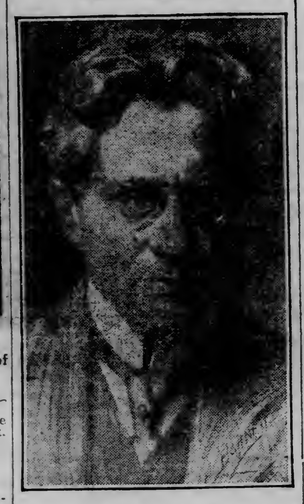
SOME NOTABLE MUSICAL ATTRACTIONS BOOKED FOR COMING DULUTH SEASON

ALICE NIELSEN.

ADELINE GENEE.



WALTER H. ROTHWELL,
Conductor of St. Paul Symphony Orchestra.

ALICE ZEPPILLI,
With "The Secret of Suzanne."

THE exquisite grace of one of the greatest dancers of her time, the newest novelty in grand opera, an act of a sparking old opera bouffe and symphony concerts, constitute the program most interesting and attractive, which Horace W. Reyner announces to the city in behalf of the musical committee, Stephen H. Jones, T. W. Hugo and Mr. Reyner.

Great interest will, of course, center in Adeline Genee, who will come to Duluth in February. This world famed dancer has had the plaudits of two hemispheres in her art, which is unique and distinctive, exquisite in its charm and beauty. Genee is now in London, where she is duplicating the success of her former seasons. Her American appearances have heretofore been confined to the East. Her first appearance in America will be in New York Dec. 3, and her programs as outlined promise rare delight. She will present French ballets and old time dances in the costumes and settings of the period. Genee will be accompanied by her own company and symphony orchestra and director.

"The melodies of "The Secret of Susanne," last season established this little operatic gem most permanetly in the hearts and minds and on the lips of opera lovers. The opera will be presented at the Lyceum in this course early in December, exactly as it was offered by the Chicago Grand Opera company last season. So popular did it become after its premiere that it was presented thirteen times during the season. The Secret of Susanne" is by Wolf Ferrani and will be presented in Duluth by Andreas Dippel, who promises other of his attractions in future seasons if his first essay in this territory warrants his efforts. The opera is exquisite. Of it the judicial and careful New York Sun wrote last season: "The whole score bubbles with lively spirits and the flood of unaffected yet fresh and charming melody is opulent. The principal duet for husband and wife is a real gem and the love theme which is first given out by a piano supposed to be played by the countess sounds as if it might delight given by the music may easily be imagined. In addition to its melodic charm, it possesses the true comic spirit."

The Duluth performance will be exactly as presented in Chicago during the season by the Grand Opera company. In passing it may be remarked that Susanne's secret was the smoking of a cigarette which she concealed from her husband, who, of course, thought a masculine admirer had left in his wake the odor of the tobacco.

And in contrast to this newest novelty in the grand opera world will be an act from "The Barber of Seville," as one writer on opera has called "surely the most sparking opera bouffe ever written, if not the greatest." This old opera, produced for the first time nearly 100 years ago, will be presented by Alice Nielsen and members of the Boston Grand Opera company. Miss Nielsen and members of the company presented the first concert in the course last season, one of the best enjoyed concerts ever presented in Duluth. Miss Nielsen was again engaged for the opening concert of the course at the request of many of her admirers. The act from "The Barber of Seville" will be given in costume by Miss Nielsen and the following members of the Boston opera: Signor Alfredo Ramella, solo tenor; Signor Rodolfo Fornari, solo baritone; Signor Luigi Travecchia, solo basso; Signor Jose Mardones, solo basso, and Signor Cesare Clandestini and Mlle. Jeska Swartz. This concert will be presented Tuesday evening, Oct. 22. The act from the opera will constitute but a part of the program and operatic numbers will complete the evening's concert.

The last number of the series will be two concerts by the St. Paul symphony orchestra, with Walter Rothwell conducting. Mr. Rothwell is now in Europe gathering material for his season's work and a splendid outline is being prepared. These concerts will be the only orchestral concerts to be given in Duluth during the year. The spring festival will not be given, as in former years.

As in past years the series of five concerts will be arranged on course tickets, for which there will be a material reduction to advance subscribers. Subscribers for the course will have the same seats for the series of concerts.

OBSERVATIONS

By PEGGY PEABODY

Maintaining the Marriage Equation.

Today one sees an occasional woman who seems inferior to her husband, both from the standpoint of mental attainments and her ability to progress socially with him. Thankfully, let it be said, the space separating husbands and wives in these respects is not as apparent as it was in days gone by. Woman, if she is not making equal strides with man, is at least keeping close to his heels and can, save in the exceptional cases, make a comfortable showing of common sense and of acquaintance with the requirements of life.

In the family circle there is no more pitiful and deplorable sight than that offered by the man who has outdistanced his wife mentally and socially, unless it is the woman who feels herself superior to the man she married. When a woman sets out to make her superiority known, the husband's position before people is one that makes the onlooker ache with compassion and discomfort. However, women, as a usual thing, accept their husband's lack of culture and ignorance of everything except his work, with good grace and cover his shortcomings as best they may.

One rarely hears of a woman giving her husband's ignorance and uncouth manners as an excuse for a separation and divorce. Yet the old-fashioned notions of a good wife, and her inability or her refusal to take up with new and fashionable ideas have many times been the acknowledged reason why men old enough to know better have separated from their life companions of many years.

Surely, neither a husband nor a wife who has been dutiful and honest and loving should be side-tracked for some one who, having the veneer they lack, is at the same time devoid of either the heart or the inclination to accomplish all that the less brilliant one has, in contributing a thousand uncounted and unnoted aids to the success of the other.

The woman who is backward is a commoner sight than the man, perhaps because men keep abreast of the times more easily and more naturally than women do, and because women have the decency not to parade a husband's defects before the public. But if women lag behind their lords and masters, they are quite alive to their inferiority, as a usual thing, and if they were not made to feel their ignorance there are few but would attempt to pull themselves up beside their husbands.

There is a way to accomplish this. Encouragement and guidance from those who have attained the poise of conscious breeding, and reading and observation, with a mind open and ready to embrace new thoughts and new things, will in due time "bring out" any reasonably backward woman and put her on a plane of social equality with her husband.

CLUBS AND MUSICAL

FAMOUS VIOLINIST WILL PLAY IN DULUTH

THE coming of Arthur Hartmann, the distinguished Hungarian violinist, to Duluth on Tuesday evening, Sept 10, is an event of more than ordinary interest in musical circles, for Mr. Hartmann is counted as one of the finest violinists of the day. He has won wide reputation for artistic work, both as an interpreter of the best in music and as a composer as well.

Several of his songs were heard here, sung by Charles W. Clark last season before the Matinee musicale, delighting a large audience of music lovers.

Of Mr. Hartmann the Boston Journal said: "Here is a violinist who has something to say. He is no mere fiddler with a highly developed technique, no stolid and too classical man with the fixed idea of teaching the world something. Hartmann plays with the fire and abandon of a hot individuality, yet he is authoritative, musicianly, impressive. His tone is broad and mildnutely beautiful by turns, his technique dazzling, yet seemingly simple in the accomplishment."

Philip Hale of the Boston Herald writes: "Mr. Hartmann is a born virtuoso. Well trained and now experienced he gives pleasure in works of the modern romantic school as an interpreter of the romanticism of Bach, for Bach was romantic even in his own day, when it was the fashion for musicians to think, breathe and have their being in formal counterpoint. Mr. Hartmann's tone is both broad and tender. He has brilliance and warmth. He sings a melody frankly and with charm. He accomplishes a tour de force with becoming ease."

Other eminent critics have given Mr. Hartmann as high praise in his art as have these two writers and Duluthians have a treat in store for them in his concert, which will be given under the management of Ernest Lachmund.

Theosophical Society.

The regular business meeting of the Duluth Theosophical society will be held Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the Burgess block, 310 West First street. The study of the "Composite Man" will be continued. Study classes open to the public will be commenced at an early date.

Meeting Postponed.

The meeting of the Linnaea society, which was to have been held next Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. H. Frigraeus, 4719 Pitt street, Lakeside, has been postponed for one week until Tuesday, Sept. 10.

Auxiliary Meeting.

The September meeting of the Woman's auxiliary of St. Paul's Episcopal church will be held Friday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock at the home of Mrs. A. Evered, 125 East Third street. The topic for the afternoon will be "Africa," with Mrs. W. C. Colbrath and Mrs. E. J. Bardswell as leaders.

Miss Frances Pullar, formerly physical director of the local Young Woman's Christian association, has been a guest at the local building all week. She has been entertained at a number of informal social affairs during her stay here. She left yesterday for the East.

Sunday School Workers.

The Duluth Elementary Union of Sunday School Workers will meet Tuesday evening at the First M. E. church at 8 o'clock. Rev. Ray Hunt will lead the discussion on the evening's topic, "Social Side of Sunday School Work" and there will be special music. Miss Frieda Giles will give a report of the recent convention held at Two Harbors.

Woman and Culture.

The lawyer may see no deeper than his law books, and the chemist sees no further than the windows of his laboratory, and they may do their work well, writes Olive Schreiner in an exchange. But the woman who does woman's work needs a many-sided, multiform culture; the heights and depths of human life must not be beyond the reach of her vision; she must have knowledge of men and things in many states, a wide catholicity of sympathy, the strength that springs from knowledge and the magnanimity which springs from strength. We bear the world and we make it. The souls of little children are marvelously delicate and tender things, and keep forever the shadow that falls first on them, and that is the mother's, or at best a woman's. There was never a great man who had not a great mother; it is hardly an exaggeration. The first six years of our life makes us; all that is added later is veneer; and yet some say if a woman can cook a dinner or dress herself well she has enough culture.

Worth Knowing.

New kid gloves will be much more easy to put on for the first time if placed between the folds of a damp towel an hour before required. The damp stretches the kid so that the required shape is obtained without splitting, says an exchange.

Scorch marks on linen may be removed by rubbing with a fresh-cut onion, the garment being soaked in cold water after.

Hang woolens out on the line dripping wet, without wringing them at all. If dried in this way they will not shrink.

Before pouring hot fruit into a glass dish or jar, put it on a wet cloth. This will keep the glass from cracking.

To prevent milk from curdling, add a good pinch of carbonate of soda to each quart before putting it on to boil.

PRESIDENT'S DAY WILL OPEN SEASON FOR MATINEE MUSICALE

CORINNE RIDER-KELSEY.

CLAUDE CUNNINGHAM.

PRESIDENT'S DAY, Oct 7, will see the opening of the Matinee Musicale work for the year. Fourteen regular programs are now being arranged by the program committee under the direction of Mrs. J. N. McKindley, musical director of the club, and each program will be featured by an ensemble number by the best talent in the city.

Three artists' recitals will as usual add interest to the work, the Flonzaley String Quartet being the first attraction of the season. This group of artists will give their recital on Monday evening, Nov. 18, and as they were heard here last season an enthusiastic welcome is assured for them.

Mme. Corinne Rider-Kelsey and Claude Cunningham on Jan. 2 in joint recital will give the second artists' program. These two artists have been touring together now for two seasons, and their duet work is particularly fine. Mme. Corinne Rider-Kelsey is an eminent American soprano, who has won great distinction, both in her own country and in Europe, and Claude Cunningham is one of America's foremost baritones, who has won wide honors by his singing.

There are several other features of general interest in the year's program of this club.

Mrs. George S. Richards, president of the club, will lead the program to be given on president's day, when the assembling members will have the opportunity of greeting her especially.

Some of the special programs for the year already arranged are: A two-piano recital by Mrs. John A. Stephenson and Mrs. Millen will be given on Oct. 21; the Reciprocity program by the Thursday Musicale of Minneapolis, Dec. 2; Dudley Buck's Christmas cantata, Dec. 11; and "The Magi King" for organ; the Schubert club of St. Paul reciprocity program, Feb. 10; special Lenten program at the Endion M. E. church, March 24. Two formal programs by the student members at the Y. W. C. A. on Dec. 9 and March 3; a midwinter "Students' Frolic," with picnic lunch, vaudeville stunts, giving an opportunity for the younger members to become acquainted and interested in the work; and the work of the high school orchestra under Dwight Hiestand, will be featured and will appear before the club several times during the year.

The members of the club are enthusiastic and anticipate a pleasurable year which they feel will be a "season rich in opportunity" as one member expressed it.

Sunday Services in Duluth Churches

Many of the services held in the Duluth churches, as well as in churches in other cities in many parts of the country tomorrow, will be in recognition of Woman Suffrage Sunday and Labor Sunday.

For years both of these movements, that of giving votes to women and that of elevating the condition of the laborer by organization, have been the topics on which ministers of many churches have been accustomed to speak on the Sunday preceding Labor day.

Dr. Mary McCoy, one of the principal woman suffrage leaders of Duluth and of the state as well, said today that it was desirable to have Woman Suffrage Sunday fall on a different day from Labor Sunday, for under present arrangements the attention of ministers must be divided between the two movements on that day. Accordingly, at the next convention of the Minnesota Woman Suffrage association, to be held in Minneapolis on Thursday and Friday of next week, she will introduce a resolution to name the Sunday following Labor Sunday as Woman Suffrage Sunday.

Many of the Duluth ministers have made arrangements to speak tomorrow on both topics, dividing their time between them.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Fine ginghams and percales will emerge from the tub with the gloss and dressing of new material if dipped in sweet milk instead of starch, says the Chicago News.

• • •

To keep towels with colored borders pretty, do not allow them to become badly soiled. Rub gently with a white soap. Rinse in warm water and then in cold water. Wash quickly and never soak or boil them.

• • •

When counting the wash make out two lines, one for the washer woman and one for yourself. A book may be purchased with carbon paper in it such as clerks use in the stores. Write the list once and the other will be traced.

• • •

Carpets, if well sprinkled with salt and then wiped with cloth squeezed out of warm water containing a spoonful of spirits of turpentine to every quart, will look bright and new and will not be troubled with moths and buffalo bugs.

• • •

If you wish to have your table linen look nicely do not put it through the wringer, as it makes creases that will not come out even if the cloth is ironed when very damp. By rinsing very thoroughly it looks better even if not wrung very dry. Just try it and see. In fact, any clothes that you wish to look very nicely when ironed you will find come out a great deal better if wrung by hand.

• • •

To make good use of wooden bedsteads that have been discarded for modern brass beds, have artistic hall benches made out of them, as follows: Have the side rails sawed in half lengthwise, the legs on the headboard shortened so that the headboard can be used for back of bench, the footboard sawed in two to form the arms. The arms are to be nailed or screwed to the back with narrow strips on each side to make them secure. The split side rail faces the front of the seat and the seat proper is made of a plank—the only piece of wood needed to complete this piece of furniture. With cushions on the seat an excellent hall seat may be obtained from an old bed at little cost.

WHITE MOUNTAIN CAKE.

An exchange gives the following recipe for white mountain cake: Have ready the whites of six eggs, a scant three-quarters of a cupful of butter, two cupfuls of flour, one cupful and a quarter of powdered sugar and a teaspoon of baking powder mixed well with the flour. Beat the butter to a cream and rub it through the flour. Add a teaspoonful of extract. Whip the egg whites to a stiff froth and fold the sifted powdered sugar through them until the two are amalgamated. Add the lemon juice and mix the whole with the butter and flour, using an egg whisk instead of a spoon. Bake in a rather moderate oven, raising the heat gradually. Spread with frosting while the cake is still hot.

STAGELAND

AT THE LYCEUM

"The Prince of Tonight," one of the most pleasing and original musical comedies ever produced is coming to the Lyceum on Labor day, matinee and night. It is the work of Frank Adams and Will Hough. Most librettists who contribute their efforts in the making of musical comedies are sadly lacking in wit and originality. They frequently depend upon costuming of characters and the good natured audience to make mere stupidity pass for humor. The writers of the libertto of "The Prince of Tonight," have produced not only a very pretty plot with enough body to make it a pretty plan, with musical trimmings but have also written into the plot a good deal of rather exceptionally clever farce comedy. Resting confidence upon the merit of their work they have refrained from introducing eccentric characters. The play of wit and humor is between persons who wear conventional garments, and are ordinary human beings. Because of the rarity of anything but the poorest of low comedy in most musical plays, the patrons of the theater should feel a debt of gratitude for Mr. Adams and Mr. Hough for turning out the book for "The Prince of Tonight."

The scenes are laid at Palm Beach, Florida. There is a transition scene of nymphs and blue and silver ballets. An act of moon witchery and fairy lore follows while the last act reconciles reality with Fairyland. The music is by Joseph E. Howard, embracing his very best compositions, the beautiful stage pictures are something that have rarely been equalled in the coloring and electrical effects, the costuming is attractive and the whole show is claimed to be one brilliant affair.

Arrangements have been completed for a return engagement at the Lyceum of Max Bloom in "The Sunny Side of Broadway" next Tuesday and Wednesday. There will be three performances a day at 2:30, 8:00 and 9:30 and the prices will be 10, 20 and 30 cents. Mr. Bloom's original engagement was for two days, but owing to the big demand for a return date he decided to play two extra days in Duluth. "The Sunny Side of Broadway" was one of the most successful musical comedies that ever toured the country and it has proven to be the most successful of the tabloid musical comedies. Mr. Bloom has surrounded himself with a very capable cast and chorus and has interpolated several clever ideas into the action of the piece, the great rainstorm scene and the funny dancing horse being two principal novelties.

* * *

The most important dramatic offering of the current theatrical season will be the engagement of George Broadhurst's greatest play "Bought and Paid For," which William A. Brady (Ltd.) will present at the Lyceum theater one week commencing Sept. 8. The play is one of unmistakable quality and has long since passed its 400th performance in New York City and judging from the hundreds of seat reservations for six weeks in advance, no doubt the run of the play will extend well into 1913.

* * *

The coolest crook and the most blase lover in the whole world are to be found in the cast of "Officer 666," Augustin MacHugh's farce, which is booked for a hearing in this city at the Lyceum in November.

The crook calmly assumes the name and occupies the house of the absent millionaire and nonchalantly proceeds to rifle the residence of its valuable paintings, while the lover, who is mistaken by the police for the picture thief they are trailing, gets his wrists ornamented with a pair of steel handcuffs, and thus manacled proposes and is accepted by the divinity upon whom his choice has fallen.

"Officer 666" is an unusual play. It makes you laugh. It keeps you guessing while it administers some delightful surprises in the way of unexpected thrills that are particularly pleasant to receive and agreeable to recall.

AT THE ORPHEUM

The first of the Orpheum's big attractions for the season will headline next week's bill, when Miss Amelia Bingham and her company will be seen at the Duluth theater.

The second week of the present season promises to set a new high water mark for the Duluth Orpheum, for not only will Miss Bingham's first appearance in Duluth be a notable event in social and dramatic circles, but the remainder of the bill is above the ordinary.

During the present week, Miss Bingham has been appearing at the Minneapolis Orpheum, and Manager Raymond, who was in the city Thursday, stated that it was one of the most interesting and artistic acts he had ever presented in the Minneapolis theater.

Miss Bingham during her career on the American stage has been identified with some of the most brilliant successes of past years and her productions have always been characterized by sincere and admirable interest in the betterment of the stage.

For her excursion into vaudeville, an excursion by the way which has been most gladly undertaken by the brilliant stars of the world's stage, Miss Bingham has chosen "Big Moments From Great Plays," and during her act she presents the crucial moment from several famous plays in which she has won unstinted favor. In her repertoire Miss Bingham numbers twenty plays, including Dardow's great play, "Fedora," "Madame Sans Gene," "The Climbers," "La Tosca," and "A Modern Lady Godiva," the latter being a play from her own pen. The engagement of Miss Bingham promises to be one of the most interesting of the season. In Miss Bingham's support are Lloyd Graham, Miss Lyle Leigh and Barrington Lovett.

A minstrelsy act will be presented on the bill by Frank Morrell, known as "The California Boy," and "That Tenor," the latter title he earned from his association with the organization known as "That Quartet," among the lovers of vaudeville. Mr. Morrell has had an interesting experience and the fact that he is able to entertain in minstrel style without the usual interlocutor and company speaks volumes for his ability. Funny stories, songs and an attractive personality make up this tenor's stock in trade and he has no difficulty in creating a demand for his particular brand of entertainment.

"Attorney at Music," is the name of a musical skit. An attorney summons his associate and stenographer to his home to work out the details of a pending case. This, however, is as far as the dry legal features go for everything in the room produces music, the desk, the revolving bookcase, the typewriter, even the legal papers are made to burst into melody. The methods of eliciting music are productive of much quiet comedy. Associated with Mr. Weston are Nye Reives, Max Hoen, Franklyn Mae and Miss Louise Nott.

Mimicry is always loved by vaudeville patrons, and Miss Edna Luby is a capable and attractive young mimic. Miss Luby bears a remarkable resemblance to Miss Edna May and has often been mistaken for her. She has had stage experience in several of the Frohman companies and has appeared in musical comedy. Her impersonations are delicately suggested and the mannerisms and peculiarities of prominent players are delightfully suggested in arch mannerisms, a turn of speech or little accentuated personalities that the public itself has hardly reasoned out.

"Just Two Girls" is the modest claim of the Misses Muriel and Frances and the charm of youthfulness and a clever ability as comediennes have proved quite enough for vaudeville audiences, and these girls have presented most successfully an act of delightful patter and musical numbers, a combination that pleases invariably.

Muscular achievements are featured in the last two acts of next week's bill. The Azard brothers will present a series of equilibrist feats done with grace and an ease of execution that are the marvel of the audiences, and the Flying Russells will appear in a double trapeze act that is accomplished with lightning-like rapidity. The bill entire should please to the utmost the vaudeville public.

The Orpheum concert orchestra and the kinodrome will complete the bill, which will continue all week with a daily matinee.

* * *

Probably the most important of all vaudeville events will be Miss Ethel Barrymore's tour by special arrangement with Charles Frohman. Miss Barrymore will early in September begin a twelve weeks' tour, which will include an equal number of Orpheum circuit theaters.

* * *

Adrienne Augarde, the delightful English comedienne who originated and is now playing the title role in "The Rose Maid", will on Sept. 2, at Chicago, begin a tour of the Orpheum circuit. Her vehicle is a duologue called "Dick's Sister." Miss Augarde is best remembered in America through her delightful portrayals in "The Duchess of Dansy," "The Dollar Princess" and "Peggy Machree."

* * *

One of the three featured players in Jesse Lasky's tabloid musical comedy, "The Antique Girl," is Miss Maud Earl. Miss Earl will probably be recalled over the Orpheum circuit as John Steger's leading woman and as prima donna of Gus Edwards' "School Days." She is a sister of Virginia Earl, but deserves recognition on her own merits.

* * *

The concert stage has yielded another of its celebrities to the Orpheum circuit. Elsa Ruegger, the renowned Belgian cellist, is creating a positive furore by the exquisitiveness of her music. She is assisted by Edmond Lichenstein, a conductor of note.

* * *

Baseball fans will be particularly interested in the announcement that Slivers, the famous clown, will shortly be seen over the Orpheum circuit by his pantomimic gem, "At the Ball." Slivers' delightful comedy appeals to everybody, but to enthusiasts of the great American game, it is positively irresistible.

AT THE EMPRESS

Although some strong vaudeville and picture programs have been presented at the Empress during the past few months, the show which comes to the popular Sullivan & Considine playhouse for the week commencing Sunday matinee is expected to eclipse any yet presented at that popular theater.

As a special feature for the week, the management has secured the services of Roland Travers, master magician and illusionist. Mr. Travers needs no introduction to the theater-going public of this city as he has appeared here on several occasions and each time has met with popular approval, but during his coming engagement he promises to introduce several brand new illusions that have never been presented in this city and which have mystified thousands in the larger cities of the East. Each of his illusions is original with himself and all are presented in a clever and finished manner, in fact, so wonderful are they that one is tempted to believe Mr. Travers possessed of supernatural powers. While claiming nothing of the sort, he accomplishes some feats that really border on the supernatural. In addition to his illusions, Mr. Travers will introduce several feats in card manipulating that are said to be extremely clever, and which add greatly to the pleasing effect of his portion of the entertainment. The Milwaukee Sentinel said of his act: "Roland Travers, illusionist, had three large audiences at the Empress, yesterday, completely mystified. This wonderful gentleman accomplishes feats that are beyond the power of belief and each is executed with an ease that is remarkable. None of the illusions presented by Travers has ever been presented in this city and it is well worth a visit to the Empress to witness this one attraction alone."

The La Favorita Duo will offer a vocal interlude that vaudevillians love to speak of as "classy." These clever artists make no pretense in presenting their offering which consists of songs, solos and duets, charmingly sung. The young lady appearing with this duo is said to have a most charming manner, an abundance of magnetism and a beautiful soprano voice, while her partner is an excellent baritone soloist and renders a number of beautiful ballads. The voices blend beautifully and their mannerisms add to the pleasing effect of the offering. The following is a recent notice from the New York Clipper: "The La Favorita Duo showed that good singing is appreciated. Singing only standard selections and avoiding the trashy numbers of recent popularity, they were a sure fire hit and scored heavily at each performance yesterday."

A novel and entertaining spot on next week's program will be the offering of Miss Dixie De Vere, the singing violinist. This is an attraction which should appeal strongly to the lovers of high-class entertainment. Miss De Vere has been doubly blessed, in that not only is she an accomplished violinist, but a talented singer as well. This charming young miss is a product of the Boston Conservatory of Music, where she received a thorough musical education, after which she went abroad and studied for several years under Europe's most famous masters. Miss De Vere offers several beautiful song numbers which she sings in a clear soprano voice, and at the same time accompanies them on her violin, and everywhere she has met with instant favor. Miss Dixie has just completed an engagement with one of the big vaudeville circuits of the East and was immediately booked for the season by the booking agents of the Sullivan & Considine circuit, who feel they have secured a prize for their patrons.

For the coming week the picture program is expected to prove a revelation to those who already are aware of the sterling worth of the pictures presented at the Empress each week. "The Danger Mark," by the Vitagraph company, is heralded as being one of the best dramatic pictures of recent months. It tells of a father's fight to secure enough money to pay for an operation whereby his little crippled daughter may be cured and when everything seems against him, he is placed in a position that enables him to capture a noted criminal and win the reward of $1,000 offered by the state. The action of this picture is gripping and commands interest from the start. The comedy offering for the week will be the Kalem release, "The Beauty Parlor of Stone Gulch." Tilly Temple loses her position in the Broadway Beauty parlor and decides to go West. Arriving at Stone Gulch, Tilly fixes up a room, distributes her cards and announces that a new establishment is open for business. A beauty parlor being something new to the wild and woolly West, business comes with a rush, and a bunch of shabby cowboys have the time of their lives. The ranch girls hearing of the big hit Tilly has made, become jealous and try to run Tilly out of town. They partially succeed but the cowboys induce Tilly to reopen her beauty parlors and a joke is played on the girls. How the ranch girls are cured of their jealousy is best explained by the picture. "The Convalescent," by the Lubin company, will be the third offering for the week. This film is said to be one of their best releases and features Arthur Johnson, that popular photoplay actor.

AMELIA BINGHAM,
At the Orpheum Next Week.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

Mendelssohn's "Elijah" is to be presented as music drama for the first time in America this fall. A year ago, in England the Moody-Manners Opera company produced this oratorio, arranged for the grand opera stage by Harrison Frewin. Theodore H. Bauer, the New York representative of the Boston Opera company, associated with S. K. Kronberg, are the promoters of the American production.

With the assistance of some prominent men and women who are interested in the advancement of music and drama, the Majestic Grand Opera company, Inc., has just signed contracts for the season of 1912-1913 with the following artists:

Gwilyn Miles, the most famous American "Elijah;" Bernard Fergos, Mme. Ester Adaberto, prima donna with the Metropolitan Opera company, season 1910; Mme. Hortense d'Arblay, dramatic soprano; Pilade Sinagra, tenor of the Grand Opera in St. Petersburg and Milan, who created the tenor role in the English version of "The Girl of the Golden West;" Sebastian Burnett, tenor, Komische Opera, Berlin; Miss Eva Era, contralto with the Grand Opera in Leipsic; Miss Marie Louise Rogers, contralto, Boston Opera company, and Arthuso Bovi, conductor.

The entire company of over 100 people will include a full symphony orchestra and a large chorus. In every respect the organization will be the most important and complete grand opera touring company in America. W. De Wagstaffe is preparing the dramatized version for this American production.

CHAOTIC CONDITION OF CHINA

State of Affairs Which Threatens Disintegration Becomes Worse and More Serious as Re-Establishment of Central Authority Is Delayed.

Peking, Aug. 31.—Not only between China proper and her dependencies, but also among the Chinese provinces themselves, conditions which threaten disintegration become more and more serious as the leaders of the Republican movement fail to reorganize the government and delay in re-establishing central authority. The chaotic condition of China is at present such as would cause widespread dangers, international as well as domestic, if the country were not so favorably isolated from the rest of the world and if the people were not of an exceedingly peaceful temperament. Their conflicts are primarily struggles with money and not with arms.

In the late revolution there were no battles in which more than a few thousand men were engaged and the fighting was generally of a feeble character. Bartering usually took the place of fighting and some of the surrenders of imperialist commanders were the result of monetary payments, while their loyalty might have been retained had the Manchus been able or willing to provide a greater number of silver taels.

The same means today, it is generally believed, would save China from her officials, who, with very few exceptions, are men who at one time or another also held office under the Manchus. Among these officials those who are honest suffer from the racial failing—lack of moral courage—and fear to accept the six-nation's loan with the requirement of foreign control, and the others are working up the national opposition because they desire no supervisor over their system of "squeezes."

Meanwhile Japanese consuls in Southern Manchuria and Russian consuls in Northern Manchuria and in the vast territories beyond the Gobi desert may impose their authority as they will, and the Chinese officials in those border countries can obtain but poor advice and little support from the cabinet in Peking, whose attention is concentrated on maintaining its precarious political position.

In Thibet, to whose sacred city the British have shown their ability to penetrate with a few hundred men, many of the Chinese garrisons have been defeated and driven out, even from Lhasa itself, though the soldiers of the Lamas are little more than an ill-armed rabble.

The deep-rooted prejudice against the foreigner and the fear of him seems to be the greatest factor continuing to hold together the provinces of China proper, which are jealous of one another and sectionally unfriendly. The national government, being afraid to contract a foreign loan and afraid to impose taxes or even in some provinces to collect those instituted by the Manchus, is unable to purchase authority beyond the walls of the capital. Such order as exists is maintained locally and is due chiefly to the peacefulness of the people.

But there is, apparently, no organized party with secession or a counter revolution in mind; nor is there any foreign pressure on the nation except in the so-called dependencies, over which the Chinese have held but nominal control for many years. Conditions in these dependencies affect only a few idealists and not the great uncomprehending Chinese masses.

INDIAN'S RIGHT WILL BE TESTED

Attorney of Indian Descent, Fined for Netting, to Attack Law.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Aug. 31.—The question whether an Indian has a right to hunt and fish, regardless of the state game laws, is about to be tested by John W. Carl, in the courts of this county, and the case will eventually go to the supreme court of the state and possibly the United States supreme court.

Carl is an Indian attorney of Mahnomen. His mother, whose name is May - zhuc - ke - kaush - e - quay, which means "A woman coming from above," is a member of the Chippewa tribe, now located on the White Earth reservation. He took his mother to the scenes of her girlhood and she set nets and caught some pike.

Is Arrested and Fined.

Some of the people living about the lake failed to appreciate the poetry in the situation, however, and notified the deputy game warden, J. H. Jones, of this city, that a party from the reservation was netting fish. The state law is strict on this subject and a warrant was sworn out for Carl. He appeared in justice court, was found guilty and fined $20 and costs, amounting in all to nearly $30.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Lieut. C. L. Potter, in charge of the government engineering corps at St. Paul, has been named to take charge of the Red river survey, according to word from Congressman Helgesen received at the Grand Forks Commercial club.

Aberdeen, S. D.—Ernest Erdell, a farmer near Ellendale, N. D., had his back broken and is paralyzed from the hips down as a result of a runaway while harvesting near Forbes. While he was riding on the binder the team became frightened and started off, dragging Erdell eighty rods.

Jamestown, N. D.—Frank Blevin, 50 years old, working in the threshing crew on the Wiese brothers farm, eighteen miles southwest of Jamestown, got a hand caught in the separator this week and the member was almost severed at the wrist. He was brought to a local hospital for treatment.

FITGER BREWING CO., OVER 30 YEARS IN DULUTH

MILL BEING OVERHAULED

Defects of Butte & Superior Concentrator to Be Remedied Soon.

New Company May Be Organized By C. A. Congdon and T. F. Cole.

Butte, Mont., Aug. 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Butte & Superior concentrator is being overhauled in accordance with the announcement made by D. C. Jackling, who is now the general manager of the company, and it is expected that within the next thirty days, the defects will be remedied. There were circulated all kinds of stories as to the wonderful results being attained, and while people connected with mining in this city knew many of the statements as to the results were not in exact accordance with the facts, persistent denials of anything being wrong were sent broadcast. There never was any doubt as to the quality and quanity of zinc ore to be found in the property of the Butte & Superior company, and the truth as to the results in treatment cannot do any permanent harm. Mr. Jackling and Chief Engineer Bradley of the Utah Copper company are both recognized as among the leading mining men of the West, and when Mr. Jackling announced that he hopes to have certain changes made, and the mill in operation again in a short time, everybody has full confidence in his statement.

It is stated that the recent decision to increase the capital stock of the Butte & Superior company is for the purpose of financing the Butte & London company. That there is a deal on of some kind in connection with the Butte & London, there is no doubt, but when Bruce McKelvie of Hayden, Stone & Co., was in the city a few weeks ago, he refused to say anything about the matter. He was in conference several times with persons largely interested in the company, and after he left it was announced that the Butte & Superior company would undertake the proposition of placing the Butte & London in a position to resume operations. The company has a small amount of money in the treasury and has a property which made a very fair showing, but the panic of 1907 compelled a close down, and since that time the machinery has been disposed of.

Butte-Ballaklava Suit.

The suit of the Anaconda Copper Mining company against the Butte-Ballaklava company is making slow progress in coming to trial, and up to the present time it is unknown whether it is to be heard before a judge of the district court of Butte or whether it will go to the federal court. Some time ago the Butte-Ballaklava company made an application to have the case heard before the federal judge, but after argument the judge of the district court in this city refused the petition. A few days ago the Butte-Ballaklava company made application to the federal court to have the case transferred to federal jurisdiction, taking exactly the same grounds as set forth before the district judge of this city. It is contented by the Butte-Ballaklava company that inasmuch as the company is organized under the laws of Arizona to have the case heard in the feferal court is nothing more than a constitutional right. When the company was organized Arizona was not a state, but soon after Arizona was admitted to statehood, the application of transfer was made. The federal judge has now got the matter under considertion.

May Be New Company.

Chester A. Congdon and Thomas F. Cole of Duluth have been deeded the Sphinx, Michigander and Cairn lode mining lode claims located in the northern section of the district and it is stated that in the very near future a company will be organized to operate the property.

Bullwhacker to Be Reopened.

The Bullwhacker mine is to be reopened according to the announcement of Patrick Clark, the principal owner and president, under conditions which will attract attention among mining men. The Bullwhacker is located in the eastern part of the district and has a shaft about 400 feet deep. It was closed down about five years ago, with the explanation that it could not be worked at a profit at the then price of copper. Now that copper is hovering around eighteen cents a pound, Mr. Clark has conceived an idea as to how to operate the property at a profit. The mining is to be done under what is known as the quarrying system, successfully used in the big porphyry mines of Utah. Through open cuts it has been determined that the main vain of the Bullwhacker has an average width of about 175 feet. On the surface there is a deposit of "wash" to a depth of from one to two feet, and this will be blasted and scooped up by steam shovels. The ore will be placed in cars and taken to the smelter, or the leaching plant, which Mr. Clark is to establish. This leaching plant will be established at once with a five-ton capacity, and it will be enlarged later should the necessity require. There is considerable of this stock held both in the East and West, and Mr. Clark's proposition to reopen the property under the condition stated above will be watched with interest.

Butte Central.

The machinery is being installed in the new concentrator building of the Butte Central Copper company. Supt. McConnell says that he expects to have the mill in operation by the end of September. In less than a week all the machinery will be on the ground and no time will be lost in putting it in place.

North Butte.

The North Butte company is in a better condition today than for several years. The lower levels of the mine are showing up very rich copper ore bodies with an unusually large percentage of silver. This is particularly true of the 1,800, 2,200 and 2,400-foot levels of the Snowball vein. From those levels the greater portion of the ore going to the smelter is being secured.

Barnes-King.

The Barnes-King company will start operations in the North Moccasin mine in the course of a few days. Preparations are now being made, and those who held on to the stock feel that a deal has been put through, which is going to eventually result in the stockholders getting back the money they invested. The North Moccasin is generally recognized as one of the richest gold properties in the West, and with the facilities possessed by the Barnes-King company for operating it cannot but prove to be a profitable investment.

Basin Reduction Works.

The LaFrance company, which is supposed to own the Basin Reduction works, has a small crew of men at work cleaning up the place and it looks as if some move is about to be made to place machinery in the buildings, but those who ought to be in a position to give informaation as to the future of the works are silent. There is a belief that the delay in the matter is occasioned by the trouble in the affairs of the Stewart company, and that if Heinze should win out, as there seems no doubt, the Lexington mine will be opened and the ore sent to the Basin works.

Clark's New Concentrator.

W. A. Clark will not have his concentrator ready for operations before next spring, unless there is some change in the present plans. Mr. Clark has secured all the necessary ground and has now got a force of men at work laying a pipe line from a point nearly a mile distant from the mill site for the purpose of supplying the necessary water. The delay in making a contract for the construction of the building is due to the fact that Mr. Clark is as yet undecided as to the process he will adopt in the treatment of the ore. Some time ago he made the statement that there was no question as to the amount of zinc ore in the Butte district but the great difficulty was getting a process which would separate the iron and admit of a profit. He is now in Europe for the purpose of further studying a German process under which 100 tons of ore from his Elm Orlu was treated some time ago. Should he be satisfied that the process is a satisfactory one, it may be that he will cable instructions to proceed with the erection of the concentrator at once.

DEVELOPMENT NORTH OF BUTTE

Capital From East and West Becomes Interested in Claims.

Butte, Mont., Aug. 31.—With a greater feeling of security and certainty of results than has existed since the boom days of 1906, capital is being attracted to Butte and the immediate future promises the development of mines which will add to the reputation of Butte as the greatest mining camp on earth.

The taking over of an extensive area of ground by the Butte & Superior company, immediately north and east of its original holdings, has created an increased interest in the northern section and claims which a few years ago could have been purchased for almost nothing, recently have been acquired at the expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars. A great deal of surface exploration work has been done in the territory lying north of the Butte & Bacorn ground for a distance of more than a mile, and it has been proved to the satisfaction of geologists and engineers that all of it is well mineralized and will develop important producers.

While Duluth capitalists were the first to realize the importance of this great area, Spokane capitalists have become active and have acquired heavy holdings. Particularly is this the case with the Butte Northern Mining company, which has been organized with Spokane capital, and which is now developing a group of ten claims located on Dixie gulch, about three-quarters of a mile north of the Great Northern horseshoe curve. Five of these claims are on the east side of the gulch and five on the west side. They are bounded on the north by the famous Dewey claim, which at slight depth has shown some high values in silver and copper, and by the properties of the Butte & Great Falls company. On the west is the Butte Consolidated property, and on the south is located the Butte & Bacorn property, consisting of 275 acres, which it is believed will again be in course of development within the next few months.

CALUMET & SONORA SUPERINTENDENT

W. H. Tangye Chosen By Dr. Weed to Succeed Charles Strachan.

Cananea, Mex., Aug. 31—W. H. Tangye has been chosen as the new superintendent of the Calumet & Sonora Mining company's property, two miles northwest of Cananea, succeeding Charles Strachan, who resigned last week. The change was announced by Dr. Walter Harvey Weed, the manager of the property, when he was here for a short time recently. Mr. Tangye comes from El Paso, but formerly has had charge of several large properties.

Just before Dr. Weed left for Kamloops, B. C., he announced that some arrangements for future work have been made. The most important change to be made at the property is the widenning of the shaft so as to permit the operation of two skips instead of only one, as at present. The work of raising the shaft from the 525 to the 400-foot level has been completed. That portion of the shaft is sufficiently large to accommodate two skips.

A new drift has been commenced on the 300-foot level. It will be run a distance of about 400 feet or more to the south for the purpose of cutting the ore body which is supposed to exist at that point. The ledge drops to the surface close to the shaft and it is expected that it will be reached on the 300-foot level within the distance mentioned in the foregoing.

The dry mill is operating steadily with one shift and recently a shipment of 15 per cent copper concentrates was made to the smelter of the Cananea Consolidated Copper company.

TUOLUMNE SINKS IN LEAN ZONE

Expected That Richer Veins Will Be Encountered Very Soon.

Butte, Mont., Aug. 31.—The Tuolumne Mining company is sinking its shaft from the 1,800 to the 2,000 or 2,200 as rapidly as possible and is now below the 1900-foot point. The Tuolumne has been mining in the lean zone on the 1,600 and 1,800 levels, and is rushing development in order to get into the secondary enrichment. Conditions in the Toulumne are characteristic of the hill mines. On the 1,400-foot level the Tuolumne ore was the richest ever mined in the Butte district running 15 to 18 per cent copper. On the 1,600 and 1,800 the grade dropped 3½ to 4½ per cent and the quantity decreased, although the vein itself has been growing larger with depth. Shipments at present are at the rate of about 35,000 tons a month. It is pretty certain that the limits of the lean ground will be reached at the 2,000 or 2,200, and it is also known that the Tuolumne has a good portion of the Jessie vein on which the North Butte made its recent big strike on the 2,400 level. The 2,400 of the North Butte is at the same depth as the 2,200 of the Tuolumne will be.

GHOSTS OF LONG JOHN SILVER AND HIS PIRATE CREW SOLD WITH TREASURE ISLAND

"Fifteen men on a dead man's chest;
Yo-ho, and a bottle of rum!
Drink and the devil had done for the rest;
Yo-ho, and a bottle of rum!"

SO SANG Capt. Flint, who taught the lines to Long John Silver, Billy Bones, Ben Gunn and the other gentlemen of fortune, who howled them in their alcoholic haze through the trees and among the rocks of Treasure island. We have the word of Robert Louis Stevenson that such was the case, and what man who ever was a boy will doubt one word of what Robert Louis Stevenson has said? Many such men will turn back to the old bookcase and blow the dust off the well thumbed copy of the book when they learn that Treasure Island has just been sold, says the New York Island.

In the articles of transfer it will not appear as Treasure island; it is officially known as Christmas island, but every one familiar with the lore of the South seas knows that the little isolated bit of land, "shaped, as you might say, like a fat dragon standing up," is the scene of Long John Silver's mutiny, and somewhere in the ravines or forests around the Spyglass are the bones of three pirates who were marooned when the Hispanola sailed away—that is, if Robert Louis Stevenson has told us truly.

Hills, valleys, forests, caves, tropical vegetation, beasts and all, the island has been sold to an English syndicate which values it for its production of copra. Copra is the dried kernel of the cocoanut from which a valuable oil is obtained, and the new purchasers expect to get many pieces of eight from their investment, although they have no such hopes of sudden wealth as had Squire Trelawney, Dr. Livesey and "Jim" Hawkins. The identity of the new owners is not announced. It might be hoped that they are not men of such pronounced commercial instincts as to have lost all the sentimental enthusiasm of boyhood, and that they will brush up on the history of the place before they make their first visit.

One can almost imagine them sailing around Skeleton island to the anchorage on the south, with the shade of John Silver standing behind the pilot, remarking: "Yes, sir, this is the spot, to be sure, and very prettily drawed out. Who might have done that, I wonder? The pirates were too ignorant, I reckon. Ay, here it is, 'Capt. Kidd's anchorage' — just the name my shipmate called it. There's a strong current runs along the south, and then away no'ard up the west coast. Right you was, sir, to haul your wind and keep the weather of the island. Leastways, if such was your intention as to enter and careen, and there ain't no better place for that in these waters."

One can almost imagine the boys grown tall clambering out on the narrow sand spit that incloses the anchorage just to see if there really was a large white stone which sheltered Ben Gunn's coracle, and trying the waters to see if there really is such a current as that which carried Jim in the little cockleshell up around the Cape of the Woods, there to find the Hispanola, unguided, stumbling along under her mainsail and two jibs, coming into the wind, standing in irons, then falling off on another tack and generally navigating like Israel Hands under a full cargo of rum.

Then, there is also Ben Gunn's cave to seek, and the immense hole under the tall tree on Spyglass shoulder, where the immense treasure was hidden and where two of the five mutineers got their final taste of lead from the muskets of Squire Trelawney and Dr. Livesey.

Christmas Island is near the equator, 3 deg. west and 18 deg. south of Honolulu. It is about 1,200 miles from Honolulu, the nearest civilized place of any importance, and a more isolated, remote fragment of the world would be difficult to imagine. Robert Louis Stevenson was careful to keep the exact bearings of Treasure Island from the public. The nearest he comes to locating it is in the words: "We had run up the trades to get the wind of the island we were after—I am not allowed to be more plain—and now we were running down for it with a bright lookout dav and night." And he thus describes the island itself:

"The doctor opened the seals with great care, and there fell out the map of an island, with latitude and longitude, soundings, names of hills and bays and inlets, and every particular that would be needed to bring a ship to a safe anchorage upon its shores. It was about nine miles long and five across, shaped, you might say, like a fat dragon standing up, and had two fine landlocked harbors and a hill in the center part marked 'The Spyglass.' There were several additions of a later date; but, above all, three crosses of red ink—two on the north part of the island, one in the southwest and, beside this last, in the same red ink and in a small, neat hand, very different from the captain's tottery characters, these words:—'Bulk of treasure here.' Over on the back the same hand had written this further information:—

"'Tall tree, Spyglass shoulder, bearing a point to the N. of N.N.E. Skeleton Island E.S.E. and by E. Ten feet. The bar silver is in the north cache; you can find it by the trend of the east hummock, ten fathoms south of the black crag with the face on it. The arms are easy found, in the sandhill, N. point of north inlet cape, bearing E. and a quarter N.'"

The treasure, or its empty resting place, finally was found by following the line grimly indicated by the bleaching skeleton of Allardyce, who fell a victim to Capt. Flint's dagger. Maybe the bones are bleaching there still. One can fancy that the voice of Capt. Flint, the parrot, is still screaming its "Pieces of eight! Pieces of eight!" through the forests of Christmas Island, and will recall John Silver's description of the bird:—

"Now that bird is maybe two hundred years old, Hawkins—they live forever mostly—and if anybody's seen more wickedness it must be the devil himself. She's sailed with England—the great Cap'n England, the pirate. She's been at Madagascar, and at Malabar and Surinaane and Providence, Portobello. She was at the fishing up of the wrecked plate ships. It's there she learned 'pieces of eight,' and little wonder; three hundred and fifty thousand of 'em, Hawkins! She was at the boarding of the Viceroy of the Indies, out of Goa, she was, and to look at her you would think she was a baby. But you smelled powder—didn't you, Cap'n?"

"Stand by to go about!" the parrot would scream.

"Ah, she's a handsome craft, she is," the cook would say, and give her sugar from his pocket. And then the bird would peck at the bars and swear straight on, passing belief for wickedness. "There," John would add, "You can't touch pitch and not be mucked, lad. Here's this poor old innocent bird of mine swearing like fire, and none the wiser, you may lay to that. She would swear the same, in a manner of speaking, before the chaplain."

Whether or not the new owners of Christmas Island fit out an expedition to view their property, it is hardly likely that they will take with them the shade of Robert Louis Stevenson, for he leaves the scene of crime and treasure with this valedictory:—

"The bar silver and the arms still lie, for all that I know, where Flint buried them, and certainly they shall lie there for me. Oxen and wain ropes would not bring me back again to that accursed island, and the worst dreams that ever I have are when I hear the surf booming about its coasts, or start upright in bed with the sharp voices of Captain Flint still ringing in my ears, 'Pieces of eight! Pieces of eight!'"

GROUND IS VERY RICH

Lake Copper Company Opening Rich Ground in the East Lode.

Superior Enters Commercial Zone Tributary to the No. 2 Shaft.

Houghton, Mich., Aug. 31.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Lake copper company is opening ground of exceptional richness in the so-called east lode, distant about 150 feet east of the famous Lake lode. About 3000 feet of openings have been made in the lode at various levels from the third to eighth inclusive. The fifth and eighth level openings are particularly rich. A cross-cut is now driving from the Lake lode to open the east lode on the fourth level. This lode is three to seven feet wide, and apparently richer than the Lake lode, though in much smaller way, the copper course seldom exceeding five feet in width. Operations in the Lake lode are centered in drifting on all levels below the fifth, with results little different from those noted in the past. The shaft is sinking below the tenth level. Production is now in the neighborhood of 400 tons of rock daily.

Superior

The Superior has apparently entered a commercial zone in its operations tributary to the No. 2 shaft, which up to this time has been practically without copper of commercial grade. The present encourgement is being obtained in a formation thought to be identical with one of the two opened tributary to No. 1 shaft. The present excellent showing is at the fifteenth level, at which depth the shaft has been bottomed for some time. The work in No. 1 shaft is yielding rich rock in many of the deeper levels, in both the main veins and the west lode. The rock output is close to 1000 tons daily. The average yield is reported well above twenty five pounds refined copper per ton of rock milled.

Onondaga.

The Onondaga, recently organized by R. C. Pryor and associates, now has a diamond drill engaged in exploratory work in the horizon of the Nonesuch conglomerate. This formation has been exposed at a number of points by surface trenching, with results that are altogether encouraging. The formation is a fine-grained sandstone carrying copper in exceptional quantities, though in a rather fine state. The copper content of the rock is unquestionably high, but it is doubtful if it can be made to give up its mineral contents without special treatment. A considerable portion of the mineral is in the form of flake copper, and more of it in such a fine state that concentration will be exceedingly difficult. Other portions of the formation are so very rich, frequently as high as ten per cent, that it may be smelted without the preliminary milling, and it is likely a considerable portion of the output will be handled. If this can be successfully done, the Nonesuch will prove to be the first body of direct smelting ore opened in this district.

Naumkeag.

The Naumkeag is centering activity in exploratory work. Two diamond drills are in commission. These outfits are operating in the Ashbed horizon and will work eastward across the property in the course of making a geological cross-section of the Naumkeag acreage. The efforts of the Naumkeag company will give especial attention to the several western horizons of the Lake Superior mineral belt, which up to this time, excepting for the work done by the Atlantic Mining company, have lain quite untouched and are of unquestioned potential worth. The work is being done under the direct supervision of Sydney Lang, a Lewisohn engineer.

Contact.

The Contact is drilling No. 12 hole, in which the ledge was reached at a depth of 310 feet. Present bottom of the hole is in a conglomerate at a depth of 450 feet. The No. 11 hole was discontinued without having reached the ledge. The present efforts of the company are directed to the exploration of the several beds, immediately adjoining, and in parts overlain by the eastern sandstone, in a horizon that may be expected to carry the Baltic series of lodes. The exploratory operations of the company have failed to result in the disclosure of copper deposits of commericial value, and the work is altogether without encouragement.

FURTHERING GERMAN INDUSTRY

Prince Henry of Prussia Following Emperor's Example in "Drumming Up" Trade—Urges German Motorists to Use German Liquid Fuel.

Berlin, Aug. 31.—The emperor, who is sometimes facetiously called "the imperial drummer" because of his activity in "drumming up" trade for the royal Prussian porcelain factories, is not the only Hohenzollern who does not hesitate to use his personal efforts to further German industry.

Prince Henry of Prussia, grand admiral of the fleet, has now followed his imperial brother's example by publishing in the General Automobile News an article over his own signature, in which he appeals to German motorists to use a German liquid fuel, a by-product of coal distillation, instead of a foreign one. He cites his own experiments and those of others to show that the German fuel will go as far, quart for quart, as any other, and points out that it costs less. Aside from this, however, Prince Henry finds his strongest argument in the national interest, He says:

"The prices for the ordinary liquid fuel are dictated for us by foreign countries, especially America. The German automobile world is as yet entirely dependent on importations, and this is a great national menace in case of war. Every automobile owner should, therefore, quite apart from pecuniary considerations, do his part to see that the domestic product made by German workmen and German producers from German products, shall be more generally employed, to the end that in case of necessity, the German industry can supply Germany's needs."

The prince discusses objections to the German fuel, such as its higher freezing point, its tendency to foul motors and its unpleasant odor, and declares that modern motor construction has met most of these objections and is solving the others. Twenty per cent of all liquid fuel made in Germany, he declares, is exported to France for use by automobilists.

The agricultural chamber of the Rhine province has just published some statistics which afford a striking corroboration of a statement made recently by a Socialist in the reichstag to the effect that potatoes are the chief diet of the poorer classes in large sections of Germany.

The agricultural chamber, which is a body legally constituted to gather information for the government on agricultural matters, has been studying how the peasantry lives. It publishes the family budgets of thirty peasant families with annual incomes ranging between $471 and $290. About two-thirds of them had the higher figure and owned small farms of from ten to forty-seven acres.

It was found that the average daily consumption of potatoes of the thirty families was nearly 3 1-3 pounds for each person, whereas the consumption of meat was less than three ounces; of butter 1.13 ounces, and slightly more than one pint of milk, of which nearly half was skim milk or buttermilk.

The most important article of diet, after potatoes, was bread, of which each person consumed nearly 14 2-3 ounces daily, besides four ounces of flour. The only other article of food mentioned in the report was eggs, of which each person ate one about every fourth day.

It must be mentioned for the proper appreciation of these figures that the Rhine province is one of the richest agricultural provinces in Germany, and that the persons covered by them are far from being among the poorest people in Germany. For example, a labor paper has just been publishing the family budgets of Silesian miners, which show that they eat almost no meat at all, and the small quantity consumed is chiefly horse flesh.

• • •

Horse racing has become the "sport of kings" as never before in Germany, the number of sovereigns and royal princes engaging actively in it being greater than in any other land in Europe. The king of Wurtemberg and Prince Ludwig of Bavaria own large racing stables, and though the emperor himself is far less interested in racing than military circles would like him to be, the crown prince, in partnership with his adjutant, owns and races a stable of runners. Prince Eitel Fritz, second son of the emperor, in spite of his weight and steadily growing waist line, recently rode and won a race for officers of his regiment, and Prince Walrod of Schaumburg-Lippe has won many races on his own horses.

The finest cavalier of them all is, however, Prince Friedrich Karl of Prussia, the 19-year-old cousin of the emperor, and undoubtedly the only "royal stable boy" in the world. The young prince, not having attained the dignity of a stable of his own, but being a passionate rider, frequently goes to the race tracks at Hoppegarten and Karlshorst in the early morning and rides the horses in training there. On these excursions he is sometimes accompanied by his older brother, Prince Friedrich Sigismund, who would, if permitted, prefer to steer aeroplanes, of which he has designed a successful example. Prince Friedrich Karl was one of the German officers participating in the Olympic games at Stockholm and won prizes there against the most experienced army riders in the world.

Under such royal patrongae and encouragement it is not strange that no country has so many gentlemen riders as Germany and that no army has so many officers participating in saddle races, particularly steeplechases, as the German.

Of the officer riders, the crown prince's friend and adjutant, Lieut. Baron von Zobeltitz, is unique on the turf, since he is not only an exceptionally able rider and driver, but also personally and successfully trains and works the horses belonging to himself and the crown prince.

BARNES-KING GETS PIEGAN-GLOSTER

Butte, Mont., Aug. 31.—The Barnes-King Development company has purchased the famous Piegan-Gloster group of gold mines in the Marysville district, and George McGee, manager of the company, has left for the mines to let a contract to extend a tunnel from the Piegan claim to get into an ore body on which 23,000 tons of ore are developed and in sight in two upper tunnels.

A few days ago Thomas Heatherly, a well-known mining man, who has again been secured as foreman for the companw at Kendall, left for the Barnes-King property in Fergus county to begin work on the North Moccasin property, recently purchased by the company.

The facts about the two important acquisitions by the company were officially made public by President C. W. Goodale in a letter to stockholders.

The North Moccasin mine will cost the company $145,000. The first payment of $5,000 was made on it this week, and the remainder will be paid out of the earnings of the mine. President Goodale believes that the company will be able to earn some profit even while paying for the property.

Perhaps the Piegan-Gloster property will prove of more certain value and returns. The price for the group is $175,000 in deferred payments, or $100,000 if the option is taken up by March 20 next, instead of July 20, 1914, when the last payment of $50,000 is otherwise due.

The old Gloster mine is one of the famous producers of the Marysville district and during the old days of gold mining yielded several million dollars in gold. There is still a great deal of ore in the mine that can be mined at a profit under modern methods, ore that runs about $6 a ton.

The ore in sight in the Piegan mine assays $6.50 a ton and the engineers estimate a profit of $90,000 from the 23,000 tons blocked out.

The Barnes-King company is already negotiating for electric power for the Piegan-Gloster mines, and if other mines in the Marysville district will join in, a power line will be built from the Missouri river plant.

The first payment of $5,000 on the Piegan-Gloster mines has been made.

The report of Treasurer Swinborne shows that after making the two payments this week there remained in the treasury $268,158.20.

September 2nd

To those least in touch with, and therefore, least in sympathy with workingmen, Labor Day means nothing.

The more thoughtful the man the more and higher the meanings he sees in a day consecrated to those who toil.

There is no longer a respectable niche of discrimination between the producer and the parasite—every life, rich or poor, is either a worker or a shirker.

Labor Day has come to stay—to stay as long as the strong, the brave, the earnest and the worthy have things to do.

BIG RECEIPTS BEAR WHEAT

Better Thrashing Weather Through the West Also Lowers Prices.

Flaxseed Also Goes Down With Clearer Skies and Less Demand.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 31.—Wheat took quite a drop on the markets of North America today. Nearly all the visible factors affecting the markets were bearish. Probably the most potent of all was the increase in the receipts of grain of this year's harvest. This is noticeable on all the leading grain markets of this country, especially Minneapolis. Receipts at Duluth also have been rapidly increasing, but it is too soon to expect the big volume that must come when the grain in the country tributary to Duluth gets fairly started. Still, the Duluth exchange had a lively session today, with a good amount of business.

The improvement in weather conditions through the Northwest and the southern part of Western Canada also have helped to put the bulls to rout. The weather was fairly clear this morning through Western Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Montana. A wire from Winnipeg reported almost ideal weather over the great grain growing region of the Canadian West.

Duluth September wheat today closed 1⅜c lower at 92¾c. There were lower closes also at Chicago, Minneapolis and Winnipeg. Duluth cash wheat closed 2c to 3c over September. Durum closed 1¼c off, oats ⅝c off and rye and barley unchanged.

Liverpool wheat today closed ½d to ⅝d lower. The market was bearish on the continued favorable American and Canadian crop prospects, favorable weather in France and the expectation of large world shipments this week. The market was steadied, however, by the delay of the Russian harvest through rains and continued unsettled weather in the United Kingdom.

Flaxseed Has a Break.

"Every day that passes without frost brings us nearer to our American crop of 28,000,000 bu." These were the words in which a Duluth flaxseed broker commented on the downward movement that took place today. There is no doubt that the comparatively clear weather through the American Northwest and the Canadian West, as shown by this morning's government weather map, had much to do with the decline. Moreover, there was a notable falling off in the Minneapolis demand for cash seed. During most of the day the Minneapolis premium on cash seed over September was only 4c. Duluth September seed today closed 4c over October 2c off, November 2½c off and December 1c off.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Heavy Receipts and Outlook for Big Offerings Push Wheat Down.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 31.—Receipts today were the heaviest so far on this crop and unusually big offerings were expected for Tuesday. This caused a sharp decline in wheat. September being relatively weaker than the deferred contracts. Pit offerings were liberal and the only support that the market received was hedging by the mills against flour sales. September closed 1⅜@1⅜c lower than yesterday; December 1@1¼c lower and May 1¼c lower. Local elevator stocks decreased 15,000 bu for one day.

Cash wheat in good demand but there was sharp break in premiums. No. 1 northern blue stem 3@5c above September. No. 2 velvet chaff No. 1 northern 1@1¼c above.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Weather and Big Receipts Lead to Stop-Loss Wheat Selling.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—More favorable weather and big receipts Northwest led today to much stop loss selling of wheat. Expected large world shipments were also adverse to the bulls. About the only support came from shorts, who wished to even up owing to there being no session Monday. The opening was ¼c to ⅝c lower. December started at 93⅝c to 94c, the same change from last night as the market taken altogether. A decline to 93¼c followed.

A further drop ensued. The close, however, was steady with December 1¼c net lower at 93c.

Longs unloaded corn because of the absence of frost. December opened ⅛@¼c to ⅜@⅝c off at 55⅛c to 55½c, touched 55¼@55⅜c and then fell to 55c.

The market showed but little power to rally. December closed steady ⅝c down at 55@55¼c.

Oats weakened with other grain. December started a shade down at 32¾c and sagged to 32½c.

There was a broad and well mixed trade in provisions, with prices averaging about steady. First sales were 2½c lower to 2½@5c up. January delivery went at $19.40 for pork; $10.55 for lard and $10.27½ to $10.30 for ribs.

NO LUMBER FOR THE CONSUMERS

Terms of Retail Dealers' Pact With Manufacturers Are Shown.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 31.—The lumbermen's code of ethics, as expressed in the reciprocity agreement between the retailers and the manufacturers, was the subject of inquiry in the hearing of the government anti-trust suit against the Northwestern Lumbermen's association.

Victor H. Beckman, former secretary of the Pacific Coast Lumber Manufacturers' association, testified his association had signed the agreement when it was adopted by the trade, but that it was never observed by the manufacturers.

Correspondence between Mr. Beckman and the secretaries of the retail association, introduced in evidence, showed the manufacturers complained that the agreement was a one-sided affair, and worked to the benefit of the retailers, without being of any service to the manufacturers.

Provisions of Agreement.

Among the provisions of the reciprocity agreement was one which said:

"Manufacturers should not sell to parties who advertise to furnish lumber to consumers at large, or who solicit mail order business."

Other sections dealt with similar regulations, the closing paragraph reading:

"It is considered contrary to the ethics of the trade to sell to a firm or corporation whose members or stockholders are an aggregation of consumers whose efforts are to produce lumber for consumers at wholesale."

REAL ESTATE

MANY BIG DEALS PENDING, SAY REAL ESTATE AGENTS

Prospects for Some Sensational Developments in Duluth Market.

Daniel Horgan Buys Acreage Tract for Platting Purposes.

Never before in the history of the local real estate market have there been more encouraging prospects for a heavy movement in realty than at the present time. Dealers say that they have a number of big deals up their sleeves and that the next two or three weeks may develop not a few surprises in the way of large transactions.

According to one operator, there are no less than a half dozen large deals pending, some of which will be swung within the next few days. A large acreage proposition—the biggest in Duluth for years—is now being negotiated and will probably be closed up within the next two weeks.

Inquiry for all kinds of property is strong and although during the past week the market was only moderately active there was an atmosphere of good feeling prevailing. Dealers are very optimistic as to the future and with the mammoth grain crop to be harvested this fall, they say, nothing can prevent a correspondingly good season in all business lines.

One of the big deals of the present week developed in the transfer from a Californian now to Daniel Horgan of this city of sixteen acres of city property at the top of the hill above Fourth and Fifth avenues east. Mr. Horgan said this morning that the property would be platted and would be put on the market in lots next spring. It is understood that the consideration was in the neighborhood of $20,000.

* * *

Elert, Walker & McKnight advise a good movement in out-of-town acreage during the past week. Among the deals which were closed through this office was one involving the transfer of 350 acres located in Carlton county near Foxboro from Frank A. Day and W. W. Sanford to F. G. Kelley of Superior. The consideration was about $2,700. The tract will be subdivided and sold to settlers. Another parcel of 240 acres was sold through this firm from George Longstreet of Chicago to George Hutter of Duluth, the consideration being $5 an acre. The land is located near Gordon, Douglas county, Wis. It will be improved this year.

* * *

George Lynott of the Alliance Real Estate corporation reports that with the sale of five lots in Glenwood division the tract which was put on the market about a month ago in small acre lots has been entirely disposed of.

* * *

Things are looking up at Gary and New Duluth. Several lots have been sold in the steel plant suburbs during the past week. H. H. Peyton sold seventeen lots for Watson S. Moore. One of the notable transfers of the week in this vicinity was the sale from the New Duluth company to Robert B. Whiteside of 100 feet frontage on Commonwealth avenue near Grand street. The consideration was $4,400.

* * *

James B. McGiffert has sold to Andrew H. Markkanen a house and 34-foot lot at Twenty-first avenue east and Fifth street, southwest corner, for $5,500.

* * *

Owen McDonnell has transferred to S. J. Nygren a residence property at 5421 West Sixth street, West Duluth. The consideration was $3,550.

* * *

Willis J. Holmes for $1,250 has sold Anna Kuinas a frontage of 50 feet on the west side of Sixtieth avenue west between Greene street and Worden streets.

* * *

Ole Carlson has purchased from Swan Carlson for $2,000 a house and fifty-foot lot on Piedmont avenue between Fifth and Sixth streets and near Twenty-first avenue west.

* * *

For $2,000 Charles W. Elston has sold to Albert Verville a house and 25-foot frontage on the upper side of Fifth street between Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth avenues west.

* * *

John A. Johnson has purchased from Ida Berglund for $2,600 a frontage of seventy feet on the lower side of Tacony street between Fifty-ninth and Sixty-first avenues west.

ACTIVITY IN RESIDENCE BUILDING CONTINUES

Car Shortage May Interfere With the Expected Building Boom.

Although residence building continues at a brisk rate, as indicated by the building permits of the past week, there has not been pronounced activity in other lines. Local architects report a fair volume of work, however, and contractors and builders manage to keep busy.

The building permits for the week numbered twenty-five and represented improvements which will cost in the neighborhood of $85,975. The largest permit of the week was taken out by the Fidelity Investment company for the six-story addition to the Fidelity building on Superior street just west of Lake avenue. This will cost $49,000.

A brisk building business is predicted for this fall. To facilitate matters this fall, contractors shipping materials in carloads as well as those shipping quantities in smaller lots have been urged to move their supplies at the earliest possible opportunity and avoid the car shortage and congestion which is likely to occur this fall on account of the big grain crop.

Railroads are urging contractors to move such materials as lumber, cement, brick, tile, plaster, and other building supplies as early as possible and in advance of the rush that will shortly set in on the crop movement east and the merchandise movement west.

* * *

Architect E. S. Radcliffe will let the contract, next week, for the construction of a six-room frame house for Fred Ames, to be erected on Superior street near Forty-second avenue east. It will cost about $3,500.

* * *

Architect W. J. Sullivan this week will let the contract for the erection of a one-story brick store and bank building to be occupied by the Finnish Stock company and a state bank at Ely, Minn. The structure will cost $20,000 complete.

Contracts will also be let this week for a $10,000 Catholic church at Gilbert having a seating capacity of 500 and another edifice for a Catholic congregation at Bemidji having a seating capacity of 300.

* * *

Kelley & Williams, architects, will open bids Tuesday on the Cloquet city hall and jail job to cost $18,000. The same firm this week let the contract for the construction of a village lock-up at Grand Marais to Contractor Hedstrom for $1,500.

* * *

The Duluth Corrugated & Roofing company of this city will be represented at the annual exhibition of the Minnesota state fair in the building material department. This firm will show examples of its materials in roofing work and also its culverts, which are made in the corrugated type, which is said to have become quite popular throughout the Northwest.

F. L. Young & Co., architects, are taking bids for the superstructure of the Elks' building at Virginia, to cost $30,000. The foundation has already been laid.

AN EGG ROMANCE.

It was only a year ago that a young girl in New Jersey was the heroine of a real romance, says a writer in the National Food Magazine. She and her mother owned a little chicken farm in the outskirts of a large town. They had seen better days. The father had just died after disastrous failure in business, and the daughter had been educated in a fashionable New York boarding school and was unfitted for any sort of work. The mother was brave and resourceful and decided to move into the country and raise poultry. She carried out her plan and was sufficiently successful to make both ends meet.

One day, while the girl was packing the white eggs, she suddenly wondered who the people would be who would eat those very eggs. Would they be interesting and charming and rich, or deadly common and poor? She did wish she might know the future of each egg. Then the idea came to her like a flash, the idea upon which was to be built the romance of her life; and she got an indelible pencil and wrote across the pure, smooth surface of several eggs her name, "Edith Putnam, ——, New Jersey, aged 19 years, blue eyes and golden hair."

The eggs were sealed and sent forth, and the girl forgot after a time her audacious act; then about a month later a letter came to her in a strange hand. It read:

"Dear Edith Putnam: The fact that your eyes are blue and your hair golden makes me anxious to see if you are as charming as your neat penmanship. The egg which you inscribed so cunningly was devoured by me a week ago at breakfast in my bachelor quarters. I was blue and depressed, and the neat little message brought me cheerful thoughts. I find the record of your blue eyes and golden hair cropping up in my mind every little while, so to get it out of my system I am coming to find you and see if you are as cheering as your message. I shall appear on Wednesday next in a red automobile with a siren toot. Adieu till then.

"MAURICE ——."

The girl was naturally in a great flutter. It was August and very warm. She starched her one white gown and washed out a blue ribbon to add to her charms. She was really very pretty.

She dared not tell her mother of her audacious act, but she kept out of doors near the country road, watching and waiting. After a time she heard a weird, wild sound and knew it was the siren horn, and the blood rushed into her cheeks as the big red automobile dashed up with a lone man in it. He brought the machine to a sudden stop and sat looking at her, smiling enigmatically.

The girl was covered with confusion and could not utter a word, and it seemed ages before the man said, as if talking to himself: "So that is Edith, and she has blue eyes and golden hair, and she is as charming as her writing." The girl bit her lip, and then the man came to and said hurriedly: "Oh, I beg your pardon; but I was so surprised," and with that he hopped down out of the car and held out his hand to her.

"Are you Edith Putnam?" he said.

"Yes," answered the girl, trembling visibly, for the man was good looking and of middle age, and he awed her beyond expression, but she managed to tell him that her mother did not know of her escapade and asked him not to betray the fact. He promised quite willingly, and the two went up the path to the little house. He was very businesslike, negotiating for several dozen eggs, and then drove away, promising the girl to come again. He kept his promise and came many times, and the result was that he married the girl within three months, and they are now in Europe on a grand tour.

WHEN ROYALTY TRAVELS INCOG.

From Answers, London: Every modern king or prince has several inferior titles—the emperor of Austria has over seventeen—that are usually of no use to him. It is when he wishes to travel, and does not desire to be bothered with state ceremonies on his way, that he finds these titles convenient.

The prince of Wales, who recently enjoyed a long stay in Paris under the title of the Earl of Chester, employed the best known of the various incognitos used by successive princes of Wales. His grandfather, the late King Edward, passed, at different times, when prince of Wales, as the Duke of Cornwall, the Earl of Chester, the Earl of Carrick and Baron Renfrew.

Such widely known incognitos are not meant to hide the identity of their owners. They are simply an indication that the bearer wants to be spared the paying and receiving of ceremonious visits.

But at times royalty really wishes to pass unknown. The present queen of Norway, when Princess Charles of Denmark, used to go for long tours on the continent accompanied solely by her governess. Hotel books knew her not at all. Queen Alexandria, too, is said to have more than once visited Paris under the name of Mrs. Stephens.

The journalistic photographers and pressmen particularly annoyed that unconventional and witty monarch, King Alfonso, when staying in Paris under the incognito of Marquis Cavadonga. One morning the following typed message reached the chief news agencies in Paris: "If the men of the press persist in shadowing the Marquis Cavadonga, as though he were a suspected assassin, they mut not be surprised when a natural consequence follows."

The message was marked "Private" and was kept out of the newspapers, but all journalistic and diplomatic Paris chuckled at the vision of a persistent reporter failing a martyr beneath the blade of a badgered king. The message, however, had the effect intended.

THE FUNNY BIRDS--- By Walt Kuhn

"That pretty girl promised to meet me by the old mill, but I don't see any sign of her."

FARM AND FRUIT LANDS.

FARM LANDS FOR EVERYBODY.

LAND FOR FATHER.
LAND FOR MOTHER.
LAND FOR SISTER.
LAND FOR BROTHER.

JUST THINK OF IT.

Forty acres of the best farm land that any one can wish, close to Superior and Duluth, the best markets in the Northwest, for the same price you pay for a small city lot.

Forty acres is equal to 400 city lots. On forty acres you can make a good living and be independent. On a city lot you have just enough room to build a house; then you work hard every day in the year to make a living, and pay for street, sewer, and all kinds of other assessments.

You can pay for forty acres of land with what you spend for fuel and water in the city.

Prices range from $12.50 to $18 per acre; $1 per acre cash, balance on monthly payments to suit yourself.

JAMES LARSON.
